The plan includes a morning session, luncheon, and an afternoon program, culminating in a lecture open to the public by Prof. Michael Rostovzeff of Yale university. Professor Rostovzeff is one of the world's greatest living authorities in the field of ancient history. Three important books by him have been published by the Oxford University Press within the last five years: "The Social and Economic History of the Roman Empire" and "A History of the Ancient World" in two volumes, as follows: Volume I, "The Orient and Greece," Volume II, "Rome." Professor Rostovzeff has been honored by an election to membership in the French Academy and during the last six months has been the leader of an archaeological expedition under the joint auspices of Yale university and the French Academy. The field of investigation has been the little town of Dura, on the Euphrates, formerly an outpost of the Roman empire. It is expected that at this time, Professor Rostovzeff will give to the public an account of the discoveries recently made there. Mr. Rostovzeff will be remembered as a convocation speaker at the college last year on the subject, "Mystic Rome."

Eleven years ago, in October, 1917, Connecticut college entertained this same Classical association. That year the meetings were held in a large room in New London hall, and the luncheon was served in the student dining room in Thames hall. On this occasion the college gymnasium, just completed, was opened for the first time to the public with a presentation in English of Euripides' Trojan Women. This year the association will meet in the ballroom of Knowlton house, and the luncheon will be served in the same building.

Arrangements for this meeting are in charge of Dean Irene Nye, professor of classical philology. Prof. Paul V. C. Baur of Yale, lecturer in archaeology at Connecticut college, will return from a summer abroad before this meeting and on time for the opening of his class work here in September. The classes in Greek and in Greek literature in English at the college will be taught for 1928-29 by Dr. Frank S. Burnell of Norwich Free Academy. Dr. Bunnell received the degree of A. M. at the University of Minnesota, and a Ph. D. at Yale. Since 1903 he has taught at the Norwich Free Academy where he is now assistant principal. Norwich Free Academy has the distinction of being one of the two public schools in the state where the study of Greek flourishes. This is due largely, it would seem, to Dr. Bunnell's ability as a teacher and his personal popularity. He has arranged to give a part of his time on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday to the work at the college.

HOOVER SPENT SUNDAY QUIETLY IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(AP)—Reminiscent of the quiet simplicity of his Quaker boyhood, Herbert Hoover spent the Sabbath day in the peaceful quiet of his home, breaking his rest only to journey to the Friends meeting house on I street to worship.

Tomorrow he again will plunge into the work of mapping out his plans for active participation in the struggle for the presidency, giving first attention to the eastern political situation in a series of conferences with friends who will call to Washington.

Later he will confer with Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the national committee, and Representatives Tilson of Connecticut and Newton of Minnesota, directors of the eastern and western speakers' bureaus, to plan his personal part of the work.

DEATH TOLL OF SUBWAY ACCIDENT INCREASED TO 17

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The death of Elizabeth Siebold, 19, of Rockaway, N. Y., in Bellevue hospital today brought to 17 the death list of the Times square subway wreck of Friday when a heavily loaded car in a southbound Interborough Rapid Transit express train was derailed at a switch as it was leaving the station.

Of the injured, 21 still were in hospitals today, 14 of them reported to be in serious condition.

A detail of police was required to handle the crowd of 5,000 which gathered at the first funeral of wreck victims when services were held for Mrs. Marion Zips, 29, and her six-year-old son, Herbert, who died together when the ill-fated subway car tore itself in two against the tube structure.

Medicine Rocks

Near the eastern boundary of Montana is a little known locality that travelers frequently declare is as interesting as the Garden of the Gods. It is a country of strange rock formations. From a distance the Medicine Rocks, as they are called, resemble nothing so much as the ruins of an ancient city rising from the level prairie in abrupt disorder. There seem to be fortresses and towers, pinnacled temples and sheer walls with windows. The rocks are cream-colored and stand glaring and fantastic, in bold relief against the sky.

The inspection of almost any rock shows that one side is smooth and the rest of it is pitted with innumerable holes ranging from tiny pockmarks to huge caverns. If you climb high enough you perceive in the larger formations heaps of bleached bones—the kill, perhaps, of some bird or beast of prey years ago.

Among the most imposing piles are Castle Rock and Masonic Temple Rock. Castle Rock is massive and precipitous. Inside a low natural door is a roomy hollow known as the Sheep Herder's Cave. The herder, according to local tradition, dwelt there for several years in complete solitude and eventually went insane. As a memento he left the profile of a carved woman with an elaborate coiffure carved in low relief on one of the walls. Masonic Temple Rock is an impressive monolith set well away by itself; it is elaborately pitted at the top.

Old Man Coyote Changes His Mind

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Discretion is to wisdom kin;
Indeed it is the latter's twin.
—Old Mother Nature.

Old Man Coyote is broadminded. You might not think it but he is. He doesn't believe in being too set in his ways. In other words, he can change his mind, and does change his mind, whenever occasion suggests that a change of mind is wisdom. Perhaps that is one reason why Old Man Coyote has managed to keep out of trouble.

It happened that Old Man Coyote was hunting over in the Green Forest. Luck hadn't been very good. Perhaps I should say that luck hadn't been good at all. Though he had walked as softly as only Old Man Coyote can walk, though he had used that wonderful nose of his as Old Mother Nature intended he should use it, though he had kept his eyes and his ears wide open, he hadn't caught so much as a mouse.

"I wonder what the matter is around here, anyway," muttered Old Man Coyote. "I haven't seen so much as a good-sized bettle. If things keep on like this, Mrs. Coyote and I will have to move. We can't live on nothing. No, sir, we can't live on nothing. I haven't even smelled a Mouse."

It was just a few minutes after this that Old Man Coyote stopped short in his tracks. His ears were pricked forward. His eyes gleamed. His head was lifted as he tested the air with that wonderful nose of his. There was something up ahead of him, something alive. He was sure of it. Those sharp ears of his had caught the sound of a rustling in the leaves. Those keen eyes of his had caught just a shadowy glimpse of something moving. What was it? That was what Old Man Coyote was trying to discover.

Now, unfortunately, the wind had shifted just a minute before. It had been blowing in his face, which is the way Old Man Coyote likes to have it blow. When it does this it brings to him the scent of whatever may be a little way ahead of him. But now the wind was blowing from behind him, which made his nose quite useless, so far as things ahead of him were concerned. It was most provoking. If the wind had remained blowing in his face his nose would soon have told him who or what it was that had caught the attention of his ears and eyes.

Old Man Coyote stood rigid. That is, he stood motionless. He was waiting. He knew that sooner or later he would hear or see something, just as he had before. Sure enough, in a moment or two there was a faint rustling ahead of him, just a wee bit to one side. Then in the deep shadow he saw something bound forward and disappear. It was only a little gray form that he got a glimpse of and that glimpse was a very fleeting one. His first thought was that it was one of the nearly grown children of Jumper the Hare, and that very thought made the water stand in the corners of his mouth. Crouching low, he moved forward quickly. Again he caught a glimpse of that moving form and he crept forward as swiftly and silently as only Old Man Coyote can. In a moment or two he was within jumping distance. He couldn't make out what it was but he could see a gray form crouched as if in hiding behind an old log. Old Man Coyote's eyes gleamed with fierce desire. He drew his hind feet in for a rush and a spring. He was sure of a good meal now.

Just then the fickle wind changed again. Once more it blew in his face. That wind had changed no more quickly than Old Man Coyote now changed his mind. His mouth stopped watering. He lost all interest in that crouching form ahead of him. He suddenly looked this way and that way a bit anxiously. Then he bounded off to one side and left there somewhat hurriedly. You see, that wind had brought to his nose the smell of Cat. To be sure, it was a young Cat, but it was the smell of Bobcat, and a young Bobcat meant that the father or mother was probably near, and Old Man Coyote had no desire for trouble with Fowler or Mrs. Fowler.

TENSION IN PENNANT RACES TAUT AS TEAMS ENTER LAST MONTH OF PLAY

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—The shift of the National league battle front from the west for the Giants and the Robins found John J. McGraw resting comfortably two and one-half games behind the first-place Cardinals this morning, but satisfied because all of the margin was measured by a difference of five games in the won-column with the lost figures all even. After sweeping the Cardinals out of first place last Sunday by taking a third straight 3 to 2 decision from them, the Giants faltered in their series against Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

The crushing Pirate attack stopped the New Yorkers three times in four after the Reds had bagged two out of three from the then-leaders. Donie Bush got a passable grade of pitching against McGraw, but the Giants hurling was overmatched against those big Pirate bats, except in the case of Larry Benton, who opened the series with his twenty-first victory.

Two out of three from the Giants and three out of four from Brooklyn enabled the Reds to lead their league for the week ending yesterday with six won and two lost. They took the remaining victory from Boston last Sunday. The Pirates, who topped both circuits in hits with 98 and in runs with 66, were tied with the Cubs for second honors on the week, each flashing five and two defeats.

The Giants won only three out of eight while the Cardinals were getting an even break in six. The Cards failed to come back against Brooklyn after bowing to the Giants, dropping two out of three, but they took two close ones from the Phillies to close their week. The Cardinals led the two major leagues on defense with only fourteen enemy runs, but they themselves scored only ten on exactly forty hits—which is no winning offense for a contending team.

The results of the week left the National league situation very much open, with the Cardinals now favored by just a shade. The fact that the Giants are even with them in games lost is offset somewhat by the four double-headers the New York team must play in Boston next month.

The three teams immediately below the two front runners still are very much in the race, though it seems that two of them surely must fall by the wayside. The Cubs, the Reds and the Pirates are bunched, each five losing games behind the Cards and the Giants. The suspicion grows in many quarters that Donie Bush may come through after all, standing as he does only five losing games and six winning ones from the summit.

The American league situation took a turn in favor of the Athletics last week, although neither the Yanks nor the A's performed any miracles. The Mackmen won five out of seven while the champions were taking only three out of the same number, and so reduced the Yankee lead to three games. The Yankees played listless ball, and indicated that, with Herb Pennock out much longer, they might fall rapidly.

The Tigers led the American in games won and lost for the week with six victories and only two defeats, and tied the Athletics for the largest output of hits, seventy six. The A's had a scoring edge with forty runs, while the Browns were the best defenders in their circuit with only fifteen enemy markers. The Browns and the Senators, each with four misplays, shared the dual league leadership in this particular.

The home run business fell off all over the major leagues last week. The Cubs topped the National with five as Hack Wilson went on a spree, while the Tigers led the National with three. The Yanks got two—one by Ruth and one by Lazzeri.

BISSONETTE'S HOMER GIVES DODGERS WIN IN TENTH

BROOKLYN, Aug. 26—(AP)— Del Bissonette's twentieth home run, knocked over the right field fence with two out and none on in the tenth, gave Brooklyn a 4 to 3 decision over the Giants here today. The start of the game was delayed for more than an hour because of the late arrival of the Robins from Cincinnati.

If Carl Hubbell had been able to retire Bissonette, the game doubtless would have gone into the records as a tie because the day was murky and darkness was falling rapidly. Jess Petty opposed Hubbell for the first nine innings, but gave way to a pinch batsman in the ninth as the Robins tied the score. Jim Elliott entered the contest just in time to get credit for winning it.

Errors played a prominent part in most of the scoring. Jackson's two base wild throw on Flowers, Cohen's error on Taloonda's attempted sacrifice and a force-out gave the Robins their tieing run in the ninth.

The defeat, coupled with the victory of the Cards over the Phils, dropped the clan McGraw to a position three and one-half games behind the leaders.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—Hal Carlson stopped Boston with five hits and the Cubs won the final game of the series, 6 to 3, today. It was the fourth straight over the Braves.

The Cubs hit Greenfield hard, getting 13 safeties which were good for 18 bases. Kiki Cuyler and Woody English led the Cub attack with three hits each and with McMillan played a spectacular game in the field. Score:

VELVETMEN TAKE LOOSE GAME FROM NEW BRITAIN

In a loose and one-sided game Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin diamond the J. B. Martin Velvetmen swamped the West Ends of New Britain 13 to 1. The game was a great disappointment to Manager Erlbeck, of the Martin team, as well as to the fans as the West Ends had a real reputation and the local management expected that it was a fast club. Fisher had no trouble in holding the visitors to seven hits while his teammates gathered 17 off the combined offerings of Blanchette and Kanla. Smith led the hitting with three hits out of five times at bat.

One of the features of the game was the playing of Basil in centerfield for New Britain. Basil has no one arm yet played a nice fielding game and also hit well although not safely. Jimmy Murphy, catcher for the Velvetmen, was painfully hurt when hit in the neck by a foul tip. Murphy was rendered unconscious for a few minutes and was forced to leave the game, Liberty finishing out behind the bat.

CARDS INCREASE THEIR LEAD TO 3 1-2 GAMES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26—(AP)—Continuing the process of regaining their National league lead recently lost, the St. Louis Cardinals won another contest from the Phillies today this time by a six to one margin. With the Giants still in a losing slump, the Red Birds increased their advantage in the circuit to 3 1-2 games.

The victory showed among other things that the Cards are again hitting, while the hurlers seem to have regained their cunning on the mound. Sherdel won his sixteenth victory, while his teammates collected ten safeties off three Philadelphia hurlers.

Bottomley celebrated his return to the lineup after an illness, by getting two hits, one a triple. Orsatti, replaced by Bottomley at first, went to the field and continued his hitting spree with a double. The score:

LUCAS HALTS RALLY OF PIRATES IN NINTH

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26—(AP)—Cincinnati beat off Pittsburgh, their closest rival for fourth place, by defeating them 4 to 3 today. The Pirates were held in check by Charles "Red" Lucas until the ninth inning when they threw a scare into the Red rooters by scoring a trio of runs and had the tying run on first base with two out. Bartell fanned for the third out. Cincinnati pecked away at Brame and scored runs in the fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth innings. Score:

HELEN WILLS ENTERS POLITICS WILL CAST VOTE FOR HOOVER

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)— Helen Wills, womens tennis champion, made her debut today in politics.

She announced that she would vote for Herbert Hoover, and she accepted from Mrs. F. Louis Slade, head of the women's committee for Hoover, the chairmanship of the sports division.

Miss Wills' vote goes to Hoover, she said, because "he was proved, at home and abroad, that he is a great man."

Between tennis matches at Forest Hills, she handed Mrs. Slade a sheet of paper on which she had written out why she is for Hoover. Here is what she wrote:

"Am I voting for Herbert Hoover? Yes. And why?

"For the same reason that countless other young people throughout the country are voting for him. It is because they realize that Mr. Hoover possesses just those qualities that will make him a great president. He said in his acceptance speech that he wishes to carry the spirit of the nation's youth into the government. 'Youth,' he said, 'is pulling at the traces as never before and is willing to pull a full load . . youth's eagerness contains a more earnest desire than ever to be of service.'

"All youth can admire Hoover because of his sincerity, intelligence and great industry. His achievements in the past have been marked with success because of his ability for organization and his wonderful powers of perserverance. His life is a story to fire the imagination and admiration of every young person in the country.

"He spoke of 'youth's eagerness for service.' He was guided in his own youth by this idea. He has proved since, at home and abroad, that he is a great man.

"May youth everywhere, by voting for Hoover, show that his ideals are of the highest and that it has the earnest desire to 'be of service.'"

BUSH ASKS RETURN OF INDIANAPOLIS PLAYER

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 26—(AP)—Manager Donie Bush of the Pittsburgh Nationals tonight said he had asked the Indianapolis club of the American Association to return Outfielder Adam Comorosky to the Pirates but had received no information to indicate when his request will be complied with.

Comorosky was sent to Indianapolis by the Pirates about three months ago.

PADDOCK RETIRES FROM CINDER PATH

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Returning tonight from the Olympic games and the exhibitions which followed them, Charley Paddock, once the "fastest human" definitely announced that he had retired from the cinder path.

"I am through as far as running is concerned," Paddock told newspapermen. "I went over to win or lose, I lost.

"I think the gong has sounded. I have been running for fifteen years and now others can take the field."

After he failed to make the grade in the 200 meter dash at the Olympic games, Paddock said he had run his last race but afterward he appeared in exhibitions in London and Paris at the request of Murray Hulbert of the Olympic executive committee.

Paddock's future activities, he said, will be in the moving pictures, which caused him so much trouble just before he sailed for the Olympics. He expects to return to Paris after the first of next year to begin acting in the pictures in a serious way. The picture in which he will appear, he said, has nothing to do with athletics and his selection for the part was because he was fitted for it, not because of his ability as a runner. Paddock expects to remain in New York for a few days, then return to California before beginning his annual lecture tour.

FAST FIELD SEEKS CROWN OF BOBBY JONES

NEWTON, Mass., Aug. 26—(AP)—Six former national amateur champions and the British titlist are among the 155 golfers who will attempt to dethrone Bobby Jones three weeks hence in the national tournament here at Brae Burn.

Pairings for the qualifying rounds on Sept. 10 and 11 were announced here today by the U. S. Golf association.

Jones was paired with David Ogilvie of Cleveland, and George Von Elm of Detroit, Bobby's immediate predecessor on the amateur throne, was teamed up with Freddy Wright of Boston.

The pairings coupled Jesse Guilford, another former national champion, with Charles H. Black, Jr., of Atlanta, and Francis Ouimet, who won the title back in 1914, with Harold Webber of Inverness.

Chick Evans will play the 36 qualifying holes with his fellow townsman, John Dawson of Chicago, while Max Marston, another former champion, will play with T. A. Torrance of England.

Besides Torrance, six other English stars, including Dr. William Tweddell, the British amateur champion, will be seen in action.

Robert R. Gorton of Brae Burn, and Al Brodbeck of Siwanoy, will be the first pair to tee off in the first qualifying round. They have been set down for 9 a. m. and the last pair, Silas M. Newton, Brodbeck's clubmate, and Harold V. Kaler, Boston, will not get going until six and a half hours later.

TUNNEY RE-ENACTS HIS BOUT WITH DEMPSEY

LONDON, Aug. 26—(AP)—The spectacle of Gene Tunney, attired in evening clothes, re-enacting some of the phases of his Chicago fight with Jack Dempsey while John McCormack took the part of the Manassa Mauler, was afforded guests of the Irish singer Friday night, according to a story from the Dublin correspondent of the Sunday Dispatch.

The demonstration took place at a dinner party given by McCormack at his castle, Moore Abbey, near Dublin, and the guests included United States Minister Sterling and Colonel James E. Fitzmaurice, the trans-Atlantic flier. A discussion arose concerning Dempsey's knockdown blow in the famous seventh round.

Tunney was explaining that he had received a bad injury in his right eye four days prior to the fight when he suddenly arose from the table to demonstrate exactly what happened. Then followed, the correspondent said, the "strange spectacle of Tunney driving about in evening clothes in the lovely room with John McCormack facing him and giving an impersonation of Dempsey."

Tunney admitted he was in bad shape when he went down but insisted that when the referee intoned the word four he was again conscious. He attributed his trouble to astigmatism from the eye injury, the fact that he was nearer to the ropes than he thought, and that he came away from them too hurriedly.

The explanation was accompanied by a pantomime of the affair with McCormack dodging agilely from Tunney's punches which were invariably accompanied by a boldly ejaculated "whoosh."

Tunney similarly displayed the methods he had adopted against Heeney.

FINISHERS PLAY POLISH CLUB THIS EVENING

The leading Finishers open the final week of the Industrial league in meeting the last-place Polish Citizens club tonight at the Academy. The Bleachery outfit now heads the circuit by a half game but they face three games this week while the second-place Y. M. C. A. team has two tilts.

Right now the most important game of the season looks to be the coming Friday night's when these Y and Bleachery teams get together at the campus but there is a possibility that this game will be played off on Saturday when a full nine innings can be played.

Lefty Dugas in all probability will pitch for the Finishers tonight with Dilworth catching while Eddie Kozlowski is the probable hurling choice for the Polish club with Busch catching. The game will start at 6.15 o'clock. Tomorrow night the Thermos and Insilcos are slated to battle while Wednesday night the Finishers and Polish club again are down for a setto. Thursday the Y and Thermos are slated and then the final Y-Finisher tussle.

DAWSON WINS NEW YORK STATE AMATEUR TITLE

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 26—(AP)—George Dawson, former Chicago golf ace, is in the new New York state amateur golf champion. The ex-Chicagoan, now a member of the Westchester Biltmore Country club, won this title over the West course of his club here this afternoon by conquering the 1927 champion, Arthur W. (Ducky) Yates, of the Oak Hill Country club, of Rochester, in the 36 hole final round, 4 up and 3 to play.

TAFTVILLE A. A. GAME ON SATURDAY RAINED OUT

The Taftville A. A. was idle over the week end rain cancelling both the Saturday and Sunday games. The club will however make it up next week end when three games will be played. The Everett team of the Boston Twilight league will be here on Saturday, Sunday the team will go on the road and on Monday will be hosts to the fast New Britain Falcons.

COSMOPOLITAN FIELD IN NATIONAL TENNIS TOURNEY

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26—(AP)—One of the most Cosmopolitan fields ever to start in a national doubles championships which will open tomorrow afternoon on the courts of the Longwood Cricket club at Chestnut Hill. For the first time in recent years foreign invaders enter competition in this event strong favorites to overcome the American defenders.

William T. Tilden, 2d, who was entered in the tournament paired with Francis T. Hunter, will not be able to aid in warding off the Australian and French menace because of his recent suspension by the United States Lawn Tennis association. Tilden will be present in the capacity of journalist only. Outstanding in the ranks of the younger players who will assume the defense of the title are George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago, and John F. Hennessey, Indianapolis, members of the American Davis cup team, and John Van Ryn, Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., winners of the Longwood doubles and other tournaments.

Chief among the foreign stars seeking American national doubles honors are Henric Cochet and Jacques Brugnon of France, winners of the Wimbledon championship, and Gerald L. Patterson and Jack Hawkes of Australia, who defeated Tilden and Hunter as well as Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste of France in the English tournament.

The teams of Lott and Hennessey and Van Ryn and Allison are seeded one-two in the draw. The third seeded American team is the old-time combination of R. N. Williams, 2d Philadelphia, and Watson M. Washburn, New York. The fourth is Arnold W. Jones and W. W. Ingraham, Providence which is fifth in national ranking.

Among the foreign teams Cochet and Brugnon is seeded first and the others are in order: Patterson and Hawks; Harry Hopman and Jack Crawford of Australia; Borotra and Ren De Buzelet of France. In addition to the French and Australian players, representatives of Cuba, Mexico and Canada are among the entrants.

WALKER TAKES FLING AT EMANUEL TONIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 26—(AP)—Having conquered and ruled the welterweight and middleweight divisions in turn, Mickey Walker, in one of the most ambitious fights since the days of Bob Fitzsimmons, will take a whirl at another weight class tomorrow night. He tackles Armand Emanuel, San Francisco's outstanding lightheavyweight, in a ten round bout at Recreation baseball park.

Emanuel, having a physical advantage in almost every department, figures to use Walker as a stepping stone to a match with Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight crown. The San Francisco boy will outweigh the middleweight king by more than ten pounds. He is far the more clever boxer, has enough footwork ability to spare his opponent some, and is four years younger.

Against this ability Walker will stake a fighting heart, the experience born of years in the ring, and a good old-fashioned sock in either hand that has leveled many an impressive opponent before.

Even money on the outcome prevails but there seems to be more Emanuel currency in sight. Most of the old-timers favor the Jewish boxer to outpoint his formidable rival. Armand has lost only one decision in his career and that was to Loughran.

KOZIOL KINDLY REGARDED BY PROVIDENCE PEOPLE

That the sports writers of Providence have been favorably impressed with the showing of Al Koziol is evidenced in an article written by J. D. McGlone in the Providence Journal. McGlone in his editorial said that Koziol is a combination of Battling Nelson and Jack Dempsey. He goes on to say: "No less boxing authority than

SUBSTANTIAL IMPROVEMENT SHOWN IN THE BUSINESS WORLD LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Business, at the very height of the vacation and traditionally dull "between seasons" period, continued to show substantial improvement last week, and while indications of boom times were lacking, the outlook remained bright and generally satisfactory.

The automotive industry, unusually active all summer, continued to pick up, with a stimulating effect upon allrelated industries. While July automobile output was 45 per cent above the month for last year, it was somewhat under July of the record year, 1926. The prospect of a record August, however, is good, according to present estimates. Detroit employment figures, regarded as a barometer of automotive activity, for the third consecutive week surpassed all records.

The steel industry continued to gain strength, both in output and prices. General activity was greater than for the past two months.

H. S. Wilkinson, president of Crucible Steel Co. of America, who sounded an ominous note in June when he declared that the steel industry as a whole was not earning six per cent on its investment, declared last week that the outlook had completely changed.

The uneasiness over the tight credit conditions began to let up in some quarters, and several bankers expressed confidence that the fall demands for funds would be met without serious strain. An unexpected drop in brokers' loans caused a bull demonstration on the New York stock exchange reminiscent of last May. While scarce money is believed to have held up some new enterprises, building activity continued to advance. Credit rates, however, held firm all the week.

The department of commerce sounded a reassuring note in giving out a report stating that business conditions during the last six months and the few years just preceding "exhibited" a general stability unparalleled in the history of the United States or any other important industrial country.

Crop prospects remained pleasing. Dry, hot weather is reported to have done some damage to the corn crop, but the yield is still estimated substantially above last year's.

The petroleum industry continued to show firm prices and production of crude for the week, decreased. The bringing in of many new wells, however, caused some uneasiness. The shoe industry was working at capacity. Textiles were still depressed, although cotton cloths were a little firmer and the demand for tire fabrics was active. Some mills planned to shut down during Labor day week.

Car loading showed some improvement over last year. Bank clearings and the dollar volume of business as measured by check payments in the previous week, increased substantially. Business failures were slightly more numerous than a year ago, but have declined markedly in the past two weeks.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

It's seldom that a film offering comes to town carrying entertainment elements that are sure to please sophisticated folk and lovers of sheer, clean entertainment as well.

There is one at the Breed theatre, however; First National's lively romantic comedy, "Heart to Heart." Mary Astor, Lloyd Hughes and Louise Fazenda are featured at the head of a splendid cast. William Beaudine's skillful direction, and a story filled with novelty and appeal gives the players every chance to score, and their performance live up to the opportunity.

Mary Astor is an Italian princess who returns to her American small-town home and is mistaken for a seamstress who is expected to participate in elaborate reception plans. So she works to further preparations for her own arrival, creates a scandal with her girlhood sweetheart, Hughes, and generally upsets the town.

The love affair is renewed, Hughes being one of the few who recognizes the quiet "seamstress" as the princess. The heroine is sent away, through the efforts of gossips. In order not to disappoint her family and townspeople she returns, however, in the gala apparel of a princess—their idea of a princess! The reception is held, and developments come thick and fast.

Thelma Todd, a new, appealing and talented blonde ingenue, scores in a supporting role. Lucien Littlefield, Raymond McKee, little Virginia Gray and several other capable players also give splendid performances.

"Heart to Heart" is packed with the sort of clean comedy, romance and touches of pathos that should delight "family folk," and its delicate irony will undoubtedly please the more critical.

Palace Theatre

That much overworked adjective "gigantic," may very properly be employed to describe 'Old Ironsides," the new Paramount spectacle produced by James Cruze and adapted from Laurence Stallings' original story by Harry Carr and Walter Woods which opened at the Palace theatre last night.

It is doubtful if even Mr. Cruze himself realized what a tremendous impression the picture would make upon the minds of the public. It is one of the frist real American epics of the silent drama. Other productions have made us see parts of United States history but this, with its hard bitten Yankee tars and dauntless fighting men, makes one feel the tremendous bravery and courage of our forefathers.

Although "Old Ironsides" is for the most part spectacular and gripping, the love interest is unusually strong. It is contained in a romantic and wholesome story between Esther Ralston and Charles Farrell which stands out like a diamond mounted in a setting of hand-hammered gold.

Aside from the colorful love episodes, there are any number of other scenes done with a sincerity which is seldom seen. One of the most remarkable is the parting of the players at the end when Esther Ralston, Wallace Beery, Charles Farrell and George Godfrey, the four comrades of George Bancroft, leave him to continue their journey to the China Seas aboard the brig "Esther."

Much praise is due all those who participated in the production but the major portion goes to James Cruze that mighty director who also gave us "The Covered Wagon." Due to his efforts the photoplay has not one lagging moment.

The second feature has all the humor, drama and pathos of the war—not to mention a heap of popular war time ditties—blended in "Mademoiselle from Armentieres," the spectacular British Gaumont film distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which opened last night at the Palace theatre.

It is a magnificent film and deserves praise for its unforgettable human emotions, its simple but sincere love story, its humors of life in billets the refreshing and delightful memories of war-time concert parties at the front, and last, but not least, its unparalleled and convincing scenes of the fighting, in which everything from tanks and howitzers to trench mortars and bayonets takes part. The inhuman energy of the guns putting down barrages, is almost terrifying in its drama, while, by way of contrast, the film shows scenes of comradeship in battle which are tear-compelling in their poignancy.

Two episodes may be mentioned as particularly real inspirations—that of the incident of the old soldier and the raw recruit singing "Old Soldiers Never Die," and the other, one comrade refusing to leave his wounded pal in the enemy's lines, emphasized by he sotto voce music of "Dear Old Pals."

Estelle Brody, a player new to American audiences, appears in the title role, and lends to it a wealth of charm and distinction. She captured last evening's audience at the beginning of the film and retained it steadfastly throughout the evening. She has pertness, humor and histrionic skill, and played her scenes delightfully.

Broadway Theatre.

Dunigan and Stevens present "Spooks," a mystery melodrama, by Robert J. Sherman. Those concerned: Elliot Butterfield, Irving Morrow; Aunt Judy, Pearl Young; Marion Blackwell, Helene Wesley; Sam, Bob Stevens; Douglas Blackwell, Peter Ferguson; Laurette Payne, Sally Wall; Silas Willoby, Charles Mylott; Western Union Messenger, George Dunigan; Inspector Ryan, Jack Byrne; Police Officer, Chales Mylott; Dr. Brown, Richard Fehr.

Synopsis—Act. 1. Grandpa Blackwell's Home, midnight; Act 2, The Second Night; Act 3, The Third Night.

"Spooks," the nation-wide success, the mystery thriller which has tingled the spines of thousands of playgoers and has made them laugh uproariously in between whiles, will be presented by The Garrick Players tonight and tomorrow at the Broadway theatre. Those who anticipate having a few thrills and having those delicious cold chills sent up and down the spine will not be disappointed. From the time the first word is spoken until the denouement, you will be busy guessing the outcome.

The play is so cleverly contrived and so startling are its developments that it is all you can do to stop screaming out loud. It is impossible to conjecture what is going to happen next. However the tension is relieved at frequent intervals by the injection of splendid comedy, but the entire play is surrounded with an atmosphere of mystery and uncanniness.

The story is that of an eccentric old man who died, leaving a will stipulating that his four heirs—two nephews and two nieces—must remain for three nights in the house occupied by him for many years and which had the reputation of being haunted. If all of them are frightened away, then his property was to be divided between his old secretary and a colored servant who is deaf and dumb. If either one of these two die, the other inherits all the property.

Things begin to happen from the moment the heirs put in their appearance and they keep right on happening until the final curtain. The old secretary dies by—well, there is no use telling you the whole story now as it will only spoil an evening's entertainment for you. So just ring 1020 and reserve your seats for tonight or tomorrow.

All patrons are requested to be in their seats at 8.15 for the evening performances and at 2.20 for Tuesday matinee.

Don't miss "Spooks" or you will miss half your life!

Learning does not necessarily imply wisdom.

SAMUEL FRANK DROWNED AT WHEELER'S POND IN MONTVILLE

Samuel Frank, 28, of Uncasville, was drowned in Wheeler's pond, Uncasville, a short distance from his home, Saturday, while fishing from a boat moored to a stump in the pond. His body was recovered late Saturday night by a brother and Joseph Smith of Kitemaug, who had gone in search of Frank when he did not return in the evening. Dr. John J. Donohue of Uncasville said that death was caused from an attack of epilepsy.

Frank, who had been in the habit of going on fishing trips, left his home at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, without notifying the family where he was going. He went across the fields in back of the house to Wheeler's pond and did not return at his usual time. Fearing that something had happened to Frank, members of the family started to search for him in the fields and woods in the vicinity of the farm house, but without result.

A brother, who happened to be visiting a relative at the time, was notified and his first thought was to search for him near the pond. They found his boat overturned and moored to a stump in the pond. The Uncasville man was in the habit of tying his boat, so his brother surmised that Frank had been drowned and went to the home of Joseph King in Kitemaug for aid. The two men secured a boat on the side of the pond near the Palmertown and Oakdale highway and rowed to the opposite shore where Frank's boat was capsized.

After grappling for the body for some time it was recovered a short distance from the overturned boat and in about eight feet of water. A rope was attached to it and it was towed to the Palmertown-Oakdale road, where it was viewed by Acting Medical Examiner Dr. John J Donohue of Montville. Acting Medical Examiner Donohue conducted an investigation and gave permission for the body to be removed to the undertaking parlors of Henry Allen and Sons of this city. Dr. Donohue, who viewed the body about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, stated that Frank apparently was seized with an attack of epilepsy while he was fishing from the boat. He believed that in his struggles Frank overturned the boat.

FEDERAL LOANS SHOW INCREASE IN STATE

Residents of Connecticut borrowed from the federal reserve banks of the state more money during June than in any other month of the past twelve-month period, according to figures made public by the federal reserve board. June borrowings from the member banks of the state totaled $7,619,000, almost twice the value of loans of $4,354,000 closed by the same banks in June a year ago.

Since June, 1927, the amount of money borrowed from the Connecticut banks has shown a spasmodic increase and decrease tendency, with a constant trend upward apparent. Borrowing from the banks decreased from $4,354,000 in June to $3,343,000 in July, increasing to $4,439,000 in August and dropping again to $2,530,000 in September.

HAS $1,000 CLAIM AGAINST THE CITY

Acting for his son-in-law, Howell S. Bailey of New York owner of the Bailey property at Burnham square, George E. Pitcher has served notice on the city of a claim for $1,000 damages. The matter will be brought to the attention of the court of common council at its September meeting.

According to the claim for damages it is alleged that by the negligent changing of the grade of the gutter in front of the Bailey property, and by reason of the negligent and faulty change of the grade by the city of Norwich, water settles in the gutter and undermines the walls of the Bailey property causing damage to the amount of $1,000, and will continue to do damage to the same unless remedied by the city.

Disruption of industrial activity through trade disputes has declined steadily throughout the world since 1920, except in Australia, where the number of workers involved in industrial disputes has changed little since 1919, a report by the national industrial conference board discloses.

CONG. FREEMAN TO SPEAK AT FLAG POLE DEDICATION

Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London has consented to deliver the address at the dedication of the new memorial flag pole on Labor day at the New London county fair grounds. Congressman Freeman is endeavoring to secure Senator Charles G. Curtis, republican vice-presidential nominee, to speak on this occasion or during the fair.

Congressman Freeman has also promised to use his efforts in getting a large delegation from the Submarine base to take part in the dedication services. The committee in charge are trying to get the Coast Guard band to join in the celebration. Tubbs band has already been engaged for this occasion. Another member of the committee has been assigned to secure if possible, U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham as a speaker for the services.

The 80-foot flag pole and 40-foot flag, which are being presented to the New London County Agricultural society, and which are to occupy the center of the fair grounds, have arrived and the pole will be erected through the courtesy of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. The pole is presented to the society by Leonard R. Main, Jr., of North Stonington, his family and his sister and mother, in memory of their brother and others who died in the service of their country. The pole was prepared at the shipyard at Mystic and will be held in position by white oak abutments placed eight feet in the ground. Mr. Main was in town Saturday making final arrangements for the erection of the pole.

A special committee is being organized to take care of the details of the celebration, to which the public is welcome. There is to be no charge. Patriotic organizations, civic clubs and fraternal orders are being urged to be present and take part in the dedication exercises. Invitations have also been extended to prominent speakers in addition to Congressman Freeman, who is to make the dedication address.

This is one of the many memorial gifts that have been presented to the society during the past few weeks in the campaign to raise funds to put up new buildings, such as a horse barn, a cattle barn, a grand stand and other buildings. The committee are endeavoring to complete this work before Labor day. Already the work on the horse barn is well underway, the foundation sidewalls and framework being completed. The old grandstand is nearly demolished, this work being done through volunteer workers. The special farm bureau exhibition hall will be started this week. Before starting the horse barn, Jerome House of Montville kindly removed several of the large trees which were damaged in the recent fire. This help saved the society quite a sum of money and was greatly appreciated.

The committee in charge of the Labor day exercises expect to have a more complete report within a day or two.

CLEAN SPEECH SOCIETY AT ST. PATRICK'S SERVICE

In spite of the vacation period, there is no lessening in the manifestation of practical faith at the four masses in St. Patrick's church every Sunday. At the first mass at 7.30 yesterday morning a good sized delegation of the Holy Name society, Patrick M. Coleman president, received communion from the rector, Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. H. May and his assistant, Rev. Myles P. Galvin. This organization is banded, not alone to work for increasing reverence for the name of the Saviour, but also as a protest against unclean and blasphemous speech. The members were among the large number receiving the eucharist following confession the previous afternoon and evening.

At the 9 o'clock mass Rev. Father Galvin had the assistance of Rev. John J. Reilly in administering communion. It was the thirteenth Sunday after Pentecost when the epistle read in all the masses throughout the world was Galations 3 16-22 and the gospel was Luke 17 11-19, the parable of the nine ungrateful lepers.

It was announced that the Children of Mary, Misses Catherine Dodd president, would receive communion in a body at the first mass the coming Sunday. The Rosary society has requested a memorial mass Tuesday for Mrs. Margaret Connolly and relatives are to have the holy sacrifice offered today (Monday) on the anniversary of the death of Mrs. Margaret Toomey.

Monsignor May and Father Reilly returned Saturday, after attending the annual spiritual retreat for the senior priests of the diocese held all week at Manresa Institute, the Jesuits' college, on Keyser Island, off South Norwalk. Father Galvin will attend the second week of retreat, leaving today (Monday).

OBITUARY

Ripley J. Ramage

Ripley J. Ramage, 82, a retired mason contractor who was well known throughout that city died at his home in New Britain, Friday evening, following an operation performed at the New Britain General hospital three weeks ago. His recovery was expected for two weeks after the operation but, due to his advanced age, he failed steadily during the past week.

Mr. Ramage was born in Norwich, Nov 4, 1846, the son of Charles T. and Mary Smith Ramage. Following his marriage he located in New Britain where he was associated in business for a number of years with the late Cornelius E. Hills under the firm name of Hills & Ramage. After the death of Mr. Hills he carried the business on under his own name, retiring from active business about eight years ago. He always retained an active interest in Norwich and its affairs.

He was a member of Hartford lodge, No. 82, I. O. O. F., of Hartford, and Comstock encampment, No. 29, I. O. O. F., of New Britain. He was also a member of the First Church of Christ, New Britain.

He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Oscar A. Hildreth of Water Mill, Long Island, N. Y., and a brother, Alfred T. Ramage of Uncasville. His wife, who was Miss Josephine Griswold of Norwich, died Oct. 3, 1904.

BELIEVE MYSTIC MAN KILLED AT WARWICK, R. I.

The dead body of a young man, believed to be that of Charles B. Williams of Mystic, was found alongside the railroad tracks in the town of Warwick, R. I., late Friday night, according to a telephone message received from the chief of police of that place by Constable William H. Noyes of Mystic, early Saturday morning.

The man had evidently been knocked from the top of a passing freight car by an overhead bridge near where the body was found, as the head was badly crushed. Several papers bearing the name of Charles B. Williams, Mystic, Conn., left little doubt in the minds of the Warwick police as to the man's identity, and the latter telephoned to the village and authorities for confirmation. A bankbook drawn from the Groton Savings bank of Mystic, showed a substantial sum on deposit there in Mr. Williams' name.

Charles B. Williams of Mystic, the only person of that name known thereabouts, resided with his wife in the eastern part of the village. The couple have been married about two months. Mr. Williams has been in the employe of his father for the past two years in the painting business there. He was formerly in the navy, having served two enlistments.

Mr. Williams was last seen in Mystic village about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Nurse Miller Tells Mothers

How to Save Children from Skin Irritation and Soreness

West Carthage, N. Y.—"I am a graduate nurse, and I feel it a duty I owe to mothers whose little ones suffer from chafing, rashes, itching, scalding, or any skin irritation or soreness, to tell them that in all my experience as a nurse I have never found anything equal to Sykes Comfort Powder to heal and soothe the skin. Habitually used after a child's bath, it heals and prevents soreness and rashes."—Mabel E. Miller, R. N.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is so successful in such cases is because it contains healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums. For twenty years it has been used and endorsed by physicians and mothers, and nurses call it "A Healing Wonder." At all druggists.

AT LEAST THREE DEATHS FROM FLOODS IN CATSKILLS

Flood Swept Down a Narrow Valley About 25 Miles Long—Crops, Livestock and Farm Property Was Damaged to the Extent of Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars—Villagers of Rosendale Were Removed From the Upper Stories of Their Homes in Boats—Boys in a Junior Naval Militia Camp Took Refuge in Tree Tops

ELLENVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 27—(AP)—A narrow valley in the Catskills, about 25 miles long and less than a mile across at its widest point, shook itself loose late today from the grip of cloudburst and flooded stream and took account of its loss of life and property.

Through this little valley, running northeast to Kingston, on the Hudson river, the Rondout Creek winds a fairly tranquil course under normal conditions. Yesterday a cloudburst poured thousands of tons of water into the stream's source, and sent a 20 foot wall of water tumbling down the valley.

Today three persons were known dead; crops, livestock and farm property had been damaged to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars; at least 20 bridges had been torn from their bases; highways had been washed out in many places; communications had been disrupted and scores of persons rendered homeless by the flooded creek.

Of a score of villages caught in the path of the torrent, the waters wreaked their fury for the most part on Montela, Lackawack, Napanoch, Wawaring, Kerhonkson, Accord, High Falls and Rosendale.

Charles Lavery, 50, of Paterson, N. J., motoring through the valley with a companion, Joe Hughes, also of Paterson, was drowned when his motor stalled on the flooded highway near Napanoch. The two men stepped from the machine and Hughes was dragged to safety while Lavery sank in a hole in the road.

Philip Blatt of Lackawack attempted to carry his wife from their flooded dwelling, stumbled and was drowned on the threshold of his home. An unidentified infant also was said to have perished in the flood.

The waters of Rondout Creek, swollen to flood proportions by the cloudburst, were further augmented by many small tributaries until it tore its way into Napanoch, rising to the level of second story windows in the outskirts of the village and at the Lackawack Country club, where the bursting of a private dam was said to have increased the furv of the flood. Jamming of logs at a pulp mill formed a temporary dam for the torrent and was said to have saved Napanoch village from destruction.

The water swent to within 60 feet of the state institute, a mile below Napanoch and damaged power lines, plunging the building with its 681 mentally defective inmates into darkness.

Tracks of the New York, Ontario and Western railway at Wawarsing were washed out, severing the last connecting link between the upper portion of the Rondout valley and the city of Kingston, at which help already was being sought.

The flood reached its crest at Rosendale, submerging that village under 20 feet of water. Villagers were removed from the upper stories of their homes in boats, and 13 men formed a human chain to rescue one family from a flooded home.

At Rosendale 27 small boys in a junior naval militia camp on an island were driven to tree tops and the roof of their mess hall by the water which rose at the rate of two feet an hour. There they perched all night while would-be rescuers made frantic but futile attempts to reach them. With the coming of dawn they were taken off in boats and removed to shelter in a farm house on higher ground.

REMOVING DEBRIS FROM STREETS OF PHOENIX, ARIZ.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 27—(AP)—A large force of workmen was gradually removing debris tonight from the streets, and crippled street car lines were resuming normal schedules as Phoenix started to repair the damage done by last night's wind and electrical storm.

Damage to buildings, automobiles and stocks in stores was considered to amount to $250,000. No one was killed and the few injured suffered only slight hurts, reports indicated.

The high winds were accompanied by a torrential rainstorm, forewarning of which was given by a heavy electrical storm. Great hailstones fell, doing much damage to buildings and motor cars.

The full fury of the gale seemed to center near the Phoenix Union high school. An auditorium being built there was levelled and a garage blown down.

Lightning added to the wind havoc. An electrical bolt nearly scooped out the interior of three brick buildings but parts of the wall standing. Another bolt struck a sheet metal plant, sprayed iron scraps in all directions, then angled off to strike a trolley wire. All street car service immediately was stilled.

DAMAGE FROM TORNADOES IN NORTHWESTERN IOWA

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Aug. 27—(AP)—Northwestern Iowa late today took inventory of damage from a series of tornadoe swhich late yesterday swept four counties and found the reckoning to be four dead, five injured and property loss estimated at a million dollars.

The revised death list included J. T. Jervis, 50; Charles Jervis, 3, son of Jervis; Mrs. George Smith; Baby Smith, one year, son of Mrs. Smith, all of Elliott, and Kenneth Hiatt; 13, Mount Etna.

Heaviest urban property damage was at Elliott and Oakland, in Montgomery and Pottawattamie counties, respectively, where many buildings were either damaged or razed. Crops and farm buildings in the vicinity of both places were destroyed. Corn in a wide area was flattened or stripped by hail which accompanied the tornadoes. In Oakland, one end of the business district was hit, causing damage to a score of buildings. The loss at this place was set at $150,000.

HOOVER STUDIES SITUATION IN THE EASTERN STATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—(AP)—Digging into the mass of preliminary work necessary in the opening of headquarters here, Herbert Hoover today gave his attention to the situation confronting him in the eastern states.

The republican presidential nominee, after a final visit to his old quarters in the department of commerce to introduce his successor, William F. Whiting, to thirty bureau and division chiefs, held the first of a series of conferences regarding conditions existing in eastern states. Daniel E. Pomeroy, vice chairman of the New Jersey state committee, and Charles D. Hilles, of New York, national committeeman for that state, lunched with the nominee and brought him the news that those states would be tough knots for the republicans to untangle in the coming election.

Having gained first hand knowledge of what he may expect in the states west of the Mississippi, he is beginning an extensive study of the east with a view to working out a comprehensive program for his personal participation in campaign activities.

During the afternoon Hoover was busy ironing out difficulties that have arisen in connection with the opening of his personal headquarters at the home of the late Representative Frothingham on R street. Although he had hoped to be in his new quarters today various complications that have arisen delayed his removal to that place.

Tomorrow will find him delving deeper into the details of the task laid out for him in the east and driving a thought to requests that have been made for an exposition of his labor views on Sept. 3.

FITZGERALD WINS NEW HAVEN DEM. CONVENTION

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 27—(AP)—The New Haven democratic organization headed by former Mayor David E. Fitzgerald and Town Chairman David J. McCoy was victorious at the city convention tonight and controlled the naming of the delegation of 45 who will represent the city at the state democratic convention here next month.

The faction led by General Registrar of Voters Thomas F. Cahill and former Town Chairman Frank S. Bergin was defeated, a test vote over election of chairman of the convention resulting in a vote of 54 for Alnermanic Leader John W. Murphy and 43 for Mr. Bergin.

Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald was elected to lead the state delegation which was instructed to cast its united ballot for Charles Gould Morris, of this city and Newtown, for the gubernatorial nomination. The delegation was not instructed as to any of the other delegates.

RASKOB PREDICTS SMITH WILL RECEIVE 309 VOTES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27—(AP)—John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, predicted upon his arrival late today with a group of eastern democratic leaders, that Governor Smith would receive 309 of the 531 electoral votes for president.

Naming the states which he thought Smith would carry, Raskob's formal statement, prepared en route to the notification exercises for Senator Joe T. Robinson at Hot Springs, Ark., claimed also for Smith an even chance to carry other states having a total of 37 electors.

Raskob claimed for Governor Smith the "solid south" including Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma and New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Arizona, Colorado, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Missouri New Mexico and Nevada.

There seemed little doubt Raskob said that Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming should be classified for Smith.

Among those accompanying Raskob was United States Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, chairman of the advisory committee.

1,500,000 Chinese Facing Starvation

Grasshoppers the Only F[illegible] in Many Houses [illegible] on a Large S[illegible]cessary.

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 27—(AP)—The population of 1,500,000 in a district 30 miles wide and 100 miles long on the border of South Chihli and Northeast Shantung, is facing death from starvation, said Earl Baker, secretary of the New York China Famine fund committee, on his return today from a visit to the stricken area.

There has been sharp difference of opinion, both in China and the United States, regarding the necessity of relief measures, Mr. Baker said he is convinced that relief must be sent at once.

He stated that 150,000 persons were in an advanced state of malnutrition and apparently doomed to death and that 300,000 were "slowly starving." He asserted that the proposal to raise $10,000,000 in America was justified by present conditions and added:

"Relief on a large scale must be in effect by October if these starving people are to be saved.

Mr. Baker is proceeding to Nanking to bring the situation again to the attention of the nationalist government. When he discussed it a month ago with C. T. Wang, nationalist foreign minister, he said that the American committee purposed to combine road building and similar work with the charity aspects of relief. Dr. Wang was not inclined then to approve that program.

Drought and grasshoppers have ruined the crops in the famine district, said Mr. Baker. He added that the grasshoppers now form part of the diet of thousands of the stricken people. One village, he said, was eating fried grasshoppers on a wholesale scale, the insects being the only food of many houses which he visited.

Others, he said, were trying to sustain life by eating hard cakes made from bark, cotton chaff and grass. Mr. Baker says he tried to swallow some of this stuff but was unable to do so.

Numerous sufferers told him that they had done their best to find stocks of grain or similar food but had failed. Grass and grasshoppers, therefore, alone stood between them and death.

Disease, resulting from improper food, was rapidly gaining sway in the district. When asked if he thought a majority of the populace was doomed to die, Mr. Baker said:

"They are struggling heroically to maintain life. Many of them probably will not die and, probably, that is a great pity. I cannot understand how they would wish to live under such conditions and with little prospect of better times.

Mr. Baker said that he had been told that the grasshopper plague was increasing. He said thousands of persons were killing the insects but that they covered the countryside in clouds.

He declared that although the situation was already serious, worse conditions were in prospect from December to next June as the full effects of the autumn crop failure would not be felt until then. He stated that all classes of people were suffering, that business was at a standstill and that conditions generally were steadily becoming worse.

COUNCILMAN ROSS NOT INTIMIDATED BY GUNMEN

AKRON, Ohio, Aug. 27—(AP)—Councilman Kyle Ross, who has aroused the enmity of hoodlums and gangsters here by a personal investigation of vice conditions, stuck by his guns tonight despite two attempts to assassinate him and destroy his home.

Ross said that his investigation would continue even to the point of tracking down and prosecuting those responsible for the attacks upon him and tomorrow he expected to receive the solid support of the city council when that body holds its regular meeting.

Ross was awakened last night by the sound of someone creeping along his cellar stairs. Revolver in hand he went to investigate. A bullet whizzed past him and lodged in the wall. A man who fired the shot ran into the back yard where a companion lay in wait. Another shot was fired at the councilman but this one also missed him. When Ross returned to the house he found the basement in flames. The walls had been drenched with gasoline. Firemen extinguished the blaze before it caused much damage.

A previous attempt on Ross' life was made last Friday night when someone opened the petcock of a gas heater in the house and threw the master switch that cut off all electric current, apparently to cause an explosion.

Four suspicious characters were held for questioning, but no specific charges against them.

GRANDPARENTS TO RETAIN LITTLE "JACIE" DENNY

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 27—(AP)—Little "Jacie" Murdock Denny's grandparents today won their legal battle to retain custody of the boy, who was carried off to New York several months ago by his father, John Denny, and subsequently was returned after the father was threatened with arrest.

Not only were the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob M. Murdock, wealthy Johnstown residents, given permission to adopt 11-year-old "Jacie," but his name may be changed to Jacob Milton Murdock, III. The decree in the case was handed down by Judge S. Lemmon Reed, in Cambria county orphan's court.

The boy had lived with the grandparents since the death of his mother, in his infancy. Some months ago, the father, a New York real estate man, took "Jacie" to New York and the grandfather prepared to have him arrested on an abduction charge. The child was returned and the action in court was begun.

Lammot DuPont To Support Hoover

But Strongly Commends Gov. Smith For Advocating Change of the Prohibition Laws.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 27—(AP)—Lammot Du Pont, president of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and Company, announced tonight that he would support Herbert Hoover for the presidency.

"I am a republican and will vote for Mr. Hoover," said Mr. Du Pont in an open letter to the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "Having always voted the republican ticket, this statement is not surprising, but in view of the fact that since the present campaign began several prominent and staunch republicans have gone over to the democratic camp, some explanation might be of interest."

He said that "while I * * * profoundly regret the stand of Mr. Hoover * * * and strongly commend Governor Smith for his courage and wisdom in advocating a change of the prohibition laws," he considered more important than prohibition "those subjects which involve the economic welfare of the people—the tariff farm relief railway regulation, federal reserve, government ownership, etc."

Asserting that while the platforms of the two major parties show no radical difference in principle the parties must be judged as to probable performance by past records he went on:

"Under republican government for the past eight years, and in some periods before, we have had prosperity. Under democratic administration we have had less prosperity and, usually, hard times. It seems reasonable to suppose that this difference will maintain in the future, or at least until such time as the democratic party makes a radical change in the principles which govern its economic views."

Mr. Du Pont said it was his belief that Mr Hoover, "by his stand against repeal cannot stop the growth of opinion against prohibition nor can Governor Smith, by recommending modification, carry with him sufficient votes to repeal the 18th amendment."

GOV. SMITH MAKING CAMPAIGN ARRANGEMENTS

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 27—(AP)—Assured by political lieutenant that all's well in New Jersey from the standpoint of his presidential candidacy, Governor Smith turned back today to New York, concerned chiefly over the arrangement of his speech making itinerary.

By next week, the democratic nominee believes it will be possible for him to announce where he will strike first and give some inkling as to the states he will invade before election day.

One thing is certain—the governor will abstain from open air speeches to conserve his voice. He has expressed that determination and that means that he will speak at no outdoor rallies and will make no campaign speeches from the rear end of his train, once he sets out on his travels.

The nominee also is of the opinion that he should make only a limited number of speeches at strategic centers, utilizing the radio to the utmost to spread his views to the voters of the nation. He is anxious to keep in tintop form for the last ten days of the campaign which he considers the most important of the pre-election period.

Tentative train schedules and itineraries are being drawn up for Governor Smith at his campaign headquarters in New York, and while he is there tomorrow he is expected to talk over with his managers the routine of his special train.

TREATY RENOUNCING WAR SIGNED BY 15 NATIONS

Less Than Ten Minutes Was Required For the Affixing of the Signatures—Ancient Ritual and Intense Methods of Modern Publicity Were Mingled in the Ceremony—Stresemann of Germany Was the Hero of the Day—He Seemed Deeply Moved by the Heartiness of the Welcome.

PARIS, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Briand-Kellogg pact, by which 15 nations renounce war as an instrument of national policy, was signed here today.

Less than ten minutes was required for the affixing of signatures to the instrument which, its sponsors agree, has an immense perspective of world peace.

Ancient ritual and intense methods of moder publicity were mingled in the ceremony. Ushers clad in blue and gold trimmed coats, red velvet breeches and white silk stockings, directed the plenipotentiaries to their places and conducted guests to their seats. A superbly uniformed Swiss guard with a halberd, an inheritance of the court procedure of centuries ago, led the solemn procession of statesmen from the reception room of Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France, to the clock room, where the signing took place.

While this colorful proceeding was taking place, 40 cameras were clicking, color picture machines were working and microphones were gathering the faintest sounds of the spectacular program and broadcasting them throughout Europe and to other continents.

The plenipotentiaries took their seats at the horseshoe shaped table just as the beautiful clock, which gives its name to the apartment, struck the hour of 3. Before this moment came, distinguished persons from many nations were gathering. The scene was very like an afternoon reception, with salutations, introductions and gossip.

Premier Poincare had an informal levee, when he entered, all who were seated arose. He particularly took note of Ambassador Von Hoesch of Germany. He also spoke with each of the few ladies present, talking several minutes with Mrs. Kellogg, wife of the United States secretary of state.

The program proceeded promptly at its fixed hour and was ended in 58 minutes. M. Briand alone spoke. Ordinarily he prefers to make an extemporaneous discourse, but this time he read his speech. An official English translation also was read by an interpreter. The entire proceedings were bi-lingual. Not only the set address of the foreign minister being translated into English but also each phrase that he uttered in reading the treaty and inviting the delegates to sign.

As the reading of the pact ended, Becq de Fouquieres, master of ceremonies for the foreign office, and his adjutant, De Cartier, stepped forward and spread the official text upon a small teble placed within the curve of the horseshoe.

A red ribbon ran through the wax seals of the signatories which had been affixed to the document in advance. This was carefully straightened by the master of ceremonies.

As Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister of Germany, came forward to affix the first signature to the document, he was handed a huge gold pen presented to Secretary Kellogg by the city of Havre. One by one the various signatories went to the small table, each being given the same writing instrument.

Dr. Edouard Benes, foreign minister for Czechoslovakia, was the last to sign. As he finished writing his name, M. Briand arose as a signal that the great international event had ended.

The Swiss guard headed the retiring procession but he led the signatories into the garden where M. Briand served tea.

Herr Stresemann, emaciated and pale from his recent illness, seemed to feel the heat most of all.

It is expected that at least a year will elapse before the pact will be completed, ratified by those countries whose legislatures must pass on it. Meanwhile it is to be open to adherence by all other civilized nations.

The potency of the treaty, it was remarked after the ceremony, was shown by the fact that the original signatures still were wet when Secretary Kellogg began receiving telegrams from countries not represented here today. These messages announced desire of these other governments to join the original signatories in the renunciation of armed conflict.

No military note was present to mar the civic peace character of the proceedings. Floating flags of all nations adorned the foreign ministry building, but not a single bayonet was in evidence.

The authorities stressed the peacefulness of the day and Paris citizens, having business in the neighborhood, passed without interruption by police or soldiery.

The crowds of several thousand which watched the arrival and departure of the plenipotentiaries with the liveliest curiosity, were held on the sidewalk opposite the ministry and on the parapets along the bank of the Seine by dismounted Republican guards, but the guards were armed only wit sheathed pistols and were shorn of all their ordinary military display of plumed helmets and rattling sabers.

The sidewalk in front of the ministry was cleared for ten yards on either side of the two entrance gates. Only those showing press cards or invitations to witness the ceremony, were allowed to pass these lines.

Except for the flag of Soviet Russia, showing a gold hammer and sickle on a red background, there was nothing to indicate that communists even existed. This flag flew over the ministry with the emblems of other nations.

There had been much talk of a communist manifestation but it showed no sign of even starting. The only episode that might have been planned by the reds occurred after the last guest had departed and while the crowd was breaking up.

Then a squadron of Republican guards, mounted and in full regalia, trotted past the ministry and deployed in the side streets. A few moments later a taxicab passed at full speed. It contained two men and an elderly woman who were shrieking in unison:

"Down with war! Down with the Kellogg pact!"

The crowd only grinned and the police made no effort to interfere with the taxi.

Secretary Kellogg and all other visitors were given cordial applause as they entered or left the ministry. But Stresemann of Germany was the hero of the day to the crowd and an outburst of "Bravos" greeted him.

Herr Stresemann seemed greatly moved by the heartiness of this welcome. It brought a semblance of color to his pallid face as he drove away.

Tonight M. Briand was host at a formal dinner to upwards of 100 guests, including the signatories of the treaty. The affair was given in the great dining room of the foreign office and was followed by a reception to which some 2,000 persons representing fashion, finance, politics, army, navy and diplomacy were bidden.

The loss is placed at $1,500 on which insurance to the amount of $500 was carried. The property is owned by Martin Dubansky, who discovered the blaze when it broke through the roof of the barn. Lack of apparatus and water prevented any attempt to save the structure.

DANIELSON

GORDON BROS. SUED FOR DAMAGES OF $25,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 27—In the interest of Charles Reynolds of Elmville, Daniel Meehan of Dayville and Dewey Bourque of Putnam, formerly of Danielson, a civil suit has been instituted to recover damages from the Dayville Grain and Coal company, owned by Gordon Brothers, the concern having plants at Dayville, Danielson and Putnam. Incident to the suit property of the concern has been attached for $25,000. The plaintiffs suffered injuries a number of months ago when the motor vehicle in which they were returning from work was in collision, in the town of Woodstock, with a motor truck alleged to have been owned by the defendant concern.

It behooves householders who happen to be early risers to be on the lookout for petty sneak thieves who are stealing bottles of milk and change left out in bottles to pay the milkmen for such deliveries as they make. This morning there came reports of money being left outside from the previous night that milkmen might have their pay this morning being missing when delivery and collection time came around. Last Saturday morning a bottle of milk was stolen from where it was left outside a Broad street home before the milkman had hardly turned his back. It was suggested today that a bit of watchfulness on the part of persons who happen to be up early might result in the detection of the thieves.

Danielson business interests have done no great amount of complaining for months past relative to the repeated much belated arrival here of the north-bound morning boat train, but the situation has become so aggravating that there was rather irritated comment on the subject in the business district today, when this train, carrying mail, arrived here nearly two hours late. The greater part of this two hours was unofficially said to have been lost between Plainfield and Danielson, a distance of about ten miles. The unreliable schedule of this mixed train likely will be a subject of discussion at the September meeting of the chamber of commerce and also is likely to draw protests from manufacturing concerns and financial institutions here. Having only two trains a day, Danielson will contend that the most important of the two, the morning train, should be kept on time.

Inquiry will establish to the satisfaction of everyone that the belated arrival of this morning train does cause a great deal of inconvenience to people who are trying to do business promptly and efficiently. The borough will protest that it is entitled to more consideration as to keeping the morning boat train on time.

This afternoon at a meeting of the officials of the Brooklyn Savings bank a semi-annual dividend at the rate of 4 1-2 per cent per annum was declared, payable to depositors on and after September 1. Treasurer Sidney W. Bard's report covering the activities of the last six months showed that the bank had been very successful during that period and that the earnings were comparable to the best similar periods in the history of the institution. In addition to paying the usual dividend the earnings also permitted of carrying a very substantial amount to surplus.

Reports indicated that good progress is being made on the new home of the institution being erected at the corner of Main and Academy streets and that the structure likely will be ready for occupancy late this year.

The annual patriotic picnic, given by the W. R. C., the Daughters of Veterans, and the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, was held Saturday at the farm of Deforest Wells on the Brooklyn side. Seven veterans of the war were present to enjoy the day. One of the pleasing features of the day was a straw ride around the farm in the wagon of Mr. Wells, about twenty being on the load to take the trip. Lunch was served about 5 p. m. being enjoyed by the fifty or more present.

He has spent the summer abroad, playing on a number of the most famous courses, including that at St. Andrew's. He also attended the Olympic games at Amsterdam. Plunkett's home is in Adams, Mass. He was graduated from Pomfret school in June.

SEEKING RELATIVES OF MAN WHO DIED IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 27—A death at the county jail in Brooklyn last night was that of John Mack, 50, who was committed to the institution on August 17, to work out a fine and costs imposed upon him in the police court at Willimantic on a charge of having been intoxicated. Mack became ill soon after entering the jail and had been under medical treatment. A form of jaundice caused his death. Today, while the body was at the funeral home of L. E. Kennedy here, an effort was being made to determine whether Mack has immediate relatives. He was known to the police of various eastern Connecticut towns and cities as a rounder. When he entered the jail at Brooklyn this last time he gave Attleboro as his address. Some time since when he was a prisoner at a New London county jail he claimed Providence as his home.

While, of course, no accurate forecast is possible at this time, Principal Ernest R. Warren said this afternoon that he would not be surprised if as many as 375 registered in the high school and junior high school when a new term opens Tuesday of next week. If this estimate is reached, the registration will be the highest of record since the junior high school was established and housed in the same building with the high school. In any event, 375 will not crowd the building which, when it was enlarged, two years ago, was made to provide for 500 students.

Harry Peabody of East Killingly will not appear in the town court Wednesday, to which time his case was continued from last Wednesday. Peabody was to have come to court to face a charge of assaulting his wife. Today he went back to the Norwich State hospital, from which institution he was released early in the year. In the face of a pending court case he again assaulted his wife Sunday, and it is decided today that the best place for him was at the state hospital.

PUTNAM

BRUNELLE ACQUITTED OF DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, August 27—Because he ably defended himself before the charges of the city court, Theodore Brunelle of Van Den Noort street, was found not guilty of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. Brunelle was arrested Saturday evening by Sergeant George Liard and Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police department after he collided with another car owned by a Mr. Salvas on Woodstock avenue.

The officers went to the scene of the accident and found the Brunelle car at the foot of the embankment and it was alleged that he had been drinking. Both Mr. and Mrs. Salvas testified that the boy staggered on the highway and everything was in evidence that he had been drinking.

In court this morning Brunelle pleaded not guilty to the charge. Upon completion of the evidence presented by the prosecution, Judge Geissler asked Brunelle if he wished to speak. Brunelle denied all charges, admitting he did sip from a bottle of beer, about three hours before the accident occurred, but felt no ill effects from the intoxicant. He also introduced four witnesses who were riding in the same car with him, all testifying that Brunelle was not drunk. Brunelle also proved to the court that the condition of the road after the rain storm, was the major cause of his car colliding with the Salvas car.

Outlining the case, Judge Geissler stated he could see no proof that the defendant was at the time under the influence of liquor and upheld the boy's plea, finding him not guilty.

Alex Bibeault of Putnam, arrested Sunday morning by Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police, charged with intoxication and nuisance was arraigned in court this morning. He pleaded guilty to the offense and was fined $5.00 and costs of the court.

Chairman Edmund Dubois, of the democratic town committee, was in receipt of a telegram this morning from Congressman Oliver of New York, informing the local democratic leader that he had accepted their invitation to speak in Putnam at the meeting of the Al Smith club to be held Tuesday evening, in St. John's hall. Mr. Dubois said this morning that the committee in Putnam is extremely fortunate in securing the presence of the New York congressman, and was pleaded when the New Yorker acknowledged the Putnam invitation. Mr. Dubois said this morning that the Putnam democrats will also be addressed by leading democratic officials of the state, among them being James J. Walsh of Hartford, the chairman of the democratic central committee, Ex-Congressman Augustus Lonergan and Vincent O. Lamb of Middletown. Through the efforts of the local party leaders, an Al Smith club was organized at a democratic mass meeting two weeks ago.

The annual outing of the members of the Pumper company No. 1, of the central fire station was held Sunday at Rocky Point, R. I. A clam bake and a number of field events featured the outing.

Repairs in the fire station, as ordered by the common council, have nearly reached the completed stage. The interior of the engine rooms of the central station on Union Square have been painted and the workmen are now completing the work of repairing the cupola on the roof. The firemen's quarters in the upper part of the building have been painted and a number of new improvements for the smoke eaters have been installed.

Word has been received here that Private Henry Buchee, formerly of Putnam, now a member of the U. S. marine corps and stationed with the marine garrison in Cape Haitien, Haiti, is suffering from an injury to the leg. According to the letters from the former Putnam boy the injury was received while engaging in aquatic events. In letters to Putnam friends Private Buchee has mentioned the fact that he might be given a leave of absence to allow him to return to Putnam on a visit, which will be his first visit to Putnam since leaving with the marines for foreign service.

Mrs. Joseph A. Bernier and two daughters, Clair and Jeane of Grove street have left on a three weeks visit to be spent with relatives and friends in Greenwich.

Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit filed the marriage registration of Urgil Bonneau and Miss Josephine Berzeron both of Putnam. The ceremony was performed Thursday morning at St. Mary's church by Rev. Joseph D. Casey, curate at the church.

Sidney King of New Britain is spending a few days at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. S. King of Center street.

Captain W. J. Jarvis of the Putnam police was off duty today leaving the city this morning on police affairs.

At the American Legion state convention held last week in Middletown, the main object of debate was confined to the United States Veterans hospital, soon to be located somewhere in southern New England. Mrs. J. Dyer Potter of Grove street, a representative of the local Legion auxiliary to the state convention said today that a plan is now in order whereby all committees working in the interests of securing the hospital for their respective towns and cities, would combine the efforts firstly, to bring the hospital into Connecticut. The move was made after it was definitely made known that Connecticut has no better chance of securing the hospital any more than any other state in southern New England, where the veterans institution is to be located.

It is believed by many of the members of the Anselm Mayotte post of Putnam that the new plan advanced at the state convention of the legion is the best offered yet. In the event that Connecticut should be chosen as the site for such a government hospital, it will then be time enough for the city and town committees in the state to make an effort to have their locality chosen as the site.

Indications are that Grosvenordale will soon see the finish of road construction, as the contractors engaged in widening the concrete highway through the village and building an additional stretch of concrete highway north of the village, have nearly completed the task, upon which they have been laboring during the past four months. In North Grosvenordale, the road builders are nearly through and the new roads looms up as one of the most beautiful in Windham county. The Reardon curve, scene of numerous accidents in North Grosvenordale has been cut away and the bend has been straightened out, lessening the existing danger at this point.

A few Putnam friends were in Willimantic Sunday attending the funeral services of Arthur H. Packer, who died Thursday in St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester. Mr. Packer was for a number of years an employe of the railroad and worked in the yards in Putnam. Since leaving the railroad service Mr. Packer worked in the local restaurants as a chef. He has a host of friends and acquaintances in Putnam who deeply regretted the news of his death.

Selectman William P. Warren of the town said this afternoon that a bridge engineer will be in Putnam this week to make a thorough inspection of the iron bridge on Providence street, spanning the Quinebaug river, said to be in an unsafe condition. Mr. Warren said that the findings of this engineer and the report he makes to the selectman will determine whether or not supports may be installed to shore up the weakened bridge. If this cannot be brought about, a new concrete span will be considered at the October town meeting.

Last week workmen, engaged by the selectmen were at work on the bridge endeavoring to brace up the east side of the structure which is in a hazardous condition due to the age of the structure and primarily to the volume of heavy traffic moving across. The town men placed new material into the span which greatly improved the condition and allowed the bridge to be opened to traffic. It is believed the temporary repairs will support the bridge until the town decides on what must be done to make the bridge permanently safe.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:—

I am glad of the opportunity to write you again after the brief respite, as I have something of real interest to tell you about. It concerns Diamonds and when one says diamonds one is saying something.

I know that I need not go into any detail as to the beauty, the sparkling radiance and that feeling of culture that only a Diamond can give. However, I wonder if you have ever considered the diamond as an investment as well as the Ornament Supreme. Diamonds have a definite intrinsic value that knows no depreciation. They are readily marketable and not as second-hand goods. The interest on your investment comes in the extreme joy they give the owner.

Call at Tracy & Wolmer's Jewelry Store and ask to see their valuable assortment of unmounted diamonds. Under a policy carried out by Mr. Wolmer, diamonds are shown in their true light in the unmounted stage. Mr. Wolmer guarantees all diamonds to be absolutely perfect. Upon your selection of a stone and a setting it is mounted "while you wait"—a service that is expedient and at the same time assures you of getting the very stone you selected. All special order work is also done by the firm and diamonds never leave the shop.

Tracy & Wolmer's also carry a beautiful line of silver flatware in 23 complete patterns. Just think of the variety of choice and price this offers. Every piece in these patterns is carried in stock. You may select pieces of sterling or plate for a gift that may be completed into a set by the recipient at any time. All engraving is done right in the shop by experts. In fact, all the Tracy & Wolmer stock and service is of the highest standard.

I feel assured that your visit to this store will prove a pleasant one.

With best regards to the entire family, I remain

YOURS, JANE.

A LOSING PROPOSITION

Some regrets and surprise may have been manifested at the recent announcement on the part of the United States shipping board that bids would be received for the ships of the United States lines. These number some of the finest vessels the government has in its merchant fleet, but even though they are the best, and appear to be doing about as satisfactorily as any, they are nevertheless an annual drain upon the country. Instead of making a return to the government they are not able to make their expenses.

In connection with the placing of these ships upon the market, it has been necessary for the shipping board to give a record of the earnings of the lines in the last fiscal year. That report shows that for the year ending with June the United States lines showed a loss to the government of $465,000.

This might be regarded by prospective bidders as a convincing reason for showing a decreasing interest in these vessels, were it not for the fact that the opportunities are much more favorable under private operation than they are under government control.

From the standpoint of the people it appears to be high time for disposing of these vessels. Their sale would not mean their disappearance from the service or their loss to the American merchant marine. It would mean a transfer from government to private capital under which there would be reason for anticipating greater efficiency in operation.

The government has already spent a huge sum of money in the maintenance of the merchant marine. It is still adding to that outgo by substantial amounts each year, for it is to be remembered that the United States lines involve only a small part of the vessels which the government still owns. It remains to be seen, however, whether bidders will be inclined to offer such a sum for the vessels as would meet with the approval of the board, which should be willing to accept a fair price for the ships in order that the steady drain upon the federal treasury may be stopped. The time when the government can get out of the ownership and operation of merchant vessels can come none too soon.

HOOVER'S POLICIES CONVINCE

Because Frank O. Lowden made his whole campaign for the presidential nomination for president upon the farm issue he is looked upon as the leader for farm relief. Thus far Mr. Lowden has not committed himself in regard to the presidential candidates, but there is significance in the fact that Thomas C. Burke of Portland, Ore., a former democrat and close friend of Mr. Lowden, has declared that the Lowden farm group is well satisfied with Mr. Hoover's farm relief plans. This doesn't commit Mr. Lowden, but it is the only logical action which can be expected from him.

This declaration coming after the recent conference by Mr. Hoover with the farm leaders of the middle west at Cedar Rapids speaks for itself. It reflects the same sort of sentiment that was expressed by Senator Nye when he declared that he would no longer hesitate to support Mr. Hoover. Senator Nye is numbered among the republican insurgents but like a number of the other members of the party who are much interested in the farm problems, such as Senators Brookhart, McNary and Capper, he sticks to the fold from which results have been obtained in the past and from which the chances are the best for getting consideration in the future.

Wherever Mr. Hoover has talked to those who have sought his views concerning the farm problem he has been able to convince them of the soundness of his plans. With 1500 farm leaders of the middle west being satisfied by his explanations it can be appreciated that their influence among the voters on the farms will be effective. The pledges of support that are coming in for Mr. Hoover are a natural reaction to developments. They represent a swing into line right where they belong.

WHAT FRIENDSHIP MEANS

Most people have had real demonstrations of friendship. Not simply those outward manifestations of friendliness which can be expected most any day, but those self sacrificing acts which display real concern for your welfare and well being. And yet they are by no means what might be called common. It is a common practice to boast of friendships, but it is a different matter when it comes to proving some of the assertions that are made.

What it means to have a real friend is magnificently displayed in the offer made by Will Rogers to Fred Stone, and emphasis is placed upon real because it is believed that the Rogers offer is genuine.

Both of these men are well known public entertainers. Rogers is the cowboy humorist who has had his day on the stage and is now making much money through his movie contracts and his writings. Stone is the popular musical comedy star, and it will be remembered that he was seriously injured a few weeks ago when his airplane failed to respond to his wishes while in the air and crashed. He is recovering but progress is bound to be slow. He has been inundated with messages of sympathy from all over the country. No better demonstration of his popularity could be asked but Rogers goes beyond that for he offers to take Stone's place on the stage until he recovers.

Mr. Stone is in the position of the fellow who really needs such a friend. He has arranged to put a new show on the first of October, his daughter to appear with him. His bad accident puts an effective damper upon that. It is a big disappointment to him, to his daughter and to those who have long since come to appreciate his ability. But here comes Rogers with his offer to return to the stage, to carry on with Dorothy Stone until Fred is able to get back, and to do so with Dorothy as star and without any billing for himself.

Just what that means may not be gathered until it is appreciated that he will be obliged to cancel contracts of his own for personal appearance, feature writing and motion picture work which can easily cost him up to a half million dollars. To do that is a demonstration of friendship which speaks for itself.

A THEORY EXPLODED

Word now comes to the effect that the president of Cuba has declared that there will be no restriction placed upon the coming sugar crop in that republic unless it is sought by the planters.

This is the outcome of the experiment which Cuba has been making for the past two years. Cuba is the big producer of sugar and it was figured out by those who had not thought the entire problem through that it would be possible to increase the price of sugar if the crop was kept down. In other words an attempt was made to increase the price of sugar by forcing a curtailment of the crop. The law of supply and demand was to be put into operation artificially. It was possible to talk that proposition to the sugar raising companies and Cuba was convinced that it could cut production 10 per cent and get more money than would be obtained from a full crop. Cuba was told that its scheme wouldn't work, but it insisted upon finding out for itself.

If Cuba had been able to include all the sugar raising countries in the same sort of an agreement its object might have been obtained, but it reckoned without them. Just as soon as Cuba put its restrictive policy into effect it was a cue for other sugar raising countries to increase their crops. This they proceeded to do with the result that they made up for the curtailment which Cuba ordered. With the world crop just as big, and the present one the biggest ever in spite of the Cuban curtailment, it didn't take the Cuban theorists long to realize that they controlled the situation far less than they thought. They had less sugar to sell but the price was just as low as if they had produced and marketed as much as they could raise.

It is thus quite evident that there will be no demand on the part of the planters for a continuance of the order restricting the production of raw sugar in Cuba. They have had their lesson. It has been a costly one for them not only because of the reduced output but because of the encouragement which it gave to other sugar raising countries to increase activities in this direction.

SERVICE THROUGH TOLL BRIDGES

In the announcement which has been made to the traveling public, at least that portion which gets its transportation from motor vehicles, that Maryland is going to abolish tolls on the bridge over the Susquehanna river at Havre de Grace after September 15 there is being carried out a policy of service which motorists cannot fail to appreciate.

No one can be said to be anxious to pay tolls, but when it means that advantages are being obtained which would not otherwise be provided there is bound to be a willing response to the demand. The bridge which is soon to be made free was given away by the Pennsylvania when it built a new one. For 13 years it was operated as a toll bridge by the five citizens to whom it was given and then the state purchased it for more than a half million. Since then it has built a double deck for the bridge to accommodate the traffic but with the increase in traffic in recent years it has gotten to the point where it has reimbursed itself from the tolls for the purchase price and for the new construction. It is thus got to the point where maintenance cost is alone involved and it is prepared to meet that without resort to tolls.

Maryland has done just the same as was done in connection with the old railroad bridge at New London and with the new bridges at Lyme and East Haddam. It is a policy which permits those for whom the advantages are provided to gradually meet the expense of furnishing the valuable facilities and the best of it is that it overcomes previous delays through ferry service which they expected to pay for.

A BUSINESS EDUCATION

"Making lots of money Popsy," said Betty Jane, the day after she came home from boarding school, "is the easiest thing in the world. All you have to do to be successful in business is simply to buy something at a low price and then sell it again at a high price."

"Very simple," said her "Popsy," choking on his cigar. Then he waited to see to what this might be the prelude.

"Popsy," said Betty Jane, "will you buy me some stock?"

"What do you want to do, my dear, start a farm or a drug store?"

"Neither," said Betty Jane. "You see, Popsy, I feel as if I ought to know something about finance. And besides, I just must have that cunning little sports model I saw at the auto show. Now, if you could buy me some shares of something——"

"Oh, you mean——"

"Yes, stock. Like they exchange on the stock exchange."

"And preferably what kind of stock?"

"Oh, preferably something preferred. Don't you know you always say never to buy anything cheap or common—it doesn't pay in the long run? So I don't think I want any of that common stock they talk about."

"Well, how are you going to pay for it?"

"Oh, Popsy, do you have to pay for it? Can't I buy something that's down and then sell it again when it's high and pay for it out of what I sell it for? Can't I just charge it until the end of the month, and by that time sell it and make quite a lot of money?"

"For the love of Pete——"

"Or, oh, Popsy, you'll lend me the money, won't you?"

Not long after, Betty Jane's "Popsy" was walking quietly homeward, cogitating over the cares of the day, when he was hailed by a fresh, young, familiar voice.

"Hey, Popsy, wanta lift?"

He turned to see his doughter at the wheel of a brilliant yellow and green automobile, shiny new. Inside were two girls, friends of hers. Betty waved him into the rumble seat.

"Betty Jane, how on earth——?" They were off. It was a powerful little car, and Betty Jane didn't spare gasoline. The wind was chill and the pavement none too smooth. When "Popsy" arrived home he was windblown and battered, which was none too good for his temper.

"For goodness' sake, Betty Jane—"

"My stock bought it for me."

"Your stock?"

"Yes, the stock you were to buy for me—at least, I thought you were going to buy it for me. That was almost a week ago. It must have gone up a lot since then, surely enough to pay the few hundred dollars they ask for the first payment on this car!"

"Betty, your stock has gone down, very much down, with me. Take that car back where you got it instantly and get back whatever deposit you made on it."

"But, Popsy, it was such a bargain. You see, it was a demonstrator, and they said they'd let me have it at cost price if I would pose for some pictures in the car and write them a letter about it on your stationery."

"Betty Jane, did you hear what I said?"

"Yes, father."

"Betty Jane, incorrigible one, I have decided that you really should know something about business," remarked Betty Jane's paternal parent at breakfast the following morning.

"Yes, father," said Betty Jane, still in a humble mood.

"I am going to buy you some shares of stock, as you suggested last week, something I regard as safe and at the same time with prospects. But don't forget this. The stock may depreciate in value instead, as we expect, of appreciating. You may lose as well as win by your gamble. Or you may wait years for the results you seem to expect in a few days."

"Yes, father," said Betty Jane. There was something suspicious about this meekness.

"Betty Jane," said her father, suddenly, "did you take that car back, as I told you to?"

"Well, you see, father, it was this way," said Betty Jane, "as I drove the old thing down Sheridan road it struck me that it would be an awful shame to take it back when they had sold it to me so cheaply, and everything. So, instead, I drove it around to a dealer in used cars. And I asked him what he would give me for it. He named a price that seemed awfully little to me, but I talked and talked for a while, and admired some of his cars and let him take some pictures of me in some of them, and told him a lot about this car's having been in the show, and never really having been used, and I showed him the tricky awnings that mother had had put on for my next birthday present, and finally he came up and up in his offer until——"

"Don't tell me, Betty Jane, that you got as much for the car as you were asked for it?"

"And a hundred dollars more!" said Betty Jane. "Almost enough for the down payment on another car."

"Kamerad," said Popsy, burning his tongue on the coffee. "Where's my checkbook? And how much do you want?"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Care of Children's Teeth

By Paul E. Holubek, M. D., Los Angeles.

The mother, more than the dentist, is responsible for the condition of her child's teeth. Her influence begins before the baby is born, because her personal nutrition and hygiene influence the material of the structure of the child's teeth.

The next step is to prevent any unnecessary cavities by dental examination every six months as soon as deciduous (baby) teeth appear. Responsibility does not end here, it really begins

Food for the child must be wholesome, nutritious and in correct proportions. A child will build up a healthy chewing or masticating machine, if he has health and bone-producing foods, free from sweets which spoil the appetite; also clean, cool water, plenty of fresh air, lots of sleep, regular habits, natural play and kindly but efficient supervision of his eating, in order that eating is slow and chewing thorough.

A certain amount of coarse or crusty food should be eaten each day to exercise the gums which support the teeth, that they may keep well. Coarse grain breads, bran muffins, fresh fruit and celery are a few of the foods which serve this purpose.

As soon as a child is old enough, he should be taught to brush the teeth morning and night, with careful supervision to assure thorough cleaning. In this way the error will be avoided of neglecting the permanent teeth which erupt far back in the mouth and are used very little at first. In cleaning, these are so easily overlooked that they are the most frequently decayed of all teeth.

Most people do not realize that the six year molars are permanent because they come in quietly behind the deciduous teeth in the fifth or sixth year. Cavity formation here causes too many parents no alarm. As a result of the lack of care, more than one-third of all the adults in this country have lost one or more of these vitally important teeth.

The loss of any tooth causes irregularity and undue stress on other teeth. This in the end causes early loosening and loss of teeth with deformity of the mouth, thus affecting the general health.

Regular periodic examinations will disclose deterioration as it develops. The dentist thus prevents such extreme condition as pulp involvement and the resultant root canal trouble or abscess. He is constantly striving to prevent disease. For this reason, prenatal care, followed by careful supervision of the child's diet, habits, play and rest, is no more important than professional examinations.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Too Much Curiosity

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Too much of anything is bad
And frequently results are sad.
—Old Mother Nature.

There are times when curiosity is a good thing. There are more times when it is a bad thing. Sometimes it opens the door to knowledge and sometimes it opens the door to trouble. It is more likely to do the latter than the former. Peter Rabbit has learned a great deal through curiosity. Also he has had many narrow escapes through curiosity. But the latter haven't taught him anything. He is still as curious as ever. Yes, sir, Peter is as full of curiosity as ever he was. The worst of it is he will take all sorts of chances to gratify that curiosity. It is a lucky thing for Peter that he has those long hind legs to get him out of the trouble that his long ears get him into.

Peter was over in the Green Forest. How it happens that Peter had not heard the news in regard to the children of Yowler the Bobcat and Mrs. Yowler I do not know, but he hadn't. He didn't know that there were two kittens over there in the Green Forest. Had he known about them, perhaps he would have been satisfied to stay in the dear old Briar-patch, as Mrs. Peter begged him to do. But he didn't know, so here he was over in the Green Forest.

Peter was looking for his big cousin, Jumper the Hare, and he wasn't paying the closest attention to his surroundings. The result was that he was just about to hop out into a patch of moonlight when someone jumped out there before him. Peter stopped short. My, my, how those eyes of his did open! He held his breath! There was a prickly feeling running up and down his backbone, and this should have warned him to get away from there as quickly as he could. But the sight of that stranger in the moonlight was too much for him. So he simply sat there and stared and stared.

"It's the living image of Yowler the Bobcat, only smaller," thought Peter

"It's the living image of Yowler the Bobcat, only smaller," thought Peter. "Can it be that Yowler has a baby? It is queer I haven't heard of it. Yes, sir, it is queer I haven't heard of it."

Meanwhile the kitten in the moonlight was playing with a leaf. He would pounce on it, toss it in the air, roll over and over with it. Peter was so intent on watching this kitten that he forgot to look anywhere else. So he didn't see the head of another kitten peering out from the Black Shadows on the edge of the moonlit space. This kitten was just preparing to join her brother who was playing with the leaf when a wandering little Night Breeze tickled her nose with a smell that made her suddenly forget all about play. That smell was the smell of Rabbit. She recognized it at once. She and her brother had had many a good meal on Rabbit brought by their mother.

She crouched flat and then she began to creep toward Peter Rabbit, just as you have seen a cat creep toward a mouse or bird. She would creep a few steps, then lift her head to tes the air and look. So it was that pretty soon she discovered Peter, for Peter happened to move a little. You should have seen her funny little stub tail twitch. It was twitching with excitement and eagerness. Now this kitten had had some experience in catching mice. She had become quite expert in creeping up on them. So it was that she approached nearer and neare. to Peter Rabbit. Foolish Peter was forgetful of everything in gratifying his curiosity. Had he done any thinking at all, he would have known better than to sit there, never looking to either side and not using his ears and nose for possible enemies. But Peter was too curious. He was too curious to remember at all that there is always danger in the Green Forest. So the young Bobcat crept nearer and nearer and her eyes fairly glowed with eagerness.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, the great unofficial or government employe bulk of it, is accustomed, if not resigned, to political impotency at election time. It has been voteless so long that few Washingtonians proper would know how to cast a ballot.

It never gets accustomed, however, to being out of the political spotlight or in the class of a tank town on the great party political circuits, despite a dose of that medicine every four years. It dislikes to take its political news out of inbound press dispatches, as it always feels it is the political hub of the whole works.

The capital has been very much off the main line during the early days of the presidential campaign. Hoover is 3,000 miles away; Smith not as distant geographically, but very remote politically. Most of all, the absence of the president, nerve center of daily doings that touch closely the everyday lives of hundreds of thousands of folks, although these details rarely get beyond the city limits in the news, makes Washington feel remote and neglected.

It is a curious commentary on this vaunted scheme of representative government for, by and of the people that the place where more folks vitally and personally concerned with the election outcome are concentrated than is the case anywhere else in the country is just a political bystander, concerned wholly with speculative issues.

The usual beginning made by Washington political speculators of this vast unofficial group is: "What chance has Smith?" They feel strongly that the political "ins" have a decided edge on the "outs" in any party struggle for control, so it's a natural enough starting point.

Messrs. Hoover and Smith might well be surprised at the heated disputes that question can start, even in voteless Washington.

Another thing about this hot midsummer in Washington is the way the cabinet scattered once the national convention matter was properly attended to. They vanished to the four winds, two of them, Mellon and Davis of Labor, going abroad; Davis of War to Honolulu; Hoover and Work to the political tall timbers and out of the sacred White House official circle. Kellogg, as cabinet dean, remained on the job, but is packing for a quick jaunt to Paris. New, in the postoffice kept up office hours, dealing out additional air mail contracts.

The huge government departmental family meanwhile is awaiting with lively interest announcements from Hoover's political poste de command or elsewhere as to just what part the cabineteers are going to play in the campaign, or the president himself, for that matter.

Snubbed again—
but he won her when he learned what was wrong

He was dumbfounded! To be cut dead like that by her—the one girl he cared for! Why had she done it?

He didn't know then—but that very evening an advertisement caught his eye. It told about "B.O." —Body Odor! It explained that no one is safe from this unpardonable fault; and that the offender seldom suspects he is guilty.

Perhaps that was it. He had noticed that lately many people looked at him queerly whenever he approached them. He was sure he had turned the secret.

Today this same chap is a great favorite everywhere. And he has won the girl who snubbed him. Read how he found that the simple way to overcome his handicap was delightful, too.

Body odor needless now

At first got Lifebuoy as a deodorizing toilet soap to guard against body odor. But we liked it so well that soon the whole family was using it for all toilet purposes.

"Lifebuoy gives so much lather, is so cleansing and invigorating. After a Lifebuoy bath, you feel clean, refreshed—no fear of 'B.O.'

Fine for complexions, too

"Lifebuoy's gentle, antiseptic lather is splendid for the skin, too. My sister's complexion looks much softer and smoother since she started using Lifebuoy. We also feel that Lifebuoy helps protect our health because it removes germs.

"And Lifebuoy is such a clean-smelling toilet soap. This clean scent vanishes as soon as you rinse."

Try Lifebuoy a week and you, too, will use it for life. Get some today.

It needs only to be smoothed on easily with the lightest touch. It penetrates without rubbing. It will not stain clothing or bed linen. It has a pleasant fragrance which makes it agreeable to use on the face. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

BRILLIANT CARD OF BOUTS SLATED FOR NEW LONDON ARENA THURSDAY

A card of real merit has been booked by Promoter Ernest Fakourey for the boxing carnival at the New London Arena on Hamilton street, New London, for Thursday evening. Three feature eight round bouts top the card with two six rounders and a four round appetizer, forty rounds of boxing in all. Norwich is well represented on the card as Al Beauregard appears in one of the feature bouts and Geno Pecheeni and Young Tommy McCarthy are principals in the two six rounders.

Beauregard by his decisive defeat of Joey Duggan at Westerly the other night earned the right to meet Pete Lucy of Bridgeport in one of the star bouts. Irish Tommy Jarrett of New Haven stacks up against Frankie Portell of Hartford. Beauregard and Portell are no strangers to local fandom and their presence on the card should draw the customers from Norwich even if two other Norwich boys were not going to perform.

The other star bout is between Frankie Woods of Taunton, Mass., formerly of Norwich, and Frankie Cavanaugh of Bridgeport, New England light heavyweight champion. Cavanaugh is a slugger of the first water while Woods at the present time is fighting some mighty tough boys and winning. Woods since leaving Norwich early in the spring has won decisively from Jackie Clark of Fall River, Ted Coolidge of Manchester, Tiger Tom Dixon of Bristol, Gus Brown of New Bedford, Joe Dwyer of Athol, Mass., and Kid Mack, many of his victories coming by knockouts.

Geno Pecheeni, local favorite is pitted against Spike Mareno of New Haven, a fast little punching slinger who has been winning regularly in the Elm city. Mareno was on the same card on which Bobby Mays beat Joe Trabon at New Haven in July. Mareno won his victory very easily through his punching power and cleverness.

Tommy McCarthy meets a tough boy in Jimmy Proto of New Haven, brother of Georgie Proto, former boxer and now a referee. Fans will remember Georgie when he fought Teddy Russell and others in Norwich many years ago and his brother is possessed of all the cleverness of George.

For the appetizer Promoter Fakourey has secured a heavyweight bout, the first to be staged in Eastern Connecticut in years outside the amateurs. Big Boy Burlap, the colored Adonis of Westerly, former amateur, will meet Ken Scott of Boston. This bout which will be nothing more nor less than a slugging affair should set the crowd on edge.

Promoter Fakourey as has been his custom since opening the arena has reserved a block of seats for his Norwich patrons.

CARDINALS INCREASE LEAD BY SMOTHERING CUBS

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals threw water on the smouldering pennant hopes of the Cubs today by whacking Blake and Root for thirteen hits and a 11 to 2 victory in the opener of their three game series.

By their victory, the Cards increased the lead in the National league race to four games over the idle Giants and to four and a half over the Cubs.

The Cubs nicked Rhem and Johnson for 12 safeties, but were unable to bunch them as did the Cards. Every Cardinal except J. Wilson and Rhem got one or more hits while Bottomley cleaned the bags with a timely double in the seventh inning, clinching the game. St. Louis also scored four runs in the ninth off Charlie Root after two were down.

Riggs Stephenson, Cub left fielder, has been called home to Alabama where his father is seriously ill and Cuyler shifted from right to left field, while Heathcote took Cuyler's place in right.

HAWLEY MAY NOT COACH AT DARTMOUTH

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—(AP)—Because of the increasing pressure of his radio manufacturing business, Jesse Hawley may give up his football coaching duties at Dartmouth this fall, officials of the Chicago-Dartmouth alumni chapter reported today.

Although Hawley has made no definite announcement of his plans, the alumni chapter heads said, it is generally known that he has made great sacrifices in both time and money in coaching at Dartmouth and it is feared he will not return this fall.

Hawley was reported at his home at St. Charles, Illinois, to be recovering from a nasal operation, which he underwent yesterday. Because of it he was unable to keep an engagement to speak on Dartmouth football prospects at the usual alumni meeting here.

YANKS PICK UP FULL GAME ON THE ATHLETICS

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Yankees took advantage of Philadelphia's idleness today to increase their lead to four games by winning both ends of a double-header from the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 3 and 5 to 2.

Tom Zachary made his New York debut in the opener and won a left handed pitching duel from Earl Whitehill. Detroit got one more hit than the Yankees, touching for seven, but Whitehill's wildness in the fourth inning gave New York its chance. The Detroit pitcher gave four walks in that inning, forcing in one run after the first had been scored on a walk and a hit.

Clever use of the bunt by Manager Huggins won the first game for New York. Durocher bunted with two out in the sixth and sent Meusel home with the tying run. In the eighth Gehrig led off by reaching first on a bunt, took third on Ruth's single and scoring the winning run on Meuse's sacrifice fly.

In the second game George Pipgras won his 21st game of the season, outpitching Owen Carroll. He was well supported and his team did some timely batting behind him, getting 13 hits. Meusel again came through in the pinches to play a big part in the victory.

CLEVELAND BREAKS EVEN IN SERIES WITH SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27— (AP) — Uhle was hit hard today but he was effective with men on bases and Cleveland gained an even break in a four-game series by beating Washington 5 to 3. Hudlin relieved Uhle in the ninth with two on base and none out and caused Rice to line to Dorman and Goslin to hit into a double play. Lind, Cleveland second baseman, got three hits as did West, Washington center fielder.

GIBSON TO MANAGE THE MELANCHOLY DANE

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Billy Gibson, retired manager of the retired heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney, returned to the "flight racket" today, ending one of the shortest retirements on record.

In the future Gibson will manage Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane, Tex Rickard announced at Madison Square Garden. Rickard said that Gibson, who quit the fight game when Tunney announced his retirement, paid $11,250 for Hansen's contract. The Danish heavyweight formerly was managed by Joseph Woodman and George Lawrence in behalf of a syndicate of wealthy sportsmen including Walter P. Chrysler, automobile manufacturer, William and Spruille Braden, magnates, and Warner Jones, banker.

Gibson, whose contract with the conqueror of Phil Scott will run for three years, found himself immediately in the center of a managerial controversy. Walter Friedman, a New York attorney, is recognized by the New York state athletic commission as Hansen's manager.

JUNIOR LEAGUE GAME AT TAFTVILLE TONIGHT

Tonight, at the Providence street grounds in Taftville, the Elks will meet the Taftville Legionnaires in the Junior Twilight league. There are only two more games scheduled in the junior circuit, the one tonight and the deciding game of the season, between the Rotary and Taftville. Where this game will be played will be decided later in the week, but it is planned to play in on Saturday afternoon.

Taftville needs tonight's game and while they should win without any great trouble, the Elks are planning to take their strongest lineup to Taftville in an effort to give the leaders a trimming. The Elks at times are capable of playing good ball and if tonight proves one of their good nights, they should give the Legionnaires plenty of trouble. Raymond or Paradis will pitch for Taftville with Fontaine behind the bat, while Reardon or Fuller will twirl for the Elks with Bamber or Dugas doing the backstopping.

The game is scheduled to start at 6.15 p. m.

Putnam Defeats H. N. S.

The Putnam Juniors defeated the H. N. S. Sunday at Jewett City by an 8 to 5 score in a hectic game. The game was a continuous see-saw until the eighth when the Putnam team gathered three runs to win the game. The last two innings were played in a continual drizzle. The spectacular hitting of Salinsky proved thrilling to the fans. With Vechon way off form errors at critical moments by his teammates figured greatly in the loss of this game. The score:

RAY SCHULTZ LEADS FIELD IN CADDY TOURNEY QUALIFYING ROUND

Ray Schultz, the big smiling faced caddy, led a field of sixteen Monday morning in the qualifying round of the annual caddie tournament of the Norwich Golf club. Schultz turned in an 84 to take the medalist honors from Cy Jenks, who was the favorite to take the medal and also become the caddy champion. Jenks was second low qualifier with an 87 while Dick Borne was third with an 89. Strung out behind these three leaders came the rest of the field with scores from 91 to 123.

For real grim and determined golf this caddy tournament has it on all other tournaments ever played at the club. In the pugilistic realm it was to be termed a grudge fight or a battle royal. In fact the heated arguments that have arisen since the completion of the qualifying round have caused Massie Miller to consider sending out a set of boxing gloves with each match in first round that will be played today. Rumor, in fact ugly rumor, justified if true, but malicious if untrue, is flying fast about the caddy shack. In the vernacular of the up-to-the-minute the rumor is that somebody has been "gyped," who and by whom we refrain from saying. The rumor is that a certain player in the tournament failed to count his swishes, the balls out of bounds and those that landed "kerplunk" in the brook with the result that his card totaled much lower than it should. Rumor goes further by saying that the matter is to be brought before the tournament committee and the evidence laid before this august body of which Earl Mathewson is chairman. No one envies Mr. Mathewson in his role of arbiter.

However the boys go out today to give battle to one another with grim determination in the eyes and rancor in the hearts. It is to be a bitter struggle and at the present time good golf is the supreme soul-gripping ambition of these youngsters.

SPENCER IS CHAMPION THREE-YEAR-OLD TROTTER

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 27—(AP)—Spencer, the leading money winner among the two-year-olds last season, became the champion three-year-old of the trotting world today by winning the classic Hambletonian stake at the New York State fair. Spencer, with Billy Leese in the sulky, made a show of his field and won in straight heats thereby enriching his owner, David M. Look of New York, to the extent of $45,000.

In the first heat Spencer clipped a full second off the track record for three-year-olds, trotting the mile in 2:02 1-2, as compared to the record of 2:03 1-2 Commodore Wilson hung up here four years ago. The second heat was clocked in 2:04.

Both miles were faster than any other previously recorded in the big stake.

Red Aubrey went to the post the favorite but Spencer and Scotland, Ben White's black colt, also were well backed. Red Aubrey was never in the contention in the first mile and Spencer, setting the pace, won handily and with plenty in reserve. Scotland came fast in the stretch to take second place in this mile but in the next heat Guy Abbe, another strong choice, came with a rush in the last quarter and trailed Spencer by a half length, thereby clinching second money, better than $11,000.

Cinema took the 2:08 trot by winning the second and third heats after finishing third to Christice Mac in the first mile.

Courtney Burton won the second and third heats to place first in the 2:08 pace after Princess Iroquois led the field home in the first mile. Radium took all four heats of the claiming trot, having little competition.

The game was played after the regular league Toronto-Reading game. Rogers Hornsby was the batting star with three hits.

Score by innings:

Kaplan Kayoes Palmer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—K. O. Phil Kaplan, New York middleweight, lived up to his name tonight by scoring a knockout over Jack Palmer of Philadelphia in the sixth round of the ten round feature bout at Dexter arena. Palmer claimed that the blow which sent him down for the count was foul but the referee refused to allow the claim and counted him out.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Frigidaire

Automatic refrigeration is being adopted in this community with a speed that compares very favorably with its progress in other parts of the state, according to Carl W. Brown who returned yesterday from a district convention at New Haven attended by Frigidaire dealers and salesmen from all territory having its headquarters in that city.

"Reports tendered at the meeting indicated a steady increase in the installation of automatic refrigerating equipment," Mr. Brown said, "and reflected a general expectation of tremendous growth in volume in the immediate future. Automatic refrigeration is becoming recognized as a modern necessity."

Dealers and salesmen in the convention, he said, were enthusiastic over the outlook for the remainder of the year. For the first seven months of the year Frigidaire Corporation's business was reported as being far in excess of that during the same period of 1927.

MISS WILLS IS SUPREME IN FOREST HILLS TENNIS

By F. G. VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 27—(AP)—It was Helen Wills' day on the turf.

In one of the most impressive triumphs of her remarkable career, the tennis queen from Berkeley romped away with her fifth national women's championship in singles and her fourth in doubles.

In neither final round battle was Miss Wills extended in the slightest and both matches were won in straight sets. Queen Helen took the court first in defense of her singles crown and repulsed the brave challenge of her doughty fellow Californian, Helen Jacobs, of Santa Barbara, 6-2, 6-1. Then paired with Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, veteran ex-champion from Boston, Miss Wills figured in another speedy victory at the expense of Miss Edith Cross, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2.

By her singles victory Miss Wills achieved the unprecedented feat of winning the championships of France, England and the United States in a single season and in straight sets.

If the day had another heroine besides Miss Wills it was Mrs. Wightman who at the age of 42 carried her full share of the burden in the doubles play. It was the second national championship for the Wills-Wightman combination as they scored in 1924 when Miss Wills also made a clean sweep of both titles. Winning today, they succeeded as champions the English team of Mrs. Kathleen McKane Godfree and Miss Ermyntrude Harvey who did not come over to defend their laurels.

Although not noted as a doubles player, Miss Wills backed up Mrs. Wightman's sparkling net play with deadly driving and made few errors.

Miss Wills was content to let Mrs. Wightman lead the attack in doubles. It was the national singles champion, however, who scored the deciding point, a lightning like kill over the net after a long exchange.

MISS WILLS DUPLICATES HER PLAY IN FRENCH TENNIS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 27—(AP)—In winning the National tennis championship Helen Wills exactly duplicated the feat she achieved in gaining the French title early in the season, losing but 13 games in the entire tournament. After drawing a bye in the first round the champion romped through five opponents in this order:

Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor, New York, 6-0, 6-1.

Mrs. L. A. Harper, Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-2.

Mrs. C. H. Chapin, Springfield, Mass., 6-2, 6-4.

Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco, 6-0, 6-1.

WESTERLY

FIVE CRAP SHOOTERS BEFORE THIRD DIST. JUDGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 27—Sunday crap shooters were before Judge Oliver H. Williams Monday afternoon in a special session of Third District court. As a result of the activities of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and officers, four young men, alleged players and a watcher, passed Sunday night at the Westerly police station. Among the number were James Perra, Sam Ginger elia, Patsy Terranova, Victor Barbone and a 14-year-old boy, said to have been one of the lookouts when the police arrived. According to Chief Brown, it has been the custom of Westerly youths to congregate in a quarry hole near Fraser's bridge, Bradford road, on pleasant Sunday mornings for little games of African golf. The kitty grows to a considerable size. Yesterday Chief Brown decided to try his own luck. He marshalled Policemen Kessel, Norman, Knight, Madison, Constables Nugent and Brown and Trooper Nolan for the visit. They found the game well under way, but the lookouts were wide awake, all except the lad held. The police moved fast, but the gamesters moved faster and disappeared among the quarry holes. The police nabbed the five, however, and more were reported as about to be summoned into court.

Frederick T. Backus of Norwich was a Westerly business visitor Monday afternoon.

George H. Kenyon has returned to Westerly from a week's motor trip to Niagara Falls, coming by way of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Nichols and daughter, Margaret, of East Providence, were guests Sunday of Westerly relatives. Miss Nichols has passed several weeks at Camp Hoffman, with the Girl Scouts.

Sidney S. Blake of Philadelphia is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Blake.

Miss Lucinda Barber has returned to her duties in the office of C. B. Cottrell & Sons Co., after a week's vacation visit in New London, N. H.

J. Russell Oppy has returned from a vacation camping trip in Maine.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk: Aug. 25. Valentine Campo of Bradford to Gennaro Pappadia, also of Bradford, land on the easterly side of Westerly road, bounded easterly and southerly by lands now or formerly of Wayland A. Saunders, with buildings and improvements.

At the last meeting of Westerly town council, it was voted to hold the September meeting of the council, regularly coming on the first Monday in the month, on Tuesday of next week as Monday next is Labor day.

In the session of the Third district court, Judge Oliver H. Williams disposed of civil cases when the following were marked continued one week: R. C. Duguid vs. Alvin Murphy; Clifton D. Hall vs. John N. Sisson; Sarah Dickie vs. John Howard; Joseph Draizen vs. George E. R. Leete; Charles H. Gavitt vs. Joseph A. Guarino.

In the case of Henry R. Cole vs. John E. Sisson a default was entered and the case was passed for proof of claim at request of Attorney Roche. He also asked for supplemental proceedings in the cases of Edward Regucci vs. Thomas Kores and William Segar vs. Raymond Barber.

The exodus of summer cottagers from Westerly beaches, Watch Hill, Pleasant View, Atlantic Beach and Weekapaug, has begun. Hardly a day passes but a Watch Hill cottage is closed and the owner or occupant's departure is the cause for increasing numbers of outward bound trunks by express to the Westerly station.

Mary Adelaide Berry, 75, widow of John W. Berry, died suddenly today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William B. Livingstone, 124 West Broad street, Pawcatuck. Mrs. Berry had been in failing health for some time. She was born in Hopkinton, March 2, 1853, the daughter of Donald and Harriet Maine Crandall. She came to reside in Westerly when she married John W. Berry. He died about five years ago. She was a member of the First Baptist church. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Livingstone, with whom she had made her home for the past four years, she is survived by three sons, Carol, of Kenmary, Tenn.; John Weeden, of San Diego, Ca., and Charles A. Berry of Springfield, Mass.

On Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, funeral services were held for Mrs. Margaret Gurbe Mills, wife of Olcott G. Mills, at her home, 31 Highland avenue. Rev. Byron U. Hatfield conducted the services. The bearers were John Ferguson, Jr., Dr. John Champlin, Jr., Russell Dower, Loren G. MacLaren, Harold Q. Moore and Robert E. Loomis. Burial was in River Bend cemetery.

The funeral of Eleanor Crowley, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Crowley, was held from the home of her parents, 43 Liberty street, Pawcatuck, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial was in St. Michael's New cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Leo Weston. The bearers were Marcus Driscoll, John Farrell, Thomas Shackley, Vernon Hauschild, Grant O'Neil and Donald Kinney.

Joseph Falco of Westerly awaited, Monday afternoon, the action of the Third district court on a complaint made out by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, charging assault, as the result of an attack which he is alleged to have made on another spectator at the baseball game between the Hilltop A. C. and Bradford teams Sunday, in Bradford. Becoming incensed at a remark made by George Pierce of Bradford while the game was in progress, Falco is said to have picked up a bat and hit Pierce over one eye. He was arrested by State Trooper E. R. Bonat.

NOANK

HUMAN FISH DEVEAU SWIMS TO OCEAN BEACH

The human fish, George Deveau of this village, with his Manager Eddie Ellis went down to the north dock on Saturday afternoon for his second try to swim to Ocean Beach; a distance of 6 1-2 miles. Boat Horsefly, Capt. Mode Wilson, was all ready to follow Deveau on his long swim. Grease was put on his body and legs heavily by his trainer Mike Passi, the sky was overcast, it looked like rain and the wind was blowing light. A crowd of 100 gathered at the dock to cheer him on to victory. It was 3.30 when Manager Ellis said: "Are you ready now?" Standing with his yellow oathing suit on the human fish said 'Yes!" Then making a pretty dive going along slowly, taking his time until near the end of the long grind getting by Groton Long Point, Capt. Wilber said "How is the water?" "A little cold." The waves were hard to battle and the tide was taking him out toward Plum Island. Trying a new stroke, breathing under his left arm, that under arm stroke was soon getting him near the south west light ship when Swimmer Deveau called: "I am in a large school of blue fish! They botler me—it seems funny to have them around my legs!" As the sun was sinking fast and the darkness would soon prevail, with the goal half won Manager Ellis called from the boat: "Can you make it now?" "I am getting stronger—and if luck is with me I can do it!" Fighting the waves hard seemer to bother the human fish, with losing three miles by being carried out to sea. After being in the water four hours he still had a mile to go, swimming in the dark for it was 7.30 o'clock. But Capt. Wilbur knew where to go and keeping the searchlight ahead of the swimmer. Striking a cold spot in the water he went like a fireman, running to a fire, all one could see was arms in the air. Pulling hard he could see the beach a few feet ahead. But not the big beach, the east side one. It was 8.45 when he stepped on the beach and fell over on the sand, all in. Throwing water on him soon brought Noank's human fish to. The boat crew cheered him for ten minutes. Manager Ellis was happy as a kid with a new kiddie car. It took 5 hours and 15 minutes this making Swimmer Deveau's fourth time to try this swim from Noank to Ocean beach. After getting the grease off and putting on his clothes. Manager Ellis had his car come over and gave Human Fish Deveau a real time that evening in the Whaling City.

Miss Bertha Hartke and Stretch Morrison saw Block Island for the first time Sunday. Miss Hartke comes from St. Louis and is spending the summer at Groton Long Point. She used to read in the St. Louis papers about Block Island and catching large sword fish there and sea turtles, so she wanted to see the island. Leaving New London on Steamer Nelseco II. making a good run, they reached the dock, at 2 o'clock. The purser said: "We are going back at 4 o'clock. Don't miss the boat!" The visitors were surprised to see such a busy place. Taking a walk on the island to see the sights, they noticed the pretty cottages, saw a boat load of people from Providence and 125 fishing boats tied up at the docks waiting for a good day to fish. Several boats from Noank were among them. The whistle of the Nelseco II blew soon, meaning all aboard. They started back to New London, as the fog was coming in fast. The people sitting along the side of the boat saw several fish darting over an orange in the water and some would come up out of the waves about eight inches. People thought at first it was a flying fish, but it was a large blue fish making great fun for the passengers on the boat. Reaching New London at an early hour in the evening Miss Hartke said it was a day well spent.

The dance hall nine baseball team left the village Saturday morning by train for New Jersey and played the fast All Stars team of that state at Murphy field, Jersey City, before a crowd of 800 fans. The game started late, around 4 o'clock When Umpire Joe Sweet announced the pitchers. Coach Billie Crane sent the big right hander Ebbets to the hill and Battle Axe Bracci to catch and Coach Harry Dunn of Jersey City sent Sparky M. Burns to pitch, a knuckle ball tosser from Iowa, and Heavyweight Bert Overall to catch. It was a great game to watch for seven innings as the heavy hitters could not hit the knuckle ball of Burns. Only weak flys was sent up by the Noankers. The All Stars broke the ice in the 8th inning when they sent the big right hander, Ebbets of the fishing village to the showers for 6 runs; all he had was a glove and a prayer. Buzz Saw Moran was rushed in to stop the rally Umpire Sweet put Flash McDonald of the dancers out of the game for kicking over a fair ball, he said it was a foul. A policeman led him out of the field. Dance sheiks put over a 5 run rally in the ninth inning and had the knuckle ball pitcher worried. But he struck out Oil Carson. The final score was Jersey City 6, Dance Hall Nine 5.

STONINGTON

SEARCH FOR BODIES OF STUDENTS DISAPPOINTING

The fishing boats of the Stonington, Noank and Westerly fleets gave up the search Saturday for the bodies of the four young men drowned while making a trip from Fishers Island to Watch Hill, Sunday night, Aug. 12. The seamen expressed the opinion that the men were lost in the Catumb reef and the bodies were held down by the heavy grass and pulp. Every day a large number of planes from nearby airports and from Philadelphia, Boston and Newport have kept up the search for the bodies. Never before has such a systematic search been maintained without results.

The crown of the Holy Ghost society was moved Sunday from the home of John Manice, on Hancox street to the home of Capt. Manuel Madeira, on Omega street. The Stonington band furnished music for the procession. Flag poles and lights are being put up on the Wall street and Collins wharf in preparation for the big closing days, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

There will be no masses in St. Mary's church mornings this week, the pastor, Rev. E. A. Cotter being on retreat at Manresa College, South Norwalk.

Miss Margaret Marie spent the week end as the guest of Miss Dorothy Gilmore, of Westerly.

Rev. George B. Spalding was the guest Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J Chattillon at the Rhode Island Kennel club bench show.

James Conklin is spending a few days with friends in Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. W. Fred Wilcox and Miss Pauline Chesebro are spending a week as the guests of Miss M. L. Pendleton at Media, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. William Coyle have returned to their home in Ridgewood N. J., after a visit of two weeks as guests of Mrs. Edward Monjo. Mr. Coyle is manager of the Ridgewood Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. F. LaVerne Burdick are entertaining Mrs. Charles L. Wolf and daughter Elizabeth of Glen Rock, N. J.

Gustav Hauschild of Cleveland, O., is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Katherine E. Fay returned on Monday to her home in Windsor Locks after a visit at the home of Mrs. Mary L. Sliney.

A state highway department inspector was in Stonington last week checking up traffic at the corner of Elm and Cutler streets. A conference between the state and town officials will be held in an effort to secure some improvement at this dangerous curve.

Edward C. Johnson, who has been at the summer school at Storrs and completed his sophomore work at the school under direction of the Connecticut Council of Religious Education returned to his home Sunday. Mr. Johnson was among those who were awarded certificates of credit at the commencement exercises Friday night.

UPWARD TREND OF STOCK PRICES CHECKED BY HIGH CALL MONEY RATES

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—(AP)—High call money rates checked the resumption of the upward price movement in today's stock market. Despite sharp opening breaks in a few issues, the general market swung upward at the opening under the stimulus of aggressive pool operations. More than a score issues were quickly lifted 1 to nearly 6 points to new high records, with gains of a point or two scattered throughout the list.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent but banks started to call $40,000,000 in loans, sending the rate to 7 1-2 per cent and finally to 8. Traders, who had bought stocks for a turn in the brisk rally last week which carried the average of 20 leading industrial issues, compiled by the Associated Press, to a new high record for all time on Saturday, were quick to take profits on the first sign of weakness.

Early gains were cut down and a long list of popular issues sent down 3 to 4 points below Saturday's final quotations before mid-day. Buying support was quickly provided and new leaders brought forward in an effort to maintain bullish enthusiasm, with the result that the market was headed upward again by early afternoon. Selling pressure increased on the rally and prices drifted irregularly lower in the last hour of trading.

The heavy calling of loans reflected the semi-weekly strengthening of reserves, and increasing month-end requirements. Further withdrawals are expected later in the week as the banks prepare for Labor day currency demands. These are now estimated at between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 above ordinary requirements. Additional withdrawals also are likely as a result of the new clearing house regulations, effective Sept. 1, which increase the commission charge on the placing of call loans and set $100,000 as the minimum figure for such loans for outside account. Predictions of a 10 per cent call money rate this week are being made in some banking quarters.

Outside of the advance in money, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. A batch of favorable July earnings reports made their appearance during the day, with an unusually good showing by the western roads. The American Woolen Co. reported another large deficit for the first half of 1928.

Today's reaction was widely regarded as a natural correction of a weakened speculative position. Ranged behind minus signs at the close were such recent leaders as U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Chrysler, American Can, Radio, Montgomery-Ward, National Cash Register, American Smelting, Packard, Curtiss and Wright, the net losses ranging from fractions to nearly 5 points.

A few shares showed consistent strength, among them Commercial Investment Trust, Davison Chemical, Electric Auto Lite, Loose-Wiles Biscuit and Otis Elevator, all of which touched new high levels for the year. National Biscuit, National Bellas Hess, William Wrigley, U. S. Rubber and Vanadium also recorded substantial gains. Loft changed hands in enormous volume, touching a new peak at 19 3-8, or more than treble the year's low, and then easing to 18, up 1-2 net. Woolworth crossed 200 for the first time this year but was unable to maintain its gain.

Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with price changes nominal. Sterling cables ruled around $4.85 1-4.

Commodity markets were featureless, wheat rallying slightly while cotton lost ground.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

A Letter For You

I would send you, if I could,
A little corner of this wood:
A balsam tree with pale, new tips
Mottled by sunlight that drips
Slanting through close dusk; a lake
Shaped like a lily pad, I'd break
Fern fronds from shady hollows bind
A fluttering wind and send them signed
With bird's feet, moth wings, and good wishes
From porcupines and spotted fishes.

If I could I'd send to you
Silver of the foggy dew,
Lacquered gold and sunset spills
Over dark, uneven hills.
Shadow of green bough that lies
Where slow moving water tries
To pull it from the shore. I'd wrap
Morning in leaves that overlap,
Tie it with wild grape tendrils and
Let the wind put it in your hand.

But, since I can do nothing better,
I send an ordinary letter.
There is not much to tell, I write.
Swift drowsy day, cool quiet night,
A swim in clear blue water, then
Morning, gold noon, and night again.
I send my love. You cannot see
Fern gardens on a rock. Near me
A crooked path goes throught the wood.
I'd send it to you if I could!

LOUISE DRISCOLL.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

The members of the Wide-Awake circle should be interested in the following plea for the cat given by Dr. Hugh F. Dailey, chief veterinarian of the Angell Memorial Animal hospital, Boston, in a recent radio talk. In part he said as follows:

In our last broadcast I mentioned the fact that people either are extremely fond of cats or cannot tolerate them. We received many letters from those who are fond of them and a few from those who cannot tolerate them. One of the latter letters contained a pamphlet entitled, "The Menace of the Cat." In reading through this pamphlet we find the cat is blamed for upsetting nature's bird balance. We also read that the cat is unnecessary as a rodent destroyer because the various kinds of non-poisonous rat virus on the market at the present do the work effectively.

We have too much respect for the cat and know its habits too well to accept any such statement that the cat alone upsets the balance of nature insofar as birds are concerned. It is shamefully unfair to make such a sweeping statement about the cat and not include the birds of prey, the owl, hawks, and those birds not generally classed as birds of prey, such as the crows, jays, and starlings, who continually destroy the eggs and young of so many of our smaller birds. Add to this list the squirrels, snakes, skunks, raccoons, weasles and foxes; and the spraying of trees with arsenical insecticides and the resurfacing of our roads with tarry dressings. The last may seem a little far-fetched, but only last summer we had fully fifty little birds brought in during one afternoon, victims of this road dressing. They light upon the apparently sandy surface; their little feet sink through into the tar, and they are held prisoners. In their efforts to free themselves they become encased in a coating of sand and tar that causes certain death.

Now, I hope we have a better idea of what really enters into the upsetting of nature's bird balance. Divide the blame properly, and we find that the cat's share is not so great, after all. From careful, personal observation over a number of years, I have found that those birds which usually fall victims of the cat are weklings or injured birds that never would be able to again take care of themselves under the existing conditions, and if the cat didn't appear on the scene so quickly and their sufferings they would eventually die of thirst and starvation. Which do you think the more merciful? I really believe the cat is only doing what nature intended she should. In obeying the law that only the fit shall survive.

STORIES WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Fire Prevention.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time that I am writing to you on fire prevention.

On the pages of our daily newspapers we constantly read of destruction caused by innumerable fires, preventable or otherwise. Unfortunately it is to the first class that most of the people belong. Although it is not right to start a fire yourself many people are careless. Since it is this way, we shoulud explain how to stop fires.

America has great forests and she should save them from fire because now the country needs all the lumber that it can get.

We should not drop matches or burning tobacco where there is material that can be easily set on fire.

We should not build camp fires larger than necessary.

ZIGGIE NAWROCKI. Age 11. Yantic.

Visits Aviation Field.

Dear Uncle Jed: While at an aviation field last summer, I had a very interesting experience, as my sister happened to know one of the aviators.

He asked us if we would like to go around and visit the field and planes. We were, of course, very glad to have the opportunity to, and spent quite a while examining the planes and other things. After visiting the aviation school we watched the airplanes take off and land. Later we decided to take a few snapshots of the planes and ourselves before leaving. We did not go up that day although we could have, but thought we would wait until the next time, as we were both a little frightened. As it grew dark we thanked the aviator for having done this and returned home.

I consider this a very interesting experience, now that aviation is becoming such a popular topic.

THERESA AUCLAIR. Age 14. Hartford.

Lydia Huntley.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes about Lydia Huntley, who was born in Norwich, Conn., Sept. 1, 1791. Her father served in the Revolutionary war. She could read at the age of three and composed simple verses at seven. Her girlhood was a very quiet one and uneventful. She received a very good education which her neighborhood could bestow. In 1814, when 23, Miss Huntley was induced to go to a select school at Hartford. The next two years her first book was published. The name of it was, "Pieces in Prose and Verse." In the summer of 1819 Miss Huntley became the wife of Charles Siguorney. Many of her books are very interesting. She also wrote books which children like to read. In 1840 she made a tour to Europe. On returning she published another book. She was very kind and thoughtful to everybody. Hhope the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading my story and also Uncle Jed.

DORIS ARNOLD. Age 14. Norwich.

James Fenimore Cooper.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I am writing to you and the Wide Awakes. I am going to tell you about James Fenimore Cooper. He was born in Burlington, N. J., Sept. 15, 1789, the same year that George Washington was inaugurated president of the United States. His father owned many acres of land at the head of the Susquehanna river, New York. He was brought up in the wilderness. The boy was sent at the age of 16 to Yale college, where he remained three years. He was very fond of reading and often read to his wife. His first book was published in 1820. He had many friends and some of his friends were the best citizens of New York. He was very fond of children. On Sept. 14, 1852, everybody was very sad to find one of our noble poets had died. We remember him for the great books he wrote.

HOWARD ARNOLD. Age 12. Norwich.

My Turtle.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. I hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. One day my cousin and I were playing hide and seek. I was blinded and she was hiding. When time was up to find her, I saw something dart in the hedges. I looked and saw a queer object. I called my cousin and we were frightened so we called Mother. When she saw it she said it was a turtle. It had an all black back with yellow spots. We kept him for two weeks. One morning we went to feed him and found he was gone. We all felt so sorry.

RUTH E. KILROW. Age 8. Norwich.

The Comedy Kids Revue

Dear Uncle Jed: I am spending the summer with my aunt who lives in Connecticut. My cousin and I are planning to have a show in my uncle's barn. We made up a song which we named "The Lollypop Song." I have danced on the stage ever since I was four years old, and so I am the manager of the show and arrange all the dances.

We make most of the costumes ourselves besides those I have. We are having a tap dance together and a few songs and dances. We took the tune for our opening song from the "Happiness Boys" who sing on the radio, but we are not using the same words. We intend to take the victrola down to the barn.

Billy, that's my cousin, and I are going to make tickets for the people in the village. If we are allowed we are going to charge ten cents admission and have a party out of the money. We are going to name the show "The Comedy Kids Revue," because my uncle made up that name for us. He always calls us "The Comedy Kids."

I hope our show will be a success and I suppose Billy does, too.

Gypsy Day

Dear Uncle Jed: I wonder if you and the Wide-Awakes know about some of the doings of the Y. W. C. A.? I am going to tell you about one of the many good times I had while I lived in New Bedford.

For several weeks we, the "Happy Girl Reserves" of the Y. W. C. A., had planned a holiday. We decided to call it "Gypsy day" and dress as such do. Therefore, we each got up a costume and told no one what it was like. It was to be on a Saturday. Friday evening we all went to bed full of anticipation. Alas for all our plans! It rained, and rained incessantly. We all gathered at the usual club meeting place, dressed in our costumes. Fortunately, we all brought our lunches, so when, at 11 o'clock, it cleared up, we set out on foot for the center Y. W. C. A. We were supposed to go camping for the day, but we decided to try to make the best of it as it happened. We divided into two groups, each group taking a different route. A truck driver gave the group I was in a lift, so we got there ahead of the others. We played all sorts of games, and when the sun came out we ran relays in the courtyard. We also ate our lunches there. On our way home we had a "treasure hunt." The girl who found the treasure passed it around and we sat down in a nearby park to eat it. The treasure was candy. We then separated for home. We were tired but "Happy Girl Reserves."

GERTRUDE GARASIN Age 14. Jewett City.

The End of a Perfect Day

Dear Uncle Jed: As my birthday was approaching, I asked my mother if I could have a birthday party. She consented, so my cousin and I got busy doing the inviting.

The day of my birthday was fair and everyone whom I invited came. We had a very good time, and the time to go home came much too soon. Two of my friends asked my cousin and I to walk home with them. My mother said we could if we came home before dark. When we reached my friend's house we started to play games, and as the shades were pulled down we were so interested in playing games, that we did not realize how dark it was getting.

When we finally were ready to go home, it was very late and we had about two and a half miles to walk in the pitch darkness. We had walked about a quarter of a mile when we saw some white objects a short distance in front of us. We became very frightened and were imagining all sorts of things, so we turned back and ran. We heard an automobile in back of us and when it reached us it was my father. He was very angry and told us that the next time he would make us walk all the way home alone and scold us when we arrived. He said that if it wasn't my birthday he would have punished us.

JEWETT CITY

GURDON CARY'S OLD VIOLIN RECALLS EXCITING INCIDENT

There has been recent inquiry here about the old time fiddle, once owned by Gurdon Cady, now the property of Frank Cady Whiting, proprietor of the Elms greenhouses. There seemed some hope that another Strad, had been located. Mr. Cady's violin and his unusual personality served to recall an interesting story.

Fifty years ago steamer City of Lawrence, left the Norwich docks, on a people's excursion to Newport, crowded to the gunwales. Including in the passengers were close to 100 from Jewett City.

There had been a severe easterly storm, which brought in a long ocean swell off Point Judith. On the return trip, when the shift of helm was made off the lighthouse, to straighten out for the westerly run toward the mouth of the Thames it looked as if unless the vessel could be kept trimmed and on even keel, that disaster was certain. As the great swell lifted the ship and she rolled away down until it seemed there would be no righting, naturally the crowds rushed over to the other side, and so back and forth.

Captain Gear came out and vainly tried to control the situation. On the lower deck Gurdon Cady was directing the dancing and for an hour, kept 100 couples from rushing from side to side. Even when the danger was most threatening, his "Balance your partners" and "giving you corners," could be heard above the din aboard the straining vessel. Another steamer, the Metus, plainly in sight, far astern of the Lawrence, foundered and sank with all on board. The City of Lawrence lived to lay her bones on the ledges off Eastern Point. Official testimonials of praise were sent Mr. Cady for his efficient action, "under fire," when he and his violin became such important factors for public safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bissonette, 70 Norwich avenue, Norwich, gave a surprise shower Saturday evening in honor of Miss Florestine Richotte and William Maynard of Jewett City, in anticipation of their marriage. Gifts of linen, cut glass, silver, china and many other articles were received. Sandwiches, cake, fancy cookies, candy, ice cream, coffee and root beer were served by Mrs. Bissonette. The dining room was decorated in pink and white by the hostess and Miss Lanoir and Mrs. Derrick. Guests were present from Jewett City, Norwich, Springfield, Central Falls, and Berkley, R. I. and included: Mr. and Mrs. Michael LaChappelle, Miss Laura LaChappelle, Mr. and Mrs. Dona Jodoin, Charlie Maynard, Miss Eva Rail, Miss Albina Bissonette, Ovida Bissonette, Antoinette Poulin, Mrs. Joseph Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Filteau, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Derrick, Walter Derrick, Miss Loretta Arel, Miss Loretta Lanoir, Daniel Welton, Mr. and Mrs. Hazard Cremony, Miss Cecil Sarasin.

An automobile driven by Herbert Cale of Ocean beach, tipped over on the Lisbon bridge between Jewett City and Sylvandale Saturday evening. As it went over it struck the machine driven by Dona Dugas, of Palmer avenue, Jewett City. Both fenders on the Dugas machine were smashed, and the body of the Cale car was a wreck. The latter was going south and as the driver went onto the bridge it struck the iron side, which caused the upset. Officer Vegiard investigated but made no arrest. Another upset on Branch Hill in Lisbon occurred, but when a local man went to tow in the machine it had disappeared.

NEW LONDON GIRL BADLY BITTEN WHEN SET UPON BY THREE DOGS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 27—Anna Attinelli, about 7, residing with her parents on Connecticut avenue, was bitten by three dogs this evening and it is barely possible that the animals are suffering from rabies. The matter is being investigated by Dog Warden John Sweezy. The child was playing near her home when she was attacked by one dog, being knocked down. Two other dogs immediately appeared and joined the first in attacking the child, the three animals biting the girl on the face and body. Neighbors who were attracted by the child's screams went to her assistance and beat off the animals. The police were notified and Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey went to Connecticut avenue to try to learn the owners of the dogs. The child was taken by her mother to the office of a physician where the wounds were dressed, after which she was taken home. Later it was found that the dogs are owned by Fred Egger, 127 Connecticut avenue. They were taken in charge by Dog Warden Sweezy, who will hold them under leash for a few days before destroying them and sending the heads to Hartford, where they will be examined for rabies.

The annual dance of the stage hands of the Capitol, Crown and Garde theatres was held this evening at Ocean Beach and was attended by a large gathering of young people.

Patrolman Edward Riordan today reported the existence of two holes in the sidewalk on the southerly side of Huntington street and in front of the convent of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the holes being of sufficient size to create an element of danger. The defective sidewalk was reported to the highway department.

James Taylor, about 56, a laborer residing at 42 Potter street, was arrested this morning, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He was released this afternoon upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $5.

S. A. Welt, Thames street, Groton, proprietor of a market, had the experience of a hold-up Saturday night, but the thugs who attacked Welt did not obtain any money for they were scared away. After closing the market, Welt drove to his garage on Granite street, and while seated in the auto two young men, who were standing near the garage driveway as the car entered it, approached Welt and demanded a bag of money, the day's receipts. One of the men struck Welt a blow on the head with a blunt instrument, but Welt was able to call for help and the would-be robbers escaped in the darkness.

Vincent Dillon, sailor on Henry Plant's yacht Clytie, at anchor in the lower harbor, was in the Groton town court today and was fined $5 and costs, the latter amounting to $11.55, but $5 of the latter was ordered remitted by the court. Dillon was complained against by Ira Perkins, aged resident who said that Dillon in doing gymnastics from an awning had kicked Perkins, badly bruising him.

Charles E. Hagberg, 22, of Norwich, was presented on two counts of violation of the automobile law in driving without a license and speeding. On the former charge a fine of $3 was imposed and on the latter a fine of $10 was meted out with costs of about $17 annexed. Hagberg was arrested Saturday on Thames street by state police.

STONINGTON CLUB MEMBERS ROBBED BY HOLD-UP MEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 27—Saturday night while about 40 men and women were feasting and dancing at Stone Ridge Country club, Stonington, gunmen entered the fashionable club and at the point of a revolver relieved the patrons of their money and jewelry, as well as taking the receipts of the night's business. The bandits undoubtedly believed that a larger number of patrons would be found there, especially so because of the night, and had such been the case much more loot would have been obtained. As it is, probably the loss of the club management and the guests will not exceed $10,000. A peculiar feature of the hold-up is that the state police, Groton barracks, were not informed of the robbery, for the first knowledge officers at the barracks had was when newspaper reporters made inquiry as to what clues had been obtained.

The crooks went to the clubhouse shortly before midnight. Four of the gang entered, an easy matter, for the four were believed to be guests, while others remained outside. The gangsters who entered had mingled with the throng but a few minutes when two of their number stationed themselves at the entrances and one gunman ordered the men and women to relieve themselves of their valuables. There was no alternative but to comply with the order for with the display of revolvers the diversion seekers were awed and with two of the gang passing among the crowd, money and jewelry, the latter including watches, diamonds, bracelets and necklaces, were taken as fast as the owners took them from their persons. The gangsters then hastily retreated and going to two automobiles waiting with engines running, the gang sped away in the darkness. The gangsters had little or no difficulty in making their escape for before entrance was made to the club the gunmen made sure that they would not be followed for every automobile on the clubhouse grounds was visited and either the ignition smashed or the steering wheel disabled, so that none of the cars could be operated. The women, in a few instances, were highly nervous as their jewelry was taken but the nervousness disappeared with the exit of the robbers. One woman saved a diamond ring by placing the jewel in her mouth, her act not being observed by the crooks.

The club is one of the most exclusive in New England and it is not unusual to find 200 or 300 guests there on a Saturday night.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

The cast, in order of their appearance:

Those persons who were fortunate enough to be present last night at the Broadway theatre to see "Spooks" as presented by The Garrick Players were indeed pleased and most agreeably surprised at the splendid manner in which these capable actors and actresses portrayed their difficult roles. Their work was all that could be desired—each member giving a careful studied interpretation of their unusual portrayals that were called forth in this hair-raising production.

"Spooks" is a play that will make you hang tight to your chair. It certainly had that effect on me. It will make you forget all other thrillers, no matter how much you liked them, no matter how they sent cold waves up and down your spinal column and no matter how much they have made you laugh.

Right after the matinee today, Miss Sally Wall will act as hostess at a tea party given to all ladies who attend the performance. Every one is cordially invited to come up on the stage after the last act to partake of a drink and to talk with the actors and actresses, who will also be members of the party.

East Haddam Fair.

The weekly meeting of the East Haddam Grange Fair association was held at the grange hall recently with the usual enthusiasm for the coming fair and bazaar to be held Thursday afternoon and evening, August 30th, and Friday and Saturday evenings, August 31 and September 1st.

Judging from the reports of the various committees, this affair promises to outdo all previous ones, not only as to size but in all other details. The association has spared either effort nor expense to live up to their slogan, "Each fair better than the last," as well as to justify their claim of Connecticut's most popular fair.

In addition to numerous interesting and educational exhibits for which the East Haddam fair is already noted, the committee have provided a vaudeville entertainment, composed of real headliners, that should make Broadway jealous. In view of the many requests from those who attended last year's fair, the committee have also provided boxing bouts to be held on Thursday evening.

Realizing the pleasure all take in listening to both the Moodus and Chester Drum and Fife corps, these organizations have been invited to play at the bazaar on Firday evening, Aug. 31st. And so that there may be diversification, dancing will be specially featured on Saturday evening.

Fair day has always been East Haddam's Old Home day when the best opportunity is had of meeting all old friends. So that all may have a chance to attend, the association has this year decided to operate a fair and bazaar for one day and three evenings, instead of one day and evening as heretofore.

General enthusiasm has been so great, the mills in Moodus will be closed on August 30th so that their employes might have an opportunity to attend the day as well as the evening sessions.

Strand Theatre.

Showing for last times today, The Heart of Broadway and Tex Maynard in The Driftin Kid. Also the last opportunity to see the first episode of Scotty of the Scouts.

Coming tomorrow and Thursday, "The Wilderness Woman," featuring Aileen Pringle, Lowell Sherman and Chester Conklin. It is an adaptation of Arthur Stringer's celebrated serial-novel which ran recently in the Saturday Evening Post.

The story is about an Alaskan miner and his daughter who strike it rich and come to New York to spend some of their gains. Miss Pringle, who plays the part of the daughter, garbs herself in mail-order house styles of the year 1903.

In addition to knowing nothing of the conventions of the Big City, Miss Pringle is woefully ignorant of the sort of pets that are permitted to roam the streets. She brings with her from the frozen fields of Alaska her grizzly bear cub Skeemo.

Lowell Sherman also appears in a role that is, for him, unusual. This is in the character of the hero. Mr. Sherman's previous film types have almost always been "heavies."

Chester Conklin, the comic with the walrus mustache, augments this celebrated facial appendage with a home-grown beard in "The Wilderness Woman." Others in the cast are Robert Cain, Henry Vibart, Harriet Sterling and Burr McIntosh.

Howard Higgin directed the production.

WEDDING

Gagnon-Lafond

Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, pastor of Sacred Heart church united in marriage at a nuptial high mass, William Gagnon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gagnon of Moosup, and Miss Delvina Lafond, daughter of Mrs. Georgianna Lafond and the late William Lafond of Providence street. The church was filled with friends and relatives of the young couple, many coming from Jewett City, Plainfield, Moosup, Providence and Worcester, and the altar was decorated attractively with late summer flowers. The wedding march was played by Miss Beatrice Gadbois who also played the music of the mass, and at the offertory there were solos by Rev Omer T Mandler and Omer Tellier.

The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with Spanish lace. Her veil of tulle was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white bride's roses with a shower of lilies-of-the-valley. A reception at the home of the bride's mother on Providence street followed the church ceremony and was attended by many. Gifts included money, linen, silver and household furniture.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Gagnon left on a wedding trip to Philadelphia and Baltimore and upon their return they are to reside in Moosup where the groom is employed as a woolen weaver. Both bride and groom are popular among the younger set, and Mrs. Gagnon was the honored guest at a number of affairs preceding her marriage. Among these was a miscellaneous shower tendered her Friday evening when her friends gathered at her home on Providence street.

An address conveying to the bride-elect the wishes of the company was read by Mrs. Arthur Lafond and was applauded by those assembled. The bride-to-be was showered with numerous, beautiful gifts. Miss Gagnon and Miss Potvin of Moosup, played piano solos and Mrs. Paul Beaudoin of Worcester, the Misses Belanger and Miss Eva Lebreque gave vocal solos. Miss Bernie Lafond entertained with exhibition dancing.

Refreshments consisting of cake, cookies, ice cream and soda were served by Miss Lafond assisted by Miss Gagnon of Moosup, Miss Bertha Beaudoin, Miss Alma Paquette and Mrs. Arthur Dufour. The party broke up at a late hour wishing the bride-elect much joy and prosperity in her new life.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF TOWN NAME DELEGATES TO FOUR CONVENTIONS

The republican voters of the town of Norwich at a caucus in the town hall Monday evening elected delegates to the republican state convention in New Haven, next month, the congressional convention, senatorial convention and probate convention. There were no contests and harmony prevailed throughout the caucus which was called to order at 8 o'clock, standard time by George M. Charbonneau, chairman of the republican town committe. Mr. Charbonneau called for the selection of a caucus chairman and on motion of William S. Murray, Attorney Charles L. Stewart was elected chairman. After thanking the caucus for the honor conferred on him, Mr. Stewart emphasized the fact that important and weighty issues are confronting the voters. It behooves us to select delegates who will represent us fairly, he said. Mr. Stewart asked for the selection of a clerk for the caucus and on motion of Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, Henry Kliecolt was selected. After the clerk had read the warning, Mr. Stewart called for nominations for delegates to the various conventions and the delegates were named as follows:

J. B. MARTIN FIRE BRIGADE HAS 3RD ANNUAL OUTING

The third annual outing of the J. B. Martin Co. fire brigade was held at Billings Lake, Glasgo, Sunday. This brigade is composed of employes of the three local plants who assemble once each year to enjoy a clambake and field day.

The morning was taken up with special fire-fighting events and the judges had a difficult time deciding which company carried off the honors. These events showed the careful training which the men had gone through in preparing for this field day.

Promptly at 12 o'clock a delicious clam chowder was served, after which a number of addresses were made. R. Thoma received hearty applause when he delivered a well prepared talk on "The Duties of a Fireman." This part of the program ended with the singing of popular songs with "Bill" Shaw as song leader.

Swimming races, boat and canoe races and other water events took up the time during the afternoon. Nearly all the members of the brigade took part in these events and suitable prizes were awarded to the winners.

At 6 o'clock a fine old Rhode Island clambake was served by "Chief" Benoit. The menu was as follows: Baked blue fish, white potatoes, sliced tomatoes, sliced cucumbers, sweet potatoes, green corn on cob, lettuce, baked chicken, baked sausage, clam fritters, brown bread, steamed clams, sliced watermelon, soda water, cigars, cigarettes. During the serving of the bake, music was furnished by Prof. Herrmann with W. H. Stebbins as song leader.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the "all out" was sounded and orders given to pick up. In quick time all equipment was loaded and the 50 firemen climbed aboard their apparatus and headed for home stations.

The committee who arranged the outing consisted of Richard Krauss, chairman; John Hill, secretary; William Morton, William Zeiz and William Deardon. The chairman of the athletic committee was George Krauss.

BACKDRAFT FILLED FRANKLIN ST. STORE WITH SMOKE

Monday evening at 8:08 o'clock the fire department received and answered a telephone call for a supposed fire in the American Radiator store, Eldon F. Trion, manager, at No. 110 Franklin street. There was no fire but the store was filled with smoke, caused by a back draft. Some paper had been burned in the heater, and as the door at the bottom of the chimney was open, the backdraft filled the store with smoke. Officer Howard Coburn discovered the store filled with smoke and sent in the call to the department.

FRESH AIR CHILDREN LEAVE WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AT WEDNESDAY AT 2:10 P. M., D. S. T.

H. D. Larrabee, president of the Norwich chamber of commerce, has received word from the New York-Herald Tribune fresh air fund that the 78 fresh-air children entertained by Norwich citizens in their homes since August 15th, will return to New York on the Central Vermont railroad on Wednesday, Aug. 29th at 2:10, daylight saving time.

The escort of the New York Herald-Tribune fresh air fund will arrive in Norwich this (Tuesday) evening, so as to make all preparations and arrangements for the return of the children.

The chamber of commerce has received many gratifying reports from the hosts who took the children into their homes. In practically all cases Norwich people did all in their power to make it pleasant for the children and the effect of their kindness is plainly visible in the appearance of the little guests. Most of the children were generously provided with new shoes, dresses, bathing suits and other wearing apparel, affording great pleasure to both children and hosts.

The Norwich chamber of commerce herewith requests the people who are entertaining the fresh air children to be sure to return them to the Central Vermont railroad station in Norwich on Wednesday, Aug. 29th, not later than 1:45 p. m. (daylight saving time). The children leave at 2:10 d. s. t., but they have to be checked on the chamber of commerce list so as to make sure that all children are accounted for. All arrangements for the return of the children by the Norwich chamber of commerce is handled by Miss Mary E. Bundy, secretary of the merchants' bureau. All communications regarding the return of children should be addressed to Norwich chamber of commerce or by telephone, number 2889.

CHAS. EUSTIS HUBBARD DIES AT SON'S IN ANTWERP

An annual summer visitor in Norwich, cousin of the late Judge Gardiner Greene, and of the members of the McCurdy family, of Norwich Town, Charles Eustis Hubbard, 86, director of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, died in Antwerp, Belgium, Friday, according to word reaching New York Saturday. Mr. Hubbard had gone to Belgium to visit his son, Gardiner Greene Hubbard, who resides in Antwerp. About Aug. 1 he went for an automobile drive with his son's wife. The car skidded into a ditch throwing Mr. Hubbard forward and straining his neck, resulting in paralysis through an injury to a nerve in the spine. Pneumonia later developed, causing death. Burial will be in Belgium.

Mr. Hubabrd was born Aug. 7, 1842, the son of Samuel Hubbard, justice of the supreme court of Massachusetts and of Mary, daughter of Gardiner Greene of Boston. He was the youngest brother of the late Gardiner Greene Hubbard. He was graduated from Yale in 1862 and then served for nine months in the Civil war as corporal of Company A, Forty-fifth Massachusetts Volunteers. He was graduated from Harvard Law school in 1865 and in 1872 married Miss Caroline Bennet Tracy of Boston. They had two sons, Gardiner Hubbard, of Antwerp, and F. Tracy Hubbard of Boston. Mr. Hubbard practiced as an attorney in Boston and served as trustee of a number of estates.

Mr. Hubbard was an uncle of the late Mrs. Bell, wife of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, and with him passes, probably, the last link between the original telephone promoters and the present day system. Mr. Hubbard's brother, Gardiner Greene, was interested in the telephone with Dr. Bell and formed an organization for its development in 1877. Charles Eustis Hubbard became the first secretary and clerk of the organization. At this time his brother, Gardiner Greene gave him ten shares of the first issue of telephone stock out of the 30 per cent which was his portion. At the time of his death Mr. Hubbard was the dean of directors on the board of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. He was a director of the various central or parent telephone organizations from 1878 to his death.

His daughter-in-law, Mrs. F. Tracy Hubbard, who is at Shediac Cape, N. B., was notified Saturday of Mr. Hubbard's death.

RECKLESS DRIVING CASE CONTINUED TO SEPT. 10TH

A continuance was granted to Sept. 10th in the case of Morris Kaminsky, 20, of Colchester, driver of the automobile which struck and injured Mrs. Rose Dombrowski of Thamesville Saturday evening, by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Monday morning. The accused, charged with reckless driving, was released on a $200 bond. The case was continued owing to the fact that Mrs. Dombrowski is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital suffering from two broken ribs and an injury to her head.

Kaminsky was arrested by Constable Lucius A. Fenton of Norwich Town after an investigation of the accident at the city line in Thamesville. The accused was driving his automobile from New London to Norwich, it is alleged, and struck the woman on the right hand side of the highway, where she was walking. Kaminski claimed that the lights of an approaching machine blinded his vision. The Kaminski woman was taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

SIX BODIES TAKEN FROM WRECKAGE OF BUILDINGS

Three Buildings Collapsed in the Business District of Shelby, N. C.—Twelve Persons Are Known to Have Been Injured—Excavations Under One of the Buildings Are Thought to Have Caused the Collapse.

SHELBY, N. C., Aug. 28—(AP)—Six bodies had been recovered tonight from the wreckage of three buildings that collapsed today in the business district of the town. Twelve persons were known to have been injured, some of them seriously, and other bodies may be in the debris.

The known dead:

Miss Ora Eskridge, Guy Green and Alex Hoyle, employes of the First National bank, one of the buildings that gave way; Zeb Blanton and his son, Carl, farmers who were customers at the bank, and Clyde Carpenter.

Among the injured were George Blanton, acting vice-president of the bank, who was bruised and cut about the head and body; Clarence Mull, broken arm and leg, and Margaret Callahan, legs crushed and probably internal injuries.

Excavations under the Hadley tailor shop were thought to have caused the collapse. Seventeen men were said to have comprised the crew at work. Five of these were brought out alive, two unhurt, and the others have not been accounted for. The other building that gave way was the Goode Grocery Co., next to the bank and tailor shop. All were two-story brick structures.

Most of those killed or injured were in the bank building, a temporary structure.

FEMINISTS JAILED FOR UNCONVENTICAL CONDUCT

RAMBOUILLET, France, Aug. 28—(AP)—Doris Stevens, American feminist leader, at the head of a group of eight women put unexpected color into a lunch given by President Doumergue to Secretary of State Kellogg and other signers of the Kellogg-Briand pact today by trying to make her way into the presence of the president in behalf of the equal rights cause.

Miss Stevens herself and three of her colleagues lunched on sandwiches, beer and mineral water at the police station having been conducted there with some vigor by officers attached to the presidency because two of them, Miss Stevens and Mrs Loring Pickering had left their identity cards at home. Betty Gram Swing, of Portland, Ore., and the wife of an English correspondent, an ardent sympathizer, was taken along because she refused to move on when ordered. The fourth woman to throw in her lot with the Americans was Fanny Bunand, a French agitator for women's rights.

The women were released about half past three o'clock after all President Doumergue's guests had gone. They went back to Paris. Secretary Kellogg and Ambassador Herrick as well as others of the president's guests were unaware of the incident.

Recent rebel defeats along the Coco river and the capture of Rivera's brother by the patrol of Captain Merritt A. Edson, is believed to have caused the surrender.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—(AP)—Two couples, children of wealthy parents, clung to the keel of an overturned sloop in Lake Michigan for 11 hours last night. Then one of them, a sophomore of Cornell university, slipped away to his death in an effort to save the others.

Two more hours went by and one of the girls started to swim for shore, three miles away. She swam for an hour, in circles, and coast guards rescued her, blue with cold blind from the sun, and delirious. In turn they rescued the remaining couple.

The boy who drowned was Fred Rummler, 21, son of Eugene A. Rummler, a patent attorney. His companions, when they could talk, said he died to save them. The girl who tried to swim ashore is Marjorie Prince Oleson, 17, daughter of John P. Oleson, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago.

The other couple was Shirley Conlee, 18, daughter of George P. Conlee, a broker, and Harold Tarrant, 20, son of J. H. Tarrant, meat dealer. Miss Conlee is a resident of Kenilworth. The others homes are in Winnetka. All had been childhood playmates and friends through New Trier high school.

Four Men Shot Dead; Another Wounded

The De[redacted]an Insanely Jealo[redacted] and at Sacramen[redacted]

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 28—(AP)—[redacted] insane jealousy of a man whose estranged wife was attentive to another man stood today as the motive for the shooting to death of four men and wounding of a fith here last night. The police held Percy T. Barnes, railroad employe, as the slayer, and L. R. Coburn because Barnes named him as an alleged accomplice.

The dead men who fell before the pistol of the slayer during a frenzied two hour period of shooting were:

Charles O. Curtis, brother-in-law of Barnes.

Charles Klein, also a brother-in-law of Barnes.

Clarence Muncy, whom police said intended marrying Barnes' wife following divorce proceedings.

The wounded man was M. H. Larkin, president of a Sacramento transportation company. He encountered the slayer on a highway leading out of the city and was shot when he took Klein, mortally wounded toward a hospital.

Authorities said Barnes alone was responsible for all the shooting that Coburn had nothing to do with it. Barnes told officers that he and Coburn "worked together."

Held in jail with Barnes was the latter's wife, Mrs. Delia Barnes and their daughter Beverley, 4. Mrs. Barnes declared her husband's jealousy of her alleged attentions to Muncy was the cause of the whole affair.

Muncy was first to be reported shot. Before he died, Muncy told police that Barnes went to his wife's home, called him to the porch and shot him. Barnes was next seen at Curtis' home and the visit resulted in the shooting to death of Charles Curtis. Gearhart's body was found with a bullet wound in the head, lying in the street near the state fairgrounds. Klein had been shot before Larkin found him on the Freeport road, and as Larkin picked him up, a man identified as Barnes stepped up and shot Larkin through the shoulder.

BLASPHEMY WARRANT HAS BEEN RECALLED

BOSTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—A prosecution for blasphemy, the second in more than a century under an ancient Massachusetts statute, was halted today when Judge Murray in municipal court recalled a warrant in which Dr. Horace M. Kallen, philosopher and former Harvard lecturer, was charged with the offense.

The action of the judge was taken after a conference attended by representatives of the Boston police and others interested in the case. The warrant was based on a speech delivered by Dr. Kallen at a Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting last Thursday in which he said: "If Sacco and Vanzetti were anarchists, Jesus Christ was an anarchist." It was announced that the warrant had ben recalled pending a further study of the statute in relation to the words complained of, but the general view in police circles was that no further action would be taken.

JOHNSON LEADING IN CALIFORNIA PRIMARY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28—(AP)—The first widely scattered returns in California's primary election today showed United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson leading his four opponents by a wide margin. Senator Johnson sought the republican nomination for his third six-year term in the senate, where he has held a seat since 1916.

In the contested congressional fight in the eighth district, Representative Arthur M. Free of San Jose had a commanding lead in early returns over Mrs. Cecilia Casserby, of San Mateo, who was contesting with him for both the democratic and republican nominations.

Returns from 15 of the state's 9,092 precincts gave Johnson 3,598; Charles H. Randall (R) on prohibition ticket) 60; Minor Moore (D) 597; Wiley J. Phillips (pro) 68.

Coolidge To Reduce Fed. Expenditures

Will Endeavor to Offset Estimated Treasury Deficit of $94,000,000.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 28—(AP)—Faced with an estimated treasury deficit of $94,000,000 at the end of the current fiscal year, President Coolidge will take stringent measures to reduce government expenditures during the remainder of his administration even further than they already have been.

Upon returning to Washington about the middle of next month, the chief executive intends to consult immediately with his cabinet officers and heads of independent government bureaus to determine how expenditures may be curtailed even below what was allowed them in the budget.

Mr. Coolidge will keep the estimated deficit in mind in compiling the budget for the fiscal year 1930.

Turning from consideration of the deficit, President Coolidge was cheered today by reports from Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas and former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin who said that Herbert Hoover was daily increasing in popularity with the electorate while Gov. Alfred Smith was vainly trying to retain what electoral prestige he already had. Secretary West of the interior department, who had been an overnight guest at the summer white house, concurred in these views.

MAN DROWNED WHEN THE STEAMER CHAPIN SANK TUG

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—One man was drowned today in the sinking of a tug by the Providence line passenger steamer Chester W. Chapin in Hell Gate off Ditmar's cove, Astoria.

The drowned man was Antonio Recuso, an Argentine fireman on the tug. The seven other members of the tug's crew were saved by a motor launch.

The steamer, in-bound from Providence with 250 passengers, struck the tug Volunteer amidships, cutting it almost in half. The boat sank in a few minutes. In the confusion the Chester W Chapin drifted onto a reef. A 15 foot hole was torn in the vessel's starboard side above the waterline.

The sound steamer was pulled from the reef in an hour by two tugs and reached her dock nearly two hours late. Most of the passengers were asleep at the time of the crash. There was no panic, according to the captain, Thomas W. Rowland.

The tug, in command of Captain Charles A. Redfield, was bound for Whitestone Landing, Queens, with two empty lighters in tow. Both captains said they had seen the other before the crash. The tug answered the steamer's signal, according to Captain Rowland.

A strong tide flowing at the time was believed to have caught the tug and swung the light vessel directly in the steamer's path. The steamer is owned by the New England Steamship company. The tug was owned by the Goodwin-Gallagher Sand and Gravel corporation.

CURTIS PROMISES SOLUTION OF AGRICULTURAL PROBLEM

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug 28—(AP)—Promising an early solution of the agricultural problem, Senator Curtis, the republican vice presidential nominee today called for the election of Herbert Hoover and of a republican congress "to assure adequate tariff revision."

The senator spoke at the New York state fair. It was home and farm bureau day and farmers and their families seemed to predominate the crowd standing under the hot sun before the band stand from which he spoke for almost an hour.

The address was devoted almost entirely to a discussion of republican efforts on behalf of agriculture during a past and a comparison of the party's record with that of the democrats. When Senator Curtis mentioned the name of Herbert Hoover, the "back yard" of Governor Smith, the democratic presidential nominee, rang with cheers. Thursday the governor will speak from the same stand.

The republican nominee again urged non-partisan disposition of the agriculture problem. He recalled that both presidential candidates had proposed to call conferences to seek a solution. If these fail, Curtis suggested that his proposition for appointment of a small joint congressional commission be given a trial. He believed an organization of an interstate cooperative marketing plans offered one hope.

UNABLE TO LOCATE MISSING PLANE AND TWO AIR SERVICE OFFICIALS

CURTIS FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 27—(AP)—M. M. Merrill, diminutive boss of the Curtiss Flying Service who has been quick in the past to offer sympathy and aid when other fliers disappeared, was himself missing today.

He and Edwin Ronne, manager of the Buffalo airport, left that upstate city at 4 p. m. yesterday to fly an orange Curtis Falcon belonging to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to New York but they failed to arrive.

A plane passed high and fast over Haskinville at 4.30. A plane appeared 300 feet above Ithaca after dusk, circling as though to land and then disappearing in the murk. A plane was heard roaring over Curtiss field, clouded in heavy mist, and onward toward the sea late at night—but whether any of these planes was the one in which Merrill and Ronne rode the skies could not be determined.

Most fliers leaned to the theory that a forced landing had been necessitated by engine trouble. The plane had been left at Buffalo when Lindbergh burned out a bearing in the motor and repairs had since been made.

When it became apparent that something had happened to the fliers "Casey" Jones, veteran flier and president of the Curtiss Flying Service, set up search headquarters. State troopers were appealed to for aid, telephone and telegraph wires were crowded with inquiries to all possible points along the route all pilots were called in to reserve duty and by noon almost half a hundred planes from Curtiss and Mitchel fields were held in readiness to begin a wholesale search from the skies.

Both Merrill and Ronne were army aviation instructors during the war, with lieutenants commissions. Since then they have been in commercial flying.

After an hour in the air this afternoon Capt. Fred Becker returned to the field and reported that the flying ceiling was so low because of the fog that a search from the air was impossible today. On the strength of this report the other waiting planes were wheeled into their hangars and the air search was postponed until tomorrow morning.

LUNCHEON FOR SIGNERS OF KELLOGG PEACE PACT

President Doumergue of France Gave Closing Social Event in Honor of the Visiting Statesmen—Secretary Kellogg Occupied the Place of Honor—The City of Paris Held Its Great Reception For the Statesmen Yesterday Afternoon—Today Secretary Kellogg Will Leave For Ireland.

PARIS, Aug. 28—(AP)—A strenuous day, varied between old world social functions and the latest thing in new world photography led Secretary of State Kellogg to retire early tonight on the eve of his departure for Ireland tomorrow.

Mr. Kellogg arose at an early hour, lunched with President Doumergue at the historic old state castle at Rambouillet, attended a reception at the city hall in the afternoon and later posed for the color and talking movies.

The president's luncheon for the signers of the Kellogg-Briand outlawry of war pact culminated the social events given in honor of the visiting statesmen. The signers, except Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany, who departed for Baden Baden at noon and was represented by Ambassador Von Hoesch, drove down to Rambouillet in automobiles along a highway closely patrolled by gendarmes.

Beco de Fouquieres, chief of the presidential protocol, received the guests in the courtyard of the chateau and introduced them into the Marie Antoinette salon where President Doumergue was waiting to greet them.

Secretary Kellogg occupied the place of honor at M. Doumergue's right in the beautiful Rambouillet dining room, hung with a series of priceless Gobelin tapestries depicting Louis XIV in hunting scenes. At the president's left sat Foreign Minister Paul Hymans of Belgium, and next to him the American ambassador, Myron T Herrick, Premier Poincare was seated.

All members of the ministry present in Paris attended the luncheon together with the diplomatic representatives of the signatory countries. The table was decorated with simple field flowers instead of exotic blossoms.

The city of Paris held its great reception for the statesmen this afternoon, with the city hall decorated with flags and Republican guards in full uniform presenting arms. Mr. Kellogg and M. Briand were cheered to the echo by a huge crowd larger even than that which yesterday waited patiently at the Quai D'Orsay while the treaty was being signed. All the visiting statesmen inscribed their names in the city's Golden Book.

Police precautions, although discreet, continue rigorous despite the absence of any disagreeable incident. A commissary of police is continually on duty at the embassy, which is guarded night and day by ten policemen posted in its immediate neighborhood.

Mr. Kellogg will leave early tomorrow morning for Le Havre where he will board the cruiser Detroit en route to Ireland.

LABOR MEN CHEERED THE NAME OF GOVERNOR SMITH

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 28—(AP)—Delegates to the 55th annual convention of the New York state Federation of Labor today wildly cheered the mention of the name of Governor Alfred E. Smith, although the federation professes to be non-partisan in the coming presidential campaign.

William Greene, president of the American Federation of Labor, referred to the democratic presidential nominee as "a great outstanding figure" and the 500 delegates, representing more than 850,000 organized workers came to their feet and shouted, stamped and clapped for two minutes.

New York Green said, has been fortunate in having had a "governor who was in sympathy with the social justice legislative program and who aided labor in securing its passing." He added that the governor's utterances on the use of injunction in labor disputes in his acceptance speech had "made a deep impression on the minds of working men and women."

U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, told the convention that "the time has arrived for labor to contribute to the frame of economic policy and to assume responsibility with the employer for its successful application."

Green's address dealt principally with the six hour day and the five day week.

HOOVER ARRANGES FOR SERIES OF CONFERENCES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—Diverting his attention for the moment to smoothing out internal tangles that have arisen in the republican organization during his six weeks' absence from Washington, Herbert Hoover today deferred until late in the week his contemplated study of the eastern political situation.

Early in the day he called to his "S" street home Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the national committee, and other headquarters officials with whom he had a lengthy conference. From these he developed views as to how the party machinery can be made to function more smoothly and at an accelerated pace.

These conferences were in line with the purpose of the republican presidential candidate to keep his finger on the pulse of the organization at all times. In carrying forward this policy, he will confer tomorrow with party officials whose duties keep them in various parts of the country most of the time.

These conferences will have to do with financial affairs local organization work and the speaking campaign. J. R. Nutt, of Cleveland national treasurer and Jeremiah Millbank of New York, eastern treasurer, will discuss finances, reporting progress and making suggestions.

His conferences with the financial workers of the campaign completed, he will immediately begin the work of mapping out his own program for the two months ahead. Representative Walter F. Newton, chairman of the national speakers' bureau, James W. Good, western manager and Representative John Q. Tilson, director of the eastern speakers bureau, will join him tomorrow for a series of conferences out of which will evolve the personal itinerary of the nominee.

NOMINEE SMITH'S PLANS STILL IN THE MAKING

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—As he shapes up plans for his presidential campaign stumping Gov. Smith is keeping in mind a lesson he believes many a candidate for public office in the past has learned to his sorrow—it's unwise to disappoint crowds.

And it is this conviction, coupled with a desire to cover as much ground as possible without dissipating his strength and voice, that is making it difficult for the democratic nominee to determine just where he should go and how many speeches he should deliver.

August is almost gone, and his plans are still in the making. He disclosed to newspapermen today that his managers were preparing three tentative itineraries, and he said that until he could size them up it would be impossible even to announce where he will strike first. He believes, however, that something definite can be given the public by the end of next week.

As the governor views the situation it would be better for him, when a crowd at some way station turns out to greet him, to say nothing, rather than make a brief, meaningless speech. He told reporters that when a candidate resorts to the latter expediency his audience is apt to conclude that a man running for alderman could make a better and longer address, with the reaction in the end being harmful.

AN OLD ENGLISH LAW USED FOR INDICTMENT

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 28—(AP)—An old English law, ante-dating the Declaration of Independence, was used by the Camden county grand jury today for an indictment against Oliver S. Cronmiller, 24, police recorder of Clementon, charging him with administering his office while intoxicated.

The indictment handed up to County Judge Samuel Shay contained 70 counts, all charging the recorder with malfeasance in office.

Absence of any state law in New Jersey forbidding public officials administering their duties while intoxicated compelled the grand jury to use the English law as the basis for their indictment.

Cronmiller is the first official ever to be indicted in this offense in New Jersey, Mr. Varbalow said.

The indictment resulted partially from complaints of false arrest made by five persons who alleged Cronmiller held them in jail for ten hours as material witnesses when they reported finding two victims of a hit and run motorists. The complainants alleged Cronmiller was intoxicated at the time.

S. C. DEM. DELEGATES IN CONGRESS RENOMINATED

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 28—(AP)—South Carolina democrats voting in the biennial primary election, which usually is equivalent to election, today renominated every member of the present delegation to congress.

There was no voting for state offices other than solicitors of the circuit courts, all state offices being put on a four years basis two years ago.

Reports from all sections of the state indicated that numerous voters were turned away from the polling places because of refusals to take the oath binding them to vote for the state and national candidates at the November election. In most places, however, it was said that these were few in number.

Miss Lucille Anderson, a beautiful young woman will appear in a repertoire of combination fancy diving concluding with a spectacular 80-foot dive into a tank containing only 4 1-2 feet of water. These sensational features along with vaudeville stage acts will be shown each evening and Saturday afternoon with the exception of Labor day when there will be a change of program. The vaudeville acts include a comedy horizontal bar performance by two famous European artists; Dedio's circus of highly trained dogs and monkeys and a troup of six acrobatic Arabs.

The juvenile bathing beauty contest will start at 4:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It is open to any little girl between the ages of four and seven and substantial prizes are offered the winners. Registrations will be made in the rear of the stage at the park on the afternoon of the contest.

The dog show, sanctioned by the American Kennel club will be the big attraction Labor day afternoon. There will also be vaudeville. Labor day night will be the night of nights. In addition to the usual amusements and entertainments there will be the bathing beauty contest for adults starting at 10 o'clock. Prizes are offered. Any eastern Connecticut young lady is eligible and entrants must register with the Elks' Bathing Beauty Editor, Box 312, Willimantic. In connection with the contest, but not as a competitor in this show of pulchritude, Miss Hartford, who represented Hartford at the Atlantic City pageant in 1927 will appear.

Included in the entertainment program during the fair will be music by the B. P. O. Elks band under direction of Bandmaster Charles N. C. Wheeler and dancing to the B. P. O. E. orchestra. Seven automobiles and an airplane will be given away Labor day night.

As a special attraction to the fair early Thursday evening a squadron of airplanes will maneuver over the city and conclude the demonstration with thrilling stunts. The squadron is expected to arrive over the airway about 6:30 o'clock.

A warning was issued today by Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady to automobile owners who plan to park their cars on the streets in the neighborhood of the Elks' park that every precaution should be taken against petty thefts. Novel radiator caps, blankets and other various contests of automobiles and in some cases even spare tires lure thieves. Thefts of this kind have been reported in the past and while additional police protection will be given automobiles this year the owners are asked to co-operate to whatever extent is possible.

Mrs. Carroll H. Hawkins of Spring Hill is the owner of the new Essex coach that was given away Monday evening by merchants of Willimantic affiliated with the three-day opportunity sales event that closed Saturday night. Mrs. Hawkins held two complimentary coupons received when she made purchases at the Boston store late Saturday night. She was not among the crowd that gathered on Lincoln square Monday evening to hear who was to receive the new car. This morning Mrs. Hawkins was notified that she was to receive the automobile. Inasmuch as she only held two coupons and had no confidence in lady luck, Mrs. Hawkins was greatly surprised at the announcement. The machine was thoroughly checked by Leonard Brothers Garage, Inc., and then delivered to the new owner. Mrs. Hawkins has not yet decided on the fate of another machine of less recent make which she owns, but assured the committee that she will keep the new machine and use it as a conveyance to do additional shopping in Willimantic.

Mayor Charles A. Gates, republican state central committeeman of the twenty-ninth senatorial district will lead a large delegation of republicans from this section to the huge mass meeting of republicans at Woodstock Saturday afternoon, September 15. The Norwich and Willimantic Rotary clubs will hold a joint meeting at the Nathan Hale hotel Wednesday noon and then journey to the Willimantic Country club where the visitors will engage the locals in a return golf match that has every promise of being a hummer. Prizes for first low gross score, first low net score and second low net will be awarded the Norwich players. Between 25 and 30 visitors are expected and it is probable that Rufus F. Chapin, treasurer of Rotary International, of Chicago, Ills., will be among the delegation. The meeting will be called to order at 12:05 o'clock.

This city continues to benefit from a pure drinking water supply, it is shown in a report of a sample examined by the state department of health. Superintendent Henderson S. Moulton of the water department has received the state report which reads in part: "The recent examination showed that the water is apparently safe for drinking purposes and shows no unusual coloring that has any effect on the water." The city water has been chlorinated during the summer months.

A Chevrolet coupe driven by Charles Stewart of Cannon street, Bridgeport and an International truck operated by Michael Kruglinsky of Chaplin figured in a collision near the South Chaplin school house, on the Putnam highway, about noon today. Riding with Stewart were his wife and their three-months-old infant while Kruglinsky was alone. There were no injuries although the entire right side of the Chevrolet was damaged and the truck was turned completely around, remaining right side up, however. It is understood that the truck was turning to the left to leave the concrete highway and enter a side road. Stewart failed to see any signal from the truck driver as he approached it from a northerly direction and he crashed into the side of the heavy vehicle.

Manager Barrett of the local store of the W. T. Grant company has received an announcement of the opening of the W. T Grant company's greatest store on Washington street, Boston, Mass., Monday, August 27. The store has a great deal more floor space than any store in the present Grant organization and its annual sales are anticipated to exceed by more than half any present store. Fred F. Taylor, who has managed Grant's stores in Johnstown, Ja., Scranton, Pa., Pittsburgh, Pa., and Baltimore, Md., has been promoted to have full charge of the new store. This makes the 199th store in the Grant chain with numerous other stores scheduled to open in the immediate future. The local Grant store is located in an extensive establishment recently erected on Main street. The store was opened about eight months ago and is maintaining a high standard in the chain.

NOANK

The masquerade ball held in the casino at Groton Long Point recently was attended by over 200. Ted Moore's Singing orchestra of Norwich, six music boys full of pep, played for the dances. Over 75 were in costume. All kinds of rigs from a railroad flagman with blue overalls and carrying a red lantern to a Colonial costume like Martha Washington were worn. Some odd rigs had the crowd laughing. At 10 o'clock the grand march was formed circling the hall several times, so the judges could pick the winners. They told Hugh Taylor to drop out and he received the men's prize and was given a big hand. He was dressed like a hobo from the west. Miss Anna MacArthur received a prize, being dressed like a pickaninny from the south. The prize for the one who sold the most tags on tag day went to Miss Beth Houston. The masquerade was the biggest affair of the dance season given by the Groton Long Point club.

Mrs. Karl C. Ebbets and infant son Karl Chipman, Jr., have been dismissed from the local sanitarium.

Clifford Phelps, who is spending two weeks with the 192nd National guard band and playing the bass horn has written to the Aunt Sarah Peabody club in care of Treasurer Dexter Holiday, as Phelps is a member of the club. He finds camp life great in Tobyhanna, Pa., but the weather is cool in the evening, as they are so many feet above sea level. More blankets on the beds is the rule and breaking out the army overcoats. He writes of plenty of good eats, chicken dinners with all the trimmings and ice cream, not so bad for soldiers making $1 a day! Several Noank fellows are in the outfit, waiting every day to hear the good news from the fishing village. He tells this of a joke played on him one night. "The regular bugler was sick and no one to take his place. Band Leader Charles Perkins knew that I could play any horn in the band, so I got the job. The prettiest call in the army is at 11 o'clock to send all the soldiers to dreamland. Billie Trant, Jr., funny man in the company put a dead robin in the bugle. Going out in the company street to blow the 11 o'clock call, I blew fire call. Men from everywhere came on the run, some with no trousers on or no shoes with hose and axes, running to the fire. After every thing was over they found it was no fire, did not smell smoke. The joke was on me. The captain was mad but he had to laugh. It was some sight so they called me Fire Call Phelps. Regards to all the members of the club. Don't forget Mail Carrier John Ashly."

With the new gray busses on the job, in place of the trolley cars the people who work out of town go early in the morning and enjoy the nice ride and the good seats on the way to their work. But what is needed is a waiting room. That has been the talk of the town for the past month. At the corner of Elm street and Prospect hill where the people have to wait for a bus it is a dangerous corner, where several automobiles get there at the same time and some one is getting into a bus. It is against the state law to run any public bus over railroad crossings and that is why the busses don't go to the Noank waiting room. When the winter wind is blowing and it is around the zero mark, standing out to wait for a bus if a heavy snow storm hits the village and snow about a foot deep where are the people to wait? Under an apple tree? If some one put up a small waiting station it would be a gold mine to him.

DANIELSON

ENGINEER GIVES HIS VERSION OF CROSSING ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 28—Today Coroner Arthur G. Bill took the statements of Engineer Joseph H. Dostaler and Fireman George R. Palm of New Haven, who were in the cab of the locomotive of the south-bound Bar Harbor express that struck and killed William Gelinas of Central Village at a grade crossing near that village a forenoon a few weeks ago.

Engineer Dostaler's statement to Coroner Bill included the information that he saw the motor vehicle that Mr. Gelinas was driving on the highway at a considerable distance from the crossing. The machine was traveling so slowly in its approach toward the crossing that the engineer was left with the impression that Mr. Gelinas saw the approaching train, running at a fast rate of speed and that it was the intention of the driver to stop to allow the train to pass However, Engineer Dostaler says, Gelinas continued to drive on and when he, the engineer, saw that Gelinas evidently did not see or hear the train he sounded an additional warning blast on the locomotive whistle. Even then, according to the engineer's statement, Gelinas continued on toward the crossing to be tossed to death as the locomotive crashed into the machine.

This morning the funeral of Frederick Bedard was held from the home in Wauregan with funeral services at the Sacred Heart church in that place at 9 o'clock. Rev. Anthelene Mollard, M. S., was celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem. Revs. Joseph E. McCarthy of All Hallows church at Moosup was deacon and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., sub-deacon. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery. The bearers were Muity Bedard, Henry Bedard, Eugene Bedard, Ovid Warner, Joseph Warner, Osario Warner, Hormidas Warner and Roland Rivers. Rev. Fr. Demers conducted the committal service. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

A death at Attawaugan today was that of Mark Braley, 6 year old son of Charles and Agnes Braley.

Just ahead are the town caucuses at which republicans and democrats will nominate their candidates for town offices. Whether there is likely to be a considerable list of new candidates for offices is not as yet indicated. There is in prospect however, a real effort on the part of the republicans to retrieve party prestige by electing their candidate for first selectmen in this presidential election year. It will be recalled that Alcott D. Sayles, democrat, is filling that office this year, following his appeal to the superior court and a ruling in his favor after the town election of last year at which John A. Gilbert, republican, was declared to have been elected first selectman. Not in a great many years until the present term has this town had other than a republican first selectman. The effort of the republicans to win back the honor is forecasted as in all probability a lively one during the town campaign leading up to the annual election on the first Monday in October.

Health Officer Dr. W. W. Judson has been very active recently in taking samples of milk intended for delivery in Danielson. Dr. Judson makes no advance announcements of when he is to take such samples or from what milk dealers they are to be taken. It is understood that Danielson's milk supply has, on the whole, proved to be exceptionally good.

Killingly's delegation to the republican state convention is made up of Arthur W. Williams, William S. Hunter, Charles S. Francis and Grace D Parstow. The congressional convention delegation consists of A. Putnam Woodward, Alma Forcier, Bernice Cogswell and James E. Smith. Attorney Louis A. Woisard, Ida E. Armington, N. Lorne Greig and Judge James N. Tucker are the members of the senatorial district convention. The republican caucus adopted a resolution endorsing Congressman Freeman's service and favoring his renomination.

Preparations are underway for the reopening of St. James' parochial schools for another year. The main school on Franklin street is supplemented by another school on Lewis boulevard in the Connecticut village section of the community. This school formerly was a nursery building and was acquired from the Connecticut Mills company. It is for the accommodation of the younger children living in that section. The registration of the parochial schools this fall will probably be in excess of 500.

Again this morning the north-bound boat train was late into Danielson, about half an hour late. Such a delay, while causing more or less inconvenience, was materially better than the great belatedness of Monday morning. The fact that this train handles freight and milk cars, as well as mail, newspapers and parcel post, accounts it is understood for keeping it from maintaining the schedule on which it supposed to run.

Visitors to East Killingly by observation of the wonderful flower gardens of that community sense that the community's annual flower show the coming month will be well worth going miles to see. There is great rivalry among the flower lovers of East Killingly for the honors to be won at the show, which is purely a locality exhibition, yet growing in interest and beauty with each passing year.

Slow but steady progress is being made on the construction of the Danielson-Brooklyn highway. At the present time the main street through the northern section of Brooklyn village is badly torn up, one of the operations underway being the removal of a ledge that is in the route of the new layout of the road. On the West Side just across the Quinebaug river bridge from Danielson and on to Day street the heavy crushed rock that is to be near the surface of the road is in place and being rolled down. Both detours—via South street and via Day street—around a closed section of the new highway are so badly used up after the heavy traffic of the summer as to present traveling conditions wracking on cars and on the nerves of the people in them. Because of this fact a great amount of traffic is being diverted to Wauregan and thence to Brooklyn, the few additional miles travel being as nothing at all to the torture of a ride over the detours.

A death from septic sore throat is reported as having recently occurred in the town of Killingly. There is, it is said, no reason to connect this instance with similar cases that caused so many deaths in Lee, Mass., and other communities in that vicinity a few weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Burns announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Gardiner Burns to Haddon Nelson of Hartford.

The coming week end will be marked by heavy south-bound traffic from Maine vacation resorts, with additional sections of the Bar Harbor express in service.

The recently authorized short stretch of sewer for Franklin street, near Broad street has been installed.

PUTNAM

CITY FATHERS INSPECT NEW PASTEURIZATION PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, August 28—Benjamin C. Richard of Smith street held a demonstration today of the newest methods used in the pasteurization of milk. Mr. Richard has erected on his property, in the north end of the city, a modern plant fully equiped to abstract from the milk all sediment and impurities. The dairy is a new structure and all of the newest electrical machines are in use. Botties are washed by machinery, and also capped without aid of the human hand. A milk clarifier, used to destroy harmful bacteria is in operation. The pasteurization machine is one of the most highly perfected.

This afternoon, the plant was visited by Aldermen Frank Vadnais and Alderman and Mrs. Eugene Migneault, of the city council and other prominent men of the city interested in the accomplishment.

The dairy will be inspected Wednesday by the leading doctors and nurses of the city, who will pass comment on the work of Mr. Richard.

The pasteurization plant in Putnam is also the first of its kind in Windham county and is listed as the 123rd in the state

Miss Almyra Austin of Prospect street, Webster, who narrowly escaped being killed at the Church crossing in North Grosvernordale Saturday evening, when she drove her car onto the railroad tracks where it stalled and was struck by one of the fast Bar Harbor expresses, was presented in the town court of Thompson, Monday afternoon to answer a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a license. She pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $1.00 and costs of the court, the fine later being remitted.

Miss Austin was arrested by State Officer Donald E. Geddes, after an investigation of the accident. When asked for her driving credentials she offered Officer Geddes a 1926 Connecticut license.

Rita Durocher, 2 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene (Bouvin) Durocher of Smith street, died at her home this morning after a short illness. The child will be buried Wednesday morning in St. Mary's cemetery. Due to the extreme youth of the deceased, only simple funeral rites of the church will be exercised.

Funeral services were held this morning at St. Mary's church for Charles Breault of Marshall street, who died Sunday. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. W. A. Routhier with Rev. Ignatious Kost of Dayville, deacon and Rev. J. C. Mathieu of North Grosvernordale, subdeacon. Numerous relatives and friends of Mr. Breault were in attendance, including a large deleration of the L'Union Ste. Jean Baptiste of which Mr. Breault was a member. The bearers were of another group of members of the fraternal society. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Craig, assistant instructor in the carpentry department of the state trade school for the past two years has resigned his position, and with Mrs. Craig will leave sometime this week for Watertown, Mass., where Mr. Craig will be mechanical drawing instructor in the senior department of the Watertown high school. The vacancy created at the local trade school by the resignation of Mr. Craig has not been filled yet.

The Putnam state trade school is preparing to take care of the large September enrollment of pupils, which September 1st always brings. During the past summer months the school has its largest summer enrollment of pupils on its books, than any of the previous summer seasons.

Putnam gridiron followers of last season are pleased to learn that Captain Plunkett of the Pomfret school football team will enter Amherst college this year. During the fall months last year Plunkett was the main strength of the Pomfret school team, he being a star at backfield work and frequently was called upon by the team to make a path in the lines for the carrier. As stated in the Danielson column of the Bulletin Tuesday morning, it is doubtless to say the former Pomfret star will represent Amherst on the freshmen team this year and later may obtain a berth on the varsity squad.

The headquarters company of the 43rd division held their weekly drill Monday evening at the armory on Barris street. Captain McGarry, commanding officer of the company was present at drill last evening for the first time in seven weeks. The captain was assigned to the commissary department at Camp Trumbull and had been in Niantic for that length of time. The feature of the drill last evening was devoted to pistol instruction.

Mr. John J. McGarry of Grove street, left Sunday for a two weeks visit with relatives in Providence. She will also visit with other relatives whose cottage is located on the Providence river.

A peculiar blight has formed on the under leaf of many of the plants in the gardens in the city during the past week and has tended to destroy the blossom of the plants. Reports come from gardeners that the nature of the blight is unknown and has been hitherto unseen in these parts before. In one of the local greenhouses where carnations are cultivated to a large extent, another blight formed and destroyed many dollars worth of plants.

A report from the Day Kimball hospital this afternoon, relative to the condition of State Officer Emil Castagna, indicated that the injured policeman is making a speedy recovery from his recent injuries sustained in an automobile collision last week at the Dayville four corners. A severed bone in the officer's leg, broken as the result of a fall from his motorcycle is knitting into position and it is believed Officer Castagna will be in condition to leave the hospital within a week.

Vegetable growers in this section of the county are offering for sale, bushels of native corn to Putnam people. The house to house sale of the vegetable product has tended to greatly reduce to established prices of the merchants.

James A. Waters of Fall River is visiting with friends in this vicinity for a few days.

Members of the Service battery who are to return by train are expected to return from Tobyhanna to Danielson next Saturday. The men of the battery who will make the trip overland with the motor trucks are not expected here until Sunday or early Monday, depending on whether they get away from camp Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

Cards are being received here from Raymond A. Preston, who has been spending a few weeks in Holland.

Numbers of members of the summer cottage colony at Alexander's lake are planning to remain there during September.

JEWETT CITY

PALMER GLADIOLI GARDENS, HOPEVILLE, HAVE 8,000 PLANTS

Rev. G. F. Goodenough and E. H. Hiscox were visitors Tuesday at the Hopeville gladioli gardens, where the plants are grown by W. R. Palmer. In long rows, growing in two directions with a fence between, which serves to enhance the beautiful effect, are to be seen 8,000 plants, with 150 choice varieties in bloom.

NO WATER CARNIVAL, P. W. CHASE ANNOUNCES

It was deemed fairly certain in the early part of the season, that the annual water carnival would be a certainty. However, today, P. W. Chase, who has attended to the promotion arrangements, makes the following statement in the current issue of the Acco Smile, published for the operatives of the Ashland Cotton Co., Jewett City, by the Ashland club: No water carnival this year.

Because of an apparent lack of interest on the part of our swimmers and divers and those of the neighboring towns on whom we have depended in past years to make our water carnivals the acknowledged successes they have been it has been considered advisable to omit this feature this year. It is with regret that this announcement is made as these water carnivals are not especially difficult to arrange when the competitors in the various events want to go. The carnivals have always been a successful venture financially and otherwise. They have afforded amusement and plenty of thrills for big crowds of spectators. They have been instructive to a high degree as to the advance of aquatic sports throughout the country and the development of safety measures of value to all who like to go swimming. In addition to all this it has afforded unmistakable evidence of some of the good work that the Ashland club as an organization has accomplished. But it would not be a good policy to try to go ahead with a program that would not at least be in keeping with those fine exhibitions that have preceded it.

Timothy Duggan, overseer of spinning for the Ashland Cotton Co., has returned from a vacation at Nantasket. Reports say that he appears 20 years younger and is as brown as a berry.

Few men in the textile business have anything on Tim for efficiency and years of service. From a boy he has grown up in the cotton business in Jewett City, with service from back boy to boss. His two sons have inherited the profession: William is superintendent of the Ashland mills and James is an overseer in Dedham, Mass.

Thursday evening at Grange hall in Pachaug, an especially attractive meeting will be held. The Voluntown band, under the leadership of Eino Karjarla, will furnish music. The committee of arrangements is Misses Lillian Pepin, Grace Gardiner, Susan Terry, Ruth Burton, Grace Campbell, Mabel Frink.

First Selectman Daniel F. Finn has a gang of 30 men rebuilding the gravel road from the foot of Crooked Hill to the Poorhouse four corners, close to three miles. Last winter, which furnished exceptionally damaging weather to long stretches of Griswold's outlying highways, left them in much need of repair. Mr. Finn has filled in several miles of the muddy areas with cinders, with some of the dryer parts now getting a 10-inch top dressing of blue gravel.

Misses Bertha and Grace Kolbus, Catherine Wolkowski and Loretta Symington are at Atlantic Beach for a week's vacation.

William Dearnley returned Monday from a visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. Philip Kittredge, in Milford, N. H.

THE PREDICTED DEFICIT

When Budget Director Lord points out that the indications point to a deficit in the federal treasury at the close of the fiscal year of 1929 of more than $94,000,000, he directs attention to a situation about which there has been considerable said in the past.

It will be remembered that at the last session of congress there was a demand on the part of many to boost the appropriations skyhigh. Congress and the country was told that there was no fear of a deficit. Before congress acted it was brought to a realization of the fact that it would be unwise to listen to those who intimated that the sky was the limit when it came to spending government money. It didn't keep within the bounds which were set by the administration but it came fairly close to it, so close that it was possible to have them approved.

Now the budget director in his survey of the estimates of income and outgo for the fiscal year finds that instead of a surplus a deficit is staring them in the face for the first time. It is to be realized that the director is dealing with estimates. It is the same, however, when he foresees a surplus, for it depends entirely upon business conditions as to whether they will be substantiated.

Hitherto a surplus has been much larger than anticipated because the revenue, or income, included various items which could not be properly included when the estimates were made and because business conditions resulted in a larger financial return to the government than was expected. In the estimated deficit there is included $45,000,000 which will come from the added expense placed upon the postoffice department by the interstate commerce commission's decision. But if government expenditures are being unexpectedly increased it is also possible that the revenue will experience some boosts which are not anticipated. Such reflects the uncertainty of estimates and indicates that it is not possible to definitely determine just what is going to happen. It likewise demonstrates the need of taking due precautions when it comes to keeping away from deficits. It is far preferable to so act that a surplus can be expected. Contingencies can be much better met under those conditions.

FLOODS AND DAMS

Heavy rains have resulted at different times in sending rivers over their banks and causing many deaths as well as raising havoc in general. Just at the present time tales are coming from the Catskills concerning the fatalities and wreckage caused by the recent downpour. Up through the Connecticut river valley high water is being recorded with some degree of anxiety as to where it will go before subsiding. Lowlands which are the first to show the effects of floods are already well filled with water.

Where much of the loss of life and destruction of property has been caused dams have given away, and following such disasters there has been a hue and cry about the failure to discover such weaknesses in advance. It is invariably the case that immediately there is a hustle and bustle to get engineers to make tests which will show whether existing dams are safe to withstand the pressure of the water behind them in times of flood as well as under normal conditions.

Normally they are invariably sufficiently strong to meet all demands, but that is hardly sufficient. If they are likely to be subjected to unusual pressure due to flood water they shold be kept in condition to meet that demand at any and all times. Thus whenever insistence is made for the inspection of dams it is highly important that such inspection should take into consideration flood conditions. The purpose of such tests is safety and there is little chance of insuring that unless they can withstand emergencies.

It is only natural that flood conditions should prompt the desire for insuring the safety of dams, and it is perfectly evident that the time to accomplish such a thing is before something happens.

BENEFITS OF THE CANAL

To a great many people the purchase of the Cape Cod canal was regarded as inadvisable, unnecessary and a waste of money. They could see no advantage in it and pointed out that all vessels could not use it.

The canal is not in such shape that all vessels can use it. Not even all the government vessels are able to go through the waterway. It will need much deepening and widening in order to make that possible. In time that will come but in the meantime it is interesting to note the increase in the number of vessels using the waterway since the government took it over.

It is to be remembered that it is now possible for vessels to use the canal without the payment of tolls. Perhaps the former tolls served to keep many from the short cut, but when it is reported that there were 1263 vessels using the waterway during July it means that the number was about twice that of the same month last year.

Vessels have been using this canal without tolls for a period of three months. In that time 2387 transits have been made against 1879 for the same quarter year in 1927 when fees had to be paid, and this means that this year's shipping was saved tolls of more than a quarter of a million dollars.

But the outstanding feature in connection with this canal is that these additional vessels which have used the canal this year, a gain of 1008, have been saved the necessity of going around Cape Cod and encountering its shoals and storm dangers and that this protection is to be provided for all vessels which can make use of the canal in the future. Just what prevention of shipwreck and loss of life has been accomplished cannot be estimated, but vessels which did circle the cape have been involved in collisions with serious consequences during this time but every vessel turned from that course reduces the possibilities.

A further advantage to shipping lies in the fact that those vessels, which used the canal, reduced the mileage for transporting their gross tonnage of nearly 2,000,000 tons by approximatetly 200,000 miles.

HELPING NICARAGUA

A statement which has been given out by the state department shows that good progress is being made in the preparations for the supervision of the coming general election in Nicaragua.

It is not a simple task and it is not a job we have solicited. In order to help out the situation in that republic and respond to the appeal of the president, this country has agreed to see that all voters have a full and free opportunity to cast their ballots. It acted months ago by naming Brigadier General McCoy as the supervising director and it has surrounded him with a strong list of civilian advisers. They have been at work for months studying the country and determining the course to pursue. The result is that Nicaragua has been divided into cantons each with its chairman and each with a detachment of the marines in order to insure order and to allow all voters to exercise their free franchise. Training in the language and the conditions has been provided for those who are to direct the work in the various cantons.

There are those, of course, who would have the United States do nothing of the kind. They would prefer to sit on the sidelines and watch the Nicaraguans kill each other and give their country a set back from time to time such as it would be impossible to overcome. There are those who also misrepresent the attitude of this government in its policy toward Nicaragua.

To the people of this country, however, it is pleasing to see that the manner in which the whole Nicaraguan plan has been carried out has been altruistic and it is firmly believed that in the supervision that has been planned an effective answer will be given to all the critics. The response which is being made to the appeal for help from Nicaragua is not being made without expense, but the effect which it is expected to have up on the future of that country, its economic conditions, its attitude toward internal affairs as well as its part among the Central American nations should justify all that is involved.

THE DURANT OFFER

Some of the big men of the country have gone on record as wanting to see the country wet. W. C. Durant, millionaire automobile manufacturer, believes it should be dry and that the sentiment of the country is dry. He emphasizes this by offering the sum of $25,000 to the person who will present the best and most practical plan to make the country bone dry.

This is a prize contest that outdistances all others of recent date concerning the general public. It is open to everyone and it can be expected that there will be plenty of entrants and not a few who will be disappointed.

Whether this is going to be the first of a series of prize offers by automobile manufacturers hasn't been disclosed. Mr. Durant is bound to get a lot of advertising out of it quite the same as others have in making offers of a similar character or by putting themselves in the public eye in some other manner.

Possibly the winner will be able to present a surprisingly simple solution for the problem and consider that he has been well recompensed. Others may be unwilling to exercise their brain matter over the question because they regard the prize too small. Thousands will, of course, submit plans which will be virtually alike and it can be expected that there will be plans that will run all the way from the sublime and serious to the ridiculous. Mr. Durant seeks the soundest thought of the country. Evidently he is sincere in his effort and expects to obtain a practical solution. It is possible that the committee will be able to make an award, but until that is determined the offer may draw some attention away from the cross word puzzles.

TWO POACHED EGGS

Helen hung up the receiver and thumped down in a chair.

H. Zedekiah McTutt, vice president of McTutt, Hamberger and McTutt, realtors, of New York city, was in town, and Orville was bringing him out to dinner! Helen groaned.

"If I can get a job with that firm we're set for life," Orville had said over the telephone. "So make yourself and the dinner as attractive as possible." The thought of all the work to be done made Helen weak. With great exertion she pulled herself out of the chair and into the kitchen.

The house never had seemed so forlorn, the windows so smoky, the cookbook so old-fashioned as this morning. Helen, as she turned the leaves in her honeymoon recipe book, with its listed menus, grew more and more exasperated. "Split-pea soup, baked apples with prunes, boiled rice, cornmeal gems," she laughed. "Beef stew, raised hominy waffles, cabbage salad," how absurd! "Dried-peach pudding, baked salsify, mother's surprise, banana blanc mange." Imagine insulting H. Zedekiah McTutt of New York city with banana blanc mange! Helen shuddered and delved deeper.

"Sweetbreads a la Indien." Her face lighted. Turbet a la creme, consomme au Parmesan. The inside pages belied the first ones. Helen breathed a sigh of relief. Hamequins souffles, meringue glaces, sauted fillets of beef a la Moelle." Helen was enthralled. The day was saved. For sauted fillets of beef a la Moelle was more than a piece de resistance; it was the menu for an apartment on Morningside drive and a job for Orville in the real-estate firm of McTutt, Hamberger and McTutt.

With a grocery list a foot long, Helen hurried downtown. It would take several hours to prepare the dinner and, she reflected nervously, it might not be fit to eat. She never had tired anything more pretentious than lamb chops a la Lucullus, and she remembered they had not been entirely successful. She was about to enter the grocery store when an inspiration struck her. She would get the sauted fillets and everything else at the best restaurant and reheat it at home! So she went to the restaurant, obtained her entire menu—consomme, fillets, souffles, glaces, even the coffee—and joyfully taxied home.

The bell! Helen tore off her apron, dabbed her nose, with feigned composure walked to the door and opened it on Orville and the great H. Z. McTutt. The realtor, Helen at once intuitioned, was all she had expected and more. He was tall, his slick black hair was streaked with silver, he was groomed like a figure out of a spring clothes catalogue and he exhaled Wall street.

"Come in," murmured Helen, shrinking into her inferiority complex.

"We are honored to welcome you to our modest home," she heard Orville reciting. Hats and coats were laid aside and they went into the parlor. "Please take this chair," said Orville and he brought forth the Louis XVI, wedding gift which to date had been consecrated to aesthetic rather than utilitarian pleasures.

"You have a lovely little place here," Mr. McTutt remarked. "So homelike."

"It isn't much," Orville began apologetically.

"You don't appreciate how nice it is," Mr. McTutt said. "You couldn't unless, like me, you lived in hotels. And something smells mighty fine." He paused, sniffing, and Helen nudged Arville happily. After all, they were apparently giving him the right impression. Now that he had passed favorably on the fragrance of the sauted fillets of beef a la Moelle, she was ready to pack up for New York.

"You know, folks," Mr. McTutt continued, "this will be the first time I've had a chance to have a real home-cooked meal since I last visited my mother up in Greenville. As it is, I eat most of my meals in language I can't understand: Consommes (Helen started), souffles (she blanched), glaces (she went weak), fillets (she looked positively ill)." But Mr. McTutt was oblivious of the tumult his innocent words aroused.

"I never could understand," he went on, "why Americans aren't more original in their choice of food. Now, my mother cooks in real native style. I'd rather eat her fresh poached eggs on toast than the choicest viands of any pseudo French cook. So whenever I'm invited to a home like this—"

But Helen, her air castles tumbling about her head, waited to hear no more. Murmuring excuses she fled to the kitchen, where she remained in hiding about twenty minutes. Then she emerged, radiant with smiles, to usher her distinguished guest into her tasteful dining room.

And H. Zedekiah McTutt, rhapsodizing over Helen's split-pea soup, fresh poached eggs on toast, homemade orange marmalade and corn meal gems, revealed, between mouthfuls, that he already had in mind for them a nice little apartment in Morningside drive!—Exchange.

Stories That Recall Others

What He Wanted To Know

An Irishman having just landed in Louisville got a position on the railroad as flagman at one of the principal crossings. One day came the Pan-American about 20 minutes late. The Irishman held out his right flag and stopped the express. The engineer jumped out very much angered and asked the Irishman why he had stopped the train when he knew they were 20 minutes late. The Irishman replied: "That's just what I wanted to know. Where have you fellows been for the last 20 minutes?"

Too Dead for Him

Harry, who was six years old, had been taken to a museum in Muncie to see the collection of stuffed birds. When his father came home for dinner in the evening, Harry was encouraged to give his reaction to the collection at the museum.

"Tell father what you thought of the museum, Harry," said the mother.

"Well, dad," said Harry, "it was just like a dead circus. I'd rather go to the live kind."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Story With a Moral

Mr. Editor: The greatest gift to man is a kind and loving mother. Friends may desert you, money may take wings and fly away, but a mother and a mother's love is always with you in prosperity or in adversity. She may be at times absent from our thoughts but she never deserts us. And I often have thought that the least we can do is now and then to give a thought to man's greatest gift on earth, a loving mother—a bouquet of flowers or maybe a box of choice candy and with it a card inscribed to the best little mother in the world from her boy. A cheap and inexpensive present, but the sentiment behind it is worth millions. Watch her face light up with pleasure and say, boys you can count yourself paid back a hundred fold.

I think at this time of what was said by the greatest American of all—one whose lowly birth is an inspiration to others who have the opportunity, but think they haven't a chance—Abraham Lincoln who said: "All that I am and all that I have I owe to my mother," and this applies as well to us as it did to him.

It was my misfortune to never have known my mother for she left this world nigh on to 71 years ago and she is just sleeping in the old Leffingwell cemetery, just beyond Mapewood with nothing to disturb her slumber except the singing of the birds or the sighing of the wind through the trees. It is a long time as we count time but each succeeding year I seem to be getting closer and closer to that day when I can greet her once again.

And yet in a quiet home at the corner of Boswell avenue and 12th street there is an old mother who is getting slowly and gracefully old and gray and to her I render all homage for she is the only mother I have ever known, and perhaps she may never have known how much I appreciate all that she has done for me. But this open confession will be the means by which I tell her. A mother has a job for life, but never a pay day.

In the eastern section of Norwich, somewhere between Prospect street and Main, many years ago there lived a young man and wife and the other member of the family was an old mother, way long in years and she, due to advancing years had become a little bit peculiar. To all appearances the son was ashamed of her. I want the reader to note for obvious reasons there are no names mentioned except in the case of one, the tavern keeper whose full name was Moses Elijah St. John who I mentioned in a previous letter. At one time the son with his wife had gone out to some entertainment and one of the neighbors in passing the house heard a noise on the cellar window as of some one in distress and as the pounding continued an investigation was in order and the old mother was found locked in the cellar. She was released and taken to a neighbor's for the night. This was the first act, this story eventually reached the ears of a certain old Baptist clergyman at whose church this couple were regular attendants and he whose name was the Rev. John A. —— on the following Sunday took as his text, Honor thy Father and thy Mother, and he stressed the word mother. And here he remarked it has come to my attention that there are two members of my church who have been in the habit of using an old mother in an inhuman manner and I do not consider it an honor on my part to hold communion with anyone who can treat God's greatest gift to man in such a mean way for the poorest rum that St. John has got is too good for them to drink. This was the end of act No. 2.

Now here is where St. John comes into the picture for having heard that the clergyman had given him such a free advertisement he took from his private stock a bottle of his best and sent it with a letter and compliments thanking him for the free puff. This story is true. I wonder if the old timers remember this, for much water has run under the bridge since those early days. This incident of the long ago is now just a memory and perhaps with the lapse of years is forgotten.

When I started this letter I had no intention of writing a sermon but an incident that happened recently has brought it to my mind and it is handed to the reader without an apology. I want to say this, the talking to did the couple a world of good for afterwards the old mother was often seen where they were.

A Washington Bystander

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—British admiralty dislike of the 8-inch gun cruiser, dear to the American heart, and presumably of Washington plans for building up the cruiser fleet with such ships, must have played an important part in connection with the Franco-British naval limitation deal.

Despite withholding of the details of that deal from publication, it is clear enough that cruiser limitations are involved.

The London-Paris deal may, and no doubt does, provide a face saving escape for France from the global tonnage impasse at Geneva. She seems ready to trade actual limitation by tonnage of certain types of submarines for acceptance of the principle of global tonnage limitation.

In other words, the project now put forward is that the universal arms limitation treaty toward which the Geneva conferences have been painfully struggling should allot each naval power its due number of tons of warships without any restrictions as to the type or class of ships to be built within that total tonnage other than as to size and armament which would identify each class. Simultaneously, however, agreed building programs to run, say, ten years would be worked out which would in fact fix the tonnage for each power in restricted classes for that period.

Where U. S. Comes In

So far, no difficulties for the United States would be involved, although it all looks like merely beating around the stump the original Washington plan of limiting by tonnage each category of combat ships. But the London-Paris deal goes further and creates new categories not only of submarines, but of surface craft. It clearly foreshadows a new admiralty drive to limit the number of 8-inch gun cruisers and leave construction of 6-inch gunners unrestricted except by the general global tonnage total. And there the shoe begins to pinch for Washington. That's where the three-power conference collapsed with Washington and Tokyo returning a polite "No, thank you," to every different formula designed to reach the same end.

What seems to have happened is that London did a little dickering with Paris to obtain at least a degree of submarine limitation. Big, sea-going subs would be limited; little coast defense U-boats would not. But to offset that concession under which France could arm herself with small subs enough to make things difficult for the British navy in the event of a clash, the British retain an ace in the hole by reserving the right to build small cruisers, destroyers and other small type of anti-submarine craft ad lib. The only type of cruiser to be limited, apparently, would be the American favorite 8-inch gunners, and the London-Paris deal seems to be leading up to a new suggestion that they be placed in a special class of offensive warships.

Cruisers Important

Right here the project steps hard on Uncle Sam's toes. American naval opinion holds the 8-inch gunners to be about the only type of cruiser valuable for American purposes. For one thing, they alone would have fuel capacity sufficient to afford protection, self sustained along American trade routes in any sea, a factor the London admiralty probably does not consider vital because of Britain's far-flung network of fueling bases.

In-Between-Meal Lunches

By Emily L. Ketcham, Supervisor of Nutrition, Syracuse, N. Y.

A fourth meal! The first time you hear that you give up in despair. Another meal to prepare each day is just too much. Then suddenly you realize that it has been called "a fourth meal" to bring out the point that food, though ever so small in amount, should receive thought before it is served, especially where children are concerned. It is not unlikely that you are already giving your child an in-between-meal lunch in a rather haphazard way. Notice your boy or girl for a few days, as he or she runs in and out of the house; how often is he carrying a piece of pie or a cookie from the pantry shelf?

As you listen to arguments for and against in-between-meal lunches you soon realize that the benefits of a fourth meal depend entirely upon the nature and habits of each child concerned.

Summer is here. A chance for long hours of play out-of-doors! But do not forget that this means increased activity and consequently increased food needs. It is a long time between breakfast and luncheon, for a child. Your child may need an in-between-meal lunch, but "just anything from the pantry shelf" will not do. Piecing between meals defeats the whole purpose of a fourth meal. Such a lunch should be planned and served at a regular hour, with a thought for the dinner and supper to follow.

It may be that you have secretly felt that a glass of milk with graham crackers, at mid-morning, takes the edge off the noontime appetite. If so, the mid-morning lunch should be planned to stimulate an appetite for dinner. A glass of grape-juice, orange-juice or tomato-juice (tomato-juice can now be purchased, ready to serve) and a whole wheat cracker (without butter) are excellent for lagging appetites; other suggestions for children of this type are: Sandwiches of ground-up figs or dates; or a dish of berries in season served with milk and sugar. This kind of a lunch will supply the needed calories, while it acts as an appetizer.

Perhaps you cannot get your child to eat all of the vegetables he needs at noon and also drink the milk you give him. If this is the case, the mid-morning lunch may be the time to serve milk, so that at dinner all energies can be concentrated on other foods.

Mothers find it very hard to get children to rest from their strenuous play before they are already overtired. A little table set under a convenient tree is very enticing and may be the means of preventing fatigue which destroys appetite at dinner-time.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Albert T. Utley

Following an illness of a little less than two weeks, Mary J. Brown, 76, wife of Albert T. Utley, of Norwich, died Tuesday afternoon at her summer home, 43 Mott avenue, Neptune Park.

Mrs. Utley was born in Norwich, Jan. 3rd, 1852, the daughter of George Ebenezer Brown and Elizabeth Manning. Her marriage with Mr. Utley of the firm of Utley & Jones, Norwich, took place Nov. 4th, 1873. The earlier years of their married life were spent on Lafayette street, but for a long period their home has been at 143 McKinley avenue, Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Utley were among the original promoters of Neptune Park, members of the park association and were spending their twenty-first season in their summer home there when Mrs. Utley was stricken.

Besides her husband she leaves two daughters, Mrs. Arthur B. Faulkner, of Williamsport, Penn., and Mrs. Wilbur B. Purvis, of Bayonne, New Jersey. There are four grandchildren, the two daughters and son of Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Purvis.

She was a member of the Central Baptist church, always active in church work, serving for years as president of the Progressive Missionary society and aiding liberally in the various departments of church and Sunday school. She had served as leader of Comfort Circle of the King's Daughters during the many years since its organization at her home and was especially interested in furthering the charitable work of the circle for the aged and needy and friendless. The same generous spirit characterized her interest in any pleasing to her cause or individual appealing to her during her long term of residence at Neptune park.

Her years were spent quietly, in the enjoyment of her home, yet her influence for good reached far beyond, and will remain a treasured memory with those, both in Norwich and New London, who had come to know the sterling worth and helpfulness of her friendship.

Miss Sophia Stoddard

Miss Sophia Stoddard, 73, whose death occurred Monday in this city, following a short illness, was born in Montville, the daughter of Ichabod and Nancy Hurlbut Stoddard. Mr. Harris was born in this city on Aug. 27, 1856, and was the son of Mrs. Gertrude Fielding Harris and the late Gerry B. Harris. He attended the public schools of this city and was in the employ of the American Thermos Bottle Co. for 15 years.

Mr. Harris leaves his widow, his mother, four daughters, Gertrude S. of South Manchester, Arline, Ruth and Lydia Harris of this city, and two sons, Roland and William Harris of Norwich. A brother, Julian Harris of Hartford, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Harris of Providence, also survive him.

He was born in Canterbury, Conn., July 19, 1839, the son of Elisha A. and Philura (Bacon) Morgan, where he lived until four years old. Afterwards he lived for about 50 years in the town of Plainfield where he was engaged extensively in farming. About 30 years ago he came to Norwich, where he has lived a quiet, retired life.

Mr. Morgan was a republican and cast his first vote for Lincoln for president. He served four years as selectman in Plainfield and represented that town in the legislature in the late 80's. Many years ago he joined the Congregational church at Canterbury Green and at the present time is a member of the Broadway Congregational church at Norwich. He was a man who thoroughly believed in and lived up to the tenets of his religion. He cared not for the extreme or frivolous things in life but it can be truly said of him that he lived his life of usefulness and took as his guide, "Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you."

Mr. Morgan leaves to mourn his loss some distant relatives and a large number of admiring friends.

PLAN ELABORATE PROGRAMME FOR FLAG POLE DEDICATION LABOR DAY

A committee of prominent citizens from New London, Norwich and North Stonington is making arrangements for a flag dedication exercise and celebration to be held at the Norwich fair grounds, on Labor day, Sept. 3. The flag to be dedicated was presented to the New London County Agricultural society by Leonard R. Main, Jr., his sister, Evelyn Main Gray, and his mother, Mrs. Annie Main, of North Stonington, in memory of Leonard R. Main's son, Floyd Leslie Main, who, during the World war, gave his life for the glory of his country and flag. It is also to commemorate the supreme sacrifice made by the comrades of Floyd Leslie Main to maintain the prestige and the honor of the American army in France and others who have died in the service of their country.

The Main family are direct descendants of the Mayflower and their ancestors were among the first to settle in New England and were given a land grant of a ten-mile tract, embracing North Stonington, Westerly and Pawcatuck. The flag to be dedicated is 40 feet in length by 20 feet in width and will float upon a flag pole 80 feet in height and of unusual thickness. The pole is also included in the gift of the Main family. The flag pole is one of the largest to be erected in this part of the state, and was especially prepared by the Post shipyard in Mystic.

It is provided with a six-foot white oak abutment so constructed that it will reinforce and hold the pole in position in a concrete mould sunk into the ground to a depth of about ten feet. The erection of the pole will be done by the courtesy of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., who own the necessary equipment for the placing of a pole of this great size and weight.

The dedication address will be made by Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London, who is very enthusiastic about making the dedication a notable event. Congressman Freeman is assisting the arrangement committee in formulating an elaborate program and is endeavoring to secure the attendance of the republican nominee for vice-president, Senator Charles G. Curtis, also Senator Hiram Bingham, as speakers of the day.

Congressman Freeman is also aiding the committee to obtain the attendance of a large delegation of officers and sailors from the Submarine base. One of the directors of the county fair is endeavoring to obtain the attendance of members of the coast guard to add color and dignity to the celebration. Prominent officials from New London, Norwich and surrounding towns and also a number of church dignitaries of various denominations will participate in the exercises and ceremonies of the dedication.

Formal invitations have been extended to all patriotic, civic and fraternal organizations in New London county and adjoining counties to attend the celebration. However, as the time for the arrangements is short, the New London County Agricultural society extends a cordial invitation to all patriotic, civic and fraternal organizations to attend, in a body or as individuals, the flag dedication and the celebration connected with the exercises. An invitation is also extended to all patriotic citizens of New London county and surrounding counties to celebrate Labor day by attending the Norwich fair ground patriotic dedication and exercises. Invitations to Gold Star mothers in New London county and nearby counties are extended, and to the Grand Army veterans. A special place will be reserved for them on the grandstand in front of the speakers' platform, and also for the distinguished guests who will attend the ceremonies. The arrangement committee anticipates that several thousand patriotic people will attend the celebration. The addresses, services and ceremonies will be of an inspiring nature and will be conducted on a platform built in front of the grandstand expressly for the occasion. There will be no admission charge of any kind to the grandstand, or to the fair grounds, or to witness the sports which the committee is in the hope of arranging so that the gathering may enjoy the balance of the afternoon. Arrangements are in progress to secure several bands to render martial music during the dedication ceremonies.

While the committee was deliberating on the program, word was received that the labor unions in New London county and other organizations have volunteered to send a number of men on Saturday, Aug. 30, to complete the horse barns now in course of construction. The New London County Agricultural society will be very grateful to all who are interested in the welfare of the fair grounds to come on Saturday and lend a hand in this work. There will be a race among those willing to do their utmost to complete the buildings in one day.

The programme, when completed, will be published with the names of the prominent people and the distinguished guests who will take part in the exercises and also the names of the arrangement committee. A meeting of the committee was held Monday evening at the office of Dr. Ter J. Manwaring to consider plans for the celebration.

Nearly a score of new damage actions have been brought in the New London county superior court. All are returnable to the court the first Tuesday in September.

Ralph Calvert of New London is made defendant in a $10,000 auto-negligence suit brought by A. J. Johnson of Pawtucket, R. I., administrator of the estate of Thomas P. Burke, late of that place, who, it is alleged, in the complaint, died of injuries received when the Calvert car struck him on the Shore road between Niantic and New London on May 11, 1928. The complaint states that Burke was walking at the time of the accident and that he died the next day.

Claiming that John F. Meeler, of Waterford, was indebted to Adams & Hilliar, Inc., of New London, for $1,200 on July 16, last, the latter concern has brought suit to recover.

Damages of $7,000 are sought by Charles Trentini of Milford, N. H., from the Connecticut Granite Co., Inc., of Groton, claiming that the defendant company was indebted to the plaintiff for $6,556.45 on June 13, 1928.

The General Roofing Co., Inc., of New London is made defendant in a $2,000 bonus suit brought by John McVane of Brocton, Mass., who was employed for the concern for one year from April 19, 1927 at a salary of $60 a week. The plaintiff alleges that in addition to the salary the concern contracted to give him 21 per cent of the net profits, which were estimated to be upwards of $5,000 and they did not do so.

The Standard Garage Co., of New London seeks $2,500 damages from George C. Pantalis, of New London, as the result of an automobile collision on April 9, last, when it is alleged a car owned by the garage and driven by Charles H. Humphrey, one of its officers, was crashed into by a car owned by the defendant and driven by his son on the New London-Norwich road, causing damage of $698 to the Humphrey car.

Foreclosure of a mortgage note dated Feb. 9, 1927, is sought by Henry J. Wilson of Hartford, against Albert M. Simons of New London. The note was for $3,500 but, according to the complaint, $1,000 was paid on the principal on June 20, last.

Clarence L. and Rosena M. Brockett of New London are made defendants in a $1,000 damage action brought by Jacob Slosberg of Norwich, doing business as the Shetucket Coal and Lumber Co., of Norwich, claiming that on July 11, 1928, Clarence Brockett gave a note to the plaintiff for $500 and that it was endorsed by Rosena Brockett.

Clarence L. Brockett is also made defendant in another suit for $2,500 damages brought by the same plaintiff, in which it is claimed that on June 27, 1928, Brockett owed the plaintiff $2,000.

J. Howland Gardner of Old Lyme is made a defendant in three separate suits aggregating damages of $16,000 as the result of a collision on June 4, 1927, on the Boston Post road in Bradford, between a motor cycle and the Gardner auto. Zina Losi, administratrix of the estate of Mario Modena of Marlboro, Mass., sues for $10,000. The complaint states that Modena was driving the motorcycle and that he died from injuries received.

Josephine Ferrari of Boston brings suit for personal injuries, through her father, Carlo Ferrari, claiming that she was a passenger in the side car of the motorcycle, while the father sues for $1,000 for medical expenditures for her daughter.

Abraham and Rose Bronstein and Jefferson O. Bailey of Groton are made defendants in another foreclosure action brought by the Savings Bank of New London to foreclose on a mortgage for $11,000 on property at Green and Golden streets, New London. Bailey claims a $1,050 mortgage on the premises. The mortgage in this suit secured Bronstein's note of Nov. 4, 1911. Attorney Colt represents the bank.

Charles A. Gallup, administrator of the estate of the late Dr. Harry M. Lee of New London, is made defendant in a foreclosure action brought by the Norwich Savings society, in which it is alleged that on Dec. 26, 1923, Dr. Lee owed the institution $15,000 as shown by his note secured by a mortgage on the Lee property in Waterford. The papers show that the sum of $7,250 has been paid on the principal. Dr. Lee died June 24, 1926.

Foreclosure of a $1,750 mortgage note on a house and lot in Warren street, New London is sought by the Savings Bank of New London against Nicholas Andrelli of New London in which it is claimed Andrelli gave the note on Oct. 17, 1927. Archibald S. MacFarlane claims a mortgage for $2,500 on the property and is therefore made a defendant in the action.

Damages of $1,500 are asked by the Aben Hardware Co., against the Ridgewood Construction Co., of New London in which the plaintiff claims that on May 21, 1928, the defendant concern was indebted to it in the sum of $1,253.06.

Damages of $30,000 are claimed by the Mariners Savings bank against Leonard T. Saunders and S. W. C. Jones of New York city, in which the bank claims that on Dec. 1, 1911, the defendants by their joint and several notes, owed the plaintiff $15,000. Attorney Charles A. Gallup represents the bank.

Harriet Scheele of Waterford is made a defendant in a damage suit brought by Fred Barrett of Waterford in which the latter seeks the sum of $12,050, which he claims has been due him since May 28, 1928, for services rendered at the Rotisserie Inn.

BRINGS SUIT AGAINST NORWICH MAN FOR DAMAGES OF $6,000

Damages of $6,000 are claimed by Comelei Rossi of Norwich in a civil suit which he has brought in the superior court against Joseph Wisneski of Franklin. Plaintiff alleges that on May 12, 1928, about 11 o'clock in the morning, he was removing branches from wires in the town of Montville, near the new school house and was on the right hand side of the road leading from Montville to New London and facing towards New London. He was off the traveled portion of the road and was engaged in separating the branches from the wire.

A machine owned by the defendant and operated by the defendant's agent along the highway in a southeasterly direction, at a high rate of speed, ran against a wire stretched across the road at that point, (where the plaintiff was working). The top of the machine caught the wire which was pulled from its socket. The end of the wire caught in a cable and the cable struck the plaintiff on the chin and he was knocked to the ground. He became tangled up with the wire and the branches and was dragged along the highway.

The plaintiff's left leg was broken, his face cut and bruised, his right leg bruised and he was knocked unconscious. Negligence on the part of the driver of the machine is alleged as it is claimed there was room to pass on the road without going under the wire.

JUNIOR AND DUSTY LOOPS CLOSE SATURDAY WITH DOUBLE HEADER

The little battle of the century to decide the winner of the Junior league and at the same time select the guests of the New York Yankees at the Yankee Stadium in New York next Wednesday will be staged at the new recreation center at Hollyhock Island Saturday afternoon, and from all present indications it will be one grand and glorious affair.

Tuesday, the recreation commission, which already has done its share in promoting amateur baseball in Norwich, offered to co-operate with the officials of the junior loop to make the final and deciding game between the Taftville American Legion and Rotary teams, one that Norwich will never forget.

Because of the fact that the receipts of the current Junior league are hardly large enough to send the winners to New York in true championship style, the recreation commission has offered the league the use of its new grounds for the final tilt and at the same time will assist in making the final splash one that should permit the coffers of the league to expand enough so that the representatives of the Rose of New England will be able to take in the sights of the big town after they have seen how baseball is played by the world's champions.

In addition to the championship contest, a Dusty league game will be played at the Island, the recreation commission will award all of the prizes won by the various departments during the past summer season and other features that should tend to make the occasion a memorable one will be crowded into the afternoon's program.

At the present time a nominal sum of money is needed to defray what expences might arise during the New York trip and only the hearty co-operation of everyone concerned will afford the Norwich boys a regular time.

While the recreation commission is not in favor of charging admission at any of affairs on property under its jurisdiction, the officials of the league will be allowed to sell tickets at 25 cents apiece to those interested enough in the affair to contribute that amount. The patrons will not be compelled to purchase tickets but all contributions will be kindly received. Tickets for the big and final event of the season may be had at either Jacks Sport Shop, the Duwell club, American Legion rooms in Taftville or at the gate at the island.

The Rotary-Taftville game, the final one of the Junior league's first season will determine which club is entitled to the trip. At the present time, the legionaires are leading the league by a single game. A Rotary victory, however, will deadlock matters and the two teams will have to play a deciding game either Sunday or Monday (Labor Day).

On Tuesday night of the coming week the winning team in charge of a member of the Duwell club (sponsors of the league) will embark for the big town. Wednesday, the team will go to the Yankee Stadium to witness a double header between the world's champs and the Washington Senators and that night take in the sights of little old Broadway. Wednesday night will be spent at one of the prominent New York hotels and on Thursday, after a short tour of the city, the boys will return home.

PIRATES IN TIE FOR 4TH BY BEATING PHILLIES TWICE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 28—(AP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates, National league champions, pulled up to a tie with Cincinnati for fourth place by taking a double-header from Philadelphia here today, while the Reds were idle. The Pirates won the first game 3 to 2 and the second 16 to 7.

Hill was master of the first game allowing only four hits. Sweetland and Miller were touched for 15 hits but three double plays held down the score.

In the second game the Buccaneers hammered four Quaker hurlers for 21 hits, Lloyd Waner getting four of them. Grimes, who started for the Pirates was driven to cover in the second inning and Dawson finished, receiving credit for the win. The scores:

PECHEENI AND M'CARTHY IN FINE SHAPE FOR THEIR BOUTS

Geno Pecheeni and Tommy McCarthy, two local boys, who will have places on the card at New London on Thursday night are just about down to their best fighting weight. The local youngsters will taper off today with light work and will rest Thursday morning and afternoon.

Pecheeni who meets a tough boy in Spike Mareno of New Haven is down to weight and is confident that he can come through with the verdict over the six-round route. Mareno is a hard hitting boy with a willingness to swap punches but anyone having seen both boys in action would give a slight edge to Pecheeni to win.

McCarthy is billed to swap punches with Jimmy Proto of New Haven, a brother of Georgie Proto. Proto should not last the six rounds with the hard hitting McCarthy if the local youngster is in form which he certainly is at the present moment. Proto lost in his four rounder at Hartford the other night after a real slugging battle.

To Use Yellow Baseballs

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 28—(AP)— A yellow baseball was experimented with here today in a game between Milwaukee and Louisville.

The new balls are said to have greater visibility than white ones, particularly with a bleacher background of white shirts. They are not easily discolored. Use of the yellow balls exclusively is being considered for next year.

BRAVES GIVE GIANTS RUDE SETBACK IN CHASE

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—The pennant chances of the Giants received another rude shock here today when the Boston Braves marched into the Polo grounds and made off with both ends of a double-header by 3 to 2 and 7 to 5. This double reverse ran the Giant losing streak to eight in the last nine games, and dropped the clan McGraw to a point five and one-half games below the Cardinals.

The Giants tonight hold a virtual tie in games with the Cubs, who have won four more and lost four more than the clan McGraw. The Bruins are only half a game, or two points, ahead of the Reds and the Pirates, who are tied for fourth.

The powerful bat of Rogers Hornsby may be blamed by the Giants for their double disaster. The Boston manager and former Giant second baseman hit three doubles and three singles in the two games. He drove two runs in in the opener and scored the third. His blows were equally effective in the second clash.

Larry Benton, New York pitching ace, suffered his fifth defeat of the season in the first game. Genewich was knocked out in the second. Twenty-five New York runners were stranded in the two contests.

TIGERS ATTACK MILLER AND SCORE 6 RUNS

DETROIT, Aug. 28—(AP)—A vicious assault on Walter Miller in the third inning in which ten batsmen faced him and six runs were scored, enabled Detroit to defeat Cleveland in the first game of the series today, 8 to 4. The feature of the attack on Miller was Bob Fothergill's home run with Red Hargrave and Harry Heilmann on.

Sam Gibson started for the Tigers but was removed in the eighth when he became wild, Elam Van Gilder finishing. Johnny Neun made his first appearance in a game here since last May, the first sacker having recovered from effects of two surgical operations. Tavener had a busy day in the field, getting eight putouts and three assists.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—(AP)—Bobby Jones today set a course record of 37-30—67 in the Warren K. Wood Memorial tournament at Flossmoor and led the field of American and British players by four strokes.

His 30 on the second nine lacked only one stroke of equalling the world's record and his 67 was a new mark for the Flossmoor links. Jones scored seven consecutive threes, including an eagle on the 483-yard tenth, where he holed out his chip shot from a trap.

MITCHELL BLANKS CUBS WITH SEVEN BINGLES

CHICAGO, Aug. 28—(AP)— Clarence Mitchell, the southpaw spitballer, was in fine form today and the St. Louis Cardinals added to their lead in the National league pennant race, defeating the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 0.

Mitchell held the Cubs to seven hits, only two of which were bunched in any one inning. In three innings he set the home team down in one, two, three order and in four others only four batters faced him.

Orsatti led the Cardinal's attack with a perfect day at bat, which included a double, three singles and a base on balls. With the exception of Orsatti's four hits, the league leaders got to Pat Malone and Percy Jones, for only six hits, but those hits came at the right time and were bunched with three errors, a wild pitch and four walks.

Malone, who started in the box for the Cubs, had the Cardinals guessing at his speed ball for five innings, but in the sixth the Cubs' defense collapsed and four Cardinals scored after two were out. Malone managed to survive the inning but Jones took the mound in the seventh and was found for three hits and two runs.

Mitchell was in trouble only in the fifth and sixth innings. Fast fielding saved him in both cases after two men were on.

GRAY'S DOUBLE WINS FOR BROWNS IN 11TH

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Sam Gray's double in the eleventh inning drove in the run which broke a six to six tie and started a two run rally which gave St. Louis an 8 to 6 victory over the Boston Red Sox here today.

Boston had a five run lead at the end of the fifth inning but Ruffing weakened in the sixth and had similar lapses in the eighth and eleventh.

Todt drove in three of the Boston runs and Schulte made several sensational catches in center field for the visitors. The score.

EASTERN CONN. TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO BE PLAYED OVER THE WEEKEND

The sharp ping and twang of tennis balls against taut strung racquets is being heard daily at the tennis courts of the Norwich Golf club as the local players warm up for the fifth annual Eastern Connecticut championship to be held the coming week-end. Players in white flannels flash about the courts while others sit twirling their racquets and contemplate the form and speed of those who will be their opponents later in the week. Minds are busily planning bits of strategy and the best method of breaking through their opponents' defense in the quest of the honor of having their names engraved on the Willowbrook trophy which is emblematic of the title.

This same scene may be witnessed on the courts at Oswegatchie where Harry McCann and several others who are entered in the tournament are preparing for the invasion of the local courts. Gales Ferry players are perfecting their form as well as others in the eastern part of the state, where this year's tournament is being discussed. The courts at the Norwich club will be thrown open to all entrants in the tournament for practice and from then on until after the finals the courts will be crowded.

The committee, Ralph A. Powers, chairman, Percival F. Harwood and John Angeles, are planning to make this tournament the best of all the tournaments yet held. They are seeking an exceptionally large entry list and have provided prizes for all the winners and runners-up in the events, besides the Willowbrook trophy which goes with the title. Ralph A. Powers, winner of the cup the first year, is out to get a second leg on it, while it is expected that Joseph W. Thurston of Hartford, one of the fathers of tennis, will be here to defend the trophy which was won by him last year. The finals last year were another of the battles of youth vs. age and experience in which experience emerged victorious.

A large entry list of local players is especially wanted and entries will be received until noon on Friday, either at the Golf club or by any member of the tournament committee. Local players already entered are Perc Harwood, Cassidy Driscoll, Ben Palmer, Jim Roantree and a number of others. But there is plenty of room for more. The first round singles will be played on Saturday morning and the doubles will start on Saturday afternoon.

ATHLETICS PICK UP FULL GAME ON YANKS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—(AP)— The Athletics climbed back to within three games of the idle Yankees this afternoon by taking two games from the White Sox by score of 1 to 0 and 4 to 3. The second battle extended into the eleventh inning before Bing Miller singled to score Mule Haas from third with the winning run.

Bob Grove shaded his old Baltimore playmate, Alphonse Thomas, in nothing but the final score in the opening clash. Thomas held the Mackmen to three hits, but one of them was Max Bishop's fifth home run of the season, hit over the right field fence with two out in the third. Grove so scattered the eight Chicago hits that he was in difficulty only in the last two rounds, at which points he rose to his best to hang up his twelfth straight and his twentieth victory of the campaign.

In the second game the Macks to win had to overcome a lead of three runs carved out by the White Sox in the first inning off Jack Quinn. The Shibe park defenders got to Grady Adkins for a pair in the sixth and for one more in the seventh to even the count.

Eddie Rommel entered the box after Ty Cobb batted for Quinn in the sixth, and held the visitors to two hits over the rest of the route. The home team pulled out the decision in the eleventh on a single by Haas, Cochrane's sacrifice, an intentional pass to Simmons, a force-play on Simmons at second and Miller's single.

A crowd of 28,000 saw the games. The scores:

ERNIE BEAN WINS TITLE IN FOURTH OF JULY TOURNEY

The much delayed finals of the championship flight of the Fourth of July tournament of 1928 between John D. Moulton and Ernest Bean were played late yesterday afternoon with Bean winning the match on the 18th, 1 up. According to the handicapping when the tournament started, Moulton was forced to give Bean 15 strokes which made it an extremely uphill battle for Moulton, who lost through this heavy handicap.

With the Fourth of July tourney out of the way, the Labor day tourney starts on Monday and it is hoped that it will be completed before the snow flies. The qualifying round will be played Monday morning.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Peter Gets Scratched

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who never thinks to look behind
Is little better off than blind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was absorbed in what he was looking at. Do you know what that means? It means that he was so interested in what he was looking at that he had forgotten everything else. Now it is bad business to become absorbed in any one thing when there may be danger around. Yes, sir, it is bad business. Peter found it out that day

It happened when Peter discovered one of the kittens of Yowler the Bobcat playing with a leaf in a patch of moonlight over in the Green Forest. Peter hadn't known that there were any Bobcat kittens over there. This was the first Bobcat kitten he had ever seen. So, just out of sight in the Black Shadows on the edge of the moonlit space Peter sat staring with round-eyed wonder at the little Bobcat playing in the moonlight. He quite forgot everything else, and this was a very foolish thing to do.

Without the least warning Peter was knocked flat

"It's a baby Babcat as sure as I live," thought Peter. "It just cannot be anything else. My, what a funny little fellow he is! He has a spotted coat. Yowler's coat isn't spotted like that. Perhaps Mrs. Yowler's is. I have never seen Mrs. Yowler."

As a matter of fact, Mrs. Yowler looked very much like Yowler himself. Baby Bobcats always have spotted coats. When that baby Bobcat was grown to full size those spots would have mostly disappeared.

Now, it never entered Peter's head that there might be other baby Bobcats No, sir, it never entered his head. If it had he probably would have looked around a little bit. As it was he remained absorbed in watching this kitten playing in the moonlight. The kitten was having a wonderful time. Peter felt as if he wanted to go out and play with him. But he wasn' foolish enough to do anything of the kind. He just remained right where he was, and he remained perfectly still.

Without the least warning Peter was knocked flat. Yes, sir, he was knocked right over. Not only that, but a lot of sharpclaws pricked his skin. It seemed to him as if they pricked him all over. Peter squealed right out with pain and surprise and fright. And he kicked. My goodness, how he did kick! He drew those long legs of his up and shot them out with all his might. When Peter kicks he can kick hard. He kicked hard now. And Peter was lucky Those two hind feet of his landed right in the stomach of the sister of that little Bobcat he had been watching. It wa sshe who had jumped on Peter. She had seen Peter when he first arrived and she had stolen up until she was near enough to jump on him. She hadn't made a sound.

Now that little Bobcat really wasn't big enough to kill a full grown Rabbit. Her teeth were not yet big enough to do much more than hurt, but they were big enough to hurt, and her little claws were sharp enough to scratch; and she made the fur fly. Of course the kitten who had been playing in the moonlight stopped playing and came over to see what was going on. It was perhaps fortunate for Peter that he succeeded in planting that kick in the stomach of that little Bobcat just before the other one reached them. The little Bobcat let go and squalled. Peter scrambled to his feet and dodged. Then away he went, lippety-lippety-lip, as fast as his legs would take him. He wasn't a second too soon. The squall of that kitten brought her mother, Mrs. Yowler, to the scene in a hurry, but by the time she reached there Peter had disappeared. He ran until he was out of breath. Then he crept into a bramble-tangle and began to smooth his coat and lick the places where those sharp little claws had scratched him.

Hymn For the Pact of Peace

Lift up your heads, ye peoples,
The miracle has come,
No longer are ye helpless,
No longer are ye dumb.

Those whom ye craved to lead you,
Your path of yearning dare,
The few rejoice with feasting,
The millions praise with prayer.

Lift up your hearts, ye peoples,
Cheer every doubting soul,
That found the road a barrier,
Betwixt you and your goal.

Go say to him that feareth
That peace is but a wraith,
"Not rulers, but the people
Shall seal the people's faith."

Lift up your hands, ye peoples,
And take the sacred vow,
To war's age-honored Moloch,
No longer will we bow.

Your leaders who have followed,
Arise and follow them,
Oh, hear ye not the angels Singing of Bethlehem!

—Robert Underwood Johnson.

Blue

Blue is a challenge
Mastering me,
Blue is a benison
Boundless and free:—

Blue in the river;
Blue in the sky;
Blue in the meadows
That dreaming lie;

Blue in a shadow;
Blue in a pearl;
Blue in pale petals
That fringed unfurl;

Blue in horizons
Fading away;
Blue that the tides
Of the ocean display;

Blue in bright pinions
That circling rise;
And blue transcendent
In blessed eyes.

U. S. STEEL COMMON FEATURED UPWARD MOVEMENT IN NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—Establishment of a new high level for the year by U. S. Steel common featured the resumption of a broad upward movement in today's stock market. Although a few weak spots cropped out here and there, final quotations disclosed a preponderance of net gains, many of which ran from 2 to 11 points. Trading started off at a slow pace but gathered momentum as the session progressed, the day's sales again crossing 3,000,000 shares.

Failure of the expected "money squeeze" to develop was an important factor in the day's buying movement. Call money renewed at 7 1-2 per cent, as against 7 yesterday, and held steady at that figure all day. Call loans ran up to 8 per cent late yesterday. Banks called $15,000,000 or more in loans but these were easily replaced by the flow of interior funds.

Establishment of a new low level for the year by sterling exchange revived hopes of a return flow of gold from Europe in the event of any further stiffening in money rates here. Wall street figures that each dollar in gold is the basis for $10 in credit.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden spurt of nearly 4 points in Steel common to a new peak at 155. The stock has been under quiet accumulation for some time in the belief that the recent stiffening in commodity prices and the expanding demand for steel products would be reflected in higher earnings later in the year. Several of the independent steels also were in brisk demand, Central Alloy and Inland mounting to new high levels.

The brisk advance in prices in the face of widespread predictions of another upward flurry in money rates later in the week puzzled many veteran traders. Operators working for higher prices apparently acted on the theory that high money rates will only be temporary and that easier conditions will prevail when the September first dividend and interest payments return to the banks.

"Bear" traders, who have been stubbornly contesting the advance, were again forced to cover in some of the highly speculative issues. International Nickel, which is believed to harbor a large short interest, ran up more than 9 points to a new 112 closing at the top. Other issues to push into new high ground were Barnsdall A, Fleischmann, Brockway Motors, Gliden, Eaton Axle, Commercial Investment Trust, Loose Wiles Biscuit, American Beet Sugar, American Express, May Department Stores, Allis Chalmers, Otis Steel, Stanley Co. of America and Davison Chemical.

Curtiss and Wright each rallied about 5 points, Abraham & Straus, Brooklyn Union Gas, Comemercial Solvents, R. H. Macy and U. S. Rubber first preferred also advanced 5 points or more.

Loft, which had been making new high records almost daily for the past fortnight, suddenly collapsed 4 1-2 points to 13 1-2 on the withdrawal of pool support. Weakness also cropped out in International Harvester, Freeport Texas, Otis Elevator and Warren Bros.

In the railroad group, Missouri Pacific moved into new high ground while Jersey Central broke 11 3-4 points to 300.

Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

Cotton rallied $1.50 a bale and wheat more than a cent a bushel. Coffee prices were slightly easier and sugar quotations were firmer.

Demand sterling sold down to a new low at $4.84 13-16 but cables held steady around $4.85 1-4. Japanese yen broke 17 points to 45.06 cents.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—July earnings reports from 24 railroads today show that the first 56 railroads to report had net operating income for the month aggregating $76,515,000, an increase of 7 per cent over July 1927, when the total was $69,122,000. The gross income, totalling $413,789,000, however, was but little more than one half of one per cent greater than July 1927, indicating more economical and efficient operation.

The unusually hot July is reflected in the earnings of the American Ice company, which were the largest in the company's history that month. The total, before federal taxes and depreciation, was $1,112,954, compared to $935,734 for July last year. President Charles C. Small said the company's business broke all records in New York, Boston, Newark, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington and was noticeably heavy at Atlantic shore resorts.

Motor Wheel corporation of Lansing, Mich., had largest sales of any month in its history in July and to date August sales having exceeded July. Net profit for the first seven months of this year was $1,643,602, against $1,142,515 in the like period of last year.

July deliveries of Brockway Motor Truck corporation were more than double those of July last year and Martin A. O'Mara, president states that prospects are for continued good volume of business. Exports have also shown a marked gain, advancing 43 per cent for the first seven months over the like period last year. The gains reflect in part the acquisition of the Indiana Truck corporation in May, the company's plants are at Cortland, N. Y. and Marion, Ind.

Matthew S. Sloan, president of the Brooklyn Edison Co., was made president of the New York Edison Co., succeeding Nicholas F. Brady, who becomes chairman of the board. This is the first step toward making Mr. Sloan the chief operating executive of the electric subsidiaries of the Consolidated Gas Co., under the recent merger.

Net income of the New England Public Service Co. and subsidiaries before depreciation for the second quarter of 1928 totalled $2,128,351 compared to $1,868,876 in the like period last year.

The National Electric Power Co. and subsidiaries, operating in Maine, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, report net income before depreciation for the second quarter of this year aggregating $3,072,228, a gain of $419,350 over the like period of last year.

A little boy was told by his mother that it was God who makes people good. "Yes, I know it is God," he said, "but mothers help a lot."—The Churchman.

NEW YORK VISITOR IN NEW LONDON THREATENS MEMBERS OF HOUSEHOLD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 28—Adrian Racine, 38, of New York, was taken into custody for his own safety tonight. There is every indication that the man is of unsound mentality, for he has threatened the lives of his relatives and according to a physician, Racine is liable to become violent at any time for his condition clearly indicates a greatly disturbed brain. Tomorrow he will be examined by physicians for the purpose of positively determining his sanity and it is more than probable he will be committed to Norwich state hospital.

Racine, whose home is in New York, where he has been employed as a handler of race horses, has been visiting his brother, Joseph A. Racine, 32 Ocean avenue, having been in New London about a month. Lately he gave evidence of suffering from a mental disorder and a physician prescribed for him, but Racine's condition did not improve. On the contrary it became worse and within two or three days he gave utterances that tended to show that his condition was becoming worse. This evening when he threatened the lives of the entire membership of the household, his brother requested the police to take charge of the man. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Frank Philopena went along Ocean avenue, for Racine had been seen to start through that thoroughfare and in a southerly direction. The officers found Racine headed toward Ocean beach, arresting him at Glenwood avenue.

NEW HAMPSHIRE BOY LOSES GRIP EASILY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 28—J. G. Krouse, a New Hampshire youth, who came here this afternoon en route to the Monogotto Inn, Fishers Island, to spend several days, met with misfortune shortly after his arrival in New London, but his ill-luck was entirely due to his own carelessness. When the boy alighted from a train to await the departure of the 6:20 o'clock boat for Fishers Island, he entered the station and observing a youth walking to one of the piers, the former believed he recognized in the youth an acquaintance. Leaving his grip in the waiting room the boy ran to the pier, only to find that he had been mistaken. When he returned to the station his grip was missing and he could not find it. When he reached Fishers Island he reported his experience and the local police as well as the state police were requested to institute a search for the boy's property.

The officer called to Devlin to stop, but instead of doing so he speeded northerly, through Bank street. Officer Murphy commandeered another auto and overtook the fleeing autoist at Tilley street. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Try to stop from laughing at "Stop That Man" and you'll be doing something that the audience couldn't do when the universal picture opened at the Capitol theatre, New York. It's a production that well deserves the name of comedy as it is packed with laughs of all kinds—long ones, short ones, and medium ones.

Arthur Lake has appeared to advantage in numerous pictures, but never have we seen him in such an excellent portrayal as in "Stop That Man."

Barbara Kent, too, is splendid in the leading feminine role opposite Lake. She has never appeared more charming than as the homeless girl, Muriel.

The whole cast did such excellent work that they should all be mentioned, but we'll name only a few. George Siegmann, Warner Richmond, Eddie Gribbon, Walter McGrail, and Joe Girard.

The second feature, a perfect love story, thrills in plenty and touches of comedy are found in their proper proportions in "Quick Triggers," a great Western picture play in which Universal is starring Fred Humes. This exciting hair-raising, breath-taking drama is now showing at the Palace theatre. The supporting players are headed by Derelys Perdue. Others in the cast are "Pee Wee" Holmes, Benny Corbett, Scotty Mattraw, Dick L'Estrange, Robert Chandler, Wilbur Mack, William H. Balmbridge and Orpha Alba. "Quick Triggers" was directed by Ray Taylor.

The picture Von Sternberg directed "Underworld" an original screen story of gang warfare by Ben Hecht, comes to the Palace next week. Clive Brook, Evelyn Brent, George Bancroft, Larry Semon and Fred Kohler enact the principal roles.

Strand Theatre.

Showing today and tomorrow "The Wilderness Woman," Robert Kane's production for First National, is meeting with unusual favor at the Strand theatre, where it is the feature attraction this week. Aileen Pringle, Lowell Sherman and Chester Conklin appear in feature roles.

Adapted by Paul Bern and Paul Schofield from the Saturday Evening Post serial by Arthur Stringer, "The Wilderness Woman" presents the amusing adventures of an Alaskan miner and his daughter in New York. There are laughs and thrills aplenty.

Lowell Sherman appears as the hero, a part seldom played by him before. Robert Cain steps into the heavy role, while Henry Vibart has an important character part.

One of the most amusing actors in the cast is a bear cub. He provides mirth when he escapes from his room in a fashionable New York hotel and goes on a wild rampage among the guests in the lobby.

Miss Pringle gives an exhibition of the art of self-defense in "The Wilderness Woman." She knocks out the villain, played by Robert Cain, with a stiff right to the jaw. In one of the scenes she appears in mail-order house garments of the style worn in 1903.

CLOSING SERVICES AT WILLIMANTIC CAMP GROUND

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC CAMP GROUND, Aug. 28—Rev. W. D. Woodward of Manchester was the leader at the closing prayer meeting at the Stafford Springs house at 6 p. m. on Sunday. John 1:1-12 was the scripture selection from which he spoke.

At 7.30 p. m was the closing service of the camp meeting. Following a song service, the scripture lesson was read by Rev. Truman H. Woodward of Wapping and prayer was offered by Rev. E. J. Ayres. Madame Davenport sang two selections, viz: "O Come Ye Blessed" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul". A brief address of appreciation was given by the president in recognition of the splendid support given to the camp meeting services. Dr. Goodell was the preacher and his words were founded upon Ephesians 2:20 "And are built upon the foundation of apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone."

The service closed with a brief altar service in which many from the audience came forward to stand in silent testimony of renewed purposes to live for Christ, while prayer was offered by Rev. John Pearce and Dr. Goodell in their behalf.

In view of advance work being done in financing, the camp meeting association and money raised by the churches of Norwich district in response to that effort it was not necessary to have the heavy canvass for funds on the closing Sunday that has been necessary in former years. The president announced at the close of the service on Sunday evening that all the expenses of the camp meeting this year have been met and a troublesome debt of $200 which has been carried over several years has been cancelled.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Florion and their two sons Franklin and Sherwood of East Hartford were on the camp ground Saturday and Sunday.

Friends of the family will be interested to learn that Miss Winifred E. Bromley, the older daughter, will enter the state normal school at Bridgewater, Mass., the coming September. The younger daughter, Miss Eleanor L. Bromley will enter the Deaconness hospital in Boston in September to train for the nursing profession.

One face that has been missed this year is that of Mrs. Jane Reed of Worcester, Mass., who died during the year. For 35 years she was in charge of the children's services here.

Tag day was observed on the ground Saturday. This is an annual observance and the object is to raise money for the playground.

Rev. Clinton E. Bromley of Brockton, Mass., was the leader at the Stafford Springs house at 6 p. m.

Rev. T. H. W. Jones and his wife, Rev. Florence Jones who are joint pastors of the Federated churches of Mansfield Center have been on the ground each day part of the week.

Rev. Edward J. Ayres is a veteran on this ground. He passed the 81st anniversary of his birth here one day the past week. He plays games with the young people on the playground and has supplied the pulpit in different places often the past year.

The face of Rev. Robert D. Dyson has been seen at many of the services. He is another veteran who spends his summers here. He began his ministry at Eastford in 1876. With Mrs. Dyson and his daughter Miss Helen, he occupies his cottage on Haven avenue.

C. H. Dewing of Lisbon spent the wek end at the camp ground.

John I. Rhodes of Tolland has been a frequent visitor at the camp meeting during the week.

HOPKINTON, R. I.

George T. Kenyon, 77, died Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Mills. He was the son of Peleg and Sally Kenyon and was a lifelong resident of Hopkinton. His wife died a short time since. He is survived by a son, Charles R. Kenyon and a daughter, Mrs. Annette G. Mills, also by five grandchildren, a brother Charles Kenyon, of Richmond, R. I. and a sister, Mrs. Nettie Stillman of Westerly. He was a farmer and a skillful hunter.

John E. Wells, while crossing the street near his home one day last week was struck by an automobile as he stepped aside to avoid two cars. He escaped injury except some bruises on his legs.

To Left Fielder Wightman more than any other player on the winning team belongs the credit of putting the game on ice. He was all over the outer pasture like a shadow and no matter where his opponents drove the ball he was there to receive it. His throwing to bases was with rifle shot swiftness and he compelled the base runners of the day team to hug their bases.

BODIES OF MERRILL AND RONNE, BADLY BURNED, FOUND NEAR CHARRED PLANE IN WILDERNESS NEAR PORT JERVIS, N. Y.

Discovery and Identification Made by G. B. Grosvenor, Vice President of the Fairchild Aviation Corp, and Nelson Kelly, Fairchild Pilot—Kelly Attempted to Land Beside the Wreck, But His Plane Landed in a Bog and Turned Over—Neither Kelly Nor Grosvenor Was Injured.

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 29—(AP)—In a telephone call tonight to G. B. Grosvenor, vice-president of the Fairchild Aviation Corp., E. Kelly, Fairchild pilot, reported he had discovered and identied the bodies of M. M. Merrill and Edwin Ronne beside the charred wreckage of their plane in the wooded wilderness near Port Jervis, N. Y. Both bodies were badly burned, he said.

Kelly said he had sighted a wing of the plane as he flew over the spot from Ithaca, N. Y. It was a long chance, he reported, but he attempted a landing beside the wreck. Kelly's plane bogged down in a muddy area and turned over, spilling the pilot and his observed. Neither was injured.

The spot in which the wreck was discovered is almost virgin wilderness, nearly impenetrable and although not far from Port Jervis, difficult to reach except from the air.

Kelly reported he and his observer found the bodies not far from the plane.

The discovery ended a two days' search in which every available airplane and pilot in this vicinity flew back and forth across the area over which Merrill's ship was known to have passed. Headquarters were established at Ithaca, where Casey Jones, head of the Curtiss company flying service, took charge of the searchers.

State troopers of New York and Pennsylvania lent their aid, air mail pilots scanned their course as they covered their regular routes, and even train dispatchers spread the alarm among station agents of the railroads. The Curtiss company offered a $500 reward to searchers on the ground.

Roger Q. Williams, in the great sesquiplane, Roma being groomed for trans-Atlantic flight, took part in the hunt, and Brig. Gen. Haskell offered a detachment of national guard cavalry if they could be of any use.

Merrill was manager at Curtiss field and Ronne occupied a similar post at the Municipal flying field at Buffalo. They took off there Monday afternoon in an orange-colored biplane owned by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The ship had been laid up for repairs at Buffalo and Merrill and Ronne were to fly it to Curtiss field and there deliver it to Lindbergh.

It was a speedy ship and should have made the comparatively short flight from Buffalo in a few hours at most. When it failed to arrive Monday night, some alarm was felt, but both Merrill and Ronne were expert pilots, and it was believed they had negotiated a forced landing somewhere en route.

When the night passed without word from the missing men, fear for their safety increased, and yesterday the search began from both ends of the route they were to have followed.

But yesterday fog and bad flying weather hampered the search and the hunters were oblized to abandon it temporarily. Today planes were flying in fan formation across New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and three states were deeply concerned over the safety of the two fliers.

Reports of orange-colored planes observed overhead came from several points, but each was run down and established as some other ship.

Today a woman who lives not far from the spot where the biplane crashed, reported she had heard something that sounded like an explosion late Monday night, but she did not investigate. It was thought the noise she heard was the crash of Merrill's ship.

SIMILAR TO TRAGEDY THAT BEFELL CARANZA

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Discovery of the wrecked plane and crushed bodies of M. M. Merrill and Edwin Ronne, in an almost inaccessible spot in the northern Pennsylvania woods tonight indicated that the two Curtiss Aviation company officials had met death in circumstances similar to the tragedy which befell Capt. Emilio Carranza, Mexican ace, last month.

Apparently Merrill and Ronne were forced down in the woods as was Carranza, who fell to his death near Mt. Holly, N. J. Carranza's plane was not discovered, however, until a berry picker stumbled upon it in the woods. A systematic search in which scores of planes took part brought this new tragedy to light.

MECHANICS TO SALVAGE PARTS OF WRECKED PLANE

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 29—(AP)—Six of the best mechanics in the Curtiss service left here tonight for Milford, Pa., to salvage, if possible, parts of the plane in which M. M. Merrill and L. M. Ronne crashed to their death in the woods near that town.

They have been directed to bring back such parts as may be saved and to burn or bury the remainder of the wreck to thwart souvenir hunters.

Mrs. Merrill, widow of the Curtiss field manager, had not been told tonight that Merrill's body had been found. She remained at the field, awaiting reports from searchers and praying for her husband's safety.

BODY OF SEATTLE PLANE VICTIM FOUND IN BAY

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Aug. 29—(AP)—A woman's body presumably that of Mrs. Alexander MacCallum Scott, one of the passengers in the ill-fated Victoria-Seattle plane, and a wicker chair were found in Discovery bay today, according to a message to the United States coast guard base here from coast guard patrol boats on Discovery bay.

MERRILL AND RONNE VETERAN ARMY PILOTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Mazel M. Merrill and Edwin M. Ronne, whose bodies were found tonight beside the wreckage of their plane in the woods near Port Jervis, N. Y., were veteran army pilots.

Merrill learned to fly in Texas during the World war, was commissioned a first lieutenant and assigned as instructor to student army pilots. After the war he went on a barnstorming tour through the southwest, where he met and married Miss Nellie Farmer. She and a five-year-old son survive.

He entered the Curtiss Service at New York several years ago and in 1925 was made manager of the flying service at Curtiss field. In the past three years he superintended the instruction of hundreds of young pilots, many of whom he taught personally.

Merrill was regarded as one of the most dependable pilots in this country and his caution was proverbial. Last March the landing gear of a new plane he was testing came loose at the take-off but his skill brought the ship back without further damage.

Ronne was born in Minneapolis and was graduated from the University of Montana. He enlisted in the army aviation corps, received his first flying instruction at Berkeley, Calif., and in 1918 was officer in charge of the 271st bombing squadron at Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland.

After the war he studied aeronautical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and in 1925 became associated with the Curtiss company. In 1929 he was made manager of the Buffalo airport.

AMERICAN GIRL WON WRIGLEY MARATHON SWIM

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Led by 20-year old Ethe Hertle of New York, American swimmers captured the five money-winning places in the ten mile Wrigley swim for women at the Canadian national exhibition today. Leading all the way Miss Hertle swam the distance in 3 hours, 34 minutes, 36 seconds to win a duel for the $10,000 first prize from her 16 year old rival, Olive Gatterdam of Seattle, Wash. Miss Gatterdam took second place about 200 yards behind and won $3,000. Her time was 3:37:40.

The two leaders were nearly a mile ahead of their nearest rivals. Third place went to Ruth Tower of Denver, with Jane Thoms of Terre Haute, Ind., fourth and Anna Benoit of Westfield, Mass., fifth. The big surprise of the race came at the finish and shot Gertrude Ederle of New York, the first woman to swim the English channel, out of the money. Miss Ederle blamed "lack of competitive training" for her failure to place.

"I haven't raced for two years," she said, "and it was bound to tell on me."

All of the first five swimmers are eligible to enter the men's 15 mile marathon over the same course next week but neither Miss Hertle nor Miss Gatterdam have decided yet whether they will compete.

The first ten to finish, with the prizes won and the official times of the winners, follow:

Ethel Hertle, New York, $10,000. Time 3:34:36.

Olive Gatterdam, Seattle, $3,000. Time 3:37:40.

Ruth Tower, Denver, $1,000. Time 6:03.

He will contest with Minor Moore, an attorney of Los Angeles, democrat, for the United States senatorship at the general elections in November.

SENATOR BINGHAM AT HIS HOME IN SALEM

HARTFORD, Aug. 29—(AP)—United States Senator Hiram Bingham has returned to his home in Salem after a two-months trip to Europe which he made to show his sons "some of my favorite cathedrals, mountain tops and pictures" and to have a vacation. He was accompanied by his three younger sons, Brewster, Mitchell and Jack, and visited England, Italy and Switzerland in addition to a few days in France.

The development of European airports, Senator Bingham found particularly interesting. Europe he said, is going in very strongly for large passenger planes, although not as much night flying is done there as in the United States and Europe does not fly its air mail over such long distances as the United States does. Some of the planes now in operation carry 16 to 18 passengers, while at an aviation exposition in Paris he saw a plane designed to carry 24 passengers.

Senator Bingham did some flying in Italy, he said, among his air trips there being one over the city of Rome, but found much more to interest him in the airports. Attention which is being paid to the terminals for airplanes, he said, shows a realization that nine-tenths of success in aviation is dependent upon the ground part of the service.

Senator Bingham expects to visit the republican state convention next week as an "interested spectator," he said. He has no plans for his time before the reconvening of congress in December.

PROGRAM FOR CEREMONIES OF ROBINSON NOTIFICATION

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 29—(AP)—The eve of his notification as democratic vice presidential nominee found Senator Robinson of Arkansas thinking more of the campaign ahead than of the formal ceremonies tomorrow. He was at a desk in his apartment at the Arlington hotel at an early hour and throughout most of the day worked on several addresses to be delivered in the next two weeks in his tour through the southland.

W. H. Martin chairman of the arrangements committee here said that the notification program would be virtually as follows:

From 6 to 8 p. m. central standard time—Band concert. At 8 p. m., a rendition of the "Star Spangled Banner" by an Arkansas National Guard band, meeting called to order by John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee; invocation by the Rev. J. Wayne Mann, Methodist Episcopal church, South, of Arkadelphia, Ark.; address of welcome by Governor Parnell.

It is expected these exercises will require thirty minutes and up to this point the program will be broadcast only by station KTHS, the Hot Springs station.

At 8:30 the program will be broadcast from a nation-wide hook-up of 50 or more radio stations.

Mr. Raskob will introduce Claude G. Bowers of New York city, who will deliver the notification address.

150th Anniversary Of Battle Of R. I.

Officials of State, Nation Participate in Celebration Yesterday

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 29—(AP)—Officials of state, city and nation and thousands of citizens today participated in the 150th anniversary of the battle of Rhode Island, regarded as one of the most vital engagements of the Revolution.

Opening with brief early morning exercises at the old Revolutionary earthworks, known as Fort Barton in Tiverton, the celebration continued throughout the day, shifting at noon to Butts' hill in Portsmouth, then to Newport, where a military parade was held in the afternoon, and ending at Newport beach where a banquet was planned for the evening.

The exercises at Butts' hill included the firing of a salute by the Newport artillery company which was answered by one from the U. S. cruiser Raleigh, anchored in the harbor. There were addresses by William Tyler Page of Washington, D. C., clerk of the house of representatives, Senator Ralph C. McMeehan, representing Gov. Norman S. Case, and others.

The military parade was made up of units representing all of the military and naval forces in the city, all of the independent commands of the state and officers and the crew of the French gunboat Villa D'Ys, which was sent by the French government to participate.

U. S. Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts and Federal Judge Ira Lloyd Letts of Providence were to speak at the banquet tonight.

ATTEMPT MADE TO WRECK NEW HAVEN ROAD EXPRESS

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 29—(AP)—A heavy railroad spike discovered by an employe of the New Haven road and believed intended to wreck the Washington-Montreal, crack limited between Montreal and Washington would in all probabability have caused a serious wreck, according to a railroad official. The attempt to wreck the train was discovered yesterday but only became known today as officials tried to minimize the incident.

The spike, about eight inches in length, was found by a track walker a mile north of the city less than five minutes before the train was due to pass the spot. After attempting to dislodge the spike, he ran toward the onrushing train and flagged it.

It required ten minutes to remove the implement to allow the train to proceed. Aside from 350 passengers on the train, much valuable mail and $2,000,000 in gold representing the semi-weekly federal reserve shipments from federal reserve banks in the northern New England area, was in the single baggage car. The train was made up of nine sleepers, two day coaches and the baggage-mail car.

EIGHT NATIONS WILL CONFORM TO PEACE PACT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—Eight nations today had formally communicated to the United States government their adherence or intention to adhere to the Kellogg anti-war treaty in response to the invitation extended by the United States to 48 countries last Monday immediately after the signing of the compact in Paris.

The official adherences came from Peru and Liberia and the declarations of intention to adhere came from the Dominican Republic, Denmark, Bolivia, Austria, Cuba and Costa Rica. Unofficial advices also brought information of the intention to adhere from Bulgaria, Rumania, Norway, Argentina, and Jugoslavia.

Favorable replies from the remaining nations are expected to reach Washington within a short time in view of Secretary Kellogg's pressing invitation pointing out that "any government adhering promptly will fully share in the benefits of the treaty at the very moment it comes into effect."

AUTUMN SESSION OF THE L. OF N. COUNCIL OPENS TODAY

GENEVA, Aug. 29—(AP)—The troublesome request by Costa Rica for an interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine by the council of the league of nations, will not be included in the agenda when that body starts its autumn session tomorrow. Instead the subject will be considered privately.

This was decided by council leaders tonight. It is likely that a reply of a sort will be sent to the Central American government but this reply probably will be confined to a fact statement as to how the doctrine came to be mentioned in the covenant of the league.

The general view is that the Monroe Doctrine is a unilateral proclamation by the United States. Therefore, it is held the league of nations is neither competent to explain nor justified in expounding its meaning.

Several changes in council membership are in prospect. China's term expires but there is a feeling that it should be re-elected so that it will be well represented at Geneva during reconstruction in that country. Spain probably will be chosen to the council as successor to Holland. Either Venezuela or Paraguay is likely to be named as successor to Columbia.

When members of the council meet they will not recognize the famous "glass room" where for so many years they have held their deliberations.

Feverish Speculation In The Stock Market

Average Price of 20 Leading Industrial Issues Set a New Record For All Time.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—Feverish speculation in stocks on the New York stock exchange today lifted nearly 50 issues to new high records on gains running from $2 to almost $14 a share. A heavy wave of profit-taking in the last hour checked the advance, but not until after the average price of 20 leading industrial issues, compiled by the Associated Press, had set a new high record for all time.

A mysterious inflow of funds, which kept the official call money rate from going above 7 1-2 per cent. and actually resulted in loans being made in the "outside market" as low as 7 per cent., provided the chief stimulus for the advance. "Bear" traders, who had been led to believe that the heavy month-end and Labor day demands for funds made a 10 per cent. call rate inevitable, took another terrific beating.

Trading started off at such a brisk pace that the ticker fell more than 20 minutes behind the market by early afternoon, but most of the delay had been made up before the close. Total sales of 3,743,500 shares have been exceeded only once since last spring.

Radio and American Smelting shared the leadership of the market, the former running up more than $12 to $201 and then slipping back to $197.50 and the latter soaring more than $10 to a new high record at $248. Other issues pushed more than $10 to a new high record at $248. Other issues pushed into new high ground included American Can, Briggs Manufacturing, Calumet & Hecla, Fox Film, Loose Wiles Biscuit, National Cash Register, Paramount Famous Players, St. Louis Southwestern, Texas & Pacific, U. S. Steel and Victor Talking Machine.

THREE WOMEN TESTIFY IN VARE INVESTIGATION

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 29—(AP)—Three women, residents of the Athalia Daly Home for Business Girls today told a United States senate sub-committee investigating William B. Wilson's contest of William S. Vare's election in 1926 as United States senator from Pennsylvania, how in September 1927 a man had turned over to one of them an envelope containing 58 tax receipts and a number of cards reading:

"Vote the republican ticket straight."

The witnesses were Miss Jane M. McKibbin, matron at the home; Miss Ada Gass, clerk to the matron and Mrs. Kathleen Purcell, secretary to the president of the Pittsburgh League of Women Voters and a resident of the home.

Miss McKibbin said a man giving the name of "John Killkeary" appeared at the home with a list of the names of the 58 girls living there. After checking the names to make sure all were residents of the home, "Killkeary" left. Miss McKibbin said. Several weeks later she testified, he returned and handed over to her an envelope containing the 58 tax receipts and the "vote straight" cards.

Miss McKibbin said a number of the girls at the home were not old enough to vote, but the envelope contained tax receipts for them anyway.

HOOVER TO DELIVER SPEECH IN NEW ENGLAND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—(AP)—While Herbert Hoover discussed his own speaking program today with some republican leaders, directors of the party finances met at republican headquarters, for the announced purpose of trimming the national campaign budget down to three million dollars.

The nominee progressed far enough in his work to fix definitely that he would deliver at least three or four speeches before starting back to California late in October. However, his program will be sufficiently flexible to permit the addition of other addresses if they become necessary to meet the exigencies of the campaign. Although he has decided against speaking on Labor day, he plans to expand the views on labor laid down in his acceptance speech in one of the first addresses he makes next month.

Many of the details of his activities still are to be worked out, but in his conferences today with Representative Walton Newton, of Minnesota, chairman of the speakers' bureau and Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, director of the eastern speakers' bureau, he laid down in general the course of action he will take. The three or four speeches already decided upon will be delivered in the east and at least one will be made in New England.

GOV. SMITH TO VISIT FAIR AT SYRACUSE TODAY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 29—(AP)—Welcomed by a cheering crowd, Governor Smith came to Syracuse late today for his annual visit to the New York state fair and to attend the "farm dinner" given by Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard.

Although he was traveling in the role of chief executive of the state and intended to deliver only non-political speeches while here, admirers who greeted him showed by their ovation that they also took into account his candidacy for the presidency.

The scene of the Barnum dinner which the governor planned to attend tonight was at the Ondaga Golf and Country club, about eight miles from the city. He had promised to deliver a brief speech confined to non-political subjects.

The governor intends to attend the fair tomorrow, but whether he will make a speech, as he has done annually in the past, depends largely on the weather. He expects to return to Albany tomorrow night to remain over Labor day and probably until he sets out on his campaign tour.

SUSPECTED OF PUTTING CYANIDE IN HOME BREW

Mrs. Katherine Weiss and Samuel Weiss, Her Brother-in-Law, Are Held in New Britain Without Bond on Suspicion of Having Caused the Death of Mrs. Weiss' Husband—Couple Under Suspicion Had Run Away Together in 1927—Thus Far Three Persons Are Said to Have Found Kick of Death in the Home Brew

NEW BRITAIN, Aug. 29—(AP)—Mrs. Katherine Weiss and Samuel Weiss, her brother-in-law, are being held by police tonight without bond on suspicion that the two conspired the death of her husband by putting poison in home brew beer which also caused the deaths of two others.

After questioning Samuel Weiss tonight, detectives admitted no progress had been made to prove that traces of the poison found in John Stehr's stomach, either an autopsy, was put into the making of the beer. The third victim of the deadly brew is John Stein, 40, who drank a bottle of the contents today "to show that the deaths of Weiss and Stehr on Sunday night were not caused from the brew."

Records at police headquarters revealed that Mrs. Weiss and her brother-in-law ran away together on Aug. 1, 1927, and that John Weiss was arrested that day for fighting with his brother. Since that date, Weiss complained to police that his brother and his wife had disappeared on several occasions.

John Weiss and John Stehr were buried yesterday and action by police followed today when John Stein, brother-in-law of Mrs. Weiss, went to the Weiss cellar while his wife and Mrs. Weiss were making wine. Picking up a bottle of the deadly beer he said he was going to drink it "to prove that it was foolish to think that these two men died from this beer. "I'll show you I'm not afraid of it," he is reported as having said.

Soon after he was found in the back yard violently ill and he died in the New Britain hospital an hour later. Hospital authorities pumped a pint of liquid from his stomach for analysis which showed a quantity of poison.

Medical Examiner Waterman Lyon then began an investigation and police arrested Mrs. Weiss and her brother-in-law. It was not certain tonight whether the two will be arraigned in court tomorrow.

SEES SMITH STRONGER IN BAY STATE THAN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Gov Alfred E. Smith is even stronger right now in Massachusetts than he is in New York, John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston, told leaders at democratic national headquarters today.

"Governor Smith will carry Massachusetts by a hundred thousand votes and, in my opinion, he will carry the entire state ticket with him," Mr. Fitzgerald said.

"What is true of Massachusetts is true of Rhode Island, where the character of the population is the same. And I look to see New Hampshire get into the democratic column for Smith, as it did for Wilson in 1916. And I know that Connecticut will do the same.

"These states have been republican because democratic women have not registered. But Smith's candidacy has furnished the impetus for women, deeply interested in his humanitarism, to get out and vote."

From Boston today also came James J. Phelan of the firm of investment brokers, Hornblower and Weeks. Mr. Phelan, formerly a republican, has announced he is for Smith because of his progressiveism in government, which, he declares, "is good for business."

INVESTIGATING SHOOTING BY DRY AGENTS IN CHICAGO

CHICACO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Harry M. Dengler of Washington prohibition headquarters arrived today and launched an investigation into the alleged rough methods and quick-trigger tactics of a special prohibition unit commanded by George "Hard-Boiled" Golding during six months of activities in this district.

Members of the squad several months ago shot and wounded a municipal court bailiff during a South Side raid and last week shot and wounded Merle Adams, a salesman, during a raid in a loop building.

The squads activities have resulted in frequent clashes with the police, quarrels with the state authorities over jurisdiction in the shooting cases, a rebuke from Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for raiding without warrants and a charge that dum-dum bullets were used in the Adams shooting.

ELKS' COUNTRY FAIR WILL OPEN TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 29—Thursday the big Elks' Country fair, an event which is anticipated every season by the people of eastern Connecticut, opens at the Elks' park on Pleasant street under the auspices of Willimantic lodge, No. 1311. Again the slogan is "Bigger and Better" and the general committee rests assured that the public will have little difficulty in adjudging this fair, which is the tenth annual, as the best and largest ever held. The slogan has been carried into every department and is emphasized in the amusements, stage and aerial performances, handiwork and livestock exhibits and last mentioned but not least in importance, in the extensive midway. Many of the committeemen have been actively engaged in the fair arrangements for the past ten years and, profiting by this experience, some of them are virtually in the professional class in making plans for what the public would most enjoy. Final reports on the fair were submitted by committees at a special meeting Wednesday evening with Exalted Ruler Maurice S. Leonard presiding. Herold C. Lincoln, chairman of the general committee, accepted the reports and gave final instructions.

The big three-passenger Challenger aeroplane that will be given away with seven automobiles at the closing of the fair Labor day night arrived at Brown's field in Mansfield this afternoon. Mechanics started at once to dismantle it and take the parts to the Elks' park where it is to be reassembled and remain on display.

A big event attending the official opening of the fair Thursday evening will be the appearance of a squadron of aeroplanes in an impressive series of maneuvers and stunts over the city. Major Ladd stated today that as many service aviators as possible would be sent to Willimantic to participate in the aerial show and it is hoped to make this first air invasion of the city one that will be long remembered.

Saturday will be Children's day. Children will be given free admission for the matinee, which starts at 2:30 o'clock, to either take part in or witness the juvenile bathing beauty contest. This event, which is open to all little girls between the ages of 4 and 7 years, promises well to be one of the feature attractions. In addition to the contest there will be the usual acts of vaudeville and entertainment. During the afternoon the children at the fair will receive envelopes, 50 of which will contain tickets entitling the holder to free chances at the novelty and amusement booths and free rides on the Ferris wheel and merry-go-round. All rides and amusements will be marked down to five cents, or half-price, for the children. The dog show will be held Labor day afternoon and that evening will come the adult bathing beauty contest.

Charles Bartlett, 21, of R. F. D. No. 2, Guilford, was charged with reckless driving at the session of police court this morning and was fined $25 and costs, $15 of the fine being remitted, leaving an assessment of $17.65. Police Officer Alfred Meikle, who made the arrest, testified that Bartlett came down Main street in a Ford car and made a quick stop in front of the Willimantic Grain Co. store. Through Attorney Kelly, Bartlett pleaded not guilty. Officer Leo Piche also testified for the prosecution.

In order to provide for the expected increase in enrollment in the Killingly high school junior department one of the extra rooms has been equipped with new desks and chairs and will be put into use this year for the first time.

The repairs which have been under way are now practically completed.

The corridors and several of the classrooms have been painted in the Danielson grammar school and are much improved in appearance.

The most extensive repairs have been under way at Dayville where the old outbuildings have been removed and new lavatories installed by building a small addition in the rear of the old school building. The two classrooms on the lower floor have been greatly improved in lighting by the installation of a solid bank of windows on the north and south walls respectively. This has necessitated a re-arrangement of the seats in the two rooms which are thus greatly improved.

At Ballouville, classrooms have been repainted and electric lights installed.

At East Killingly the schoolhouse has been re-shingled.

Minor repairs have been completed at the other school buildings so that the school year will open with all buildings in very much improved condition.

The first teachers' meeting of the year will be held Monday evening at the high school when the teachers of both the senior and junior department of the high school together with Mr. Warren and Mr. Parker will meet at 7:30 o'clock.

The first Elementary teachers' meeting of both the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn will be held on Friday afternoon, September 7, at the high school building at 3:20 o'clock.

The people of Brooklyn should feel proud of the newly remodeled Center school which has been completely rebuilt. The building is now heated with steam and an electrically operated pressure water system has been installed which provides an ample supply of running water for bubblers and lavatories. New and modern lavatories have been installed for both boys and girls. Seats in all rooms have been rearranged to meet the requirements of the new lighting system. New shades have been provided and electric lights installed in each classroom as well as in the corridors, furnace room, lavatories and elsewhere where needed.

This work has been done within the appropriation voted at special town meeting and it would seem that the building committee and the contractor are deserving of much praise for having carried through this work in time for the opening of school next week.

A death at Dayville today was that of Narcisse Heneault, who has been a resident there for the past nine years and for 26 years prior to that time living in Danielson. He was 78 years of age. Mr. Heneault became ill last Monday and his condition rapidly became serious. His death occurred at the home of Selectman and Mrs. Napoleon P. Gingras. He was a native of Canada, but had lived practically all of his life in the United States and was married at North Adams, Mass. Mrs. Gingras died 22 years ago.

Mr. Gingras leaves twelve children: John of New London, George, Alcid and Raoul of Danielson, Delor of Plainfield and Edward of Bristol, Conn., Mrs. Ida Caouette of Danielson, Mrs. Joseph Bernier of New Bedford, Mrs. Victoria Vachon of Norwich, Mrs. Lena Gingras of Dayville, Miss Adwilda Heneault of Danielson and Mrs. Lauretta Eddes of New Haven.

One son, George J. Heneault, with Mrs. Heneault, and their son and the only living brother of the deceased, Edmund Heneault, of Actonville, P. Q., left here Sunday for a motor trip to the Adirondacks and thence into Canada to be absent four weeks. This afternoon telegrams were being sent out in an effort to locate them, but without success up to a late hour.

There came to The Bulletin today evidence that the comment made in this column this morning relative to the deplorable condition of the detours around sections of the Danielson-Brooklyn state highway reconstruction job was unwelcome at least to one who represented himself as being an engineer at the work. It may be remarked that there is no law against telling the public about the condition of these detours, or of recalling to the public mind that the people of this state pay a large proportion of the cost of constructing this particular highway. As a disseminator of information that may be of value to the public items relative to the detours are news. As to their condition around this particular job, anyone may satisfy his curiosity by riding over what is left of them. To the comment that through traffic was being allowed between Church street and Day street last Sunday, one may answer that the fact took on the character of a well guarded secret. The big detour sign, diverting traffic, was in place at Church street and a steady stream of drivers were obeying it, as was the case with traffic coming out of Danielson and following the Day street-Church street detour in the opposite direction. The advice to keep off these detours remains good, unless necessity takes one over them.

This afternoon the funeral of Mark Braley, 6 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Braley, was held from their home in Attawaugan, burial being in St. Joseph's cemetery at Dayville. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

In what must be the final heat wave for the present August, the mercury climbed to 91 degrees in Danielson today.

Mr. McDaniel was reported today as somewhat improved.

PUTNAM

CONGRESSMAN OLIVER IS SPEAKERS AT DEM. RALLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 29—Five hundred democrats filled St. John's hall Tuesday evening to listen to an address from Congressman Frank Oliver of New York, as well as rally speeches from several leading Connecticut democratic officials. The meeting was the first of a series to be held by the newly organized Putnam "Al Smith" club. President of the club, Edward Giard, opened the meeting with a short address and introduced the New York congressman. All through his address Mr. Oliver lauded the principles of democracy and gave the Putnam Smith supporters personal glimpses of his friend, Gov. Alfred E. Smith. Mr. Oliver's speech was smooth through its entire course and he failed to comment on any of the republican acts, as others have done. He closed his address with a prophecy of a democratic victory in November. As the congressman retired from the speaker's platform, he received rousing cheers from nearly every person in attendance.

The second speaker of the evening was ex-Congressman Augustus Lonegon of Hartford. Mr. Lonegon delivered a rally speech and outlined many plans that towns and cities of the state may advance for securing new voters. Mr. Lonegon is a former Thompson man, and at the end of the meeting he spent a few moments renewing his old acquaintances.

Other speakers of the evening were John Ryan of Middletown, Vincent D. Lamb of Middletown, regional director of the state central committee, and Edmund Dubois, chairman of the democratic town committee of Putnam.

The rally Tuesday evening was by far the largest democratic gathering in Putnam in many years and its attendance greatly eclipsed the republican turnout of Monday evening. Ward captains, who have been canvassing the various wards of the city, reported the number of newly registered voters to Registrar George Potvin, who later announced that he had received nearly 200 new democratic voters. The local party leaders stated last evening that another meeting similar to Tuesday's will be held within a few weeks.

Mrs. Harry L. Torrey of School street, chairman of the "Fresh Air children" committee, has announced that the New York East Siders will board the New York express leaving Putnam Thursday at 1:25 for their homes in New York. The children have been in Putnam for a fortnight and their vacation comes to a close Thursday noon. Mrs. Torrey has requested that all residents of Putnam who have entertained the youngsters during their stay here, be at the railroad station in Putnam promptly at 1 o'clock, so a check-up may be made and arrangements for their departure be completed before train time.

The visit of the Fresh Air kiddies in Putnam this year has been unusually successful. Health examinations have revealed that the country life in and about Putnam has proved a great asset to them physically. The kiddies' visit this year was free from disaster of any nature; only one near-fatality loomed up, but this was averted when Malcolm Tourtellotte and Stuart Sabin, both of Putnam, rescued one of the visiting children from drowning.

Mrs. Torrey stated this morning that the success of the visit this year will promise the return of the children to Putnam next summer.

Speed records were established by the members of the Putnam fire department Tuesday evening when a test call of Box 31 on Woodstock avenue was sounded, shortly after 7 o'clock. Chairman of the fire committee of the common council, John M. Dean, with Supt. of Fire Alarm Charles T. Thayer and Chief Ralph E. Thurston, arranged for the sounding of the alarm at this box, since it is the farthest box in the city.

The distance is one mile and one-tenth. The hook and ladder company with 11 men made the trip in 2 minutes and 56 seconds. The No. 2 hose company of the Smith street fire station with nine firemen arrived at the fire box in 2 minutes and 50 seconds. The high scorer was the No. 1 pumper of the Central fire station, carrying two men, which topped all records when they made the trip in 2 minutes and 20 seconds. Chief Thurston, who was aware of the test, left the Central fire station and was at the alarm box in 1 minute and 50 seconds.

Alderman Dean was pleased with the efficient work of the members of the department, and felt assured that these records can be broken when a blaze actually occurs and an alarm come in from one of the other fire boxes in the city. The test call was struck by Aylward Thayer, son of Superintendent Thayer of the fire alarm system.

The faint drone of an airplane was heard shortly before noon today and a few moments later the large plane was seen hovering over the city. It appeared to be lost and evidently was attempting to regain its bearings. The plane was a combination silver and dull yellow color. It was thought that the aviators guiding the plane might be the lost airmen from Curtiss field and Buffalo airport, M. M. Merrill and Edwin Rone. The plane circled above Putnam and was off. It was flying at a high altitude, and its identity is unknown.

Miss Ida Vacher of New York city, formerly of Putnam, is visiting in Putnam with Mr. and Mrs. Byron LaMondy. Miss Vacher came to Putnam five years ago with the Fresh Air kiddies. Mr. and Mrs. LaMondy of School street, with whom she stayed during her summer visit, induced her to remain in Putnam at their home. Miss Vacher graduated from Putnam high school with honors in 1926, and shortly after returned to her home in New York where she entered a large New York hospital to study nursing.

Supt. Frank Dumas of the city street department has just recently completed the laying of sewers on Powhattan street. Money for this purpose was appropriated by the city council and the completion of this work will afford more sanitary conditions in this part of the city.

Complaints are coming in from automobile operators, relative to the condition of parking spaces at the post office. This afternoon a frequenter of this site complained of the waste water left there after a rain, and of the grease drippings from cars which are parked in that spot. One steps from his car into the grease and from there must be an athlete in order to leap over the little pool of water to avoid soiling of shoes and clothes.

The membership of the Putnam Rotary club gathered this noon at the Putnam Inn where luncheon was served, followed by the weekly business of the club. President English introduced a well-known personage in Putnam, Judge Lucius H. Fuller, who spoke to the members and related incidents of his recent trip to California. About a month ago, Judge Fuller, Putnam's veteran insurance agent and now an octogenarian, left on a trip to California. His departure was unheralded until cards were received by his Putnam friends. At Rotary this afternoon, Mr. Fuller spoke of conditions as he found them in the west, and touched upon the scenic splendors of the trip.

An engineer of the state highway department was in Putnam Tuesday, his mission being to make a survey of the Providence street bridge, which has been adjudged by local engineers as unsafe. A number of measurements were taken, and a report of the condition is to be made to the town selectmen next week, outlining what steps will have to be taken to make the span safe. At present, loads on the bridge have been limited to six tons.

The public schools in the towns of Woodstock, Pomfret and Eastford will open for the fall term on next Tuesday, Sept. 4.

Mrs. Charles Rawley entertained 14 members of the Ladies' auxiliary of Union grange, No. 13, P. of H., Slatersville, R. I., at her home on Grove street Tuesday afternoon. The afternoon was devoted to a social circle, with refreshments being served. The trip from Slatersville to Putnam was made in a large special bus.

Dewey P. Bourque of this city, plaintiff in a suit for $75,000 against Gordon brothers, Solomon and Charles, who are business associates under the name of the Dayville Coal & Grain Co., with branch offices in Putnam and Danielson and with headquarters in Dayville, has retained the Spellacy, Wholean & Yeoman's law firm of Hartford as his counsel. The Gordon brothers have engaged the services of Attorney Irving H. Miron of this city. An attachment has been ordered on the property of the defendants and a return is asked for in superior court in this city on the first Tuesday of September. Mr. Bourque alleges that on the morning of Oct. 15, a large truck, the property of the Dayville Coal & Grain property, came from an intersection known as Wilcox's Four Corners, near West Woodstock, and collided with his car, badly injuring the car and he sustaining serious injuries, including a fracture of the jaw, and fractures of the legs and serious deformities have resulted to him due to fractures of the face and head.

He alleges that the truck was being operated in a careless manner and that the operator gave no consideration to his warning signals.

The coal company's property is attached and the company is operating its plants as usual.

Principal E. L. Robinson of Putnam high school announced today that the school will open at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, standard time. Examinations for students who have received special tutoring during the summer months, and who will take the "make-up" examinations will be held at the high school at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, standard time.

Selectman William P. Warren left this afternoon for Buttonwoods Beach, where he will spend the day at his summer camp. Mrs. Warren and Francis Warren have been at the beach during the summer.

Early risers reported today of seeing two large birds, with wing spreads of about three feet, fly low over the Quinebaug river in the vicinity of the Long bridge on Bridge street. The birds were thought to be cranes. Their description was given as having a wide wing spread, long slender legs and long necks. Natural history books were referred to today and as far as could be obtained the birds might be classed as cranes or storks. If the species mentioned are nesting along the river it is believed they are located in the deeply wooded portions on the banks of the river on Tower Church street. On Sunday it was reported by those who arise a few hours after sun-up that the giant birds were seen, but the opportunity of a good glimpse was snatched when the birds, upon seeing the early morning church-goers, changed their courses and headed back down the river, disappearing in the tree tops of the woods off Church street.

JEWETT CITY

NO FALL ELECTION IN GRISWOLD THIS YEAR

With all the political activity this fall there will be no town election in Griswold. During Maxcy Seymour's term of office it was wisely foreseen that biennial elections would mean an annual saving of $100. The town was one of the last in the state to adopt this plan, which has proven a benefit and on the other hand to have no fall town meeting is looked upon by many as the letting go of a time honored custom.

The heavy farm work was done and the get-together and talk-it-over features of the annual town meetings always were anticipated with pleasure. At these gatherings in days gone by, many a fine stepper was driven in and perhaps there would be a sharp brush coming down the road. Men who were town neighbors, yet seldom met, were made years younger by the cordial greetings and glad "Hello" of their stranger friends on the fall town meeting days.

Personal taxes must be paid by Aug 31. Delinquents' names will be handed to the prosecuting attorney.—adv.

A successful Japanese social was held at the Methodist church, Tuesday evening in connection with the Willing Workers class, Mrs. J. W Carter, teacher. The vestry was beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns, crep paper festoons, large bouquets of gladioli, zinnias, asters, calendula, grasses and ferns. The decorations were carried out by Fred Oates, of Danielson. Lunches of chili concarne, clam chowder, sandwiches, trifle, cake and ice cream were served by the young ladies of the class, Arleen Burdick, chairman, Bertha Davis, Christine Burdick, Hazel Johnson, Grace Gardiner, Mildred, Harriet and Elizabeth McCluggage, Grace Lockwood, Bessie LaLiberte, Lucille McCluggage and Marion Thornton. The quartet David Carter, Everett Thornton, Delwyn Martin and Edward Thornton, gave four selections, Bessie LaLiberte sang two solos and Grace Lockwood, with Edith Kench, gave a number of readings. A pretty and attractive feature was the wearing of Japanese costumes by the members of the class.

At the home of the Bulletin correspondents, every possible accommodation is gladly furnished. Time tables are always at hand, with information about all the bus schedules, which is very handy as all the half dozen lines stop directly in front. A few days ago an out of town man wrote to find out what sort of bait a local fisherman was using when he caught a 4-pound bass.

A new one came Tuesday evening, when a man with a trunk under his arm walked in and expressed his desire to purchase a ticket to Providence "on dose wagon".

THE VITAL ISSUES

It is inevitable that much attention will be attracted by the announcement which was made by Lammot du Pont, president of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., in declaring his support of Herbert C. Hoover.

Mr. du Pont makes it clear that he has always been a republican and emphasizes the fact that he sees no reason for changing his allegiance in this campaign. In fact he considers that the problems that are faced make it necessary for him to remain a republican if, in his opinion, they are going to be tackled and met in the best possible manner.

He refers to the fact that there are those who have decided to leave the party this year but they are all doing it solely because of one thing, the prohibition question. He frankly states that his sympathies run much in the same channel upon that issue but he is decidedly unwilling that his support for the presidential candidate should be decided upon one issue alone. He considers, like a great many others, that prohibition is by no means the only issue before the country in this campaign. He doesn't minimize the place it occupies but he sees nothing practical in the Smith proposals. He points out that "a group of problems before the government of this country which, as a group, are more important than prohibition, are those subjects which involve the economic welfare of the people—the tariff, farm relief, railway regulation, federal reserve, government ownership, etc."

Mr. du Pont places these things first and believes that they should get first consideration from those who are giving any thought to the nation's prosperity, and in dealing with these questions he naturally has more confidence in the republican party and its candidate than in the opposition. He knows what the democrats have done in the past and he is unwilling to put any confidence in the efforts which are being made now to claim that there is nothing to fear from a democratic administration. He is convinced that "if the democratic party comes into power it will decide the degree of protection, and it is reasonable to suppose that it will decide it in conformity with its past actions—in fact, Governor Smith's address rather indicates that the tariff will continue to be the subject of democratic meddling."

Mr. du Pont as a business man has made a statement and taken a stand which unquestionably reflects a widespread sentiment throughout the country.

HIGHWAY RUBBISH

At this time of the year many are employed in cutting the brush and weeds along the highways. This isn't a concerted fight against the wild carrot in an endeavor to live up to the law and it isn't a scheme to reduce the amount of ragweed for the benefit of the hay fever sufferers, but it certainly means a decided improvement and in many cases increases the line of vision of those who are driving automobiles.

There are many instances, however, where the cutting of brush and weeds is not required but there are evidences that the time is not far distant, if present practices are continued, when it will be necessary to appoint collectors to pick up the waste material which those passing along in motor vehicles throw out on the roadside.

There are those machines from which a constant stream of bags, papers, boxes and other litter flows until those behind, to say nothing of those who may happen to live along such highway, wonder where it can all come from. Where it goes it can all tactfully evident. Others follow a similar practice until the gutters become a veritable receptacle for waste of all kinds and varying degrees of unsightliness.

It creates the same sort of a picture that is to be found on a picnic ground after a large crowd has departed following a Sunday or other day. It is such a practice that has brought about the denial to the public of many an attractive spot at the shore, along lakes and in the country. It is a manifestation of thoughtlessness concerning the interests of others and those responsible are those who want to get rid of something and think the street or the highway is all right so long as they do not live in that neighborhood.

PRESIDENT AND THE DEFICIT

No sooner did President Coolidge learn of the estimated deficit as set forth by Budget Director Lord, than he let it be known that immediate steps would be taken to do everything within the power of the administration to prevent it. This will be no surprise to those who are so well acquainted with the purposes of the president in the running of the government. The idea of a deficit is directly contrary to every effort which has been made by President Coolidge. His aim has been to prevent it. He has pointed out the importance of avoiding such a contingency and his advice in connection with expenditures has been to prevent it.

It is entirely possible that conditions will be such during the year that the deficit which is seen now will be overcome. It is entirely possible for increased receipts to make up the difference and leave a surplus but that for the most part depends upon business conditions.

There is still another way of reducing if not overcoming that deficit. That is by keeping down the expenditures and that is the channel which the president proposes to follow just as soon as he returns to Washington.

Certain allowances have been made for the respective departments of the government. If the departments can find a way of cutting down their expenditures in the next several months it will be possible to reduce by just that amount the deficit at the end of the year. Instead of plunging ahead into expenditures just because appropriations have been made it is possible that some of the expenditures may be curtailed and it is about this curtailment and the application of greater efficiency that the president will confer with the department heads.

His announced intentions are only such as could be reasonably expected. His plan accords completely with the attitude he has taken upon this question whenever opportunity offered. That he will be instrumental in greatly reducing if not eliminating the possible deficit can be expected if such a thing is possible.

SUBMARINE SAFETY

Until full tests have been completed it will be impossible to tell whether the apparatus called a life saving "lung" will meet the requirements of those who are trapped in a sunken submarine, but preliminary tests give a favorable impression. It is certainly a device which is certain to get the careful attention of those who are seeking additional methods of increasing the protection for victims of such disasters as the S-4 or the S-51.

The "lung" cannot be said to have reached perfection as yet for there can unquestionably be improvements made in it that will decrease its weight without harming its effectiveness. It is found to meet requirements efforts will be bent to such an end for when it comes to adding new equipment to the safety devices included in submarines it can be appreciated that much consideration is bound to be given to the bulkiness and weight involved. There is never any too much spare room in an underwater boat and in such a craft attention is ever directed to the fact that it is a fighting and not a pleasure vessel.

The device resembles a gas mask and has been developed by navy men. In tests which have been made, men have been brought to the surface from a depth of 110 feet and it is believed that it will be possible to operate it with success from a depth of 200 feet. Plans are already underway for the making of such a test. Such a successful demonstration will increase the prospects for overcoming such conditions as prevailed when the men were trapped alive in the S-4, but they are of course no better than those who serve in submarines have a right to expect.

It is to be sincerely hoped that enthusiasm over the invention has not created false expectations. The disasters have shown the need of meeting such situations and it is not to be expected that the efforts will be relinquished until more than one means of dealing with such possible conditions is provided.

GET OUT OF THE BUSINESS

Under some circumstances it might seem that it would be inadvisable for the government to accept certain bids which are made for part of the merchant fleet, and yet when everything is taken into consideration and the losses under the present conditions are considered it is better business to sell at what is offered than to keep on piling up losses.

For the six ships in the American Palmetto line, the company which is operating them has made an offer of less than $40,000 apiece. This means a total of just under $225,000, or probably less for the whole fleet than one of them cost. If those vessels were in private hands and the owners were able to realize a profit from operating them such an offer would have no attraction. As it is the government through the shipping board has indicated a willingness to dispose of the cargo vessels and solicited bids. It isn't obliged to sell but it faces the possibility of holding onto them until they are worth far less and of standing yearly losses in the meantime or of getting them off of their hands into the control of private capital and realizing something from them.

There is no hope that they are going to be any more valuable to the government. Their value is decreasing each year and besides them the government has many more which are equally expensive when it comes to the question of maintenance.

The shipping board hasn't passed upon the offer, but it will occasion not as much surprise if it is accepted as it will if the offer is turned down. The fact that no better bid could be gotten at this time indicates the situation in the ship market. Any reasonable willingness to aid the government in getting out of the shipping business should not be discouraged.

TAKING THE CASH

"You'll see to that, Miss Mathews?" Ruth nodded as Mr. Sims left the office. Certainly she'd see to it, as she always did.

Ruth had just completed her twenty-fifth year. She had been working for ten of those, and today she felt as though she had worked forever. The phone rang and Ruth reached wearily to answer.

"No, Mr. Sims is not in. Miss Mathews speaking. Anything I can do? Order your printing? Yes. And what else? Line up your salesmen? Very well." As she scribbled hasty notes on her desk reminder pad the telephone on another desk rang.

"No, Mr. Sims won't be in the office again today. Oh, yes, that correspondence went out today. I'll deliver your message." She sat down again in her own chair. She was very busy and very tired, but the work of the business manager of any wholesale drug house must be done and done on time.

It was long after 6 o'clock that evening when Ruth closed the door and went down to the street. She smiled at her own extravagance as she called a cab and drove all the way home. Her mother had just answered the telephone as Ruth entered the house. Ruth threw her hat on the chest and thought darkly that she would have the phone taken out. The jangle of phone bells had become as obnoxious to her as the alarm of a clock. Mrs. Mathews turned to her daughter.

"The board of directors is having a meeting tonight and——"

"Well, what of it?" Ruth asked.

"And they want you to come down and get some reports out of the files for them."

"Oh, heavens!" Ruth picked up her hat, kissed her mother and went reluctantly back to the office.

The glass windows in the room of the board of directors shone with a bright light. Ruth wondered what reports they could want as she slipped off her coat and powdered her nose. She patted her hair into place and tapped gently at the door.

"You wanted me" she asked. A tall man with sharp eyes stood before her.

"Yes, we want to see the reports on the western sales territory, please, Miss Mathews." Ruth gasped. It was the voice who called her every day with instructions to Mr. Sims. It belonged to the vice president of the company. Hurriedly she found the report and presented it to the man at the door.

"Please wait outside, Miss Mathews," the curt-voiced vice president nodded as she turned to go. Ruth waited, trembling, as she recalled the tone of the vice president's voice.

Presently the door opened and the tall man motioned her into the manager's private office. He sat down at the table and looked steadily up at her.

"Who's manager of our company, Miss Mathews?"

"Mr. Sims," she said quietly.

"Who does the work?" The question was so pointed that Ruth answered before she knew she spoke the truth.

"I do."

"Who gets the credit?"

"Mr. Sims." Ruth lowered her head modestly.

"And who the money?" Ruth's face blazed and her head was high. It was true that Mr. Sims did not work at the office and that she worked very hard, but he was still her boss, and she would not have even the vice president of the company himself make any disparaging remarks about him.

"You're not fair," she said quickly. "Oh, absolutely. I just wanted to be sure that Mr. Sims was fair. Mr. Sims is my cousin, and he had to meet a requirement of the family before he could expect to draw on his own income. He had first to make good in business, but he is no business man.

"You are capable enough for the job, but you are a woman, and it's hard for a young women to get a job like this. Now, what I want to know is this: Mr. Sims is manager in name only. You do all the work. Do you get paid for it?"

Ruth laughed.

"I am a business woman, you know. I take the cash and let the credit go." Mr. Sims never draws a penny of salary. It is worth the few hours he smokes in the office each week to have his name on the door as witness to his family that he is a business man and worthy of inheritance."

"That's splendid, then," the vice president also laughed. "In that case the board of directors gives the manager a raise."—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

Fit and Ready for School

By LeRoy A. Wilkes, M. D., New York City, Division of Medical Service, American Child Health Association

The school programs of today require much time and effort on the part of the scholar. When a child is absent frequently, or is working under such handicaps as poor vision, impaired hearing, or obstructed breathing, he is being taxed physically and unduly to keep up to his classmates in his work, and is constantly on a physical probation. This condition in many cases could have been averted by careful medical attention. Periodic health examination by his physician would have revealed such handicaps in their earliest stages and treatment could have been obtained at a time when it is most effective—early! This is the real aim of the school health service. But school is conducted primarily for mental improvement and the child is expected to come to school in his best physical condition so as to profit most by his efforts to obtain an education. This optimum condution can be assured if parents will each year have their children, especially those below school age, carefully examined by their physician and any handicaps corrected before the child enters school.

Some of the signs for which parents should be on the outlook, because they suggest danger, are as follows: Squinting, due to eyestrain; inattention, due to defective hearing; snoring or mouth breathing, due to nasal obstruction; nervousness, due to many causes—malnutrition as indicated pallor, thinness and restlessness. If the child tires easily; has temper tantrums; wets the bed or his clothing; has frequent colds or headaches; has toothaches or other common ailments, he needs to consult his physician so as to be put in the best possible condition for school at the earliest possible moment, and not have to carry an undue burden which may be discovered too late to correct its effects entirely. Physical defects tend to get worse, to produce secondary defects and eventually to become irremediable.

Do not wait until the child is about to go to school, but all during his toddler stage—two to six years—the parent should aim to get his child fit and ready to go to school.

All handicaps are not physical. Many times emotional or mental handicaps appear early in life, before school age. These, too, should receive attention in their early stages, for they also tend to become worse, but can be corrected best in their early stages.

Some handicaps involve physical, mental and emotional factors and require most careful study and analysis.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 — Acting Secretary Robbins of the war department, back on part time duty while his cracked ribs and collarbone heal up, came within shooting distance of eligibility for membership in that highly exclusive aggregation of aviators, the Caterpillar club, on the trip which he suffered damage to the slats.

A little more wind over the Pennsylvania mountains when he took his mid-air spill, and he might have been forced to jump, trusting to a parachute lifeboat. He not only is the only near cabinet officer to have been bunged up in an air accident that did not involve a plane crash, but also the only one so far as known ever to have been threatened with the necessity for making a parachute glide for life.

Flew Into Storm

Robbins was on his way back to Washington from a long air pilgrimage of inspection and was bucking over the Pennsylvania mountains piloted by Lieutenant Quesada, a noted air corps joystick expert, in a huge tri-motored Fokker transport. The ship had made good altitude for the trans-mountain hop, but not enough to satisfy Quesada, as there were storm centers all about. He circled back to get another 1,000 feet up. Robbins sat beside the pilot in the control cockpit, raised two steps from the floor of the enclosed cabin behind. Just then a local storm in the mountain draws below sent up a few additional twisters. They gripped the ship, setting to reeling and bucking madly. She shivered in the conflicting strains of winds and motors and Quesada had visions of cracked wings and a tumble to the rugged land below with no good landing in sight. He took no chances.

"You'd better step down in the cabin and be prepared to jump, Mr. Secretary," he said to Robbins, fighting to keep the ship in control.

Robbins stepped—hastily. It's no pleasing prospect to think of stepping out into thin air six or seven thousand feet up, and trusting to the 'chute folded into the cumbersome bag on which you are sitting to get you down alive.

In hurrying down through the narrow cabin doorway as the ship reeled and bucked, Robbins caught his foot and crashed to the cabin floor, carrying away struts in his fall, bashing in a rib or two and shattering a collarbone.

Pilot's Plight

Quesada had been facing the necessity of abandoning ship in air. With Robbins helpless, he knew that to do so might save his own life via a 'chute jump, but meant death for the secretary when the abandoned plane crashed. The flier gritted his teeth and hung to his controls, deliberately shutting the door on consideration of his own best chance for safety. He showed the stuff in him then, the stuff that makes fliers. Fighting desperately, he dropped his big ship down to a narrow field, hardly large enough to hold her, and, despite the struggling storm winds, eased her to landing. She brought up safely against a wire fence.

It was a narrow squeak for Robbins, but what of it? The men under him face such dangers smilingly every day as a part of their professional life. You could no more keep the war department civil heads out of army aircraft than you could keep them away from the front in time of war, with the guns pounding around the ears of the army. They will face voluntarily the same dangers that the men under them face whenever chance offers.

LABOR EFFICIENCY AMONG RESULTS OF EDUCATION

Greater significance will be given to Labor day this year if, in celebrating it, we shall do so in the spirit with which Lincoln spoke when he said:

"Educated people must labor, otherwise education itself would become a positive and intolerable evil. No country can sustain in idleness more than a small percentage of its members. The greater majority must labor at something productive. From these premises the problem springs: 'How can labor and education be most satisfactorily combined?'"

Recent investigations have shown that there is a connection between illiteracy and labor inefficiency. In an eastern state where a great number of illiterate aliens reside it has been found that an amazing proportion of these persons are incapable of being taught how to operate labor-saving machinery.

Labor too often is looked upon as a mere mechanical process. Too many people, not familiar with the circumstances, regard laborers as human machines.

Labor and education must ever go hand in hand and it must ever be appreciated that the part of the laborer is just as important and honorable as that of any business or profession.

The more attention given the element of education by labor, the greater will be its efficiency and the more prosperous and substantial will be its progress.

It is a very happy and apt circumstance that Labor day and the reopening of our schools and colleges fall so closely together.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Why the Gulf Stream Flows.

Is the great Gulf Stream stopping its flow or changing its course?

This question is asked more or less seriously every few years when some transatlantic steamship captain notes unusual temperatures in mid-ocean, or even a reversal at some point in the usual flow of the surface waters. Within recent weeks the question has been raised anew both in England and the United States.

The answer, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society, can safely be put down as "no."

"History, botany, geology, metrology and oceanography can be called as high-powered character witnesses to testify to the settled habits of the Gulf Stream," says the bulletin. "From the testimony of this array of sciences it can be assumed that the great 'river of the ocean' has been flowing along its course for centuries and even for scores of millenniums. The huge stream, which moves more water than all the rivers of the earth combined, can hardly be expected to change its age-old habits over night.

"Place an electric fan so that its current of air strikes one side of the surface of a tub full of water," continues the bulletin, "and you will have the phenomena of the Gulf Stream repeated on a small scale. The fan's air blast will raise tiny ripples and will drive the surface water before it. The moving surface water will drag the deeper water along. Before long practically all the water will be in motion, swirling around the tub.

"In the case of the Gulf Stream the North Atlantic ocean stands in place of the tub, and the trade winds of the northern hemisphere play the part of the electric fan. Other factors have a hand in creating and molding the Gulf Stream, however. The Caribbean sea, hemmed in on the north by Cuba and Haiti, and on the south and southwest by the coasts of Central America and Yucatan, is a gigantic funnel with the spout leading into the Gulf of Mexico. The waters of the Caribbean, blown westward by the trade winds, rush through this spout and 'pile up,' so to speak in the Gulf of Mexico.

"The only outlet is through the Florida straits between the tip of Florida and Cuba. Through this nozzle, then, the stream gushes out, an irresistible current 40 miles wide and nearly 3,000 feet deep. Guided northward by the Bahamas and then eastward by the continental shelf of North America, the great stream moves with such momentum that it plows through the ocean and preserves its identity all the way to Europe.

"Although the Gulf Stream is usually thought of as arising in the Gulf of Mexico and spending itself on the shores of Europe, in reality much of it completes the circuit and constitutes a vast merry-go-round of waters in the North Atlantic. A branch of the stream turns north of the British Isles and enters the Arctic ocean; but another part turns south to the coast of Portugal, then southwest and finally comes again under the influence of the trade winds which give it new life.

"The Gulf Stream has had a role in world afairs, the importance of which is seldom realized. For ages it has helped in the scattering and evolution of animal and vegetable forms. It has held the climate of much of northern Europe in its moving waters. But for its beneficient work as carrier of equatorial heat to the northward and eastward, England might have the climate of Laborador, and Norway the bleakness of Greenland. It has even had much to do with the geological formation of large areas of the ocean's bottom by determining the places of sedimentation. And day by day it is a factor in the price of egerything carried afloat between Europe and America as well as in the safety of all who cross the Atlantic.

"The great current has had its part, too, in shaping the history of America. Before the discovery of the New World, strange woods and fruits were found on the shores of Europe and the off-lying islands. Some of these were seen and examined by Columbus, and to his thoughtful mind they were convincing evidence that strange lands existed somewhere to the westward. These objects were carried by the Gulf Stream and by the prevailing winds from the American continent, so that in part the stream laid the foundation for Columbus' famous voyage. Once underway, and sailing across the southern portiton of the Atlantic, Columbus had the return flow of the great circular stream to help carry him to the West Indies.

"How long has the Gulf Stream been flowing?

"The question cannot be answered in years, but can be answered in geological terms. As a stream forced into and then out of the Golf of Mexico, it must have been flowing ever since the Gulf and its peninsulas and neighboring islands have existed in substantially their present form. But even before the Gulf of Mexico existed there must have been, as at present, a clock-wise swirl of warm waters in the Atlantic basin. Today, part of the so-called Gulf Stream does not enter or leave the Gulf of Mexico, but joins the gulf arm of the stream north of the Bahamas. It is reasonably safe to say that there has been a 'Gulf Stream' (although the gulf may have played no part in its early existence) ever since there has been an Atlantic ocean and trade winds to blow upon it."

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

Enough of the Green Forest

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Those who've had enough and know it
Should never hesitate to show it.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was thoroughly miserable. Indeed he was. It always makes one miserable to suffer fright. Peter had had a terrible fright and was still frightened. Then, too, he was sore. He was sore all over. You see, he had been pounced on by one of the children of Yowler the Bobcat and he had been badly scratched. Those scratches smarted. Now he was safe in a bramble-tangle, but still frightened and of course most thoroughly uncomfortable. It was there that his big cousin, Jumper the Hare, discovered him.

"Hello, Peter!" exclaimed Jumper. "For goodness' sake, what have you been doing to your coat?"

"Nothing," replied Peter in a small voice. "I didn't do it; somebody else did it."

"Who?" demanded Jumper, staring very hard at Peter.

Peter hastily looked all about. "Cousin Jumper," he whispered, "do you know that Yowler the Bobcat has a family?"

"Of course I know it," replied Jumper. "Don't I live in the Green Forest? Everyone in the Green Forest knows it."

Peter looked a bit crestfallen. He dearly loves to tell news and he thought perhaps he was telling Jumper something the latter didn't know. "I didn't know it until tonight," said Peter.

Suddenly Jumper understood. "You know it now," he chuckled. "Don't tell me you have been trying to play with those kittens!"

"Of course not!" replied Peter indignantly. "One of them jumped on me without any warning. I didn't suppose anyone had so many claws. My coat is torn and I'm scratched all over. "It's a wonder I am here to tell you about it."

"You haven't told me about it yet," said Jumper. "What happened?"

Then Peter told as best he could what had happened. He told how he had watched one of the Yowlers' kittens playing in the moonlight and how without any warning another kitten had jumped on him.

"It serves you right," said Jumper. "Yes, sir, it serves you right. Anyone who will forget to watch out when he knows there are Bobcats around deserves to get caught."

"It serves you right!" said Jumper

"But I didn't know there were any other Cats around," said Peter.

"You should have known," retorted Jumper. "If you had done any thinking at all you would have known that one little Bobcat kitten wasn't likely to be all alone. It is lucky for you, Peter Rabbit, that it wasn't Mrs. Yowler or Yowler who jumped on you instead of the other kitten. It was bad enough when there was only Yowler himself living over there. But now that Mrs. Yowler and the two kittens are in the Green Forest we all of us have to watch out twice as sharply as we ever did before."

"They won't get me," said Peter, most decidedly. "They won't get me, because I'm going straight home to the dear Old Briar-patch and stay there. Yes, sir, I've had enough of the Green Forest. This is no place for me. Oh, dear, I wish I were in the dear Old Briar-patch this very minute! I do so!"

YOUTHS THREW LIME AT PASSING MACHINES

A number of motorists reported at police headquarters Wednesday evening that several young men armed with buckets of lime were throwing it on passing automobiles and their occupants on the Gallows Hill road. The spot picked out by the lime throwers, who had not been apprehended at an early hour this (Thursday) morning, was near the Taftville reservoir on the Gallows Hill road.

According to the information received at the police station the young men were perched upon an embankment beside the highway and waited there until a machine drove along. When the machine was directly opposite them they hurled the contents of the buckets at the machines and occupants.

It was reported that the surface of the road at this particular spot was covered with the lime. One of the drivers of the machines stopped his car after receiving a dose of the lime and started after the young men, but was unable to catch them. As he climbed over the wall one of the young men replied him and warned the others, all of them making a hasty retreat.

None of the occupants of the machines received any of the lime in their eyes, most of it landing upon the exterior of the machines and on their clothing and in the interior of the cars. Several occupants of the machines complained of suffering from burns.

Constables L. A. Fenton and Paquette were notified and are conducting an investigation in an attempt to apprehend the youths.

PEGGY BRACKETT IS FINED IN COLCHESTER

The thrice continued case of Peggy Brackett, charged with violation of the automobile laws, came up in the Colchester borough court Wednesday morning at nine o'clock before Justice of the Peace Charles F. Brown at his home on Norwich avenue. On July 9th the defendant was driving an automobile which figured in an accident in Colchester, her car colliding with one owned by a Marlborough farmer, damaging the vehicle and injuring the driver. The arrest was made by Constable Harold Clark. The case was set for July 11th but a continuance was granted for two weeks under bonds of $200 furnished. Two other continuances were later agreed to.

Grand Juror Abell presented the charges, three in number, as reckless driving failure to give right of way on the highway and driving a motor vehicle without an operator's license. To all three the Brackett woman pleaded guilty. Justice of the Peace Brown imposed a fine of $50 and costs on the charge of reckless driving and fines of ten dollars each on the other two charges, amounting to $93.26, which was paid and the woman discharged.

NORWICH ROTARIANS GUESTS OF WILLIMANTIC CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 29—About a score of members of the Norwich Rotary club visited the local Rotary club at the weekly luncheon in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon and then adjourned to the Willimantic Country club where a return golf match was played. The meeting was signally honored by the presence of Rufus F. Chapin, treasurer of Rotary International of Chicago. Treasurer Chapin expressed his pleasure at the opportunity of meeting the two clubs and conveyed the greetings of Rotary Club No. 1 of Chicago. Mr. Chapin is visiting at the home of U. S. Commissioner Earl Mathewson in Norwich. Mr. Mathewson was also a guest today. The entertainment program featured two vocal solos, Love Song by Victor Herbert and On the Road to Mandalay by Henry J. Lafontaine, well-known musician of Norwich. Mr. Lafontaine accompanied himself on the piano. Guests other than those in the Norwich group included Henry Vignot of New London Rotary club, R. G. Remington and Earl J. Arnold of this city. The visiting delegation was headed by President Edward W. Jewett of the Norwich club. The match was in charge of Louis H. Arnold.

Willimantic Wins

Willimantic's mashie wielders walked rough-shod over the golfing contingent of the Norwich club and beat them to the proverbial frazzle, 29 to 15, which was sweet revenge for the defeat administered to the Thread City team earlier in the season. However, the sting of defeat was greatly soothed by the delicious luncheon that followed the match and the hospitality of the Willimantic club could not be excelled. Bert Gager and John Ahern were the song leaders.

Although beaten, the Norwich club carried away all the prizes, three in number, due largely to the fact that John Arnold stipulated that no Willimantic player was to participate in the prizes. F. Russell Smith with a gross 88 was awarded the low gross prize. The first low net went to Charles A. Saxton, superb southpaw player, who turned in a card of 92 which with his handicap of 22 gave him a net 70. E. W. Mathewson, nephew of International Treasurer Rufus Chapin, had second low net, getting a gross 93, from which his handicap of 22 was taken leaving him a neat 71 net. The presentation of prizes was most gracefully made by President Ray Parker of the Willimantic club, ably assisted by Lou Arnold and Jim Mustard. The scores of the match were:

FRANKLIN DRIVER IS EXONERATED BY CORONER

Charle. H. Mansir of Franklin has been exonerated by Coroner Edward G. McKay from criminal responsibility in causing the death of Burton B. Smith who died from injuries received Aug. 3 when he was run over by a truck operated by Mr. Mansir. The Smith boy, a helper on the truck, fell off the machine as it was being brought to a stop and landed in the rath of the right rear wheel. In his finding, which was announced Wednesday, Coroner McKay says:

The said Burton B. Smith was the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, and lived with his parents in Franklin. His father and uncle, Ernest Smith, own and operate a dairy farm under the name of Smith Brothers, and sell milk to customers in Norwich. The milk is bottled on the farm, loaded into trucks and delivered to the homes of customers. The said Burton B. Smith and his younger brother Richard, during the summer months, were accustomed to ride daily on the truck and help in the delivery of the milk. The truck was usually driven by the said Charles Mansir, who has been an employe of Smith Brothers for the past five years. The said Charles Mansir had general charge of the daily delivery of milk, apportioning the customers to the two boys, and making deliveries himself.

On Aug. 3rd, 1928, Charles Mansir started out from the Smith Brothers' farm at about 5.30 (s. t.), on his daily trip and was accompanied by Burton and Richard Smith. At that time the said Charles Mansir was a duly licensed operator of motor vehicles and was the holder of a Connecticut motor vehicle operator's license, No. 200,783, issued March 1st, 1928. He has been a licensed operator in Connecticut for the past three years. On the said date he was operating a Graham Brothers 1 1-2-ton truck owned by the Smith Brothers and registered in the state of Connecticut as No. 36644.

On the said date the said Charles Mansir had delivered about one-quarter of his load of milk both by himself and with the help of the two boys, when he came to the vicinity of Broadway and Perkins avenue in Norwich. He stopped at the corner of Broadway and Otis street, which latter street runs parallel to Perkins avenue, and some distance southerly therefrom. He sent Richard Smith down Otis street with a number of bottles of milk and intended to pick him up again at the other end of Otis street, in the meantime making deliveries on Perkins avenue and McKinley avenue.

Charles Mansir and Burton Smith then proceeded north up Broadway and turned east into Perkins avenue. During this ride Burton Smith was on the driver's seat, sitting at the right of the driver, Charles Mansir. After turning the corner the said Charles Mansir shut off the engine and allowed the car to run without engine power and started to apply his brake. He had a customer on the north side of Perkins avenue, about 200 feet from the intersection with Broadway and was preparing to stop in front of the customer's house. When the car had gone about 100 feet into Perkins avenue, Burton Smith left the driver's seat and turned toward the right rear of the car along the running-board, in order to get a bottle of milk for delivery. He was going from the step to the cab part of the car to the running board on the side of the truck when he fell and landed on the ground, in the path of the rear right wheel. The wheel of the truck passed over his body, causing the injuries from which he later died. The driver brought the car to an immediate stop and found the boy lying in the road unconscious. With the aid of Junius Brand of Norwich, who was walking toward the car from the east, he picked said Burton Smith up, put him in the car, and drove him to the hospital. While at the hospital, the said Burton Smith died about 25 minutes from the time of the accident.

There is no evidence as to the speed of the car at the time of the accident other than the testimony of the driver, who says that he was bringing the car to a stop. From the evidence it is apparent that the car was not being operated in a reckless and dangerous manner and that the said Burton Smith slipped from the step in his zeal to do his work well.

The weather on that date was clear. The surface of the road was tar-bound macadam and was dry.

I am satisfied and find that the death of said Burton Smith was not caused by the criminal act, omission or negligence of any other person or persons.

BANNER CARD OF BOUTS AT ARENA AT NEW LONDON THIS EVENING

TONIGHT'S CARD

Eight rounds at 120 pounds
Al Beauregard, of Taftville vs. Pete Lucy, of Bridgeport

Eight rounds at 170 pounds
Frankie Woods, of Taunton, Mass. vs. Frankie Cavanaugh, of Bridgeport

Eight rounds at 138 pounds
Irish Tommy Jarrett, of New Haven vs. Frankie Portell, of Hartford

Six rounds at 124 pounds
Young McCarthy, of Norwich vs. Jimmy Proto, of New Haven

Six rounds at 124 pounds
Geno Pecheeni, of Norwich vs. Spike Mareno, of New Haven

Four rounds at 200 pounds
Big Boy Burlap, of Westerly vs. Ken Scott, of Boston

Have any of the fans of New London county seen any better card than the above which is to be staged at the New London arena on Hamilton street this (Thursday) evening? For a well balanced card with plenty of variety this card should prove to be a hummer for action. Five classes from the heavyweights to the junior featherweights are represented and fast action with a grudge fight thrown in is guaranteed by Promoter Fakourey.

The show will open with the clash between Big Boy Burlap, the dusky Adonis of Westerly and Ken Scott of Boston, a slugging affair billed to go four rounds which is doubtful.

Norwich interest will center in the next two six-round bouts in which Geno Pecheeni, local boy, meets Spike Mareno of New Haven in one and Young Tommy McCarthy, of Norwich swaps punches with Jimmie Proto of New Haven. If McCarthy and Pecheeni win their bouts tonight Promoter Fakourey is to match the boys for the next show.

Billed as one of the star attractions is the Al Beauregard-Pete Lucy bout and again Norwich fans are highly interested. When Beauregard beat Joey Duggan last week at Westerly his stock took a sky-rocket jump and he is the favorite in tonight's fistic classic. Beauregard has greatly improved since he joined the clan of McMahon in Meriden early in the spring. His work with Kid Kaplan and other boys of the Silver Lake colony has prepared him for a real campaign through the state this season.

In another eight-rounder Irish Tommy Jarrett of New Haven is to meet Frankie Portell of Hartford in a renewal of their long-standing ring feud. Jarrett who once fell under Portell's furious two-handed attack is out to get sweet revenge on the Capitol city boy and nothing less than a kayo will satisfy the son of Erwin Action is written all over this bout.

In the other of the three eight rounders Frankie Cavanaugh, of Bridgeport, light heavyweight champ of New England clashes with Frankie Woods of Taunton, Mass. Cavanaugh is one of the toughest of the New England light heavies and is noted for his terrific punching power. Woods, who formerly made his home in Norwich, is another slugger and when these two start throwing gloves there is bound to be something worthwhile seeing.

Promoter Fakourey has reserved a section of the arena for the Norwich contingent that is expected to attend the bouts and will hold the tickets until 8.15, a quarter of an hour before the first bout.

WILLOUGHBY BLANKS PIRATES AND GIVES REDS 4TH PLACE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29—(AP)—Claude Willoughby of Philadelphia shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates today 4 to 0, checking the Buccaneers march toward the first division and giving the idle Cincinnati club undisputed possession of fourth place. The game was called at the end of the seventh to allow the Phils to catch a train for Boston.

Willoughby gave Pittsburgh only five hits. Brame started for the Pirates, going along nicely until the fifth when, with one out and a man on first, Grantham and Bartell let Sand's popfly drop between them for a double. Davis was intentionally walked and Willoughby drove in a run with a long sacrifice fly. Southern and Thompson followed with two base hits—driving in three more runs. Grimes went to the rescue and checked the Phillies. The score:

ATHLETICS NOW WITHIN STRIKING DISTANCE OF YANKS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Athletics reduced the lead of the Yankees to two and one-half games by winning the last clash of the series from the White Sox by 6 to 2 today while the champions were idle. The victory gave the Mackmen four out of five on the series, and slashed the lead of the Yanks to the lowest point it has reached since the teams really settled into the race.

GIANNTS PENNANT HOPES SINK ALMOST FROM SIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—The pennant hopes of the Giants faded almost to the vanishing point here today when the Boston Braves made it three straight over the Polo grounders by winning the last game of the series of three, 8 to 3. It was the seventh straight Giants reverse, and the ninth in the last ten games.

JARVIS TO HURL FOR TAFTVILLE ON SATURDAY

The approaching triple holiday is going to be a tough one for the Taftville A. A. with their three games arranged. And any one of the clubs are capable of giving Taftville a real rub. Saturday's encounter at the home grounds is going to introduce the Everett, Mass., club to the fans, and if the team turns out the game that they have been doing up in their country there is guaranteed to the fans the best encounter of the season. Everett is using several college men in their lineup and are anxious to bring the successful season to a close by a won over the local boys. Taftville is going to use Carlie Krauss at short to work hand in hand with Bob Christy at third.

Sunday, Taftville journeys away from home and comes back again Monday to take on the outfit that gave them a trimming once this season, the fast Socony team of New London. The latter team is hoping that the Taftville lads will be all played out by the time they get at them, and are entertaining sincere hopes that they can repeat their win over such a team as Taftville.

Saturday's game will give the fans a last chance to witness their favorite Lloyd Jarvis perform on the mound. Needless to say Lloyd is going to make his departure from these parts as auspicious as he can and means to leave behind him a real good taste in the mouths of his followers, and a win that they can inscribe in their books along with the rest of the memories of one of the greatest little ball players that the town has produced. He is going into the game to win and he, together with his legion of friends, are full of hopes that he will.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Johnny Hill, clever little Scot, won the decision over Newsboy Brown, of New York, in a 15 round bout here tonight. Hill is the British and European champion at 112 pounds.

In another bout scheduled to go 15 rounds, Johnny Curley, of England, won from Sammy Shack, American bantam, in the seventh round when Shack was disqualified for fouling.

Junior League Wins

After a hard struggle the Junior league defeated the Slater Hawks, Wednesday, by a score of 10 to 8. The lineups:

Junior league: Mink c, Focu p, Happy 1b, Frinky ss, Armand 2b, Dope 3b, Smiles lf, Shackie cf, Prince rf.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR VISIT OF JR. LEAGUE CHAMPS TO NEW YORK

Final arrangements for the Junior league champions visit to the Yankee stadium in New York as the guests of the world's champions next Wednesday were completed Wednesday with the receipt of the necessary credentials from the management of New York Yankees, the arranging of hotel accommodations and the booking of passage on the New York boat for Tuesday night. All that remains now is to decide which team will make the trip.

Although the Taftville legion team is the favorite at the present time by virtue of the slight lead that it holds over the runner up Rotary team, the members of the latter club are confident that they will beat the league leaders in the big game at Hollyhock Island Saturday afternoon and as a result deadlock matters so that a play off will be made necessary. Both teams have put in some busy sessions this week priming up for the affair and without a doube each will be in great shape when the umpire starts the crucial contest.

All of the other games in the league have been disposed of so that all that remains now is the playoff. As was previously mentioned, everyone seems interested in the final splash and as a result it should be one that will be remembered here for many years to come. In addition to the big game the recreation commission will present a Dusty league contest and will also award to the different departments operating under its jurisdiction the prizes won during the past summer season.

All the receipts of the session will be turned over to the Junior league officials to be used in making the trip to the big city one worth fighting for. Although it became known earlier in the season that the New York Yankees had invited the Junior league winners to one of their big games, it was not until yesterday that word was received from E. G. Barrows, secretary of the club, that reservations had been made for the visitors. The local team will be met at the press gate by an official of the club and escorted to a place within the mammoth park. It is probable that each member of the visiting team will be introduced to the members of the Yankee club.

While in New York, the Norwich boys will stay at the Hotel Albert, located at University place and 11th street. Following the game, they will be taken to one of the most prominent shows in the city and on Thursday before embarking on the boat for the return trip home will be taken on a sight-seeing trip of the metropolis.

As was previously mentioned the sum on hand at the present time is not quite enough to defray all expenses of the trip, and it is hoped that Norwich will turn out en mass Saturday to help put the proposition over. Tickets for the final game are on sale at Jack's Sport shop, Ferguson's, the Duwell club and American Legion rooms in Taftville.

POLISH CLUB WINS PROTESTED GAME FROM U. S. F.

The Polish Citizens club prevented the United States Finishers from clinching the pennant in the Industrial league Wednesday night at the campus when Pheno Tombari blanked the Greeneville outfit with his pitching and hitting. He allowed but three hits, well scattered, while his efforts with the stick were a double and triple in three trips to the plate. His double in the fourth batted in Mickey Breen, who had singled, and Bush, who was safe on an error for the only tallies of the game.

Tonight's Game

The Y. M. C. A. and Insilcos meet in tonight's Industrial league game at the Academy campus. The Y, by winning tonight, can go into a tie for first position with the Finishers and, as the standing is now, Friday's game would decide the title.

Either Henry Couture or Lefty Lucier will go to the mound for the Yers with Pete Tombari or Jab Burns behind the bat while Leo Jarvis looks like the Insilcos pitcher with Al Mish catching.

It looks like a real game and a large crowd is expected. The game starts at 6:15.

GRENE AND JENKS TO PLAY FOR CADDIE TITLE

Cy Jenks and Boots Greene will play the finals for the caddie title at the Norwich Golf club today or tomorrow as the outcome of their matches. Greene disposed of Skelly 2 up in the semi-finals and Jenks beat Born 5 and 4. The play in the second eight has not yet been completed.

TWO AMERICAN TEAMS REMAIN IN TOURNEY

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Two pairs of young American tennis players survived the third round play in the national doubles championship today at the Longwood Cricket club courts to stave off an all-foreign final for the title which "Big Bill" Tilden and Francis T. Hunter were unable to defend.

The youthful homebreds gained their way into the semi-finals at the expense of two Australians teams, Geo. M. Lott, Jr., and John Hennessy, the American Davis cup players who were top-seeded, overcame Harry Hopman and Jack Crawford in four sets, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, and Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison had to work even harder. They eliminated R. O. Cummings and E. F. Moon, another Anzac pair, in a five-set match, 5-7, 6-2, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4.

Though two other American teams fought valiantly, they were beaten by better foreign teams. The marvelous Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, members of the French Davis cup team and doubles champions of England, were forced to play four sets before they eliminated R. N. Williams, 2nd, and Watson Washburn. Scores of this match were 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

The other foreign pair to enter the semi-finals were Gerald Patterson and Jack Hawkes, the Australian stars, who took a three-set match from Arnold W. Jones and W. W. Ingraham. The Providence, R. I., boys gave the Anzacs rugged opposition in the first two sets, which ended 6-4, 6-4, but were unable to handle many of the dazzling returns which Patterson and Hawkes fired to win the match set, 6-3.

VELVETME TO CLASH WITH UNIVERSALS SUNDAY

At the J. B. Martin diamond Sunday afternoon the Velvetmen will seek to wipe out the defeat administered to them by the Universal A. C., of Providence a few weeks ago when they meet this club Sunday. Errors lost the game against the Providence club in their last appearance but when both teams take the field in their conflict Sunday it will be a different story. This club is piloted by the famous Roy Rock himself and in the first encounter was advertised under his name. Included in his lineup will be several college stars. For mound duty either Quirt of Providence college or "Rube" Danzell, formerly of Brown university, will be assigned. The former defeated the Velvetmen in their last battle. For the Velvetmen the pitching burden will be taken care of by Fisher and Pepin. Realizing that the Universal A. C. is one of the strongest clubs in the state of Rhode Island the Velvetmen are taking no chances and it will be a fast club that takes the field for the week end performance. Both complete lineups will appear in Sat. papers.

INTERNATIONAL MATCHES FOR WALKER CUP TODAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Another international war of the golf links is at hand. The opposing camps are pitched tonight on the rain drenched links of the Chicago Golf club. The battle will be the fifth renewal of the Walker cup between Britons and Americans.

All the British golfing army is fit for the fray and so are the Americans, but four of them had a narrow escape from the elements in final practice today.

Jess Sweetser, George Von Elm, Francis Ouimet and Jimmie Johnston were on the eighth tee when a bolt of lightning ripped up the fence near them an dalmost threw the players to the sudden turf.

Hagen Beats Farrell

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 29—(AP)—The veteran Walter Hagen, holder of the British open golf championship defeated Johnny Farrell, youthful American open champion, one up, at the Western Golf and Country club today in the first of their 36 hole "world championship" matches.

JOIE RAY TO TURN PROFESSIONAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—Joie Ray has decided definitely to turn professional, the veteran Chicago runner today told Harold J. Dibbler at a conference with Madison Square Garden officials. His plans are indefinite but embrace the possibility of a return race with his Olympic marathon conqueror, El Ouafi, the French Arab.

Dibbler said that he arranged a conference with Ray, an old friend, to "sound out" the runner on the subject of turning professional. The garden official said Ray not only was willing to race the Arab, but intended to secure a position as coach for some school or college as soon as possible.

Ray has been running as an amateur for almost eighteen years. Several years ago he turned in his amateur card, with a similar declaration that he intended to turn professional but he never did so. After a period of suspension, "Chesty Joie" forsook the mile distance, at which he was national champion for several years, and attempted to end his amateur days in a blaze of marathon triumphs.

After finishing third in the Boston marathon, Ray won the Long Beach grind, setting a new record for the course. Despite a gallant attempt he was beaten in the Olympic test by the Arab when cramps seized him after he had led the field a good part of the 26 odd miles.

Ray, one of the most colorful runners America has produced, has been reported in financial straights for some time. Madison Square Garden officials are endeavoring to bring El Ouafi to America along with several other foreign amateur stars, for a series of match races.

Dibbler said that he would meet Ray again but that no attempt would be made to sign the little fellow with the loping stride and unfailing endurance until next week, when more definite news will be at hand as to the intentions of other runners the Garden seeks. Dibbler is certain, however, that regardless of the outcome of his talks with Joie, the former Chicago taxi driver will relinquish his amateur standing within a few days.

LLOYD JARVIS TO GO TO HOLY CROSS

Lloyd Jarvis, one of the greatest ball players ever turned out at the Academy, will enter Holy Cross college at Worcester, Sept. 18, it became known Wednesday night. Lloyd went to Worcester yesterday with William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the local recreation commission, and Matthew J. Sheridan, the latter track coach at the Academy and an alumnus of Holy Cross.

While there they saw Paul McEvoy, graduate manager of athletics and Jarvis finally decided to continue his studies at this institution. Lloyd previously intended to go to Georgetown but evidently decided that there was an advantage in Holy Cross being nearer home.

While at the Academy Lloyd established a remarkable record, both as a pitcher-outfielder and a hitter. He batted well over .300 for his four years. His mark for 1926 was .461, 1926 .329, 1927 .328, 1928 .432. He led the team in his first and last years and his mark for the four years was .388, which is for something like 100 games, against the leading high schools in southern New England. He was captain of the team in 1927.

Jarvis is a southpaw pitcher and a turn-around batter, hitting well from either side. For the past two summers he has pitched and worked for the Richmond Radiators in the Industrial league, last year winning the

The lure of cool waters the past humid days has been too great for the youth and in their haste to submerge they have not met all the requirements of Westerly town ordinances with respect to proper clothing and simply haven't worn any. This has resulted in complaints from those residing near these waters made to the Westerly police department. Wednesday Westerly Motorcycle Officer George L. Madison visited unannounced the pond near the Watch Hill Golf club. Three nude youths were summoned to appear before next Friday morning's session of the Third District court.

Aronson, alias Joseph Morrison, who is being held by the Boston police as a fugitive from justice, will be brought to Westerly and presented Friday morning before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Third District court on a charge of passing a worthless check for $75. Aronson is reported to have waived extradition. According to a complaint made to the Westerly police by A. L. Castritius, Aronson visited the Castritius jewelry store on High street recently and cashed a check after making a purchase. The check, drawn on a Boston bank, was made out to Joseph Morrison and signed by A. T. Levin. It proved worthless.

Following the Boston arrest the newspapers of that city printed accounts of Aronson being wanted for check manipulations in Worcester, Springfield, Mass., and Newport, R. I. It is reported that restitution has been made in these cities and the cases nolled.

DIST. MEETING STAMPEDED AT FALSE ALARM OF FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 29—Moderator Lewis Stanton called the annual meeting of Westerly Fire district to order in the Town hall at 8 o'clock tonight, over a hundred qualified electors having assembled. Clerk Carl E. Burdick read the call. The various recommendations were voted adopted. The bond of the treasure, and collector was fixed at $3,000.

The minutes of the annual meeting of Aug. 31, 1927, and the special meeting of Nov. 22, Dec. 6, 1927, Jan. 5, Feb. 16 and May 9, 1928, were approved.

M. Walter Flint in behalf of Central park residents asked how much longer that section would be without hydrants and was referred to the board of engineers.

Clifford W. Campbell, for the building committee of the new fire station, reported progress and an endeavor was made to keep within th appropriation.

John J. Dunn of the district finance committee reported the bond issue $147,187.51 sold to the Washington Trust Co. On motion of H. L. Burdick the committee was voted discharged, with thanks.

In the matter of the sale of a 25-foot strip of land by the fire district, Treasurer Whipple presented a resolution for its sale at $3,000 to the state of Rhode Island. A discussion followed. H. R. Milner inquired as to the purpose for which the state could use the property; Frank A. Sullivan said it was to protect the courthouse end of the town hall and Mr. Milner retorted that it was an opening wedge for the building of a road around the Town hall. Town Councilman Farquahr Smith declared that the land should not get out of the control of the town. Treasurer Whipple said it appeared that Mr. Peck, state finance commissioner, conceded the land as condemned and that a small part of the $3,000 would be secured.

Just as Committeeman Sullivan declared the measure not one of petty politics but a business proposition, a Rhode Island state trooper and Police Lieutenant Champlin appeared in the meeting to tell Fire Chief Egger that the Bradford Dye association plant in Bradford was on fire. The meeting stampeded, as Councilman Smith moved that the matter of the purchase of the land be laid on the table, and the meeting adjourned.

The Seagraves pumper with the engineers and full quota of firemen was sent to Bradford. At Bradford no one around the plant knew of any fire. Returning, the fire truck found that an automobile had been driven up to the Kenyon Dry Cleaning works at McGowan's corners and had caught fire there.

Robert Seare of Pawtucket, the driver of the Dodge roadster, explained that he had stopped at the cleaning works and secured what he thought was a bucket of water and poured it upon the burning auto. It proved to be gasoline and the auto was reduced to junk.

The Seagraves pumper stripped a bolt on the Oak street hill and had to stop for repairs.

Second Assistant Engineer George A. McKenzie read the annual report of the board of engineers of the district, also signed by George E. Egger, chief; Robert Bonner, first assistant engineer and Columbus Pasetti, third assistant. The report showed that the department had responded to 19 telephone calls, 1 false alarm, 3 outside the Westerly fire district and 33 box calls, a total of 56 calls. The fire loss in the district for the year to date amounted to $183,929.

Concerning the fire equipment the Engineer's report showed 3,600 feet of hose in good condition, Motor apparatus-Seagraves pump in good condition; Ahrens Fox pump in good condition; ladder truck in poor condition, combination truck in fair condition.

The department membership includes: Board of engineers, 4 men; Rhode Island Ones company, 36 men; Alert Hook and Ladder company, 32; Cyclones No. 2 company, 40; Fire Police 12; First Aid squad 8.

STOP DOSING

ALTHOUGH Vicks VapoRub is used primarily as a quick external treatment for colds, thousands of users have found it equally good to check headaches without "dosing." Rub it on the forehead and temples; also melt a little in a bowl of hot water and inhale its soothing vapors. This clears the head immediately and usually brings quick relief.

30,000 MILES in 26,326 MINUTES

(total elapsed time)

At Atlantic City Speedway, between July 21 and August 9, four regular factory production Studebaker President Eights again proved the supremacy of Studebaker in the automotive world.

Under strict supervision of the American Automobile Association, two President Eight roadsters traveled 30,000 miles in less than 27,000 consecutive minutes—19 days and 18 nights of driving at better than 68 miles per hour! Two President sedans averaged 63.99 and 64.15 miles per hour for the same distance! All four cars were strictly stock—not specially prepared nor even selected by Studebaker, but chosen at random from Studebaker's assembly line by A. A. A. officials.

Even before this great achievement, Studebaker held more official speed and stamina records than all other makes of cars combined—The Commander with 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes; The Dictator with 5,000 miles in less than 4800 minutes; and The Erskine Six, holder of 11 official records in its class, 1000 miles in 984 minutes!

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

SOME NEW THINGS IN AGRICULTURE

"What's New in Agriculture," a section of more than 600 pages in the Yearbook of Agriculture for 1927, recently published by the United States department of agriculture, offers an abundance and a wide variety of new information, a presentation in popular form by departmental specialists of many interesting scientific developments which are not collected and recorded in any other volume. The following paragraphs summarize a few of many unfamiliar or newly discovered factors in agriculture and allied fields which are discussed at greater length in the yearbook:

No serums or toxins prepared from cattle for the cure or prevention of cattle diseases may be imported into the United States because they might serve to introduce into the country foot-and-mouth disease, rinderpest, or other maladies which are prevalent in foreign countries but do not exist in the United States.

If apples are shipped to market in boxes made from the wood of Douglas fir they are likely to be injured at the points of contact with the wood. Wrapping the apples in paper does not prevent this trouble. The injury is apparently due to water soluble substances carried by the fir wood, but their exact nature has not been determined. Growers have been advised to use boxes made from other kinds of lumber.

Phosphoric acid is necessary for production of sugar beets. Superphosphate fertilizer providing 80 pounds of phosphoric acid an acre has been found to increase the beet yield by as much as 7 tons per acre.

Thirty years ago furfural was a chemical curiosity selling for $30 a pound. Agricultural chemists found a way to manufacture it from corncobs and other farm wastes. Now it sells for as little as 10 cents a pound in quantities, is used in manufacturing synthetic resins, solvents and insecticides, and agriculture is getting some return from a waste.

If sodium nitrate is applied to wheat at the time of heading, the protein content of the grain is increased. Where farmers can secure the premiums millers are willing to pay for high protein wheat, this practical crop chemistry may prove profitable.

Cod liver oil is rich in vitamins A and D. The cod liver oil extracts offered on the markets when tested by departmental chemists showed almost complete loss of vitamin A and considerable loss of D.

With the aid of the weather record for the growing season supplemented by tests in an incubator, it has been possible for experts for the past five years to estimate how well the cranberry crop will keep when placed in storage.

In 1923 a study of short-time credit for cotton farmers indicated that the proportions were 29 per cent. cash credit and 71 per cent. merchant credit. By 1926 the cash credit was 62 per cent. and only 38 per cent. from merchants. The average cost of short-time cash credit as shown by special studies in South Carolina and Georgia was 9 per cent. in 1926 and of merchant credit 28 per cent. a year.

More than 11 billion bottles of nonalcholic beverages are consumed in the United States each year. It is estimated that into these beverages go 250,000 tons of sugar, 5,000,000 pounds of fruit acid, 50,000 pounds of artificial color, 1,000,000 gallons of flavoring extract and 400,000,000 gallons of carbonated water.

One of the methods by which the department hopes to control the ravages of the Japanese beetle, the corn borer, and other imported insect pests is through the importation of insect enemies of the destructive pests. As a rule when imported insects reveal themselves as extremely destructive it is because conditions in the United States are more favorable than in the land from which they came, and this is frequently due to the fact that insect parasites of the destroyers were not imported with them.

Recent experiments indicate that the cemical element manganese is essential in the manufacture of green color in plants. Little is required, but some seems to be essential.

Moth "proofing" solutions have been widely advertised. Some are decidedly helpful, but departmental entomologists have tested none that seem fully effective without injuring the fabric or leaving poisonous substances in the cloth.

Commercial fixation of nitrogen for use in fertilizer amounts to less than 1 per cent. of nitrogen used by plants in the United States. Electric discharges in the atmosphere may account for about 5 per cent., and bacteria are respaonsible for the fixation of the remainder.

Many trees, shrubs and plants contain rubber, and if proper methods of extraction can be devised may be grown as crops.

In the desert ranges of the west, sheepmen sometimes cover snowdrifts with straw to delay melting and furnish water for a longer period.

Erosion, gullying and sheet erosion take an annual toll of $200,000,000 from farmers of the United States. The loss is in their basic resource, the soil.

HINTS FOR THE FARM

When a mature apple tree has been top-worked and a new variety of apple grafted to the limbs of the old stock, it often happens that the grafts bear fruit the third season, with a larger crop the fourth. Three and four-year-old grafts should not be allowed to bear heavily because there is danger that the weight of the fruit will break off the graft at the point of union.

The period of incubation of hog cholera has been found to be between three and seven days. In 95 per cent. of the shotes used for federal tests, symptoms of the disease developed on the fourth, fifth or sixth day after exposure.

A concrete slab 10 feet wide may be used in front of brooder houses. The advantage of this concrete yard is that the chicks are kept off the ground the first few weeks of their lives and are not so likely to acquire the diseases to which young chickens are susceptible. By putting a fence of wire netting around the concrete yard in front of the house, the chickens may be allowed outdoors and thereby benefit from the sunshine which makes them less susceptible to leg weakness.

It has been found that apples packed in Douglas fir boxes develop "scald" injury because of some substance in the heartwood of the fir. Growers find it better to use western yellow pine, hemlock and spruce.

None of the remedial mixtures recommended as a control for contagious abortion of cattle has proved of value when the disease was caused by bacillus. If caused by lack of some mineral or vitamin inthe feed, benefits may be obtained by changing the diet to a better balance.

Peach growers should be hospitable to ladybird beetles, since they aid materially in checking injurious peach insects by preying on scales, aphids and thrips.

BACTERIAL WILT AND WINTER INJURY OF ALFALFA

Bacterial wilt and winter injury have caused, in recent years, serious injury to alfalfa in many alfalfa growing sections of the country. The two injuries are definitely distinct, and either may occur without the other, although winter injury frequently gives rise to conditions which make for the more rapid and destructive development of bacterial wilt.

F. R. Jones and J. L. Weimer of the department of agriculture's bureau of plant industry are authors of Circular 9-C., Bacterial Wilt and Winter Injury to Alfalfa.

Bacterial wilt may cause the plant to wilt during hot weather of spring or summer, and under this condition the plants die immediately, resembling plants whose roots have been severed by gophers. More frequently the plants show a characteristic dwarfed condition with foliage pale green or yellow. After each successive cutting the new stems are shorter and eventually the plant dies. The injury is due to bacteria entering the underground parts of the plant, causing alterations which may be observed readily in the roots.

Winter injury is most evident in the tap root, and is characterized by partial destruction of the root and crown bark and a hollowing and decay of the roots. The destruction of the root bark affords easy access for the wilt bacteria. Winter injury results from the killing of buds and parts of the crown and roots by severe cold.

"The most important method of controlling the wilt disease, say the authors, "is probably the prevention of the conveyance of bacteria by water from old diseased plants to young fields, especially in the spring, when many plants have wounds. Care should be taken to avoid carrying the bacteria to new fields in fragments of stems of diseased plants, with uncleaned seed, or with manure. If the disease is present in a field, its distribution by the knives of the mower can probably be avoided to some extent by mowing when the plants are free from surface moisture."

The use of hardy varieties of alfalfa resistant to winter injury does not always prevent damage by bacterial wilt, but the authors believe it may reduce loss from this cause.

WOULD ELIMINATE HIT-OR-MISS FARM PLANNING

A method of individual farm budgeting to enable farmers to plan their operations in the light of prospective returns at marketing time has been worked out by the bureau of agricultural economics, United States department of agriculture, and published in Farmers' Bulletin 1564-F., Farm Budgeting.

Much of the unsatisfactory returns in agriculture, according to J. B. Hutson, department economist and author of the bulletin, is the result of conducting crop and livestock activities on the basis of current prices. Good current prices invariably cause over-expansion with resulting poor prices, whereas a more efficient system of farming should be predicated upon what are likely to be the returns at marketing time.

The farm budget would show the crops to be grown, the livestock to be kept, and the estimated production, receipts and expenses from the various sources. First, the acreages of the different crops contemplated and the crop expenses that appear probable should be recorded. The next step is to estimate the production of the different crops and how much will be needed for seed, how much will be fed to livestock and how much will be sold. Then the number and kind of livestock to be kept should be indicated. Next the feed requirements and other expenses for the livestock should be recorded.

At this point, Mr. Hutson says, it will usually be advisable to compare the data showing the feeds on hand at the beginning of the year and crops to be grown for feed, with data showing the expected feed requirements. Generally, before a cropping program and livestock program are finally decided upon, adjustments will need to be made in first one and then the other until a livestock program adapted to a particular cropping program is found. When the kind and numbers of livestock contemplated have been recorded, the quantities of the livestock and livestock products expected to be used in the home and to be sold should be indicated.

The expected value of the crop and livestock products to be sold and the expected cost of the purchased feeds, seeds, fertilizers and other materials should then be indicated. Next, these expenses and receipts should be brought together. In addition to the direct costs for crops and livestock, estimates should be included on the expense side for labor, new machinery and repair, new fences and fence repair, building repair, taxes, farm insurance and other overhead items.

Generally, larger profits will result, says Mr. Hutson, if plans for the system including probable expenses and receipts are carefully developed and compared with plans for other possible systems before the one chosen is actually put into operation. In this way many costly errors may be avoided. Although prices, crop yields and livestock production cannot be forecast exactly, they can be foretold within broad enough limits to make it profitable to organize carefully and to focus attention upon the best available information relating to them.

Numerous sources of information enabling farmers to measure prospective prices are listed by Mr Hutson. These include the federal and state crop and market reports; the special commodity price studies issued by the United States department of agriculture and many of the states; the "Agricultural Situation," a monthly publication issued by the department of agriculture, and similar reports issued by extension services; the yearbooks of the federal and state departments of agriculture, the annual agricultural outlook reports issued by the department of agriculture and by state colleges of agriculture and extension services in many states, and the statistical bulletins issued by the department of agriculture.

SILAGE FROM SUNFLOWERS

Silage made from sunflowers is much less palatable than that made from corn, but after cattle become accustomed to the flavor they will eat large quantities and do well on it. In recent years sunflowers have received considerable attention as a silage crop, especially in the extreme north, where the seasons are too short and too cold for corn.

RAISING FALL PIGS

It apparently is more difficult to raise pigs farrowed in the fall than in the spring. Records of thousands of pigs compiled during a period of four years show that losses from hog cholera nearly all occurred in the fall and that the percentage of loss from other causes was considerably greater in the fall than in the spring. Through losses of various kinds the percentage of pigs raised to market age was only 56.8 in the fall as against 92.1 in the spring.

MOWING BY ROADSIDES

Mowing along the sides of country roads and highways is more than a kindness to travelers and an evidence of community spirit. It also prevents the spread of weeds to neighboring fields. The weed nuisance can be checked to a large extent by planting trees and shrubs that shade the ground and discourage weed growth.

MAKES CARVING EASIER

Shoulder of lamb has long been considered a choice cut by discerning palates. The meat is exceptionally tender and delicate in flavor, but the shoulder blade running through the center makes it impossible to carve into attractive slices. Skillful butchers and clever cooks have now found a way around this difficulty, says the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture.

The shoulder blade and leg bone can easily be removed, leaving an excellent pocket for savory stuffing. The stuffed shoulder may then be rolled up or left flat like a pillow. In either case it is sewed together around the edges and roasted in an open pan. The tasty stuffing helps to conserve the juices of the meat and to add seasoning. Carving difficulties are thus overcome. The boned stuffed shoulder can be carved straight through into shapely slices of just the right blend of meat and stuffing.

Lamb leg and saddle may also be boned, stuffed and roasted in this same way to make carving easier. For slicing cold these stuffed cuts are delicious, especially if the stuffing has been seasoned with fresh mint or watercress. The United States department of agriculture will send recipes on request.

START FLOCK IN FALL

Sheep raising does not require expensive or heavy labor. It does require study and continuous attention if success is to be expected. Several million acres of land in the United States which produce good summer feed for sheep are not grazed at present. Early fall is the best time to start a flock. Good grade ewes and a purebred ram form the best foundation stock.

INCREASES MARKET VALUE

Shredded oiled paper scattered through the basket or barrel of commercial apples greatly increases the market value of the fruit. Growers packing apples this way often receive from 50 cents to $1.25 more a barrel. If well distributed, the paper is valuable in the control of apple scald.

NEGLECT OFTEN CAUSES BAD TRAFFIC CONDITIONS

That there has been no general acceptance of the necessity for adoption of scientific safety programs in connection with road conditions on the part of cities and large towns in Connecticut is called to attention in the August bulletin of the state motor vehicle department, written by Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel. Particular reference is made to dangerous conditions occasioned by the neglect on the part of those in charge of traffic to see that the so-called sight lines or view conditions for car operators are properly established.

"It may probably be a fact that on most corners and in most locations where attention to this particular traffic feature is directed," says the commissioner, "the actual obstruction to sight line is occasioned by a private individual. This needs to be considered, but it is also probably a fact that an active attempt on the part of officials of a city to get the co-operation of abutting owners would succeed, probably legislative action giving necessary powers for safety might be secured."

Lack of opportunity to secure information concerning accidents which occur within city limits can not be held responsible for failure to study or correct conditions. It is pointed out that "there are available in the motor vehicle department files, thorough interpretations of all accidents. Where and how and when and why they occur is ascertainable as to every single place and individual. All the statistical data necessary to determine the type and probable cause of any accident may be found. This material is for use; it has been offered and the co-operation of the state is ready, by assistance or advice."

In discussing the "sight line," the commissioner says that it is not fair to expect perfect operation unless it is possible for the operator to see a reasonable distance in every direction. He considers that the necessity of the open sight line is well understood by authorities having the matter of traffic direction within their authority. In the policy of the state highway department this principle is an outstanding feature of safety engineering. Corners are kept clear, warning signs erected and bushes are trimmed so that there is proper sight at every intersection and curve wherever the department has controlled. The same policy has never been thoroughly applied by the authorities of any city.

With regard to the operator, Commissioner Stoeckel deems it criminal for a person to interfere with his own sight line if he knows better, and if he does not know better, "it is apparent that he ought not to be operating." This statement is especially directed at the use of pasters and signs on windshields and windows of cars.

The seriousness of the situation is readily apparent, it is pointed out, in that more than 70 per cent of all motor vehicle accidents in the state occur in cities of 10,000 population or more. Last year, approximately 20,000 of the 26,000 accdents occurred in 33 of the 169 towns of the state.

"City traffic is important enough, certainly," says the commissioner, "that not only should a comprehensive traffic plan be made, but every intersection and corner should be studied and written records and recommendations be a part of every city program."

Effort has been made for a long time, he says, to convince city authorities of the need for such a policy. In particular he mentions the case of one large city "where it is possible today to point to place after place where sight lines are imperfect and where traffic direction would help the individual to manage his problem." Officials there have been in entire agreement with suggested plans, he says, but nothing has ever been done "beyond talk about it."

There might be constructive criticism of this statement, the commissioner admits, "if it were claimed that a woman passenger wearing a picture hat interferes with the operator's sight line, within the limitation of the law. It is a fact that a woman on the back seat becomingly dressed can and does on occasion do just that, but it seems to be beyond the possibility of suggestion or dictation to interfere with human practice and customs, and especially with woman's dress to any extent whatever, so that the hazard, if it be such, occasioned in that way must be kept in the consciousness of each operator as one of the fixed hazards like the actual construction of the car he operates."

It is also necessary for the pedestrian to understand the importance of the sight line and to exercise common sense and thought in all his walking. "The old idea of prescribing any place in the highway to walk—that is, for example, to say that a pedestrian must walk against traffic—hampers him in the free use of his brain. It is not to be expected that there ever will be anything except the most general laws governing walking in a highway. The highway belongs to all its users alike.

"Probably the pedestrian problem cannot be taken care of by safety engineering to any great extent. Education of the pedestrian by experience and study has made people uncommonly able to take care of themselves. As a general rule judgment is good and when one considers the immense number of hazards to which pedestrians are exposed, the accident rate is singularly low. But insofar as it is possible to better conditions it should be done."

Singing Kettles

The Japanese manufacture in a great variety of forms iron tea-kettles which break into song when the water boils. The song may not be a perfect melody but is perhaps as agreeable as the notes produced by some of the insects that the Japanese also treasure for their music.

The harmonious sounds of the tea-kettles are produced by steam bubbles escaping from beneath thin sheets of iron fastened closely together nearly at the bottom. To get the best effects some skill is required in regulating the fire. The character of the sounds varies with the form of the kettle. These singing kettles have been used for many centuries.

EMBERS OF NEW CLUB ATTEND A BARN DANCE

Noank has another club the Hill and Hill club. Tuesday night a straw ride was on for the evening, in Tryon's big truck, loaded with hay. Meeting at the waiting room 20 were ready for a ride to Hope Valley to attend a barn dance. The president, Robert Tooker was in charge. Fish horns and cow bells made plenty of noise. Reaching the mill town around 9 o'clock they found the barn where the dance was on. Ears of corn were hanging around the walls and sweet cider, pie and apples were passed. It was a real farmers' dance. Prof. Sid Tinkerman of East Greenwich called off with a good voice of lungs. Treasurer Neil Patterson did the sword swallowing act for the crowd. Rollin Rathbun, who is secretary of the new club showed how easy it was to walk on broken glass in his bare feet and not get cut. The crowd went wild over this act. Carl Ashcraft sang several songs. The club returned home to the fishing village as the birds were saying "Good morning."

Several young men who are working for the Standard Oil company at New London attended an outing given by the company recently at the Devil's Hop Yard, near Salem, using the company trucks. They reached there at 11 o'clock. Stewart Earl Chapman in his Cream of Wheat suit got busy on the dinner, with several oilmen as helpers. A 7 inning ball game between the married men and the bachelors took place. The boy wonder from Midway, Huck Taylor, pitched for the married men while Beaney caught for the single men. Smokey Joe Walsh was on the hill. Billie Fitzgerald did back stopping work for 5 innings. The score-keeper was putting down goose eggs for both sides. Fitzgerald, the catcher, was hit on the nose by a foul ball and had to leave the game. His place was taken by Spike Panciera of Greenmanville. In the final inning Foote caught the screw ball of Taylor for a home run, winning the game for the single men, 10 to 9. Steward Chapman called "come and get it on the run". The oilmen done it was a clam chowder made a new way which he had learned from England. There were baked crabs, lobsters and pie, with coffee. After the eats, the races took place. In the corn race, the one eating the most green corn received a shaving outfit. Six were in the race. Chris Barry put away ten under his belt and won the prize. Lawrence Sullivan and Gordon Mahan had a game of horse shoes for a bet of a new hat against a pair of shoes. Mahan won the shoes, getting two games out of three. String Bean Beaney as he is called by his fellow workmen won the high jump, nosing out Laughing Bill Barry by only two inches. Foote and Taylor ran away with the three-legged race, leaving Chapman and Hiscock far in the rear. The potato race was won by Joe Walsh, putting nine potatoes over the line. Billie Fitzgerald was second. Duke Hiscock had too much wind for his rivals in the fat men's race and won hands down.

Boat Spider, Capt. Orlando Clark and Mate Gordon Clark, went out near Watch Hill to try for the small mackerel that have struck on. Breaking out the hook and line, the fishermen sat there for several hours and were hauling in the fish like hailstones on a tin roof, while the other boats were not getting a bite. Mate G. Clark said: "We must have a four leaf clover with us!" After fishing for six hours they had a catch of 320 mackerel, the biggest catch of these fish this season with a hook and line.

Earl Davis and John Daboll, two baseball fans of the village, attended the game between the Yankees and Hartford league team at Hartford on Tuesday. The trip was made by automobile and was their first time to see the New York Yankees in action.

HEAVY PROFIT-TAKING CHECKED THE UPWARD MOVEMENT OF STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—(AP)—A sensational upward movement of stock prices was checked by heavy profit-taking just before the close of today's market. Extreme gains, which ran from 2 to nearly 14 points in the active issues were cut down, and in a few cases wiped out. Both the railroad and industrial averages compiled by the Associated Press showed net gains, the latter touching a new high record for all time. Trading started off at a terrific pace with the result that the ticker fell more than 20 minutes behind the market, but it slowed up during the afternoon. Total sales were 3,743,000 shares.

The unexpected ease of call money in the face of heavy month-end and Labor day demands provided the chief background for the upward movement. Call loans renewed at 7 1-2 per cent and the official rate held steady at that figure all day, but loans were arranged in the "outside market" as low as 7 per cent in the afternoon. Time money held firm at 6 1-2 per cent.

The source of the large supply of funds available on call at a time when banks were preparing to meet the gigantic September first dividend and interest demands, and the Labor day currency demands, variously estimated at from $30,000,000 to $75,000,000, was shrouded in mystery. Wall street heard reports that foreign banks were large lenders because interest rates here were substantially above those in foreign capitals, but these could not be confirmed.

Many traders who had sold "short" on bankers' predictions that call money would run up to 10 per cent again this week were caught in a tran and forced to cover their commitments at substantial losses. Public participation was again on a large scale, buying orders being particularly heavy from western points.

Trade news continued favorable. Weekly steel trade reviews emphasized the stiffening commodtiy price tendency and the fact that steel demand and output were being maintained at high levels. All sorts of merger and dividend rumors were in circulation, many of them unconfirmed, but all serving to fan the flames of speculation.

New high records were established by more than two score issues, including such representative shares as American Can, U. S. Steel common, National Cash Register, Paramount Famous Lasky, Briggs Manufacturing, Loose Wiles, International Nickel and Victor Talking Machine.

A brisk demand for the copper shares was influenced by reports that the refined storage stocks of the red metal were at the lowest levels in years. American Smelting ran up more than 10 points to a new peak at 248, as against a low of 169 earlier in the year, Kennecott and Calumet & Hecla also moved into new high ground and Anaconda moved up 2 points.

U. S. Steel common closed fractionally lower at 154 1-2 after having touched a new top at 155 5-8. General Motors showed a net gain of 1 1-2 points at 195 although it had sold at 197 3-8. There were a few conspicuous soft spots. Freeport Texas dropped 3 1-2 points and Houston Oil, Motor Product although Texas Pacific and St. Louis Southwestern reached new high grounds.

Establishment of a new high level for the year by Canadian exchange at 100.14 1-6 featured the steady foreign exchange market. Sterling cables held steady around $4.85 1-4.

Wheat and cotton prices were reactionary.

COLCHESTER

MEETING VOTES TO BUILD ANOTHER SCHOOLHOUSE

About 70 townspeople attended the special town meeting in Grange hall Tuesday evening. A vote was passed rescinding the vote taken at a town meeting held in September 1927 to move the so-called Scott Hill school house and appropriating $1500 for that purpose.

The other object of the meeting was to see if the townspeople would vote to authorize the school committee on the board of selectmen to erect a new schoolhouse on a site to be selected by the school committee and to make the necessary appropriations to meet the expense of purchasing such a site and building the new school. This matter of building a new schoolhouse on the Parum road, near the old John Marks home, was the cause of much discussion. Charles F Brown was chairman of the evening and lead the warning for the meeting. David Shea and Miss Anna Avery, both members of the school board, explained that Mr. Light of the state board of education, at Hartford, had made a visit to Colchester and after investigating the needs of the pupils in the Parum section, thought it advisable to build a new school near the old Marks home. Mr. Shea explained that if the building was not located on the spot recommended by the state authorities, the town would lose a part of its appropriation from the state. Mr. Shea also stated that a considerable sum is expended each year for the transportation of school children from the Parum section to the center schools, whereas if the new school house is built transportation will no longer be needed.

First Selectman Charles A. Kramer, addressed the meeting and stated that he was opposed to the school board's plan of erecting a new school house on the Marks corner. He said that the land in that section was very swampy and a school on that part of the road would not fairly serve all the children in the Parum section. Mr. Kramer has lived for many years only a short distance from the Parum district and is in a position to judge as to the feasibility of erecting a new school on the Marks corners.

His advice to those present carried considerable weight, influencing many of the people to vote against the erection of a school house on the proposed site.

However by a close vote the motion was passed to erect a school house on land located near Marks corner and it was also voted to appropriate $700 which amount together with the $1500 appropriated about a year ago is to be used in constructing the building.

There are now two schoolhouses in the School street section near the A. A. Brown home. One of these houses has been in use for many years but a few repairs would place it in good condition. Nevertheless this building stands empty because a new schoolhouse was erected by the town a few years ago, only a few hundred feet from the old building. A number of townspeople are of the opinion that it would have been better to repair or build an addition to the old school building near the A. A. Brown farm and then erect the new school house in the Parum section. Some of the people suggested that since there is now an unused school building near the A. A. Brown farm, this building could be moved to the Parum district which is only a few miles distant, instead of erecting a new building. Nevertheless, in accordance with the vote of the meeting, there will still be one used and one unused school building near the A. A. Brown home as well as the new building to be erected a few miles across country on the Parum road. Incidentally it was the opinion of several present at the meeting that if only actual voters had voted on the question the result of the meeting might have been different.

POETRY

The Picture-Framer

It isn't just the pictures
  Glad Nature paints that thrill,
Though rich may be her landscapes
  Of river, vale and hill.
I find a sweet diversion,
  Like children playing games,
Imagining the artist
  Lets me select the frames!

I seek for points of vantage
  To view some treasured scene,
Then try for ways to frame it
  With trees that lie between.
My task grows joy-abundant,
  So happy is the quest,
As varied frames are sought for
  To see which fits the best.

Perhaps just humble saplings
  With filmy leaves may be
An outline for the picture
  That I have come to see.
Yet, oftentimes tall beeches
  Or sycamores of white
May glorify the vista
  And give the soul delight.

I've found rare frames in valleys,
  Though hills seem best designed
To bring out all the beauty
  Our artist has in mind.
One truth abides eternal
  And proves the painter's fame;
When Nature blends her colors
  The picture's fit to frame!

—By William Herschell, in Indianapolis News.

Taciturnity

Perhaps it has occurred to you,
  In cogitations deep
On problems of the universe
  Before you go to sleep,
That as through this provoking world
  We wend our weary way,
We ought to get more credit for
  The things we do not say.

Perhaps you said some peppy things
  At times when you were young,
But now you're older and you've learned
  To try to hold your tongue.
So now you're often quite discreet,
  And when some parlous gink
Exasperates you, you don't say
  Exactly what you think.

Now frankness is a virtue,
  But loquacity is not,
And when you're mad, it's a mistake
  To say an awful lot.
So as through this provoking world
  We wend our weary way,
We ought to get due credit for
  The things we do not say.

PERSIANS MIGHT PERMIT ENGLAND-INDIA AIRWAY

JERUSALEM, Aug. 29— (AP) — The British Imperial Airways have not been able to extend their air line, Cairo-Baghdad to Karachi, in India, because the Persian government has refused to grant permission to their territory being flown over, or for the needful air-stations to be established.

Now, however, the Persian press reports that the negotiations initiated by England with a view to removing these difficulties are on the point of conclusion.

Agreement is said to have been reached on the establishment of five air stations for the Imperial Airways, of which one is to be in Bushire and one in Bender Abbas, so that Baghdad and Karachi will be linked up with the existing air route from Teheran via Ispahan.

Patronize These Well Known Concerns

SMITH BROS. WILL MAKE HOUSE DELIVERY

If you are not already aware of the fact that one Norwich company makes house to house delivery of kerosene then this may be the means of notifying you that Smith Bros., of No. 863 Boswell avenue, phone 3159, has cared for Norwich families in this line for years.

This type of service makes it easy for you to always have kerosine on hand, to keep it in a container that is always out of the way, and never have to worry of running short some night or day when stores may be closed.

Our regular deliveries insure you against this danger of being without kerosene. It is our business to provide this necessity and for years we have provided it for Norwich and vicinity.

The next time you need kerosene think of the Smith Bros. and give us a ring—we will do the rest. House service is our specialty and our prices are extremely low. Let us quote you on kerosene service by the day, month or year.

WHEN YOU WANT GINGER ALE ORDER UP NUTMEG

The Nutmeg Club Beverage company of 22 Pearl street stands ready at anw time to supply your liquid wants. To the hundreds who have already become followers of Nutmeg Club ginger ale, we do not have to sing our own praises. To you who have not become users of Nutmeg Club ginger ale let us tell you that it is good—and you can get it in both styles, plain ginger ale and pale dry ginger ale.

We pride ourselves on producing a ginger ale that is filled with ginger. A bottle of our ginger ale will convince you that here is a drink fit to grace the table of a king.

Of course we also bottle every variety of liquid refreshments for the home. Refreshing and pleasant to the taste, bottled soda is always a handy thing to have ready when company comes in for the day.

This summer, of course you will want soda on hand. Buy Nutmeg ginger ale by the case and save money. Call 2212-2 and let us quote you on prices.

WANT WORK DONE WELL? CALL JOHN H. FORD CO.

If you are planning to move in the near future perhaps it would be well for you to get in touch with John H. Ford, phone 80, Norwich. This company makes a specialty of moving work, another large and modern moving van having only recently been added to the fleet. Whether it is a short haul or a long distance job the Ford company stands ready to quote you prices and also to guarantee that the moving job will be done in excellent manner, your goods handled with the utmost of care and delivered at your new home without the least sign of damage.

Besides light work, John H. Ford does machinery moving and carting. Why waste your time trying to crate things securely? It is the work of a practiced crater and moving man and can best be handled by them. Machinery runs into money fast and a poorly crated piece of machinery may be badly damaged because of poor crating. Crating by a Ford represeneative means real crating and it is a stamp of security on your merchandise or machinery.

Local and long distance moving and light and heavy teaming are also carried on by this company and their word stands back of every moving contract. There are many people who have had Ford do their moving work for them and these people will be only too glad to recommend the John H. Ford company to you.

SAYS HEADACHE IS DUE TO EYE STRAIN

At times every parent wishes to know what causes the frequent headaches of their children after beginning school work. Some children claim that they do not care to study; some, that they become sleepy after an hour or so of study.

Many children suffer from eyestrain and its consequent dull headache, and, not realizing that poor vision is behind the headache, change about from this study to that, always aiming at one that causes less use of the eyes. These are signs that point clearly to the need of a complete eye examination for the correction of the vision to normal.

At this time of the year when hundreds of children are being made ready to be sent to school, many will be advised to get glasses, therefore a bit of friendly advice will not be out of place at this time. Be certain to take your child to a specialist who will advise glasses only if actually needed. Our equipment for examination as well as for actually grinding the lenses and assembling the completed spectacles are of the very best and our oculist will prescribe glasses only when needed.

We wish to emphasize the fact that the Franklin, Inc., Opticians, are permanently located at 56-58 Franklin street. They have a five year lease on these premises, have real estate holdings in your city, and refer to bank and mercantile agencies as to their reputability and are deserving of your support, being the first and only kind of a store in this city. Needless to say we guarantee all work and will change glasses free of charge if necessary within one year and all shell frames are guaranteed for five years. See our advertisement elsewhere in this paper.

WM. RYAN & SONS WILL ASSIST YOU IN MANY WAYS

As the summer goes on many people turn their thoughts to work to be done about the home property. Many people in eastern Connecticut have planned on building this summer. Building today of course calls for excavation for foundations and cellars.

This is the particular line in which Wm. Ryan & Sons are most interested. Equipment of all kinds for excavating or crane work is carried by this firm and by means of this equipment work can be done more speedily and efficiently than by hand.

And the cost of work done by Mm. Ryan & Sons is not high for those who need their services. Time is money in these modern days and this firm can save you time and money by their efficiency in handling excavating work.

When you order a stone from us satisfaction in every way is guaranteed.

NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL EMPLOYE GETS BACK CAR TAKEN AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 29—Petty thieves were busy here last night as were automobile thieves, for a residence and one commercial establishment were broken into and two automobiles were stolen. The breaks did not result in plunder of consequence being obtained and the automobiles were recovered by the state police, Centerbrook barracks. Mrs. Mary McEwen 12 Eastern avenue, upon rising this morning at 6 o'clock discovered that entrance had been gained to her home. She notified the police of the break and Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty went to the house, where entrance had been obtained by forcing a rear window, but so far as Mrs. McEwen could determine nothing had been taken from the house. Mrs. Charles U. Sauter notified the police at 7 o'clock this morning that the Pequot Beverage store, 29 Jefferson avenue, had been burglarized. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin was sent to the store and found that entrance was gained by forcing a window. The plunder obtained was inconsequential. It is apparent that the work is that of boys.

Lucien Longevan, employed at Norwich state hospital, drove his Chrysler automobile to New London last night and parked it on Green street while he was absent for an hour or more. When he returned for the car about midnight Longevan discovered that it had been stolen and notified the police of the theft. The state police at Groton and Centerbrook and the police at Norwich, Westerly, Middletown, Hartford and New Haven were informed of the theft. An hour afterwards the Centerbrook state police found the auto abandoned at Saybrook. Longevan recovered his property today.

The other automobile stolen was that owned by Charles Y. Miller, 601 Weygad road, Easton, Pa. Miller parked his car on Huntington street near Broad street about 8 o'clock and at 10 o'clock he discovered that it had been stolen. Miller reported the theft at police headquarters and the police throughout the state were requested to be on the lookout for the car. Like the auto of Longevan, Miller's car was found at Saybrook by the Centerbrook state police.

More than fifty members of the Young Ladies' High School association attended a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Mary Jane Turner of Montauk avenue. The association is made up of members who were students when Williams Memorial Institute was known as the Young Ladies' High school. In addition to a varied program of music and songs that had been arranged, schoolmates of former days spent a pleasant hour swapping stories of earlier days. Ice cream and cake were served. Those who attended were Ida P. Allen, Sarah A. Stoddard, Mrs. Amanda Carlyle Rogers, Mrs. L. Lucy Bishop Miner, Anna C. Learned, Lucy A. Gardner, Elizabeth C. G. Stark, Helen H. Dunham, Mrs. Anna L. Mead Lee, Nellie M. Davis, Bridget A. Neilan, Lillian I. Lamb, Nellie C. Rose, Emeline C. Smith, Louise H. Allen Huntley, Gustava Frances Green, Alice Greene Arnold, Mrs. Katherine E. Durivan, Ann Reeves, Mrs. Elias F. Morgan, Caroline Bingaw Felt, Mrs. Georgia Lane Culver, Mrs. Blanche Eggleston Herrin, Mrs. Spencer Stacy, Clara Stacy Pendleton, Ella Fengar Gorton, Nellie Smith Potter, Grace Potter Smith, Lillian D. Rogers Kelsey, Edwina Roath, Flora D. Lester, F. Elizabeth Champion, Helen M. Champion, Mrs. Susan G. C. Amerman, Elizabeth H. Strickland, Frances E. Strickland, Nettie J. Bishop, Mrs. H. L. Crandall, Elizabeth Gorton, Frances M. Graves, Stella Smith, Alice Green Crandall, Louise Green Phillips Gorton, Belle D. Woodruff, Fanny G. Rogers, Anna G. Whiton, Mrs. Marion Phillips, Anna Hempstead Branch and Miss Mary J. Turner.

Miss Josephine Irlandi, a former teacher at Robert Bartlett school, was guest of honor at a party given last night by Miss Mary De Fanage, at 20 Ocean avenue. The evening was spent in playing bridge, prizes being won by Miss Frieda C. Grout and Miss Margaret Mono. Miss Irland received many beautiful gifts as a token of the affection of her friends. She is to leave this city shortly to take up her duties as teacher of language in the Seymour Junior High school, West Hartford. Following the bridge, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Mabel Follows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Follows, of Niantic, became the bride Saturday last, of Edward P. McDonald of Glastonbury. The ceremony was performed at the Parish house of St James' Episcopal church by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge. After the wedding a reception was held following which Mr. and Mrs. McDonald left for a honeymoon trip to New York. Upon their return they will make their home in Niantic.

Mrs. William Lockhart, 528 Main street, entertained last eevning at two tables of bridge. Winners of prizes were Mrs. Mary Ape and Thomas Morash. After the play refreshments were served.

At the meeting of Roosevelt council, No. 8, Jr. O. U. A. M., held in Odd Fellows hall, this week, the following officers were elected to fill vacancies in the organization: Vice counclior, Benjamin G. Rogers, conductor, Frank A. Bradford, assistant recording secretary, Fred A. Porter, chaplain, Leonard E. Stanton, inside sentinel, Harry N. Newbury, outside sentinel, Elias H. Sheppard.

Three young men were arrested last night in Groton by Officer Swanson of the railroad police. They were Thomas Kelly, 26, Scranton, Pa.; Francis White, 18, and Wayland Wright, both of Falmouth, Mass. The youths were caught riding freight cars and after spending the night at the Groton police station were ordered out of town.

Members of Lady Strathcona lodge, Daughters of Scotia, had an all day picnic yesterday at the home of Mrs. Nellie Ware of 61 Benham road. Games and outdoor sports were enjoyed after which basket lunches were eaten.

Harry Birenbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Birenbaum, 96 Green street, was attacked by a dog while walking along Tilley street this forenoon. As the youth was passing the house where the owner resided, the dog leaped at him, tearing his shirt. The boy reported his experience at police headquarters but appeared more concerned over the tearing of the shirt than the attack by the dog, for he wanted the owner of the animal to be compelled to purchase him a new garment. The boy was referred to Dog Warden John Sweezy.

Patrolman Louis Wheeler in making his rounds on Chapel street last night discovered a quantity of cinders in the street in front of the property of Robert Tetreault, 118 Vauxhall street and without lanterns displayed to warn auto drivers of the existing danger. Today Tetreault was instructed to have danger lights set on the building material.

Adrian Racine, 38, of New York, who was arrested last night for safeguarding, today was examined by physicians and was committed to Norwich State hospital. Racine was arrested at the request of his brother, Joseph A. Racine, with whom the former was visiting, after the New York man had threatened to take the lives of the entire Ocean avenue family. Racine came to New London a few weeks ago for a visit and while here became afflicted with the mental disorder.

"JAMES ANDREUS" DUPED LOCAL BANK OFFICIALS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 29—The Pinkerton and Burns detective agencies and the New London police are seeking to obtain arrest of James Andreus, alias George Stamos, George Manning, George Menides, George Condo, J. Condo and P. Condo, a Greek, who has been going about the country passing worthless checks, a pursuit he has followed successfully for a long time. For his apprehension the detective agencies have been at work for a long time. Andreus is known to have been in New London Aug. 17, when he went to two banks and deposited in each case checks made payable to himself and drawn on the Stamford Trust company, Stamford, for $685. He represented that he intended to open a bakery at 30 Bank street. After depositing the checks, Andreus was informed that he could not draw on his deposit until four days. Andreus returned to the banks within a short time and deposite din each of them checks for $160 and $170, which purported to have been issued by New London merchants. Two hours afterwards he again visited the banks and tendered checks calling for the payment of $165, the checks representing to have been drawn by merchants in this city. These checks he negotiated and upon receiving the money left town. Two days afterwards it was discovered that the checks were forgeries. The Pinkerton and Burns agencies have been notified of Andreus' operations in New London. The last heard of Andreus before he showed up in New London was at Hackensack, N. J.

NEW TRAFFIC CONTROL SYSTEM IS PLANNED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 29—Traffic conditions in this city have reached such perplexing proportions that City Manager Holt is contemplating the installation of a modern new electric traffic lighting system comparable to those found in the larger cities. If present plans materialize, the new signals will soon be placed at the more dangerous intersections of the city for trial. If successful they will be generally installed all over the city wherever traffic may require.

But few cases were up for trial in the police court today and they did not involve acts of a serious infraction of the law. One drunk, who was arrested on North Bank street yesterday, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Donald F. McDonald, 870 Bank street, was charged with evasion of responsibility, but he was discharged as the complainant, Martin Turner, Huntington street, withdrew the charge. McDonald was arrested yesterday following Turner complaining that the automobile driven by McDonald had collided with the Turner car Monday night on Main street, while the latter's auto was parked at the curb. Turner also stated that McDonald drove away without stopping to find out the extent of the damage. David Lubow was charged with failing to obey a traffic officer's signal and driving in the wrong direction on a one-way street. He was arrested yesterday by Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh at the corner of Bank and Howard streets, but today Lubow was discharged.

Dorothea E. Miller, 70 Highland street, West Hartford and Ralph C. Robinson, Farmington road, Farmington, N. Y., were charged with violation of the city's parking ordinances. As they failed to appear in court their bonds of $2 were declared forfeited.

Mrs. Adeline Rogers Norkett, about 70, widow of Charles H. Norkett, died last night at her residence, 35 Cleveland street. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Edith Randale. Mrs. Norkett had been ill for a long time.

Patrick McMahon, 80, died this morning at his residence, 92 Riverview avenue, death resulting from an illness of several months caused by infirmities attending his years. Two hours later, the Chrysler coupe showed up in the same town driven by Harold Jackson, colored, of Larchmont, New York. The ford was in the hands of a 17 year old boy, Emile A. Pothier of Central Falls, R. I. Both were arrested by the state police and lodged in Centerbrook barracks for the night. They were tried this morning and the Negro was held over for the next term of court in Middlesex county. The youth was fined $25 and costs and it is understood that his parents took him home this afternoon. Inasmuch as the theft of the cars occurred in this city and notice of the same was generally broadcast by the local detective bureau, the police department here considers it strange that the men were not returned to New London for trial.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Many crook stories have been filmed, some of them good, others of lesser quality, but it has remained for Paramount to give the motion picture public a masterpiece of crime drama which is true to life and constructive in its treatment.

The picture is "Underworld" an amazingly vivid and thrilling story written by Ben Hecht. It has its local premiere today at the Palace theatre and will run for three days.

Briefly, the story recounts the violent adventures of a group of men and women of criminal instincts in a metropolitan American city. It shows gangland in its true colors. The characters have a distorted viewpoint toward life but they possess human qualities, too, that actuate their desperate acts and color their loves, feuds and depredations. There is regeneration for only two of the characters. Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent, a man and a girl whose underworld associations have been brought about by strange circumstances and who finally find "the right way" through their love.

George Bancroft, as a gang leader, is a huge, roistering barbarian who lives by violence and dies the same way. Fred Kohler, a rival gangster, is a savage bandit, second only to Bancroft. The grimness of the picture is lightened by Larry Semon's spontaneous humor.

The vaudeville offering this week is another exceptional one. The acts have been selected with great care and will no doubt please everyone. Several of the acts are head liners on the well known circuits.

Original Moxie Company

The newly-organized Moxie company of America is a selling organization that has secured rights to distribute Moxie in all territories outside of New England. It does not alter or affect the manufacturing or management of the original Moxie company of Massachusetts, which retains all manufacturing rights and will continue to distribute and sell Moxie in New England.

Mr. Francis E. Thompson of the Moxie company of Massachusetts stated in an interview that the original Moxie company of Massachusetts founded more than 40 years ago by his father, Dr. Augustin Thompson of Lowell, Mass., will continue to manufacture and sell Moxie in New England, as it has always done.

"So many people have called me up, asking if we have consolidated or sold our business, that I am sure some of our many New England friends have gathered the impression that the Moxie company of Massachusetts has reorganized or enlarged its organization to extend its distribution," he said.

"This is not the case. The Moxie company of Massachusetts, is not the parent company of the Moxie company of America, recently organized. This new organization is a separate and distinct company, organized to distribute the Moxie product in all territories outside of New England. The Moxie company of Massachusetts has absolutely no connection with the Moxie company of America, except as any manufacturer may have with his exclusive distributor.

The Moxie company of America has been given the right to use the Moxie name only in its capacity of distributors of Moxie. The new organization has secured the selling rights in all territories outside of New England, but all the extract used will be manufactured here in our plant, and supplied by us. No other company but the Moxie company of Massachusetts has the right to make Moxie extract. We are the sole owners of the Moxie name, trade mark and formula. In so far as New England is concerned, the original Moxie company of Massachusetts will continue to supply all dealers as it has always done."

Mr. Francis E. Thompson, president of the original Moxie company of Massachusetts, and his brother, Mr. Harry A. Thompson, treasurer of the company, are both actively engaged in a business which is often referred to as "a New England institution". It was founded by their father, who created the well-known Moxie formula, and over a period of 46 years the popularity of Moxie has continued to grow.

The Moxie company of Massachusetts is and always has been controlled by the Thompson family, and it will continue to operate under the same management as heretofore.

Strand Theatre

Showing today for the last times, "The Wilderness Woman," Robert Kane's new production for First National, is an adaptation of the Saturday Evening Post serial by Arthur Stringer. Aileen Pringle, Lowell Sherman and Chester Conklin have the feature roles.

Coming tomorrow and Saturday, Huntley Gordon, always a favorite with film fans, gives a splendid account of himself in "Gypsy of the North," the new Rayart picture now at the Strand theatre. Six feet in height and the picture of rugged manhood, Mr. Gordon is well cast as the male lead in this drama of the Alaskan country.

No less splendid in their various roles are the other featured players in the cast, which include Georgia Hale in the title role, Erin LaBissoniere and Jack Dougherty. It is a Trem Carr Production, directed by Scott Pembroke.

George O'Brien, who plays the principal role in the characteristically New York production, is a Californian by birth, and had much to learn about Manhattan in order to bring realism to the part. Consequently, he came east a week before production started, and, with his director, Allan Dwan as a guide, he made an intensive study of the city, spending a great deal of time in the Ghetto, which is the locale for the earlier sequences of the story.

Breed Theatre

"A Race for Life," a Warner Bros. production starring Rin-Tin-Tin, is to start at the Breed tomorrow for a run of two days. This is the Wonder Dog's fourteenth screen triumph and it is acclaimed as the most thrilling of the lot which is saying a great deal.

"A Race for Life" recounts the adventures of Danny O'Shea, who goes with his dog to the Southland, via box car route, there to become a jockey for a turfman who has enemies who try to poison the horse, and succeed in imprisoning Rinty.

The uncanny intelligence which the dog shows in extricating himself from all his troubles and in spurring his pal to victory provides a story which will make the house rock with cheers. The human cast consists of Virginia Browne Faire, Carrol Nye, Bobby Gordon, James Mason and Pat Hartigan. Charles R. Condon wrote the story and scenario and the production was directed by Ross Lederman, who was so successful in his direction of Rin-Tin-Tin in "A Dog of the Regiment."

GAVE INTERESTING HISTORY IN DEDICATION ADDRESS

At the recent dedication of "The Haven," a home for elderly people, at Abington, the dedication address was delivered by Rev. G. B. Hawks. In his address Rev. Mr. Hawks said:

"I feel like the elder son in the parable of whom the Father said: 'Son thou art ever with me, for as the local minister, I have opportunity to visit you often. For two years I have had an intimate knowledge of the life and work of The Haven and I can say most sincerely that I believe in this home and its work and feel that it is accomplishing an important mission. I admire Mrs. Griggs for her faith, her courage, her brave fight and the real success she has attained and now we all rejoice with her in this new building and the larger opportunity which opens today.

Every community should have something distinctive, something to set it apart from others and give it individuality. This, Abington has in The Haven, which will come more and more to be known.

I am asked to tell the history of the older part of The Haven, which we know was once a church dedicated to the worship of God and which now, after these years we rededicate to special service in The Kingdom of God. The following facts I have gathered from some who once worshipped here and I believe them to be substantially accurate.

This building is at least the third Advent church used in Abington. Years ago, Marcy Hollow was called Stebbinsville and there on the spot now occupied by the home of Mrs. Alice Arnold was "The Tabernacle" used by the Adventists for some 25 years. Whether this was an old store building I am not sure, but the following lines by a local wag seems to point that way: 'They bought a store in Stebbinsville; And there they set it on a hill; And the Advent people round it shine; Like Dandy Jim from Caroline.'

The tabernacle becoming old and shabby plans were made for a new building. In 1865 land was leased from Joseph Baxter for $25 and the second building, called the Advent chapel was built. This is now the home of Warren Baker and the cellar hole between its present location and the railroad marks the old site. Meanwhile, The Tabernacle was remodeled into a tenement and was later destroyed by fire. Among those who supplied the Advents in the new chapel were H. C. Hastings and a Mr. Bugbee from Boston and P. S. Butler of Woodstock. Then Hezekiah Davis became pastor. He was a man of high character, of rare ability and of outstanding personality and under his leadership the chapel enjoyed some years of prosperity until the second building was outgrown.

Under the leadership of Brother Davis, money was raised for a new chapel which is now the older part of this building. In 1874 the land was leased of George Williams for the large sum of $15 and this chapel built, being dedicated in January, 1875. Here under Brother Davis the church was most prosperous, with large audiences and enthusiastic meetings. Services were held Sunday morning and afternoon, the people taking lunch and spending the day while often a third service was held in the evening.

There was no choir but a melodeon led the congregational singing. Horse sheds were built behind the chapel, the corner one, number nine, being remembered as belonging to Deacon Wade for the following reason: When the good deacon drove into the yard on a Sunday he was heard to repeat to himself: 'Number nine, number nine, where is number nine?' It was the custom of the people to come to church in their everyday clothes, in the belief that the church was a place to worship God not to show clothes and also not to put to shame those who could not afford expensive clothing.

After some years Brother Davis resigned and went to Putnam. He gave as his reason that the people were coming to worship him not God. With his going the church declined in numbers and interest until death and removals brought it to an end. Among the later ministers were Brothers Johnson, Kent and Salisbury. Brother C. A. Johnson preached the last sermon. The pulpit furniture, song books and chairs were taken to Danielson where part is still in use.

The property from which this land was taken was bought from Mr. Williams by George A. Dresser and descended to his son-in-law Fred W. Smith, who sold it to Edward Peal. Mr. Peal paid the Advent society $25 for the building and used it for a time as a meat market, when it was sold to Joseph Elliott who remodeled it into a two tenement dwelling. Mrs. Griggs rented it in Nov. 1922 and bought it in Feb. 1923. Since then repairs, changes and improvements have been continuous until we have today this beautiful property.

This building, once a church, now a "haven," is carrying on the Master's work in a new way but with the old spirit.

RABALM QUICKLY TOOK STING OUT OF INSECT BITE

"Riding through the swamps of Louisiana last summer, I felt a painful sting on my arm, followed by an immediate swelling that had all the earmarks of becoming serious. As soon as possible I applied a little Rabalm on the sting, which had become badly inflamed. Imagine my delight to find that within fifteen minutes all the pain had gone. The swelling had begun to disappear, and within an hour, no trace of the bite was apparent." H. D. Arthur, New Orleans, La.

Rabalm is the result of a scientific effort to find an effective remedy for inflammation, wherever it occurs in skin or tissue. Smoothed lightly on the affected part without painful rubbing, Rabalm quickly penetrates to the seat of the inflammation. The first thing you notice is, how quickly it stops the itching and sting when applied to any kind of insect bite. Then, a little more slowly the redness and inflammation disappear. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

Most Amazing Guarantee Ever Made to Pile Sufferers

Because there are still thousands of men and women needlessly suffering the torture and discomfort of itching, bleeding, burning piles, Peterson of Buffalo asks every druggist to broadcast his remarkable offer.

He says—"Tell every one of your customers that it doesn't make any difference what they have tried before or what lack of success they have gotten from any internal or external remedy for piles—I want them to give Peterson's Ointment a fair trial. Tell them they make this trial at my expense for if the mighty healing unwer of my ointment doesn't stop itching and burning and dry up piles quicker and better than they ever hoped for—their money will be returned." BILL LIBRARY ASSOCIATION HAS RECORD ATTENDANCE AT DINNER

(Special to The Bulletin)

LEDYARD CENTER, Aug. 29—The Bill Library association's annual business meeting and dinner drew a crowd of nearly 300 persons, a record attendance in the history of the association. It was the 81st annual meeting and dinner and it was held here today with public exercises in the Congregational church. The dinner was served under a spacious tent on the church grounds. The gathering was favored with fine weather.

The programme of the day opened with the annual meeting of the trustees of the association in the library at 10:30 o'clock with the president, William I. Allyn, presiding. He called upon the officers for their reports, all of which showed the association to be in a prosperous condition. In the report of the treasurer, Billings T. Avery, he brought out the fact that $13,943.39 constituted the entire trust fund, which is an increase over the previous year. The Henry Bill fund now amounts to $5,491.14.

The librarian, Mrs. Billings T. Avery, reported that there are 4,620 volumes in the library at the present time, an increase over last year, due to the several individual donations of books to the library. The work of cataloguing the books has been completed, she reported, and of this number approximately 3,000 were circulated the past year. The magazines and reference books are also circulated in the same manner as the books.

A resolution on the death of Rev. Albert E. Kinmouth was adopted and a copy was ordered to be sent to the family and entered in the records of the association. The tribute to Rev. Mr. Kinmouth reads: "His association with it was long and his connection with the Bill family close and cordial. Coming as he did from England, with habits already formed, it was not easy for him to adjust himself to a Yankee rural community, but his trained mind, his wide information and his love of country life, all contributed to fertile suggestions, which, when carried out, have made this annual meeting a delightful opportunity for instruction and social intercourse. We owe him a debt which we have never acknowledged, so now, as we again come to celebrate our "home day" in its unique setting, it is fitting that resolutions of respect be out-spoken." The resolution was drawn up by Rev. G. F. Goodenough.

The officers of the association were re-elected as follows: President, William I. Allyn; secretary, Frederick W. Burton; treasurer, Billings T. Avery. Treasurer Avery has served the association in that capacity for 21 consecutive years and is the oldest officeholder of the association. Trustees elected were: William I. Allyn, Billings T. Avery, Frederick W. Burton, Joseph A. Clark, Everett Gallup, Jacob Gallup, Charles A. Gray, Charles S. Hewitt, Earl B. Geer, Samuel E. Holdridge, Joseph E. Holdridge, Rev. W. F. White and Rev. G. F. Goodenough, all of whom were present with the exception of Mr. Hewitt and Joseph E. Holdridge. Two new trustees, Andrew M. Avery and Billings F. S. Crandall, were elected today. Those on the book committee are Jacob Gallup, Mrs. B. T. Avery, Mrs. Frederick Bill and F. W. Burton.

After the business session public exercises were held at the Congregational church, with the programme beginning with an address of welcome offered by Rev. George B. Spaulding of Stonington and Miami. The prayer was given by Rev. G. F. Goodenough, pastor of the Jewett City Congregational church and former pastor of the local church. This was followed by two delightful vocal selections by Miss Loretta P. Higgins of Norwich, soprano, formerly of the Paris opera Comique. The numbers which were given in fine voice and were enthusiastically received by the audience, were The Star by James H. Rogers and Fiddle and I by Thomas Arthur Goodhue. Loretta Thurname accompanied at the piano.

WILLIAM I. ALLYN

The address of the day was read by Rev. Ralph Krout, acting pastor of the local church in the absence of State Librarian Goddard, who was scheduled to deliver the address but was unable to attend, as he was in Rhode Island attending the anniversary of the Sons of the Revolution. The address as prepared by Mr. Goddard on the topic, Town History, dealt with the salient points in making up a town history, and the value of marking historical places and recording historical events in the towns. A copy of such things should be sent to Hartford to be filed away, he said. The address was very interesting and instructive.

After the delightful talk Miss Higgins again pleased with two selections, A Brown Bird Singing, by Haydn Wood and Homing, by Teresa Del Riego. The exercises were brought to a close with benediction pronounced by Rev. Dwight C. Stone of Hanover.

The dinner, which is always a pleasing feature of the day, was served by the members of the association and comprised clam chowder, cake, pie, csandwiches, cake, coffee and ice cream. Grace was said by Rev. William White, former pastor of the church. After dinner, visits were made to the library, school and other points of interest and groups of people formed about the grounds engaged in conversation relative to the occasion. For a time there were threats of a thunderstorm in the middle of the afternoon, but it soon blew over.

The association was started in 1867 after Henry Bill, of Norwich, the original founder, presented the sum of $1,000 and 500 volumes and requested the residents of Ledyard to organize a library association in order to provide proper library facilities for the people of the town. Since its incention it has steadily grown in numbers as well as financially and every year the residents of the town look forward to the annual meeting.

FORMER NORWICH MAN GOING WITH BYRD

Esmonde M. O'Brien of New York, son of Patrick O'Brien, formerly of this city, is going to the south polar regions with Commander Byrd. Mr. O'Brien is first engineer on the flag ship of the Byrd Antarctic expedition. Mr. O'Brien, who is a veteran of the World war, recently resigned his position with the New York fire department in order to become a member of Byrd's expedition. Mr. O'Brien has been a marine engineer on a New York fire boat.

With regard to Mr. O'Brien, The Chief, a weekly New York newspaper published in the interests of the civil service employes, says:

Marine Engineer Esmonde M. O'Brien of Engine Co. 77 (fireboat New Yorker) has resigned from the department to become one of the marine engineers on the steamship "City of New York," the house boat of the Byrd Antarctic expedition. O'Brien was appointed to the fire service in October, 1924. He was associated with Commander Byrd in former aviation services.

This time the commander requested the fire commissioner to give O'Brien a two years' leave of absence with pay, but provisions of law and civil service regulations precluded that. The mayor was appealed to, but he said since it could not be done legally there was nothing else for Engineer O'Brien to do but resign and this he did on Aug. 20. Fire Commissioner Dorman said he would have been delighted to have complied with the request, as the distinction of having a member of the fire department associated with such an educational and scientific undertaking would be a credit to the good name of the fire service of New York, but the old city charter stood in the way.

Ever since Commissioner Dorman made his maiden airplane flight in Detroit, on Aug. 11, he has become more acutely interested in aeronautics, and having had the thrill, he said he was doubly sorry that he could not have favored Engineer O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien resides at 826 Greenwich street, Manhattan. He is 37 years of age and chock full of ambition, with an appetite for adventure. That he succeeds as part of Commander Byrd's expedition and comes home safely is the fervent wish of his many friends in the department and surely it is the prayer of the fire commissioner of New York.

SALEM COUPLE ARE SUED FOR $4,000

Vincenzo Rinaldi of Manayunk, Pa., has brought suit against Wladystau and Maryanna Potoszaj of Salem, claiming damages of $4,000 for breach of contract. It is alleged that the plaintiff and defendants entered into an agreement, June 8th of this year, regarding the purchase of land and that when in accordance with that agreement the plaintiff tendered $2,800 to the defendants and demanded a conveyance of the lands the defendants failed to execute the agreement.

Bicycle Stolen

The owner of a Columbia bicycle, Alek Stankiewicz, of Roath street, has reported at police headquarters that the vehicle was stolen from his yard Tuesday evening.

were counted asked them to give three cheers for Norwich and the response came with great enthusiasm.

The children crowded around the train windows and cheered lustily until the train pulled out of hearing.

The field representative of the New York Herald-Tribune fresh air fund, Mrs. Minnie Oshatz, was in charge of the children back to New York and she expressed her thanks for the kindness of the Norwich people and also her gratification at the healthy and joyous appearance of the children entrusted to her care.

The checking of the children on the chamber of commerce list was done under the supervision of Miss Mary E Bundy, secretary of the Merchants bureau to whom the Norwich chamber of commerce is greatly indebted for the great effort she made and the amount of her own time which she devoted to make it pleasant for the children. It was largely due to Miss Bundy's efforts that the Norwich chamber of commerce received several complimentary letters from the New York Herald Tribune fresh air fund for the efficient manner in which the placing of the fresh air children was handled.

H. D. Larrabee, president of the chamber of commerce desires to express thanks to all the people who took part in this effort and he is particularly delighted that both the hosts and the children enjoyed such a pleasant two weeks.

The New England Fruit company presented the returning children with a large basket of assorted fruit to be distributed while they are on the train.

The committee who assisted in entraining the children were H. D. Larrabee, Abner Schwartz, Earle G. Taggart and Max Hanover.

PETITION FOR ORDER TO SELL REAL ESTATE

Rosa S. Wilcox, Jessie R. Wilcox, and Kirk H. Wilcox of Norwich, Calvin Wilcox of Windsor and Raymond C. Wilcox of Woodhaven, L. I., trustees under trust funds from William B. Babcock to Martha R. Wilcox, have petitioned the superior court for an order to sell certain real estate in the towns of Griswold and Voluntown.

The beneficiaries under the trust are the plaintiffs, and children of the plaintiffs, whose names are as follows: John Howard Wilcox and Betty Fay Wilcox, minor children of Raymond G. Wilcox of Woodhaven, L. I., and Helen Ann Wilcox, minor daughter of Calvin Wilcox of Windsor, and any children which may be born to the plaintiffs, will become beneficiaries.

The land which the plaintiffs, who are the children of the late Calvin Wilcox, desire to sell, consists of about 2,000 acres of land in Griswold, which Calvin Wilcox owned. The present income from the real estate is practically nothing and it subjects the other trust property to a large amount of expense by the payment of taxes. An order of sale is asked for, and such court orders and decrees as a court of equity may deem just.

"FRESH AIR" CHILDREN RETURN TO NEW YORK

The 78 "fresh air" children entertained for two weeks in the homes of Norwich people, left Norwich Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, D. S. T., for their homes in New York. The children were taken to the Central Vermont railroad station at 1.45 p. m. They were a happy lot and most of them were arrayed in new clothes provided for them by their friends. Not only were the children happy for having had a fine vacation but their hosts were visibly glad that their charges looked so well.

A large gathering of Norwich people was at the station and watched the arrival of the fresh air children in all kinds of conveyances.

The onlookers crowded the station until the train pulled out and joined in giving the little Norwich guests a farewell.

A number of children cried regretfully for having to go home so soon. One of the bigger boys cried out: "I will remember Norwich as long as I live, they are wonderful people."

All the children carried bags, packages and bundles of clothes and other useful gifts presented to them by the friends who gave them such a pleasant vacation.

Many attachments were made and promises of meeting again next year. Several pleaded to leave the children with them for another two weeks. This request could not be granted because the New York Herald-Tribune fresh air fund can't send an escort for a small number of children.

A "MUSEUM VILLAGE" IS TO BE BUILT BY HENRY FORD

Ancient and Historic Buildings Are to Be Assembled at Dearborn, Mich., in Which People Actually Will Live—Dwellers Will Carry on Their Lines, Domestically and Industrially, Exactly as Their Ancestors Did in Colonial and Post-Colonial Days—All Sections of the American Colonies Will Be Represented by Actual Ancient Buildings, Not Reproductions.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Because he does not like "dead museums" Henry Ford is going to build near his home in Dearborn, Mich., a "museum village" of the ancient and historic buildings he has purchased all over the United States and in England.

People will actually live there, in old, old houses and cottages Mr. Ford has had carefully taken down to be removed from all parts of the country and set up again in his village. They will use his antique furniture and tools and will, as nearly as possible, carry on their lines, both domestically and industrially, exactly as their ancestors did in colonial and post-colonial days.

The village will be similar in plan to Mr. Ford's Wayside Inn, at South Sudbury, Mass., and his Botsford Inn, on the Old Grand River road out of Detroit, reports Samuel Crowthers in the September Ladies' Home Journal, only on a larger scale.

Its purpose is educational. Besides being a permanent pageant of America, it is to serve as part of a technical school illustrating the development of the domestic science and industrial arts in America.

All sections of the American colonies will be represented—by actual colonial and post-colonial buildings, not reproductions. In a way it will be a representation of a hundred villages, rather than a representation of one village. It will have some buildings that date back much further than colonial days—for instance, a 10th century cottage from the Cotswolds in England.

This village will make more kinds of things than any one village would have been ant to make. The buildings will be grouped in a loose way about a green, since the village green is primarily an old English institution transplanted into New England.

Two sections more modern will be a reproduction of Menlo Park when in 1879 Thomas A. Edison for the first time gave a general exhibition of electric lighting by incandescent bulbs and the identical laboratory and many of the tools which Mr. Edison has for many years used at Fort Myers, Florida.

SMITH ADDRESSED N. Y. STATE DEM. COMMITTEE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 30—(AP)—Governor Smith not only is aiming for the presidency but he is determined that the democrats shall retain control of the executive branch of the New York state government.

He made this known today in a speech before the democratic state committee which met here to organize and prepare for the campaign. He declared it was vital to get out the vote and not to permit the state campaign to become absorbed in the movement to put him in the white house.

Speaking at the outset of a morning meeting, the governor left it to the committee to perfect its own organization and hurried out to the state fair grounds to inspect the exhibits and take in the races. There and along the streets he received a noisy welcome, police and state troopers having their hands full particularly in the exhibition halls clearing a way for him.

A bit fagged out by his strenuous day, which included also a visit to the new plant of the Syracuse Herald and two brief addresses at the fair grounds, the democratic presidential nominee left early in the evening by train for Albany. He plans to remain there over Labor day week end and probably until he gets out on his campaign tour.

SIR AUSTEN CHAMBERLIN ON CRUISE FOR HEALTH

LIVERPOOL, England, Aug. 30—(AP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, a very sick man, sailed from Liverpool at 4 o'clock this afternoon aboard the S. S. Orcoma on a cruise which will include Bermuda and California and which he hopes will restore his health.

Sir Austen arrived from London shortly before his ship sailed accompanied by Lady Chamberlain, their sons Joseph and Lawrence, and their daughter Diane. The train trip so exhausted him that he was unable to receive the deputation of the Liverpool consular corps and had to be carried in a wheel chair from the railway station to his cabin on the boat.

He smiled at those who crowded around him at his arrival, but it was the smile of a man suffering acutely from ill health, which in his case has taken the phase of neuritis.

Sir Austen's cabin on the promenade deck was filled with bouquets and baskets of fruit sent by friends.

DIFFERENCE OVER BAY STATE INSURANCE LAW

BOSTON, Aug. 30—(AP)—Attorney General Joseph E. Warner today wrote Wesley E. Monk, state insurance commissioner, a letter requesting him to withhold any proposed increase in rates under the compulsory automobile insurance law for 1929. He pointed out that should the rate question reach the courts his department would prefer to appear in support of the interests of the general public and himself to any charge that they were representing the insurance interests.

Earlier in the day Mr. Monk had sent a letter to Lieut. Gov. Frank G. Allen saying he could not agree with Mr. Allen's recommendations that the present rates be continued for 1929. He said the present rates were not producing adequate revenue and also resulted in group discrimination against many automobile owners.

THE VARE HEARING HAS ADJOURNED TILL SEPT. 5

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30—(AP)—A senate sub committee hearing in the Vare-Wilson election contest case, in progress for four days ended abruptly late today after County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern regarded as one of the "star" witnesses of the inquiry, "excused" himself following brief testimony punctuated with objections by Vare counsel.

Senator Charles W. Waterman, republican, of Colorado, who has conducted the inquiry, adjourned the hearing until Wednesday morning, September 5 at Washington.

LINER ILE DE FRANCE WILL LAND AT BOSTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—To avoid flying at night the ship-to-shore mail plane of the liner Ile De France will land at Boston on its present trip instead of New York.

If the ship holds to its schedule, it will arrive at Tuesday so late that the catapult plane could not get to Quarantine before dark. The plane will be tossed into the air 500 miles at sea and its cargo of mail will be distributed Tuesday afternoon at Boston.

Directors of the line were said to be considering making Boston the regular landing place of the plane.

POINTS FOR THE STATE IN MELLUS MURDER TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30—(AP)—The state claimed the establishment of two decisive points in its case against Leo P. Kelley, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus his society matron sweetheart in testimony given by two of its witnesses today.

C. F. Waldman, for 14 years a friend of Farnk Mellus, husband of the slain woman, testified that on Sunday August 5, the day of her tragic death, he went with Mellus from 7 o'clock in the morning until 5 p. m. Waldman corroborated Mellus' own testimony that both were fishing off a Venice barge most of the day and declared that they left the barge together about four o'clock. Waldman testified that Mellus motored away from the Venice pier at five o'clock that afternoon. The state hailed the testimony as direct refutation of the defense claims that Mellus arrived home at 3:30 p. m. and the defense hint that Mellus himself might have attacked his wife in a race.

Another state witness, C. C. Gouzar, member of the fire department rescue squad which was called to the Mellus home to revive the prostrate woman, contradicted another defense claim. He testified that when he reached the bedrom where Mrs. Mellus' nude and mutilated body was found by her husband, it was between 5:30 and 5:45 p. m. and that Mellus' sports coat was not under the woman's head and that he did not see it. Yesterday the defense stated in court that Mellus' coat was found on the bed under the woman's head. The prosecution displayed to the witness both the coat and a red silk kimono, asking if he had seen either. Gouzer declared the red kimono was under the woman's head.

CONFESSED PUTTING POISON IN BOTTLES OF HOME BREW

NEW BRITAIN, Aug. 30—(AP)—With the discovery of poison in the stomach of John Weiss, 38, police prepared to present in court tomorrow morning his brother Samuel Weiss, 32, on a charge of murder. In a confessed statement Samuel Weiss today admitted that he placed a quantity of poison in several bottles of home brew in his brother's cellar last Saturday with the intention of killing him.

The following day John Weiss and a neighbor, John Stehr, 58, drank some of the beer and died within a few hours at the New Britain hospital. The third death occurred yesterday, when John Stein, 38, in a spirit of boastfulness drank some of the brew which proved fatal within an hour.

The brother of the dead man broke down after an all night grilling by detectives and admitted to police that the act was the result of his infatuation for Mrs. Weiss who told him several weeks ago that their intimate friendship must stop.

During the time of their close acquaintance Weiss said that Mrs. Weiss followed him to Boston last Easter and joined him there. Later when he went to North Hatfield, Mass., she went to Northampton, not far distant and both saw each other every day, according to police. Eventually her husband came to Northampton and brought her back to New Britain. Samuel followed her back here two weeks after.

When told that his friendship would have to cease he decided then to put into execution a plan he had in his mind to murder his brother.

He reminded them that the time of their visit would coincide with the presidential campaign and election, affording them an unusual opportunity to study American political methods.

NEW YORK STATE OCCUPIES THE ATTENTION OF HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30— (AP) — Continuing his examination of the internal state republican party machine, Herbert Hoover today went over the preliminary plans for the speaking campaign and then turned to a study of the situation in New York state.

Representative Walter F. Newton, chairman of the National Speakers' bureau, went over with the candidate the plans thus far worked out for a wave of oratory with which the republican plan to lash the country as far west as the Rockies.

This over, the candidate conferred with William H. Hill, chairman of the New York Hoover-Curtis committee, and H. Edmond Machold, New York state chairman, on the conduct of the campaign in that state. Although they brought him a prediction that he would carry that state, they recognized the seriousness of the prohibition fight in New York city and admitted when they left that they had not yet determined just how they would meet the problem presented to them there.

After laying their plans before the candidate, and discussing the general situation with him, the two New Yorkers went over with him plans for his appearance in the home town of his democratic opponent for a speech.

The definite speaking program of the nominee has not yet been worked out, however. While he talked over the preliminary plans for the general speaking program with Newton, the two did not go into the details of Hoover's personal activities.

THREE PERSONS MISS'NG ARE BELIEVED DROWNED

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Aug. 30—(AP)—Three persons are missing and are believed drowned while twenty others, members of the crew of the towboat Aliquippa of the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, are thought to have been rescued when the tow boat turned over in the Ohio river today.

The accident occurred directly opposite the Aliquippa plant of the steel corporation as the towboat was maneuvering to pick up a tow of ten barges on which was 6,000 tons of steel to be transported to Memphis, Tenn., today.

A double crew was on the towboat when without warning she turned keel upward. Quick work on the part of a ferry boat crew, nearby the scene of the accident, prevented a large loss of life, Jones and Laughlin officials said. The ferry crew tossed life preservers to those struggling in the water and all but three are thought to have reached shore.

Lavish Irish Welcome For Kellogg In Dublin

American Secretary Was Greeted Everywhere With Enthusiasm by Enormous Crowds.

DUBLIN, Aug. 30—(AP)—A lavish Irish welcome was accorded Frank B. Kellogg, United States secretary of state, upon his arrival today fresh from the memorable signing of the anti-war pact at Paris.

With Secretary Kellogg were Mrs. Kellogg and President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State who accompanied him from Le Havre, France, aboard the cruiser Detroit to Kingstown where they debarked and proceeded to Dublin.

Since his arrival the American secretary has been greeted every time he has appeared in public by enormous crowds which have not hesitated to show their enthusiasm.

His official welcome began when he was presented the freedom of the city in a scroll printed in both the Irish and the English language shortly after his arrival. The presentation was followed by a visit to Governor General James McNeill at the Viceregal lodge, and a state banquet thi sevening at the Shelburne hotel.

Invitations to this last were issued by President Cosgrave himself on behalf of the executive council. Guests including chief officials of the state and representatives of all branches of Irish life. His banquet, as did other phases of the ceremonials, had a marked non-sectarian character, included in the guest list were leaders of every party in the Dail. Eamonn De Valera himself is in Berlin, but an invitation wa sent to his chief lieutenant, Sean Lemass.

The banquet was followed by a reception and ball at the Plaza. Dublin's largest hall, at which there were more than 2,000 guests.

In acknowledgment of the presentation of the freedom of the city at the Mansion house, Secretary Kellogg remarked that it was only ever comme to Ireland himself that he had sat at the heart of the Irish people.

"I cannot tell you with what deep emotion I am visiting for the first time the old historic city of Dublin," he said. "As the scroll of history for the last few centuries is unrolled, how much of it cannot be seen to have been written in Dublin? It has always been my ambition to visit Ireland but never in my dreams even did I anticipate this wonderful reception. From the bottom of my heart I thank you. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate your doing this great honor to the cause I represent and to the people from whom I come."

BODIES OF FLIERS RONNE AND MERRILL RECOVERED

MILFORD, Pa., Aug. 30—(AP)—Fellow aviators and searchers carried out of the wilderness late today the bodies of Mazel M. Merrill and Edwin Ronne, killed in a crash of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's Curtiss Falcon plane six miles from here.

The two, lost on a flight from Buffalo to Curtiss Field, N. Y., were found dead at day break after more than 150 men had searched most of the night through the dense growth of scrub oak and pine. Their wrecked plane had been sighted from the air the day before.

The plane fell in the heart of a country rarely visited even by hunters, the nearest road, a half-mile away, is an abandoned trail overgrown with underbrush. Over this a wagon drawn by a team of horses forced its way.

Men packed the bodies slowly through the dense undergrowth this half mile. "Casey" Jones, president of the Curtiss Flying Service and Merrill's chief, directed the removal of the bodies.

The coroner's jury, summoned earlier in the day, waited to begin the inquest when the wagon reached town. Immediately after the inquest an undertaker prepared the bodies for shipment tonight to Buffalo and Garden City the respective homes of the birdmen.

Ronne was manager of the municipal flying field at Buffalo. Merrill was manager of Curtiss field. They were returning Lindbergh's plane to the latter field when they crashed.

The plane, before diving into the ground, had sheared the top from a tall pine tree, four hundred yards away were the motor and part of the fuselage, buried in a hole five feet deep and twenty feet wide. A hundred yards further on was the tail and rear of the fusilage. In this was found one of the bodies beyond recognition.

Fifteen feet ahead and clear of the wreckage was the other man. He also was bruised and battered beyond recognition. His clothes had been torn off, even his shoes were gone.

Rescuers said there had been no fire, the plane wreckage was scattered over a 300 yard area.

Today's gruesome find ended the greatest airplane search in this section of the country. More than two score planes participated, searching part of four states.

At her Garden City home, Mrs. Merrill said, simply, "I am trying to take it the way Merry would have me."

DISCREDIT REPORTS OF FINDING WRECKAGE OF AMUNDSEN PLANE

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 30—(AP)—Reports published by the Oslo Aftenposten today that wreckage of an airplane believed to be the Latham seaplane of Rene Guilbaud and Roald Amundson had been washed up on the north Norway coast, appeared entirely discredited by later reports reaching Aftenposten.

Oceanographic experts from the first discredited the possibility of such wreckage being that of the Latham plane holding that the drift of the Gulf stream would have carried the Amundsen plane in an entirely different direction, had it been forced down.

Amundsen and Guilbaud, Lief Dietrichsen and a crew of three, disappeared in June in the course of a flight from Tromsoe, Norway, to Spitzbergen.

ROBINSON IN ACCEPTANCE SPEECH ATTACKED HOOVER

Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee in His Address at Hot Springs, Ark., Charged Hoover With the "Failure of Farm Relief Legislation" During the Harding-Coolidge Administrations—The Notification Program Was Carried Out in the Little Amphitheatre Outside the Arlington Hotel.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 30—(AP)—A native son of the southland—Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas—tonight formally accepted the democratic vice presidential nomination and at the same time issued a challenge to political foes to fight out the campaign on the issues of farm relief, prohibition, merchant marine and political corruption.

The notification ceremonies were held outside in the little amphitheater in front of the Arlington hotel.

Seated on Mr. Robinson's right on the platform was his wife. On his left was Claude G. Bowers of New York, who formally notified him Mr. Bowers, the party key-noter at the Houston convention in June, wore a dark gray suit which had a fine stripe of lighter gray running through it.

Next to Mr. Bowers was John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee. On the right of Mr. Raskob was Senator Peter G. Gerry, of Rhode Island, chairman of the democratic advisory committee, and next to him sat Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, a former governor of Wyoming and a vice chairman of the national committee in charge of women's activities. Mrs. John B. Warner, eldest daughter of the democratic presidential nominee and the only member of the Smith family present, wore a dark blue dress with blue hat to match.

Sitting next to Mrs. Robinson was her aged mother, Mrs. Jessie Miller of Little Rock.

When Mr. Raskob called the assemblage to order, he was greeted with a cheer, and without ado he presented the Rev. J. Wayne Mann of Arkadelphia, Ark., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, who pronounced the invocation.

Mr. Raskob then read a message from Governor Smith expressed his regret at not being present.

Mrs. Warner was presented and the crowd gave her a loud round of applause.

Senator Robinson began his speech accepting the democratic vice presidential nomination at 8:44 p. m. central standard time tonight.

Without mincing words the senator charged Herbert Hoover, the republican presidential nominee, with the "failure of farm relief legislation" during the Harding-Coolidge administrations, and speaking on prohibition declared that "there always has been room in the democratic party for those who differ as to the best means of promoting temperance and of suppressing traffic in alcoholic beverages."

After warning that "political serpents" were abroad seeking to poison the minds and thoughts of the people, Robinson plunged directly into a discussion of the farm relief question.

Referring to this as "perhaps the most important issue" of the campaign, he reviewed the history of republican activities in regard to agriculture and said the facts proved that the "republican party is either incapable of successfully dealing with the question or has deliberately violated its express promises to the farmers."

Mr. Hoover, as the president's trusted adviser," he added, "is perhaps more directly responsible for the failure of farm relief legislation during the eight years referred to than any other single political issue."

Mr. Robinson, standing close to the microphone which carried his words from coast to coast over a radio hookup of about half a hundred stations, read his speech with deliberation. Holding a copy of the text in his right hand, he occasionally leaned forward as he concluded a statement, gesturing with his left hand.

His declaration that the time has come "when an economic adventure is justified in behalf of the millions" of farmers was received with applause, the cheers echoing and re-echoing through the valley between the lowering ranges of the Ozark mountains.

Turning to the prohibition issue, Mr. Robinson also received applause when he quoted a part of the party platform approved by the Houston convention.

RESCUED FROM DROWNING BY A NAVAL SEAPLANE

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 30—(AP)—Four young men clinging to the sides of a capsized sloop in Quincy bay, were rescued today by a naval seaplane piloted by Lieut. R. D. Thomas, commander of the naval reserve air station at Squantum, and Lieut. J. B. Lynch, also of the station.

Notified of the accident by telephone, the aviators located the overturned craft in an NY-2 plane and by skillful maneuvering, skimming the surface of the water, succeeded in bringing a wing of the plane in such position that the men could clamber aboard.

The rescued men were Phil Coolidge and William Woll, both of a news film service, and Russell Ryan and Hyde Douglas, both of Wolaston.

Rear Admiral Philip Andrews of the First naval district, when he learned of the rescue tonight, communicated a congratulatory message to the aviators in which he described their feat as illustrative of "the readiness, resource and courage available in the navy."

SEN. CURTIS ADDRESSED PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 30—(AP)—Renewing his pledge for a higher protective tariff, Senator Curtis, the republican vice-presidential nominee, today told a gathering of Pennsylvania farmers that the democrats proposed to remodel the tariff act along lines of the Underwood bill of 1913.

"They have put just a little bait in their last platform on this issue," he declared, "hoping to catch the American farmers and the laboring man but they would put that old law which injured or destroyed business back on the statute books. They want to let down the bars protecting American agricultural products."

Speaking at an outdoor Grangers' picnic at Williams Grove, near the city, the senator was interrupted by a sharp downpour of rain. As some of the huge throng started for shelter, Curtis ceased but several shouted "Go ahead."

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:—

How are you getting through the hay-fever season? Sneezing as much as ever I suppose. I am too, and so are my neighbors. Speaking about sneezes calls to my mind another type of sneeze that is probably as annoying as that caused by hay-fever and often leads to worse results. I am thinking of the sneeze that is current in the fall and winter months and is a fore-runner of those severe head-colds that are such a terrific drain on health and energy.

It is high time to be giving some consideration to the approach of cool weather and to the best methods of keeping the home uniformly warm despite frost or blasting snow or storm. I find that many home-owners this year have decided that the famous SUPER AUTOMATIC OIL HEATER sold by HOLLIS H. LYMAN is the best practical solution for HOME HEATING.

The Super Oil Heater, a New England product, is built upon the most direct and efficient heating principles known to the engineering genius. It gives a clean, even, reliable heat, without waste, worry or trouble, at the touch of your finger. Once the Super is installed, you need give it no more attention than your running water. You just set the thermostat for the temperature you want and it is maintained uniformly regardless of outside weather. Then there are no dusty ashes to ruin your clothes and your disposition. Such luxurious comfort and labor-saving heat is beyond measure, but add to these, the factor of smokeless, sootless and gasless heat, and you can begin to appreciate what the Super Automatic Oil Heater will mean to you and your family.

The Super Oil Heater is moderately priced at $375, plus tankage, installed. It is economical in that it burns 8-cent oil with satisfaction. Mr. Lyman, whose offices are on South Park street, Willimantic, directly opposite the Rossie Velvet plant, is prepared at all times to give you a free demonstration and install a Super Heater in your home for a 10-day Free Trial. If you buy, you are granted one year of free service and a general guarantee of satisfaction.

"It's a wise housewife who recognizes thrift and comfort" and I leave it to your wisdom to investigate the Super Oil Heater before filling the bins with dusty coal.

I will write again Tuesday.

YOURS, JANE.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY TWO BIG DAYS IN WILLIMANTIC

And these two days will appeal to all because they are to be play-days; from miles around, young and old will flock to enjoy the frolic and friendships of youth.

There will be toy balloons and chewing gum, peanuts and crackerjack, band concerts and ballyhoos, high-steppers, side-steppers and dancing; dogs and cats, horses and cattle; a general free-for-all good time.

For this is the week of the Elks' Country Fair where you can get more for your money and more for nothing than at any other place of the kind that we know.

While in town make our little store your headquarters; it is a good place to leave your packages and a place where you will be welcomed whether you spend anything or not.

"Please, Mr. Editor," wrote a correspondent of a country paper, "can you tell me how to prevent bleeding at the rose?"

"To prevent bleeding at the nose," replied the country editor, "keep it out of other people's business."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Mrs. Lovey—Have you read Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech, darling? It's just splendid.

Hubby—It may seem so to you, my dear, but to me no acceptance speech can begin to compare with the one you made when I proposed.—Boston Transcript.

Two spiders met in a dusty corner. "Well," asked one, "how are you getting on?"

"Terribly," replied the other. "Everything is impossible nowadays; what with mechanical sweepers and energetic housemaids, I'm always disturbed. And how," he inquired, "are you?"

"Oh, very well," said Spider No. 1. "I've made my home in an offertory box in a church in Aberdeen."—The Scotsman.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS OPENING OF ELKS' FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 30—Hundreds swarmed to the Elks' park on Pleasant street tonight for the official opening of the tenth annual Elks Country fair under the auspices of Willimantic lodge No. 1311, known throughout New England as the "Home of Big Things."

The gate receipts left no question of an auspicious opening with an attendance larger than any opening evening crowd in past years. The fun-seekers found themselves in a paradise of activity and amusement in the beautiful four-acre plot. From the spacious veranda of the Elks' home on the knoll overlooking the park, the scene was impressive. Great lights flooded the entire park and in this brilliancy swarmed the people. Rising well over the hum of conversation came the raucus call of the booth tenders, the tunes of a lively march by the B. P. O. E. band and the tiny, but somehow wonderous music from the mechanical of the merry-go-round doing its best to drown out the busy chug-chug of the tiny engine that sent the gaily-bedecked wooden horses in a wide whirl. From another side the jazzy notes of the orchestra in the dance pavilion and the cries and laughter of the passengers on the big ferris wheel melted into the hectic discord. The Elks had successfully opened their tenth annual fair and barring inclement weather there is no doubt in the mind of the committeemen that the biggest and best fair is also going to be the most successful.

A large squadron of aeroplanes came over the city early this evening in connection wit hthe opening of the fair and to the keen interest of the populace and many visitors performed in startling maneuvers and stunts.

One of the big attractions at the park is the large stand on which are displayed a three-passenger aeroplane and seven new automobiles of various popular makes, that are to be given away Labor day evening. The free attractions program provided thrillers. In it are featured a wire walking elephant, high-wire performers and three high-class vaudeville acts. At 11 o'clock Miss Lucille Anderson, daring young woman, plunged 80 feet from a ladder into a tank containing water only 4 1-2 feet deep.

Willimantic, represented by Earl J. Arnold, secretary of the chamber of commerce, issued a welcome to the party of about 100 members of the Pennsylvania State Poultry association who visited poultry farms in this section this week. The poultry men, making the trip under the auspices of the Pennsylvania State college came through this city from the New York border line on the way to Storrs where they had quarters in the dormitories of the Connecticut Agricultural college. At the baby chick farm of A. E. Anthony in Mansfield Hollow the party inspected the 15,300 capacity incubator, also the fowls of the breeding yards where highbred Rhode Island Reds and White Leghorns are raised. The one-man commercial egg farm operated by L. P. Oehrig of Windham was the next stop. At this place a remodelled barn has been converted into a 1,000 White Leghorn poultry house. The Kingsley Brown commercial egg farm in Windham has 2,800 layers. The visitors were given the greeting card of Willimantic and two booklets, one by the state agricultural department and the other of eastern Connecticut. The tour in this section was under supervision of Professor William F. Kirkpatrick, head of the poultry department at Storrs.

To be within a few inches of being crushed to death was the experience of Joseph Arzelo, 23, employed as a laborer by the Arborio Construction company on the Mansfield Depot-Warrenville state road job, Wednesday afternoon. Arzelo was engaged in working when the fly wheel of a steam stone crusher that had been operating near by, came off. The wheel struck the ground and bounced up, striking Arzelo a glancing blow on the left side of the body and breaking two ribs. Arzelo was suffered abrasions but he considers himself fortunate that the blow was not a direct one.

A consultation on the case of Raymond and Lalone, so-called "ice-box" bandits and alleged murderers of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson in Pomfret was held here this afternoon. Present were State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford of Putnam, Special Prosecuting Attorney Samuel B. Harvey, Lieutenant R. V. Urquardt of the Danielson state police barracks, with which Officer Nelson was connected, and County Detective William E. Jackson. The prosecution in the case will be headed by Attorney Harvey who was appointed for the task during the illness of State's Attorney Bradford some weeks ago. Attorney Bradford will assist for the state, however. The case is scheduled to come up in superior court here Tuesday, September 11. It is expected that it will continue for ten or 15 days.

The telephone service in this vicinity has been quite badly demoralized as a result of the intense humidity that has prevailed here for the past week. Trouble with the service has been such that individual telephone users have been appealed to to open up and dry out the cellars in homes owing to the fact that during the damp weather the moisture condenses and interferes with the telephone circuits.

The republican caucus of the twenty-ninth senatorial district will be held at the Nathan Hale hotel Friday with a luncheon at 12:15 o'clock. The purpose of the caucus is to select two delegates-at-large to attend the state convention at New Haven September 6 and 7. There are 26 delegates from the nine towns in the district who are expected to attend the caucus. Several guests are also expected.

The standards and lights of the traffic signals that are to be installed at the corners of High and Valley and Windham and Valley streets have arrived at police headquarters and will be installed early next week. The signals are of the same type now in use on Walnut and Church streets. The automatic clock at the corner of Walnut and Valley streets will control the additional signals. It is planned to time the lights so that clear traffic will be allowed at one time through the three intersections which run in a line along Valley street.

People have been taking advantage of every possible means of getting relief from the high temperature and extraordinary humidity the past few days. Hundreds have been going to Lake Wangumbaug and Columbia lake, the majority of these going bathing in the evening.

NOANK

WILLIAM SWAN'S DRY WELL YIELDS A FIND HID IN 1910

William Swan was cleaning out a well in his back yard at his home on Branch street Wednesday. The well was filled in several years ago and when Billie got down near the bottom a man named Lewis Disson came by and saw him in the well. "How are you making out?" "O. K.!" "Do you know that I dug that well 18 years ago on this land?" The man in the well laughed. "In the left hand corner you will find a bottle of beer!" Going by directions the well digger got it all right. Words put on the bottle with a diamond cutter in 1910 were plain, making it 18 years ago. The history of the well was told by Mr. Disson. Mr. Swan will not open the beer until Christmas time, for he doesn't want to break the 18th amendment law now. He thinks that the beer will have a kick like an army mule being under the ground and in the water so many years. He is sure that the 1910 beer is all right, but time will tell.

Capt. Lawrence Ashcraft and his mate Carl Ashcraft were out in their boat Roberta after flat-fish, early Wednesday morning along the shores of Block Island. Around noon time with about 10 barrels of fish on deck, they had the net set for a drag. Soon Mate C. Ashcraft called "Look at that shark after the fish!" Mr. Shark got the board, and it was too heavy to hold on. Then making a dash for the fish churned up more waves than an ocean liner. Capt. Ashcraft said sharks are like Jesse James, the bad man of the west, holding up the nets for fish. The Jesse James of the salt water spoil about $100 every time they attack a net. "It is lucky we found the hiding place of these fish, or we should have had to come back home with fisherman's luck. I never saw so many hungry sharks as this summer—and large ones! They might come right aboard the boat after food or fish! The fishermen will have to buy a shot gun I guess, or a 48 horse pistol, to shoot them away from the net while the boats are fishing.

Boat Betty C had a successful sword fishing trip from Georges' Banks with Capt. Chris at the wheel. She tied up at the town dock with a catch of 40 fish, all good size. She ran into a school of them. Mate E. Palmer said that they were so thick a man could walk ashore on the backs of the fish. The largest one caught weighed 525 lbs.

They had not much bad weather—only three days out of 14 it was blowing a gale so they had to tie up at the dock. They are loading up with supplies and ice for their last trip of the season, then will go out after mackerel, near Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butson are spending a week in Portland, Maine, with friends.

The village needs some dumping ground. The people have no place to put garbage—every place there is a sign "No dumping here" and along the river are signs "$10 fine for dumping garbage here." The town could well afford a place for a public dumping ground. Householders have to take an auto or a truck and go several miles out of town to dispose of the stuff. One resident said Thursday "A lot could be bought for the village if enough people wanted one. If a paper was started I would sign up for $35, putting my name at the top of the list. Instead of people being oblized to go out at night with refuse in a basket or row boat, a new dumping ground should be secured."

LEDYARD

CONGREGATIONAL PASTOR GOING TO PENNSYLVANIA

"Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good," was the text discussed by Rev. Ralph Krout on Sunday morning in the Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Krout will conclude his pastorate with the Ledyard church on next Sunday morning, preaching his farewell sermon. Rev. Mr. Krout was a student in Hartford Theological seminary and preached his first sermon heard by a Ledyard audience in the Ledyard Congregational church, Sunday, April 10, 1927. He has continued to preach in the local church and was ordained as a minister after his graduation from the seminary in June, 1928. Rev. Mr. Krout has done a great work in the Ledyard church since he came as its pastor, the attendance has steadily increased a young men's club has been formed, a vacation Bible school has been conducted for two summers and six have become members of the church since June, 1928. Two Sundays ago there was an attendance of 87 at the morning service, which is large for a rural community. Rev. Mr. Krout is loved and respected by all who know him and his going away is deeply regretted. He expects to go to Pennsylvania, where he will preach in a rural church.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Krout, parents of Rev. Mr. Krout, who have been living at the parsonage during the summer, will leave next week for their home in Adrian, Mich. The Ledyard church will be without a pastor and will have supplies until some candidate is called.

It was voted to reopen another school at Gales Ferry until the new school house is built. This school will be held in the building known as the Country club and the teacher will be Mrs. Rufus Hurlbutt of Gales Ferry.

Children entering high school this year should make application to the secretary of the school board before entering school. This was a vote of the town school committee.

THE WESTERN SITUATION

In certain of the western states efforts have been made through misrepresentation to injure the candidacy of Herbert C. Hoover. He was obliged to face and overpower them in the primary campaign and now he is engaged in upsetting them in the election campaign. This is not a task which is being carried on by him alone. He is getting most valuable assistance from some of those who have been his bitterest opponents. They have come to realize the error of their position and are now doing their best to clear up misrepresentations.

Senator Nye of North Dakota in declaring his support for Hoover is bound to exercise much influence in that state. The same is to be said of the attitude of Senator Shipstead of Minnesota. This latter stand is regarded by democrats as ending any thought of that state going other than republican.

It is noteworthy, also, that Senator Brookhart of Iowa is putting forth the Hoover record as food administrator in the World war in such a manner as to clear up serious and unfair misrepresentations concerning his wartime activities. When the senator points out that his handling of $2,000,000,000 worth of crops was to the great advantage of the producers and that it was his insistence that maintained the prices of food products, he is setting forth facts which cannot fail to be given due weight.

Furthermore it is noted that Governor Zimmerman of Wisconsin and Governor McMullen of Nebraska are lending their support to the Hoover candidacy. This is all the more striking in the case of the latter because he was one of the leaders in behalf of farm legislation and helped organize the march of the farmers on Kansas City. In his study of the situation he sees the best chances for the farmers through the election of Mr Hoover.

For Kansas, Senator Capper is certain the republican candidate will get a majority of a quarter of a million. The swing to Hoover in the west is such that he is already predicting his election, and he figures the farmers will have a conspicuous part in it. This is no more than should be expected from these states but there are those who would give the impression that the situation was otherwise.

NEEDLESS DEATHS

Subway wrecks, railroad collisions and war are not the only agencies through which many lives are lost. It is true that in any of those instances the casualty lists are large and impressive. But while we are stirred by the needless and unnecessary we cannot wisely overlook the fact that humanity is also being picked off rather rapidly when there are 25,000 men, women and children killed on the highways of the country in the course of a year.

We think of the casualty lists in case of wrecks and war as too great. There is no exaggeration about that, but somehow it seems as if there was a great deal to do at the time of a wreck but little or nothing done for the purpose of reducing the fatalities on the highways. They seem to get only passing attention.

This is a condition which is going on constantly. The news of the day tells of highway fatalities too frequently and if we should compare the number of persons killed in subway wrecks, railroad accidents, war and on the highways for the past decade we have an idea that the highway record would occupy a conspicuous place.

Let it be thoroughly understood that there cannot be too prompt and effective measures taken for the prevention of war and railway accidents. Every move in that direction should be applauded. Too much cannot be done for the prevention of needless deaths and yet there should not be overlooked the appalling situation presented by the highway accidents which though they are distributed over a longer period of time are nevertheless taking life at a much greater rate than authorities, or the public itself, should be willing to tolerate.

NOW FOR THE OTHERS

Following the signing of the treaty at Paris by the leading nations, invitations have been extended on the part of the United States to 48 other countries and by France to one—Russia. This solves the problem of having Russia included, for while there is no diplomatic relations between this country and Russia there is between France and Russia.

What these 49 additional nations will do cannot be definitely foretold but if we can judge by the pleas which have been made to be allowed to sign there can be little doubt but what the great majority of them will be found adhering to the past.

Some of the nations have not been able to understand why they could not be included with the initial group, but in the invitations which have been issued it is explained that the number of first signers was limited because it was desired to get the treaty into operation without delay and there would be no telling when that might be if there was an attempt made to submit the agreement to all nations before having it accepted.

At the same time it is to be realized that the idea of the treaty in the first place was to include the leading nations. That is what was done and such are represented by the first group of signers. It must be appreciated by all the nations that when such a group of nations acts in a common cause there are involved the powers which are bound to determine whether a world war is going to be prevented. It is desirable to have all the additional support than can be obtained, and it is highly gratifying that so many of the other nations are desirous of signing but the real success of the movement has depended upon the attitude of the leading nations. That there should be an anxiety to sign before there could be any chilling of sentiment was perfectly natural.

Now that the leaders have set the pace and declared themselves, nothing will be put in the way of similar action by each and every other nation. By all means it is desired that Russia should be included. This government as well as others is desirous of that action for the more than can be gotten to support a renunciation of war, the better it will be. Peace may not be positively assured for all time, but the spirit in which the signing has been done indicates a strong drift in that direction.

POSTAL SAVINGS SYSTEM

For nearly two decades this country has been experiencing the effects of that legislation which was adopted back in 1910 establishing postal savings bank. The idea was first adopted in England and it made such a good impression in the half century before it was adopted here that it was repeatedly advocated in the United States before it was finally adopted.

It was recognized that there were large numbers in this country who put their entire confidence in government institutions. They had been brought up on it abroad and they were opposed to following any other method. They recognized that safety was assured by the government.

It was feared that the entrance of the government into banking business would be detrimental to the savings banks, but records show that it has not. The government pays but 2 per cent. upon deposits while the savings banks pay more than twice as much and their deposits are fast growing. Nevertheless there is a reluctance on the part of some to use anything but the postal system. They have put their money there at a low rate of interest. Many of these are foreigners who have been induced to bring their funds out of hiding, where the greatest kind of a risk was involved, have reached the limit placed upon deposits.

Recommendations have been made that the government authorize the change in the limit from $2,000 to $5,000. Thus far congress has not seen fit to act upon it favorably. At the present time the postoffice department is debating whether the recommendation should be repeated. The department knows that the recommendation does not necessarily mean adoption, but when it has been found that savings banks have not been injured and the limit fixed to meet conditions in other days does not apply now when those of small means have funds for protection beyond the limit set it is a question of meeting present day conditions. Nevertheless it is strange that there are so many who deny themselves the advantages of a larger return on their savings through placing their funds with sound institutions, and yet are willing to take the chance of losing them by fire or theft by keeping them in hiding places.

AS IT SHOULD BE

If public wishes can be allowed to govern there will be no strike among the railroad men such as has been threatened this month. While 70,000 in the railroad industry of the west have been taking a vote as to whether there will be a strike the members of the federal board of mediation have been at work and if reports are correct there is a possibility that the trouble can be prevented.

Strike threats on the railroads are not what they were once. Nevertheless it is desirable that there shall be no such harm to the people through the interruption that would be caused transportation even though the strike failed to stop the operation of trains.

The federal board is working under the Watson-Parker act, adopted about two years ago, which was intended to deal with just such conditions as prevails. If the board isn't successful arbitration will be resorted to, but the ability to get an agreement on a compromise wage increase indicates that the additional matter of working conditions will be settled in a like manner.

The idea that the entire country must suffer the detrimental effects of a railroad strike is most unpopular. There is no good reason why such matters cannot be adjusted by getting down to brass tacks and considering the facts. It is for the interest of all concerned that such should be the case and because of that there is certain to be much satisfaction over the fact that the board of mediation has been able to make such good progress in strike prevention.

CHUCKLES

"Will you go to the Ivy club annual golf ball with me next Thursday night?"

"Yes indeed, thank you very much. I'd love to," answered Gertrude.

"Righto. I'll call for you a little before 8. But, look here, Gertrude, aren't you taking a long chance to accept an invitation over the phone without inquiring who's at the other end of the line?"

"If I had any doubt, Mr. Smarty, that chuckle of yours would dispel it," laughed Gertrude.

"Well, Miss Clever, I see it's hard to deceive you. There's no way of keeping a good man dark, is there?"

"Not with a tell-tail chuckle like yours," agreed Gertrude, and as she left the telephone a moment later she said to herself that Dick Longman was a perfect old goose to think for a moment she would not know him over the telephone.

But the next day she received a special delivery letter from Dick written in Milwaukee and politely requesting the pleasure of her company at the Ivy club annual golf bann on Thursday evening. He asked her please to have a note at his office the next day when he would be back in town and tied up with a manager's meeting that would keep him away from his telephone for a few hours.

"Good gracious," she moaned, "who was it asked me yesterday? John Harvey's the only other person I know who has anything like Dick's funny little laugh. Well, so I'm going with John I suppose, unless I'm mistaken again." She wrote a kind letter to Dick telling him that she had already accepted an invitation to the Ivy club affair but hoped to see him there, and then she sighed, for it was a little hard to think of Dick taking another girl. She was ashamed of herself for feeling annoyed at John Harvey for having asked her first. But anyway, John was an awfully nice chap and perhaps it would show Dick that if he desired her society it would be wise to be a little less slow and casual about seeking it.

"Why, Dick," she exclaimed on Thursday evening when that young man presented himself at the door of her apartment.

"Just thought I'd drop around," he remarked easily.

"That's nice, but—but——" she glanced down at her dancing gown.

"Um—been getting some new togs, Gertrude? Pretty nifty. I'd say. I like you in green."

"Thank you," said Gertrude crossly. It certainly was gauche of Dick to come when he knew she was going out with another man. "Aren't you going to the Ivy club?"

"I don't know. Thought I might. I'm ready if I decide to." He leisurely removed his top coat and displayed immaculate evening dress. Without being invited he made himself comfortable in the one easy chair her small living room afforded. To hide her annoyance she walked to the window and looked out just as a car stopped in front of the house.

She waited to see John Harvey descend from it, but nobody descended from it, to her great relief for she was hoping desperately that Dick would take his much-desired leave before her escort arrived. However, her caller, glancing casually through a magazine, appeared to be settled for the evening. She was just trying to make up her mind what to do when he spoke.

"What about you, Gertrude, aren't you going to the Ivy shin-dig?"

"Of course I am. I wrote you that I was. Didn't you get my note, Dick?" Maybe there was some excuse for his behavior after all.

"Yes, but I thought I'd just drop round and maybe you'd go with me."

"Silly, how can I?"

"You'd better come. That machine out there is one I ordered and it's getting pretty late to expect any one else. Get your wraps on, Gertrude."

"I don't understand you at all, Dick. How can you possibly think for a second that I'd go with you when I'm engaged to go with somebody else?" Dick lay back in the chair and chuckled and chuckled and chuckled. Gertrude stared at him indignantly. Then she woke up and with blazing eyes asked how he got that special delivery to her from Milwaukee.

"I was telephoning at the station on my way to Milwaukee when you thought you recognized my chuckle," he chuckled, and Gertrude reluctantly melted into laughter.

"I've a great mind not to go to that party with you," she said.

"Suit me perfectly. This is a very cozy place for two to pass an evening. Let's stay right here."

"Most certainly not. We are going to that party."

"All right, whatever you say," said Dick, and he chuckled again as he very tenderly helped her into her pretty evening cloak.—Exchange.

Italy's Most Picturesque Dance

FOGGIA, Italy.—(AP)—In regions of Italy where jazz bands are as alien as their parents, the African tomtoms, and where modern dances such as the Charleston, Tango or even the venerable waltz are unknown, the graceful tarantella may still be seen performed by peasants in the traditional fashion learned from their elders.

There are almost as many ways of dancing the trantella as there are regions in the nation. In Sicily, it is usually done by two boys standing opposite each other and moving with great speed, sometimes with flings of the arms resembling the hornpipe and the sailor's fling. In the Neapolitan provinces, particularly at Sorrento, which claims to be the home of the true tarantella, four couples of men and women gyrate around each other. Even in the vicinity of Rome, the dance may be seen during holiday festivals.

The dancers are barefooted or in stockings. They are accompanied by singers, tambourines, drums and wind pipes. The women's skirts are so fully pleated as to resemble a crinoline.

While most varieties of the dance, as performed in the larger towns, are mellow and graceful, there are others to be found in out of the way places near here and in seldom visited villages in the heel of Italy where the tarantella retains much of the mad quality which gave it its name. Here, it is clearly seen why the most venomous spider in Italy, of which the bite causes convulsive agonies, and the dance should have the same name.

Traditionally the dance is based upon the movements of writhings which follow the bite of the dreaded spider. Among superstitious people the idea that the same writhings might avoid that the same writhings might avoid the bite of the tarantella. Whenever a person was bitten his friends would dance about madly near him, believing they might help him recover. Simultaneously other people would follow suit in an effort to ward off the insect. Occasionally the performance would reach a frenzy affecting hundreds of persons. This is not unknown even nowadays. In the Apulia, whose people live much as they did in the thirteenth century, the dance has retained its primitive meaning.

In the north and center of Italy the tarantella shares honors with other regional dances. One of the pleasantest of these is the Furlana of the Venetian provinces and the Cadore. Full of charm and dignity, it most resembles the minuet.

A Washington Bystander

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP)—That much kidded "brass hat" organization of the army, the General Staff, celebrated its 25th birthday the other day. The event went unnoticed by the public at large, but present members of the staff in Washington marked it with an Army and Navy club luncheon, General Summerall, chief of staff, and Acting Secretary of War Robbins attending.

There was considerable discussion of the accomplishments of application for those 25 years of the general staff principle to the American army, particularly in view of the fact that the staff was terribly tested in the World war before it even reached voting age.

There was no room for doubt that military opinion is now and always has been agreed that the task of mobilizing, equipping, training and shipping 2,000,000 men to France, fighting out successfully America's part in the war, recalling the overseas forces and demobilizing the whole 5,000,000 strength of the war army was made possible efficiently only through general staff machinery.

Birth and Rebirth

Much was said at the luncheon in tribute to Elihu Root, who fathered as war secretary a quarter century ago the first General Staff law. Much credit also was given to Major General William H. Carter for the important part he played in that struggle for modern military principles of organization and command. But it is to the calm political courage of Secretary Newton D. Baker alone that can be ascribed the situation that permitted the United States to enter the war in 1917 with the General Staff functioning in full authority. It was done by virtue of his executive act restoring to the staff all the powers of which the national defense act of 1916 sought to strip it as an aftermath of the century old struggle between the line of the army and the permanent military bureaus in the war department.

What happened was that the bill specifically restored to the bureau chiefs, the adjutant general, quartermaster general, judge advocate general and others, legal powers they had exercised before the General Staff law was enacted. Army legal authorities read the act that way; the department of justice concurred.

Baker Upheld

The General Staff was legally relegated to a capacity of military advisers; the chief of staff had no definite co-ordinating authority. Secretary Baker himself, as a lawyer, so read the law. But he found a loophole of escape from its clear meaning. He held that the first responsibility for interpretation of the act rested with him as secretary of war. And in that capacity he elected to say that the act confirmed the staff in all its previous powers and duties, flying in the very face of every legal opinion on the point, including his own.

On that slim legal basis of General Staff authority, the country went to war a year later and began mobilizing its full military power. On the flat of one man, Secretary Baker, alone rests the legality of all the vast powers wielded by the staff organization at home or by Pershing's general staff in France. Ultimately congress duly legislated it back into more definite legal existence and in the post-war defense act of 1920 its place was secured beyond question by statutory enactments certain of judicial approval should there ever arise need to test it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thoughts of a Wanderer

Mr. Editor: Up early and out for a stroll, and very few about except the milk men and now and then a bakery wagon. I thought as I saw the baker, what ever became of the big ginger cookies we called Bolivars, and what ever becomes of the old-time back rooms. Now and then we see the sign "Cafe," and the old-time barber shop has now become a tonsorial emporium. As we wander on we think, what became of the old-time drug store with the large glass globes of red and blue chemical that appeared in the windows, and the mortar and pestle hanging out in front? We find this all changed and in place of this old-timer we get an up-to-date cafeteria with the drug store as a side line. These also are now listed with the other vanishing Americans.

And I arrive in front of the school in Greeneville and note the date of its erection, 1869. And on a picture that hangs on memory's wall we can see the place once again where now stands the school, a large ledge of gray granite and with one side of the ledge worn smooth where us "kids" would slide down on anything that would move, preferably an old tin pan. Here we would pass many happy hours, and wear out our clothes and when we would get home would pay the penalty—a dose of strap oil. Yes, those were the happy days.

How well do I recall the teachers, Miss Eisenhart, who afterwards married a man named Strickland, who was an attache of the horse car company. She has been gone many years. But the teacher who remained long in blessed memory is one who I still in fancy see. In her young womanhood she was a splendid looking girl and often when I, as a boy, would go to church I could see her in the choir and I loved to hear her sing for she had a beautiful voice. I can even now see her as she appeared to me, although many years have passed and gone. But I will never forget that the foundation for my education was laid down by her and if I have attained any facility as a writer all honor is due to her and this is but a slight token of respect to my beloved teacher, Miss Sarah A. Armstrong, who now in the evening of her life is living in the Johnson home in Norwich Town. This is but a slight tribute from one of her "bad boys" and it but voices the sentiment of many others who as they travel along life's highway can look back and can truly say: None saw her but to praise her and none knew her but to bless.

And as I stroll along I again see the "Memorial" and on the lawn they are preparing to hold a party and I venture in and wish to add my mite to the cause that is intended and although a stranger I am shown every attention for which the Rose of New England people are noted. And then back to my old home at 12th street, tired but conscious that I have had a fine day and good time and have ended the day with much profit.

Yours,
C. H. "DAD" SHAW.

YOUR HEALTH

CARING FOR THE BABY IN HOT WEATHER

By Josephine H. Kenyon, M. D., New York City

It requires the utmost care on the mother's part to supervise the food, clothing, airing, rest, and play time of her baby, to keep him comfortable and well in summer.

Babies vary in vigor and powers of resistance as adults do, so it is not surprising to find that with some the stomach acts queerly if you take them on a visit with resulting marked change of environment and diet or after long periods of heat and unusual humidity.

The first vomiting and diarrhoea symptom is always important and should be reported to the doctor. Lucky the baby whose mother can nurse him through the summer provided that the quality of the milk really nourishes him. If the baby must have a bottle then keep the entire equipment for preparing the formula separate from your other cooking utensils, boil it all each day before using and be most careful in its handling. The dust or your unwashed hands may carry into his food germs which will upset him. Buy for him the best milk available. Most physicians advise that this be boiled for three minutes. Water must be boiled until he is two years old and later if there is any doubt of its purity. Underfeed rather than over-feed during the extreme heat. Cereals and prunes may safely be cooked one day, cooled and kept in an ice box over night. Vegetable pastes, orange juice, custards, and junkets should be freshly prepared each morning.

Dress the baby as lightly as you can to keep the hands and feet warm. A linen mesh band with shoulder straps and a diaper are sufficient during the heat of the day. Lightweight kimonas may be added when it becomes cooler, with a regular stockinet night garment for the cooler nights. The attractive sun-suits now on the market for the daily sun bath have done much to persuade mother to use few garments. The delicate baby's skin should tan gradually, not be allowed ever to sunburn. Leave the diaper off even for short periods when you can.

Heat rashes and all upsets are less frequent when much boiled water is given between feedings, when there are fewer layers of clothing and when there is plenty of chance given for the baby to kick freely and air the skin.

Summer can and should be the most healthful time for your baby.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Nature's Rare Dyes, Perfumes, Gums, Drugs and Flavors Now Made in U. S

Are the ends of the other becoming useless appendages?

Can we do without Reunion Island, the Guianas, Bulgaria's Valley of Roses, Tibet, Formosa, Malayan rubber plantations and other out-of-the-way places?

Can the modern world abandon these sources of rare flavors, perfumes, gums, dyes, spices and medicines?

Modern chemistry says "Yes"—with but few reservations.

"Modern chemistry has declared the world's independence of dyewoods from distant tropic forests, perfumes from closed valleys, resins from damp jungles, and medicines from rare herbs," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Independence has not been achieved entirely, but if all the spices their pungence, and most fruits their flavors, chemists could closely imitate most of the lost factors synthetically.

"The indigo blue of India comes today from Wilmington, Delaware, the precious musk of Tibetan mountain deer is imitated in Delawanna, New Jersey, the equal of the tannin from Argentinian quebracho bales from a Rensselaer, New York, chemical vat. Balsam of Peru, a natural product of Salvador, might logically be renamed balsam of Pennsylvania.

"The year, the very day, in fact, when science began to free the world from economic bondage to far places and obscure islands, can be fixed. It was Easter 1856. William Perkin's London technical school was closed for the holidays but he was in a chemical laboratory; his own home-made laboratory. Perkin was laboring with an assigned problem which has never been solved; synthesizing quinine. While cleaning up his glassware he noticed that the water was colored violet by a gummy black waste in the bottom of his test tube. He investigated and discovered mauve, the first coal tar dye, now called, in his honor, Perkin violet.

"The gummy black waste Perkin found proved to be the same nasty black stuff that used to clog gas mains. But no longer does it stop pipes because coke ovens carefully extract 12 gallons of it from every ton of coal. Basic coal tar gives up more than 300 intermediates; i. e. esters, ethers, alcohols, etc., from which dyes, flavors, perfumes, resins and medicines can be made. Using the 300 intermediates chemistry has contrived upwards of 200,000 coal tar products which have reversed the trade geography of the world. To these must be added the other important synthetics from air—nitrogen, cotton, corn and wood, ranging from fertilizer to rayon underwear, and from paint to artificial pearls.

"Science fighting for civilization's economic independence has proved more ruthless than the machine. The machine will take away a man's job but will give him a nother. Science, as the stories of the synthetics reveal, takes men's jobs and then tries to sell the former producers the very same product which it has denied them the right to market!

"Thousands of Levant farmers grew madder plants from whose roots came madder red until the invention of a coal tar red wiped out the natural madder market overnight. Today the New Zealand government labors desperately to help the kauri gum diggers out of the slump into which they have been thrown by the creation of synthetic resins. The Chilean government has had to overhaul its natural nitrate production to compete with synthetic nitrates which have stolen a share of the world market. Malaya and Sumatra tremble in fear of a successful synthetic rubber which would bid them give back to the jungle their hard-won groves of rubber trees.

"What has happened to the millions of acres in India once devoted to the indigo plant? Their owners must grow something else. And how do the India distillers of thymol from the ajowan tree feel. Their market has dropped away and the United States now ships to them tooth paste and medicinal products flavored with synthetic thymol from New Jersey laboratories. Nor does science respect kings more than commoners. The Emperor of Japan must run the royal household on less funds since American and European synthetic camphor has come into competition with the royal camphor monopoly of Formosa.

"Many of the substitutes or imitations have not cut off the natural source of supply and in some cases may never eliminate Nature's own product. Popularization of artificial silk has served thus far to boost Japan's natural silk trade; artificial vanillin is not quite equal to natural vanilla, so the bean is still a money-maker in distant tropical islands and forests (much of the 'extract of vanilla' on the market is a mixture of the natural and synthetic products); menthol, the constituent of many medicines, can still be produced more cheaply from Japanese peppermint; sienna is still mined in Italy; millions of artificial pearls have not ruined the Ceylon pearl diver's trade; real amber and ivory are no less costly despite the excellence of laboratory substitutes; and the flower growers of the Riviera have found that Riviera sunshine can still do tricks with floral perfumes that make the chemist a friend rather than an enemy of the flower grower.

"Mahogany is still sought for in Honduran forests although the United States has substituted synthetic bakelite for mahogany panels on radio sets and other contrivances.

"But were synthetics banished from our lives all the fields, forests and oceans could not support the world in the luxury to which it has become accustomed. Who among us would be willing to give up the yellow of his butter, the red of his frankfurters (ponceau 4 R), the green of his pistachio ice cream (St. Louis green F. C. F.) or the coal tar yellow icing that makes a lemon cake look its flavor?

"All credit to the chemists although there are the costs to count. Not only have they taken the bread out of the mouths of dark-skinned natives to give us luxuries no end; they have also taken fine words out of the mouths of poets and prose writers.

"It is a poetic idea, perhaps, that the fragrance of jasmine, the bridal token of orange blossoms, the distinguished flavor of the grape and bright indigo blue, all owe their charm to one substance. But when the name for that substance is found to be anthranilic acid, the charm fades.

"Science needs writers who can find romance in chemistry's magic which paints the world in brighter colors, anoints it with perfumes worth a king's ransom, unrolls exquisite cloth to garb the multitudes and showers goods more lavishly than the Orient once dumped cargoes of spices, bright jewels and costly damasks into the lap of Venice. Scientists find uplifting inspiration in the fact that American toluene plus deadly American chlorine plus more deadly American cyanide, makes an American attar of roses which is nearly as good as that distilled from thousands of buds gathered in the dew of the morning in Bulgaria's Valley of Roses—and what science says is usually so. Still 'The Merchant of New Jersey,' a companion piece to 'The Merchant of Venice,' remains yet to be written."

The writer's train of thought is a construction train.

It makes a man feel curious;
It makes the teardrops start,
And you sort o' feel a flutter
In the region of the heart;
You can look up and meet his eyes;
You don't know what to say
When his hand is on your shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

Oh, the world's a curious compound,
With its honey and its gall;
With its cares and bitter crosses—
But a good world after all,
And a good God must have made it—
Leastways that is what I say
When a hand is on my shoulder

After the trip, Captain Charles B. D. Collyer, the pilot, wrote:

"It is a great pleasure to be able to write you about the service rendered by your New Veedol Motor Oil on our round-the-world flight.

"In the 12,000 miles of flying we did not have to make a single adjustment. Our motor functioned perfectly throughout the trip.

"On examining the Veedol in the motor, after various jumps we made, I found that in spite of the terrific speed and the varying temperatures, it was in perfect condition. It holds its body well and keeps the motor cool and in sweet running shape."

Your modern, high-compression automobile motor, like an airplane motor, needs VEEDOL to hold heat and friction at bay. To-day the proving ground of motor oils is in the air. REV. J. E. McCARTHY, MOOSUP, GOES TO HARTFORD SEMINARY

Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of Hartford diocese announced through The Catholic Transcript Thursday the following pastoral changes:

Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, rector of All Hallows' church, Moosup, to be vice-president of St. Thomas seminary, West Hartford.

Rev. Philip L. Massicott of St. Anthony's church, Bridgeport, to be rector of All Hallows' church, Moosup.

Rev. W. Arthur Routhier of St. Mary's church, Putnam, to be rector of St. Anthony's church, Bridgeport.

Rev. Father Routhier is a native of Willimantic and Rev. Philip L. Massicott was at one time curate at St. Mary's church there.

Rev. Father McCarthy, who is a native of Waterbury, was an assistant pastor at St. Patrick's church, Norwich when given his first pastorate, that of the Sacred Heart church, Wauregan. After a number of years of fine administration work there, his bishop advanced him to the Moosup pastorate. There he completed the large, modern school building, inspired the erection of one of the most artistic and costly war memorials in the state, and in other ways has worked for the upbuilding of the large and flourishing parish. St. Josephs church, Sterling is a mission of Moosup and there also Father McCarthy has done most effective work.

Following his ordination, at the seminary of St. Sulpice, Paris, he was for some time a professor at St. Thomas' seminary, Hartford, to which he now has the honor to return as its vice president—a signal distinction for such a young man as is Father McCarthy, but one earned by his scholarship ability, zeal for souls and devotion to his high calling. He has left the imprint of his fine character upon those eastern Connecticut parishes where he has labored so quietly yet with such telling results; and while thousands will regret his leaving, all will recognize his advancement as well merited and as opening up to him a broad field of usefulness in his direction and supervision of the studies of young men preparing for the holy priesthood.

Especially has Father McCarthy been successful in adding converts to the church, although this, also has been accomplished in his characteristic, quiet way. His work as school supervisor in his parishes has been another proof of his ability to secure results of the highest order.

Residents of Moosup and Wauregan of every denomination have recognized in him an ideal priest, a citizen and neighbor of the highest type.

SOCIALISTS HELD RALLY AT FERRY STREET

John Carabine of Springfield, Mass., prominent socialist writer and lecturer, addressed a good sized audience from an automobile on Ferry street at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at an open air rally of the local branch of the socialist party. The speaker was introduced by Martin F. Plunkett, candidate for United States senator, who is also acting as state campaign manager of the socialist party during the campaign.

Mr. Carabine, who was the speaker of the evening, told of his experiences as justice of the peace of the town of Terryville. He said that as the judge of that town he acted as chairman of the strike committee during the strike at the Eagle Lock company in that town several years ago and that he bore the distinction of being the only man that ever acted in such a capacity.

The speaker pointed out during the course of his address the likeness of the two major political parties in the present campaign and maintained that both parties promise big business.

Mr. Carabine spoke of the socialist candidates, Norman Thomas, for president and James H. Maurer for vice president and said that they were well qualified by experience and education to serve the American people if elected to office.

Gibbs, of Norwich, treasurer of the N. Y. Life Ins. company. In compliment to Mr. Gibbs' only child Miss George Barker Gibbs, (now Mrs. Charles H. Sherrill, of New York), who was an intimate friend of Mr. Mansfield and his wife, Beatrice Cameron also of stage fame, the infant was named Gibbs Mansfield.

This summer Mrs. Mansfield has returned from Europe and is occupying The Grange, her New London estate.

NORWICH-NEW LONDON ROAD FIRST HIGHWAY IN STATE

Considerable interest has been aroused of late among residents along Connecticut's state roads by the work of highway department surveyors. At no little expense the state is undertaking to establish the original highway boundaries, many of which have been lost or obliterated in the course of 150 years.

The surveyors are finding out in many places that property owners have encroached upon the state's right of way, taking for their front lawns or pastures land not rightfully belonging to them. It will be found that the lines when re-established by new concrete markers will pass through private flower beds, front yards and even houses. In case the time comes when the state must widen these roads, some of these people who have unintentionally occupied state property may suffer for not examining more carefully into the land records and titles before building or setting up hedges and fences.

This work of reestablishing the boundary lines is being accomplished not only through a great amount of surveying but also only after exhaustive study of all the oldest land records, statutes and charters granted by the general assembly to the private corporations which played such a prominent part in building the early "turnpikes of Connecticut.

The early turnpike efforts in Connecticut followed the example of Charles II, vainly hoping that toll collections from those using it would pay for the upkeep of the road. The first turnpike in the state, and the second in America, was the road from New London to Norwich, known as the Mohegan road, first laid out in 1670 by Joshua Raymond. In 1789 an association was formed to improve it, and the legislature went on record as opposed to 20th century Connecticut by authorizing a lottery to be drawn in Norwich in June, 1791, to assist in the work. In May, 1792, an act was passed by the assembly establishing a tollgate on this road, the second tollgate in America and the first in New England. A four-wheeled pleasure carriage had to pay toll of ninepence, a loaded wagon or cart three pence, and a "man and horse" a penny. This is the only Connecticut tollgate and turnpike where this method of Charles II—making users of the road pay for the upkeep entirely through toll—was maintained as long as any turnpike methods were employed in the state.

The second turnpike in Connecticut and the third in America, was created by the general assembly in October, 1792, establishing a toll gate on the "main county or stage road in the town of Greenwich," to be erected by commissioners acting for the county and the proceeds to go for maintenance of the road. This was the third toll gate in America and was an effort to remedy conditions on the road along Connecticut's shore (Boston Post road), which a New York paper described as "rough, rocky and uncomfortable."

This Greenwich road also started out on the principles followed by Charles II, but in 1806, or soon after, was absorbed by the Connecticut Turnpike Co. The Mohegan road was never owned by a corporation or trust but as long as it existed as a turnpike in the correct meaning of the word, was managed by commissioners in the interest of the road itself. In this it is believed to be the only one of all early American roads that operated throughout in accordance with the principles established by King Charles in 1663.

To Aid Norwich Roads

With the formation of the New London and Windham County society in May, 1795, which received a franchise from the legislature to build a turnpike from Norwich to the Rhode Island state line through Lisbon, Preston, Plainfield and Sterling, the first of many turnpike companies appeared in Connecticut. The prolific organization of these turnpike companies in Connecticut from then on for the next two or three decades, dotting the highways with tollgates but doing much to open the state to travel not only with in but to and from adjoining states, can be readily observed by naming those chartered by the general assembly in just the period of 1795 through 1800.

To Build Hartford Turnpike

The Oxford Turnpike company (1795), to improve the road from Southbury to Derby; the Hartford, New London, Windham and Tolland County Turnpike society, to improve the highway from the courthouse in Hartford to the courthouse in Norwich (1795); the Norwalk and Danbury Turnpike company, (1795); the Fairfield, Weston and Reading Turnpike company, to better the road from Bethel to Weston (1797); the Saugatuck Turnpike company (1797) to build a section of the road from Fairfield to Norwalk; the Stratts Turnpike company (1797) to improve the road from New Haven to Litchfield; the New Milford and Litchfield Turnpike company (1797); the Boston Turnpike company (1797) to improve the Hartford-Boston road through East Hartford, Bolton, Coventry, Mansfield, Ashford, Pomfret and Thompson to the state line; the Talcott Mountain Turnpike company (1798) to operate the road from Hartford through Farmington and Simsbury to New Hartford; the Ousatonic Turnpike company (1798) to operate the road from New Milford to Derby; the Derby Turnpike company (1798) to maintain the road from New Haven to Derby; the Greenwoods company (1798), to improve the part of the Hartford-Albany road from New Hartford to Sheffield through Winsted and Norfolk; Hartford and New Haven Turnpike company (1798); Litchfield and Harwinton Turnpike company (1798); Windham Turnpike company (1799), to operate and improve the road from Windham to Canterbury, to Plainfield, the Canaan and Litchfield Turnpike company (1799); Farmington River Turnpike company (1800), to operate from New Hartford through Barkhamsted, Hartland and Colebrook to the Massachusetts line; Windham and Mansfield Turnpike company (1800); Cheshire Turnpike company (1800) to maintain the road to New Haven from Cheshire; the Granby Turnpike company (1800), operating from West Hartford through Bloomfield, Tariffville, Granby to the Massachusetts line; Hartford and New London Turnpike company (1800) running a road from Hartford to Marlboro, Colchester, Salem, Waterford and New London.

The Guilford and Durham turnpike, now being surveyed, was operated by the Guilford and Durham Turnpike company chartered by the general assembly in May, 1824, the company filling a bond for $10,000 to carry out its plans before November 1, 1828. The road extended through to Sachem's Head to connect there with the New York boat which in those days stopped there. In winter, when ice clogged the Connecticut river, the Durham turnpike would, it was contemplated, afford a means of communication between Hartford and New York. Hartford people going to Sachem's head and there meet the vessels.

CABLE RAILINGS TO BE USED ON STATE ROADS

Wooden guide rails, which with their glistening white paint mark the edges of many Connecticut highways, will be replaced gradually with a railing of heavy wire cable, according to an announcement made today by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. The work of replacing the old wooden rails has already been begun in many parts of the state and several highways are now completely equipped with the improved form of railing.

Guide rails are installed along the highways for two purposes. The first as the name implies, is to guide motorists, to inform them of the character of the road and to keep them from traveling too near the edge of the highway. The second is to break the speed of any unfortunate motor vehicle which might by accident leave the road. Only in recent years has the latter safety element become an important factor. Today shattered guide rail is a common sight and stands as evidence that some form of railing is needed which will at least partially prevent cars from leaving the road and which will answer this purpose with as little damage to the vehicle and its occupants as possible.

The wire guide rail completely fulfills the first duty, for it is as readily visible at night and during inclement weather as the wooden fence. It greatly improves upon the wooden railing as a safety factor. It will not necessarily prevent a car traveling at high speed from plunging from the road, but it will resist many times the weight and speed which the timber fence is capable of withstanding. The particular portion of the wooden rail which is struck bears the entire brunt of the vehicle which hits it. With the wire rail, the weight is distributed over a much larger area and therefore greater resistance is brought into play.

Most of the wire guide rail installed thus far is supported by wooden posts. Standardized triangular concrete posts have been tried with the wire rail on the Boston Post road near New Haven and in Greenwich, but it was found that the impact of a car broke many more concrete than wooden posts due to the brittleness of the former. New types of posts, weighing almost 300 pounds each and built of reinforced concrete, are being tried on the new highway between New Haven and Seymour through Woodbridge. It is believed that these coupled with the wire railing will furnish maximum safety.

During the course of its experiments with new types of guide rail, the highway department found that wire mesh railing offered the greatest advantages from the safety standpoint. The wire mesh stops a careening vehicle more readily than either wood or cable railing and with less damage to the car and its passengers, but it interferes greatly with snow removal activities during the winter months since snow cannot be pushed through it. Therefore while it might increase safety at times it would create an additional hazard at other times.

Sheriff Dolan was veary zealous with regard to the many cases to which his attention was called, and never failed to use his ability to bring offenders to justice. He held the office of humane agent.

A fact of which he was very proud was that he was a member of the first class which was graduated from the Griswold public schools, under the late Earl Myron Swift. He felt that the name of this beloved principal and those of this class should be perpetuated, and he caused a photograph of the class and principal to be enlarged and framed. It was hung on the walls of Pachaug Grange hall, being presented by State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, valedictorian of the class, at a public gathering held for that purpose.

He is survived by his wife and one son, James, secretary of the Jewett City Trust Co., and one brother, Rev. James Q. Dolan of Southington.

Sheriff Dolan's wife was one of the Doyle sisters of Plainfield, four of whom married Jewett City men.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Joel F. Vaile

Mrs. Anna Wolcott Vaile, widow of Joel F. Vaile, and a former Norwich resident, died recently at her home in Denver, Col. She was a cousin of Adams P. and George W. Carroll of this city and in her youth attended the Norwich Free Academy.

Mrs. Vaile founded the Wolcott school and the Wolcott Conservatory of Music in Denver and for many years was national republican committee woman for Colorado.

She was the daughter of the Rev. Samuel Wolcott and was born in Providence, R. I., May 25, 1868.

The family was identified with the colonial history of America and although there were ten children crowding the parsonage of the New England Congregational minister, each received an education befitting the social and traditional standards of the Wolcotts.

Of the ten children, four of them went to Colorado. Mrs. Vaile following her brothers, the late Edward O. Wolcott, former United States senator from Colorado; the late Henry Wolcott and Herbert Wolcott, when she had been graduated from Wellesley college.

As principal of Wolfe Hall, formerly a fashionable school for girls, Mrs. Vaile made her first impress on Colorado's education life. In 1898, assisted and encouraged by her brothers, Mrs. Vaile founded the Wolcott school for girls.

It was in 1913, following her marriage to the late Joel F. Vaile, that the Wolcott school passed into other hands, finally to be discontinued.

Upon the death of her husband in 1916, Mrs. Vaile, seeking new interests, became an active figure in republican politics on the theory that it is the duty of every American to be interested in them.

Surviving her are her two sisters, Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Denver, and Miss Clara G. Wolcott of Boston; one brother, Herbert W. Wolcott of Buffalo, N. Y., and a large number of nieces and nephews.

Mrs. W. T. Peckham, Miss Lucy Olney and Mrs. Pettepiace of Thompson visited in Stonington Wednesday.

COLLEGE ACTIVE EVEN DURING SUMMER MONTHS

The general idea that there is nothing going on at a college during the summer, unless that college happens to maintain a summer school, is not true in the case of Connecticut college for women. The main office is open on week days during the long vacation, from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., or later, and very few days have passed since commencement on which one family at least from Pennsylvania, from Ohio, or even from California, has not driven up to New London hall, to ask questions, to fill pockets with catalogues and pamphlets and to admire the well-kept grounds and the wonderful view.

The college library which is another center of activity all summer is always visited and especially the beautiful room on the top floor which is a memorial to Elisha Loomis Palmer.

The college campus never looked more attractive than just now. The ivy seems to creep perceptibly on to cover the grey stone buildings, the flower beds especially those back of Thames refectory near the little pergola, are brilliant with many colors, while the shrubs and trees are making a wonderful growth.

A beginning is being made toward the utilization of the natural resources which the college possesses in its great area of undeveloped land. Under the supervision of the department of botany, a nursery and rock garden is being laid out on the slope east of Mohegan avenue and just south of Vinal house. It is the aim of the department to continue this work in the same region by the establishment of an arboretum in which all the trees, shrubs and plants indigenous to eastern Connecticut shall be represented. Several of the larger glacial boulders in the Bolleswood section of the campus are to be protected against the chisel of the stonecutter and brought to the attention of the nature lovers by means of metal plates on which the origin, the dimensions, and the weight of the boulders will be recorded.

Dr. Herbert Z. Kip has been interested to make a study of several of the features of Bolleswood ,including both birds and boulders. He has contrived an ingenious method of determining the weight of the largest boulders by a system of measurements. Aiest made by means of boulders small enough to be moved and weighed has proven the substantial accuracy of his results.

The department of botany is to be strengthened this year by the addition of Miss Margaret P. Smith of Taunton, Mass., a practical landscape artist and gardener, who will give instruction to the students in her field. Miss Smith was graduated from the Massachusetts Agricultural college in the class of 1926, after having completed the course in landscape architecture. During the summers of 1923, '25, and '26, and during the spring and fall months of 1927 she was engaged in practical landscape work on estates on Cape Cod and elsewhere in Massachusetts and Connecticut. This included the re-designing of existing gardens and the designing and construction of a new garden. During the summer of 1927, Miss Smith taught landscape gardening at a summer camp, and this summer she is giving a similar course at the Hillcrest Farm school, maintained by the Girls' Service League of America at Taconic, this state.

Last February a design of hers was awarded second prize in the Small Garden competition under the auspices of the New York Botanical Garden. The other members of the department of botany are Dr. Caroline A. Black, associate professor of botany and chairman of the department and Dr. Evcelyn I. Fernald, who has the rank of assistant professor.

STATE SHOWS GAIN IN REVENUE RECEIPTS

Internal revenue receipts in Connecticut for the fiscal year ending June 30 remained virtually the same as in the preceding year. The 1928 figures of $36,114,139.76 represent less than one-half of one per cent increase over the $36,110,447.88 collected in 1927.

This slight gain, however, is contrasted with a three per cent decline for the country as a whole, for the $2,790,535,537.68 collected over the country is $75,147,592.23 less than the sum in 1927.

There were various slashes in rates to account for the decline, aside from the refunding of $142,393,567.17 worth of taxes illegally collected. Most of this refunding was for levies collected in 1928 and prior years, but $9,666.78 was for 1927 and before, and $98,503.80 for 1926 and before.

Some loss of revenue was effected by the repeal of the tax on automobiles and motorcycles, which was made effective May 29, but this amounted to little in the single month included in the present figures.

The reduction of the tax on non-beverage spirits from $1.65 per proof gallon to $1.10 was the only other cut of any importance, most miscellaneous tax rates remaining at virtually the same level. In the case of the income tax affecting corporations, there was a drop to 13 per cent from 13 1-2 per cent.

Connecticut income taxes represented $34,381,187.14 of the total revenue receipts of $36,114,139.76. Last year the income taxes amounted to $33,799,750.07 of the total revenue receipts of $36,110,447.88. The income tax collections for the state the past year were two per cent more than last year, consequently forming a slightly higher percentage of the total revenue taken in the state.

Receipts from taxes on individual incomes not only formed the main increase over last year, but they also were sufficiently heavier to make up for a decided decline in collections from corporations.

Where last year corporations paid $18,068,705.87 and individuals $15,731,045.20, this year the figures were pretty nearly equal. Corporations paid $17,487,31.26 to the federal government, or $580,983.61 less than they paid last year, while individuals paid $16,893,465.88, or $1,162,420.68 more than they did last year.

The total income taxes for this country yielded $2,219,952,442.72 or $46,370,340.83 less than they yielded in 1927. While income taxes declined it is evident that they formed a larger proportion of the total revenue than last year.

The receipts for 1928 include payments of the third and fourth installations of the tax on returns of net income for 1926, and first and second installments of the tax on returns of net income for 1927, together with additional collections made for earlier years.

The principal increase in the revenue from miscellaneous taxes for the fiscal year was from tobacco manufacturerers. This amounted to $20,279,835.99, as compared with an increase of $5,503,765.17 which was shown in 1927 over 1926. The heavy increase of this year is further emphasized when it is noted that the principal miscellaneous taxes increase of last year was also in tobacco levies. Increased manufacture and sale of small cigarettes is accounted the chief factor in the increase, says the report of the bureau of internal revenue, which has just released these figures.

Taxes on all classes of large cigars last year showed that 6,488,079,639 were manufactured. This is a one per cent decline from the number manufactured last year. There was a 14 per cent decline in the number of small cigars, which this year totalled 401,355,960.

The number of small cigarettes made was 100,581,773,100, an eight per cent gain over the number last year. Large cigarettes, however, declined 13 per cent to 10,512,743.

FELL FROM RAIL OF A SOUND STEAMER

Found floating in Long Island Sound Wednesday by four fishermen, Edward Doyle of Newark, N. J., recovered sufficiently to identify himself.

Doyle says that he remembers sitting on the rail of a Sound steamboat. He suddenly became dizzy and fell into the water, but has no knowledge of what happened after that until he woke up in Home Memorial hospital, New London. He is thought to have been in the water about ten hours.

AMERICAN GOLFERS PRACTICALLY CLINCH WALKER CUP ONCE MORE

(By Paul R. Nicholson, Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO GOLF CLUB, Chicago, Aug. 30—(AP)—Resembling a giant locomotive, slow to start but difficult to stop, America crushed Great Britain by scoring a grand slam victory in the four two-ball foursomes opening the sixth Walker cup competition over the stubborn Chicago Golf club course today.

With all but one of its teams, even that of the mighty Bobby Jones and Chick Evans, down at the end of the first nine holes of play, the Americans caught on to John Bull's favorite golf game and from that time on were simply unstoppable. Each American combination won its match by a wide margin.

Today's victories, which netted America four points to England's nothing virtually clinched retention of the Walker trophy. Eight singles matches remain, but Uncle Sam's octette needs only to win two and halve one. This would give America 6 1-2 points and England 5 1-2.

With the same reverting to American style—singles match play—and with such a coterie of shot makers as Bobby Jones, Watts Gunn, George Von Elm, Chick Evans, Jess Sweetser, Francis Ouimet, Jimmie Johnston and Roland Mackenzie ready to carry on, the prospect favored the Americans.

The team of Von Elm of Detroit and Sweetser of New York turned in the greatest margin of victory. They trounced T. P. Perkins, British champion and Dr. William Tweddell, captain of the British invaders, 7 and 6. Watts Gunn, the sturdy brunette from Atlanta and Roland Mackenzie of Washington, trimmed John Beck and Dr. A. R. MacCallum, 7 and 5 for the best performance. Jones and Evans defeated Major C. O. Hezlet and W. L. Hope 5 and 3 and the Boston veteran Francis Ouimet with a Minneapolis ace, Jimmy Johnston beat T. A. Torrance and Eustice Storey, 4 and 2.

In a desperate effort to stop the Americans from shutting them out tomorrow, Captain Tweddell announced tonight he would use his two alternates, R. H. Hardman and Captain G. N. C. Martin in place of Beck and MacCallum.

"It looks bad for us, I know," Captain Tweddell said, "but there you are."

The pairings for tomorrow's 36-hole play in the single matches are:

Perkins and Jones; Hezlet and Ouimet; Hope and Sweetser; Storey and Johnston; Torrance and Evans; Hardman and Gunn; Martin and Mackenzie.

MORRIS PITCHES BRILLIANT GAME AGAINST ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30—(AP)—The lightning in the great right arm of big Ed Morris of Boston struck twice in the same place here this afternoon, and so deprived the Athletics of a chance to profit from the Yankee reverse in Washington. The great hulk of a right hander blazed his fast one past the bats of Joe Hauser, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins in succession in the ninth inning, and the three resultant strike-outs saved a lead of 3 to 2 the Red Sox had earned in their own half of the round.

Jack Russell went through the first seven rounds for Boston in perfect form, holding the Macks to five scattered hits and passing only one man. But the eighth saw a belated Philadelphia assault after Bishop's opening single had been erased when Haas hit into a double play. Singles by Cochrane and Foxx mixed with Simmons's double gave the home team two eleventh-hour markers which overcame a one-run deficit piled up against George Earnshaw in the fourth.

Howard Ehmke, who had relieved George Earnshaw at the start of the eighth, was the victim of a counter-rally by Boston, and the thin Athletic margin was swept away. A single by Williams a pass to Taitt and Charlie Ruffing's pinch double sent the Red Sox to the front again, and there was no business to be transacted with the fire served up by Young Morris in the home half when Connie Mack rushed his reserves to the front.

The defeat of the two leaders left the Mackmen trailing the Yanks by the same two and one-half games. A crowd of 19,000 attended.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 30—(AP)—Cincinnati and Chicago engaged in a contest for runner-up honors to St. Louis here today and the Cubs won a 2 to 0 decision in six innings when rain forced a postponement of play. Root held the Reds to four hits. Chicago scored in the fifth on Hartnett's double, Beck's triple and Root's sacrifice fly.

RUTH HITS HOMER BUT YANKEES LOSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP)—Babe Ruth's forty-seventh home run was insufficient to halt the Senators here this afternoon, and the Yankees were forced to accept a 3 to 1 reverse in the opening game of the series. Waite Hoyt absorbed his fourth defeat of the season as Sad Jones, the former Yankee right-hander had one of his very best afternoons. Since the Athletics also lost, the Yankees retained their margin of two and one-half games over the runnersup.

Ruth's drive was the only real dent the Yankees made in the armor of the gallant old Woodsfield sage through a long and sultry afternoon. It was delivered in the seventh with none out, and placed the Babe only seven games, seven days and five home runs ahead of his record schedule of last year.

On this date in 1927 he had forty-two homers, and waited until September 6 for his forty-seventh, as Jack Russell opposed the Yankees at Boston in game No. 123. The contest today was No. 122. Home runs flew thick and fast from the Babe's bat last September, and he will have to average exactly one in each two of his remaining 28 games to break his own record of 60.

The Yankees lost the game in the sixth inning today as the Senators broke a scoreless tie with five hits and three runs. Singles by Rice and Judge tossed on either side of Goslin's triple gave the home boys their first two. Bluege's sacrifice and Reeves' bounder through Koenig for a single pushed Judge around with the third marker. Score:

BELL'S DOUBLE GIVES BRAVES WIN OVER PHILLIES

BOSTON, Aug. 30—(AP)—A two bagger by Bell with the bases full in the sixth inning was the deciding factor in the 6 to 5 win the Braves pinned on the Phillies in the first game of their series here today.

Cy Williams and Freigau drove balls into the left field bleachers for home runs. Cy hit his in the fifth with Leach on and Freigau got his in the eighth. Williams provided the fielding feature. Score:

TIGERS GET AWAY TO EARLY START TO BEAT INDIANS

DETROIT, Aug. 30—(AP)—A three run assault in the first by Detroit was too much of a handicap and the Tigers won the last game of the series with Cleveland and the final contest of the season between the clubs, 5 to 2, today. The first four men to face Willis Hudlin hit safely. Hargrave's triple driving home Neun, McManus and Gehringer. After the initial session, the game was a pitching battle between Hudlin and Vic Sorrell.

Detroit and Cleveland met 22 times during the season, the Tigers winning 12 games, and the Indians ten.

HORNSBY SIGNS CONTRACT FOR NEXT SIX YEARS

BOSTON, Aug. 30—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby has signed a contract to manage the Boston Braves for the next six years, Judge Emil Fuchs announced today. The judge also took the opportunity to put an end to stories that the Boston club is controlled by New York capital.

In his statement, Judge Fuchs said that Hornsby signed the contract during the summer and added:

"Hornsby will stay with the Braves. He is neither for sale nor for trade."

FARRELL SHOOTS A 63 OVER GROESBECK

DETROIT, Mich, Aug. 30—(AP)—Johnny Farrell, national open champion, shot one of the greatest games of golf of his career here this afternoon when he turned in a 63 in an 18-hole foursome over the difficult Groesbeck course.

The marvelous round lowered the course record by nine strokes and was ten under par. Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, likewise was at the peak of his form. He made the round in a 68, five under par.

Winnapaug is Off

Because of a previously scheduled match to be held Saturday at the Winnapaug club at Westerly the Norwich Golf team will be idle this week end unless a match with another club is arranged. The Winnapaug team notified Manager Mathewson of the Norwich team that they regretted calling off the match with Norwich but it would be necessary.

BEAUREGARD LOSES TO LUCY WHILE McCARTHY AND PECHEENI WIN

The six bouts of forty rounds under the colors of Ernie Fakourey held at the Arena at New London last night, drew a banner house and gave those present a mighty good run for their money. In spite of the several short showers which threatened to end hostilities from the third bout on, most of the fans braved the storm until the finish. The main go was put on fourth, and what a treat Al Beauregard, the local lad, and Pete Lucy of Bridgeport gave to the assemblage. Beauregard met a rough tough customer in Pete and dropped the decision after eight of the most furious rounds.

Both boys started in at the bell, heads to-gether with Al trying to get over that devastating right of his. But Lucy met him half way, made Al do a lot of missing with his right and outslugged him. He held Beauregard off time and time again, but the latter kept trying hard and was dangerous right up to the final bell. It seemed any minute that one of the boys would drop. The sixth was Lucy's best. He sat Al back on his heels and tore in with the hopes of finishing him, but the Taftville boy fought his way out and recovered quickly. Both lads mixed from the sound of the first bell and had the crowds cheering lustily. It was eight hard fought rounds and was the best go of the card.

McCarthy Wins

Young McCarthy, another Norwich lad, outboxed and outfought Jimmy Proto of Hartford in the excellent third bout. This was another good go and witnessed Mac fighting the best fight of his career. He boxed beautifully all the way through and crossed a hard right to Proto's jaw often. Proto just couldn't do much with Mac and the latter won the decision hands down. The tutelece of Joe Connelly has worked wonders with Mac and he should improve with each fight. Both boys weighed in at 125.

Pecheeni Gets Verdict

Gene Pecheeni the other Norwich favorite was awarded the decision over "Spike" Marino of New Haven in the second bout. This go, too, was hard fought. Marino the little southpaw did his best at infighting but was rather unscrupulous with his holding and hitting which no doubt had a lot to do with his losing the decision. Gene took the lead in the first, but Marino got to him in the second and did the most damage throughout the rest of the fighting. Pecheeni couldn't stave him off, the New Haven lad forcing the fighting, kept on top of the Norwich boy. The referee, Jack Barry, apparently doing his first bit of work in the ring found the getting-close-to-separate-the-fighters not to his liking and although he raised Pecheeni's hand in token of the win the crowd thought otherwise. He made way for Jigger McCarthy the master after this bout and the latter finished the work for the evening.

The opener found our old friend Big Boy Burlan dropping them so hard into Kent Scott of Boston that the third man graciously called a halt in the second to save the Bostonian from further punishment. The Big Boy had Scott punch-drunk and on the verge of a knockout when hostilities ceased, although it must be said that the Boston boy put up a good battle, and showed worlds of gameness. He sent in some good blows but Burlan kept driving them in too hard for him. Burlan tipped the scales at 200 and Scott looked a little lighter.

After the feature go Frankie Cavanaugh of Bridgeport and Frankie Woods came together. The Norwich contingent were somewhat interested in the latter as he played around the town a year or so back. He looked very good last night and while neither boys killed themselves they put up a fair enough battle with honors about even until the Bridgeport lad drove in a couple of low ones and lost the fight. The first low one landed in the first and Woods went down, but Jigger didn't see it and started to count. He did however, see the second one below the belt, and stopped the fight and raised Wood's hand. The latter weighed 170 and Cavanaugh 167.

The bout that went on last night have been the preliminary. Frankie Portell of Hartford won over Tommy Jarrett of New Haven when the latter hurt his arm in the seventh and was unable to continue. Jarrett had been leading up to the end but the outcome didn't seem to particularly the fans. This boy Jarrett has fought in New London before and comes here with a reputation for being good but fails to show it when he performs around here. It is obvious that he can fight if he wants to, but the fighting feeling seems to fail off every once in a while. He would slam into Portell with both arms swinging and then stop and rest and take things easy. Portell with a good right hand fought back all the way but both lads did more mauling than real good fighting. For a real honest-to-goodness grudge fight it was rather tame. Jarrett weighed 139 1-2 and Portell 138 1-2.

The facetious remarks of the announcer kept the crowd in good humor even with the drops coming down. The next show was announced for a week from next Thursday and is going to show good old Sheik Leonard in his biennial comeback. This alone should draw a crowd.

KENSINGTON REPLACES EVERETT ON TAFTVILLE A. A. SCHEDULE

It is with sincere regret that Manager Troland announces that on account of unforseen circumstances the Everett (Mass.) team will be unable to play at Taftville in their scheduled game Saturday afternoon. Through no fault of the local club's manager the visiting team will be replaced by Taftville's bitter rivals, Kensington. The following letter received by Troland yesterday afternoon from Paul D'Agostino is self explanatory. The letter follows, ver batim:

Mr. J. Troland,
Taftville, Conn.
Dear Sir:

Regret to say that the game scheduled for Saturday must be cancelled. We had scheduled to play in two other Conn. towns and they at the last moment cancelled their games. We couldn't very well come to Taftville, Saturday, with our best lineup because of financial reasons and rather than put up a poor showing we must cancel the game. It is very regretable that this had to occur at the last minute. I shall write to you later and try to get back in your good graces.

Sincerely Yours,
PAUL D'AGOSTINO
(Business M'gr Everett Mass. club).

The fans will certainly miss watching a real fast ball club, but it is a question whether the Everett boys could put on a game that would bring forth any more hard playing than will the Kensington team. It will be remembered that Kensington had taken over Taftville in one of their encounters this season and Taftville came out the winner in their other. So this game Saturday P. M. will be the rubber. Certainly a game with the honors one-all should give the followers a run for their money. Of course the lineup will not be affected by the absence of the Massachusetts outfit and Lloyd Jarvis will go on the mound just the same

THURSTON WILL DEFEND CUP WON LAST YEAR

Joseph W. Thurston, of Hartford, one of the veterans of tennis and holder of the Eastern Connecticut tennis title, will defend the Willowbrook trophy which he won here last year. This gray-thatched veteran of a half century of tennis still plays a brilliant game as his exhibition against a younger rival last year dmeonstrated. Thurston will bring with him Royal Leighton of New Haven, one of the ranking tennis players of the state who will enter the singles and will also team with Thruston in the doubles.

Another player of note is George Titus of New York who was No. 1 player on the Amerst college tennis team last year. Titus is entered in the singles and will probably pick a partner for the doubles when he gets here.

To date there are about 25 players entered for the singles while there are but six pairs for the doubles. Two more teams are wanted at least. The entries close at noon today and any players in the eastern part of the state should get their names in this morning. The pairing will be made for the first round tonight and play in the singles starts Saturday morning. The doubles play wil start in the afternoon. The second round and semi-finals will be played Sunday and Monday morning with the finals in the afternoon.

DARKNESS HALTS FAST TENNIS MATCH AT BROOKLINE

(By William R. King Associated Press Sports Writer)

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 30—(AP)—Darkness fell on the Longwood Cricket club here tonight just a few minutes before a heavy shower ended the furious struggle which George M. Lott, Jr., and John Hennessey, top-seeded Americans, had waged with Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, of France, to enter the final round of the national tennis doubles championship.

This international match was halted with the two pairs of court stars deadlocked. Each team had won two sets and the fifth set stood four games all when they decided to quit and replay the match tomorrow afternoon.

Lott and Hennessey must win the replayed match if America is to be represented in the final, for Gerald Patterson and Jack Hawkes, of Australia, qualified for the title round at the expense of Johnnie Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, the second American semi-finalists in four hard fought sets, 6-4, 6-3, 7-9, 6-4.

CY JENKS WINS TITLE IN CADDIE TOURNAMENT

Cy Jenks by his brilliant playing won the annual caddie tournament at the Norwich Golf club on Thursday morning when he beat Jack Skelly 3 and 2 in a match that was closely contested. Skelly entered the finals on Wednesday by his 6 and 4 victory over "Boots" Greene.

In the second eight of the tournament Tommy O'Neil won from Benski, 2 and 1, in a match that was close from the first to the seventh holes.

THOMPSON KAYOES DUNDEE IN THE SECOND ROUND

CHICAGO, Aug. 30—(AP)—A sensational Negro warrior from San Francisco, Young Jack Thompson, knocked out Joe Dundee, welterweight champion of the world, in the second round of a scheduled ten-round battle in the White Sox ball park tonight.

Thompson, cool as an iceberg and hitting with such deliberation that he reminded old timers of Gans, stood there waiting to crash over a finishing blow when Referee Purdy waved him to his corner. The battle ended with Dundee, the champion, convincingly defeated and crushed. The bout was stopped one minute and 58 seconds after the second round started.

The only reason the flashy California Negro was not proclaimed welterweight champion of the world was because of the weight. They weighed in yesterday when scheduled to fight last night with Dundee scaling 147 pounds and Thompson weighing 148 1-8.

The postponement due to rain undoubtedly helped Thompson materially because of the fact that he was not required to weigh in a second time today. This break in the luck enabled the West Coast boxer to slough off the excess weight he accumulated in order to come above the welterweight limit and reduce to his best fighting poundage of 142 or 143 pounds.

FUGAZY TO PUT ON CHARITY SHOW SOON

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Humbert Fugazy, boxing promoter, announced today that he hopes to put on a heavyweight bout in which both main event principals will forfeit their purses for sweet charity's sake.

The match Fugazy said he had in the making is between Roberto Roberti and Knute Hansen, "The Durable Dane," and is tentatively for 15 round at Ebbets field, Oct. 12.

"Y" TIES FINISHERS--PLAYOFF TONIGHT

The Y. M. C. A. fought into a tie for the Industrial league leadership Thursday night with the United States Finishers by edging the Insilcos, 3 to 1, in a closely contested affair. The "Y" and Bleachery now have nine wins and five defeats apiece and they meet tonight in the final tilt on the league schedule. This marks the closest finish that Twi ball has ever had in Norwich, with the pennant still undecided on the eve of the last scheduled game.

Henry Couture, star speedball artist, pitched for the "Y" last night and held the Silvermen well in hand in all but the third inning when hits by Zaremba and H. Lamphere, the former of the infield variety, and Henry's wild throw on Jarvis' bunt allowed Zaremba to score.

Meanwhile the "Y" had a two run advantage, scoring one in the first when Eddie Hamil singled, stole second and came in on successive wild throws by Izbicki and Mish and

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Whitefoot Startles Peter

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Fright is but a state of mind,
Most often without cause you'll find.
—Old Mother Nature.

How Peter Rabbit did wish he was back in the dear Old Briar-patch! Never had he wished anything more. But he wasn't back in the dear Old Briar-patch. He was over in a bramble-tangle in the Green Forest, feeling as miserable as a Rabbit can feel. Patches of hair were missing from his coat. He smarted from scratches he had received from one of the children of Yowler the Bobcat. The truth of the matter is Peter had lost his nerve. Yes, sir, he had lost his nerve. He was so badly frightened, so upset, that he actually didn't dare start for the dear Old Briar-patch. He was afraid to leave the bramble-tangle.

His big cousin, Jumper the Hart, had paid him a visit there, but hadn't stayed long. Peter had hoped he would stay. He wanted company. But Jumper had business in another part of the Green Forest and nothing that Peter could say would induce him to remain. So Peter sat hunched up, a picture of misery, and wished and wished and wished that he never had left the dear Old Briar-patch. He was so busy being miserable that he paid no attention to anything else. It wasn't until a dry leaf rustled right behind him that Peter gave any attention to anything else. But that rustling leaf he couldn't help hearing. It startled him terribly. It startled him so that, without waiting to see what had made it, he jumped and ran farther into the bramble-tangle. Then and not until then did he look behind to see what had caused that leaf to rustle.

"Excuse me, Peter," said a squeaky little voice. "I didn't mean to frighten you."

Peter opened his mouth to say "You didn't frighten me," but he closed it again without saying it. He was ashamed to say it, for of course it wasn't true. Instead, he gulped once or twice and then said: "Hello, Whitefoot! What are you doing here?"

"Trying to make up my mind where to go to be safe," replied Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, in that funny, squeaky little voice of his. "Truly, I didn't mean to scare you, Peter. You see, I didn't know you were in here when I first came in. It's dreadful, isn't it?"

"What is dreadful?" asked Peter bluntly.

"What is dreadful?" asked Peter bluntly

"That the Green Forest is no longer safe for folks to live in," squeaked little Whitefoot.

"It never has been safe," said Peter.

"But it's a lot less safe now," said Whitefoot.

"Why?" demanded Peter.

Little Whitefoot opened his great dark eyes very wide. "Don't you know that Yowler the Bobcat has a family?" he asked.

"I didn't know it until tonight," confessed Peter. "I guess you're right about the Green Forest. When I get back to the dear Old Briar-patch I'm going to stay there. But why aren't you at home instead of here?"

"I'm looking for a new home," said Whitefoot. "Those kittens of Yowler the Bobcat have been playing around my old home so much that I don't dare stay there any longer. I—I think I'll move up to the Old Orchard. You don't suppose those Bobcats will come over there do you?"

Peter shook his head. "They may not," said he, "but Black Pussy, Farmer Brown's Cat, will; and, if I were you, I should just as soon be caught by Yowler the Bobcat or one of his children as by Black Pussy."

Whitefoot looked dejected. "That's so," said he. "I hadn't thought of that."

NEW TOUGH STEEL ALLOY CLAIMED BY INVENTOR

PARIS, (AP)—A new steel, tougher and lighter, it claimed, than standard varieties, has been obtained by the use of very small quantities of the metal glucinum as an alloy.

The discovery was made by Jean Roekaert, a student at the National Conservatory of Arts and Crafts, who is making researches into the properties of glucinum with a view to its use in airplane construction, for which it is specially adapted on account of its extreme lightness and hardness. The principal drawback to gulcinum has een the great difficulty of production, but M. Roekaert believes he has found a way of producing it easily at moderate cost.

LONDON FAREWELLS LAST U. S. DOLLAR-YEAR MAN

LONDON, (AP)—Boyston Beal, honorary counsellor of the American embassy, known here as the "last of the dollar-a-year men," is leaving London to take up his residence in Boston.

Mr. Beal was born in Boston, was graduated from the Harvard Law school and practiced law in Boston. He was in Berlin in 1914, when the war broke out, and became attached to the American embassy. In July, 1914, when the American embassy took over all English interests in Berlin, he was placed in charge of the English contingent and remained in Germany until all the women and children had been sent to their own country.

MAIN STREET DANIELSON

DANIELSON

OLD BANK BUILDING IS SOLD TO BOSTON MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 30—There was added to the various important real estate transactions of the year in Danielson this afternoon the sale by the Brooklyn Savings bank of the Windham County Savings bank building on Main street, between the new Dowe building and the Leavens building, occupied by the Woolworth store, to William Weiner of Boston. The building is a three-story brick structure. The lower floor is occupied exclusively by the Danielson district offices and salesrooms of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., the second floor by the offices of Attorney Harry E Back and Dr. J. C. Maslen and the third floor as quarters for the American Legion. The Brooklyn Savings bank acquired it when it absorbed the Windham County Savings bank a number of years ago. It is one of the oldest and at the same time one of the most substantial of the business structures in Danielson. The Brooklyn Savings bank has held it through the years in consideration of the event that it might have need of it. That need having passed in view of the fact that the bank is having a new home erected at the corner of Main and Academy streets, it has no further desire to hold possession of the building, which has been for sale for several months past, during which time a number of bids for it have been received. Meanwhile the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. has purchased property opposite the new bank building and will occupy its new home in September.

What Mr Weiner proposes to do with the building he has purchased was not disclosed today. However, it may be said that the Windham County Savings bank building will be extensively remodeled or torn down and a new one erected in its place. As to this, more information will be available in the near future.

DANIELSON MAY GET BETTER MAIL SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug 30—There are indications that the post office department may give up the effort to dispatch mail matter into this territory by the morning boat train as a rather unsatisfactory accommodation. This train has been running so irregularly, as to keeping to its schedule, as to be a cause of annoyance, business delays and what not for weeks past.

A possibility is that a mail truck service will be substituted for the service that the morning boat train now render in bringing in the heaviest mail of the day. This train is almost regularly a half hour, an hour or two hours late. If it were an employe expected to be on time, it likely would lose its job in a week. The delays are held to be largely due that the train is of the "mixed" variety, hauling freight as well as passenger and mail cars. But whatever the cause, the service it renders, mail-wise, is a limping failure.

It has been established by many months of trial that mail trucks can and do render a dependable service. One such truck starts out of Worcester mornings and runs through Danielson as far south as New London, returning over the route in the afternoon. It gets in on time as a very general rule.

However something a bit more advanced than this sort of mail-truck service will be required in handling the morning mail now coming by the boat train, for this mail contains registered matter which must be receipted for as it passes from man to man in the mail service. Possibly a mail truck carrying a mail clerk may be introduced into this territory.

In any event, the forecast is for better service than the boat train has been giving. Incidentally, this train also carries the newspapers due to arrive first in Danielson mornings from several different cities, and the non-arrival of these makes numbers of difficulties for those having to do with their issue and distribution.

The state hospital at Norwich absorbed another patient from Windham county this morning in the person of John B. Duneer of the Hoard's Valley section of the town of Hampton. Duneer appeared to have gone what is described in some sections of the southwest as loco, and was about threatening neighbors, seeing spirits and having a rather general topsy-turvey time mentally when it became evident that something should be done about it. Duneer is in the neighborhood of 60 years of age and had lived alone in that isolated section of the county for a long time, keeping much to himself. He was taken into custody by State Officer Theodore Strand of the Danielson barracks, presented before Judge Fuller of the Hampton probate court and ordered committed to the state hospital.

Principal Ernest R. Warren of Killingly high school announced this morning that he is to be at his office in the high school building Friday and Saturday of this week and Monday of next week from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 o'clock to 5 p. m. for consultation with parents or with pupils who are to enter the school when sessions are resumed next Tuesday. At these sessions the interested persons will have an opportunity to confer with the principal relative to courses or other matters pertinent thereto.

Charles Russell, auditor out of the state tax commissioner's office at Hartford, was in Danielson today to go over the accounts of local tax collectors. Mr. Russell checked the accounts of James R. Walsh, collector of town taxes, and of Arthur A Dean, collector of personal taxes in Killingly, and found them, it is understood, in excellent order. Mr. Russell's visitation was an annual one. He has been engaged during this week in checking up tax collectors' accounts in towns in this section of the state, having been in Brooklyn yesterday.

As will be evident to those who peruse the columns of The Bulletin this morning, Danielson's business men have arranged one of their semi-annual Dollar days for Saturday. In this connection, it may be reiterated that here in Danielson these events are real opportunities for shoppers. Danielson has not joined that list of communities in which a Dollar day has come to be a means of getting additional business under false pretenses. Primarily, such events in this town are intended largely as community advertising intended to broadcast Danielson's worthiness as a place to buy the hope being that new customers will be made and retained. Saturday's event will be no exception to this rule.

It has been noted that Danielson's firemen are to have a Tag day on Saturday and that the object of it is to boost the uniform fund. This matter brings to mind once again that Danielson's fire-fighters are volunteers. Their remuneration for what they do for the people of Danielson in battling fires is insignificant. They perform a highly valuable service largely as a matter of civic duty. For most of them three years' "salary" would barely suffice to pay for one uniform. On the other hand, they are apt to, and frequently do, ruin at one fire clothing costing as much as a uniform. The borough has not seen fit to go to the expense of uniforming them, so on Saturday they are to ask the public to help them in their ambition to dress up like real firemen on such rare occasions as opportunity offers—firemen's parades, conventions and the like. Danielson appreciative of the fact that it has one of the best volunteer fire departments in New England and a fire loss record that is so low as to be almost unmatched in the same area, likely will be more than ordinarily liberal with the boys on Saturday. Rarely do they ask any favor of the public. When they do it is a bit of a privilege to respond generously.

Only about a dozen days separate Albert G. Raymond and Roland Lalone from going on trial for their lives for the murder of State Officer Irving H. Nelson of the Danielson barracks in Pomfret last Good Friday night. It is said that there are no outward signs of pertubation in the prisoners as they are about to face their terrible ordeal. They remain at the county jail in Brooklyn, where they have been held since early spring the days slowly ebbing away for them, one after the other. As has been the rule since the first day of their incarceration at Brooklyn, special guards watch over them day and night and so it will be until after their cases have been heard and disposed of, one way or another.

Miss Beatrice LaPierre, a teacher at Jamaica and whose mother is resident in Brooklyn, Miss Elizabeth Bard of Brooklyn and Miss Arlene E. Babson of the West Side are away on a motor trip that will take them to Niagara Falls, thence to Montreal, with their homeward route through the White Mountains.

State Officer Elton Nolan returned to duty at the Danielson barracks today after his annual leave of absence from duty.

FRESH AIR CHILDREN RETURN TO THEIR HOMES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, August 30—The Fresh Air Kiddies departed from Putnam this afternoon at 1:28, on the New York express, en route to their homes in the metropolitan city, after a fortnight in Putnam. Nearly every child of the Putnam group returned with a heavy coat of tan or else temporary scars from the effects of sunburn. The children were at the station before train time getting their last glimpse of Putnam by scampering about the station platform.

This year Putnam was included among the Connecticut towns that signed for the largest number of the New York youngsters. The success of the social work is due to the various woman's clubs of the city that took part in placing the children and through the many contributions of interested persons. Funds donated to the committee were used to board a number of children in various homes of the city and surrounding towns. The Fresh Air drive will be repeated next summer, due to the success of the committee in charge of the work to afford an opportunity to the New York children to vacation in the country.

Mrs. Antonio Forcier of Lee street is a patient at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Forcier underwent a major operation Wednesday from which she was reported this morning as resting comfortably.

The Putnam Rotary club inspected the Richard's Milk Diary on Smith street Wednesday after their noonday luncheon at the Putnam Inn. The members of the club were afforded the opportunity of viewing the methods of pasteurizing, as the entire plant was in operation during their presence.

Vegetarians are complaining of the eating qualities of the garden produce this season, orn seems to be the major vegetable that is receiving no favor from those who delight in it. In this vicinity many are placing the blame on the unfavorable weather during the summer season, for the ripening of crops.

SPORTSMEN RELEASE TROUT IN MANY LOCAL BROOKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, August 30—The Northeastern Fish and Game club of Putnam has been active during the remaining weeks of the fishing season, in the stocking of brooks and the releasing of 200 pheasants. F. A. Marvott, president of the club said this afternoon that the club recently distributed in the various brooks of this section over 1200 brook trout. The fish were some of the largest stock trout ever placed in the brooks. The Five Mile river, running through East Putnam and joining the Assawauga river at Attawaugan has been stocked with the rare species of brown trout. President Marvott said that this variety of fish were the only ones stocked in this brook, due to their enormous size when fully grown. The brooks in this section will contain numbers of fish next spring when the season opens.

Due to the large numbers of bass taken from the waters this summer, several dollars will have to be expended to re-stock the ponds and lakes where the bass dwell. The club members were in receipt of $80 worth of bass, which have been distributed in the various lakes and ponds coming under the Northeastern's jurisdiction.

Mr. Marvott stated this afternoon that another allotment of pheasants are to be purchased soon and will be release dinto the marshes, before the opening of the hunting season. The local club has launched a drive for an increase in its membership. The fees obtained from the sportsmen will be diverted to the expense encountered in keeping the fishing brooks and the hunting grounds in this section supplied with fish and game.

Superintendent of Schools Leon N. Farrin will establish his residence in Putnam Friday. He will occupy the Angeline Tatem house on Grove street. Mr. Farrin with his wife and three children will arrive in Putnam Friday afternoon. Since his appointment as director of the educational system in Putnam, Mr. Farrin has been commuting to Putnam from his Boston home.

Tourtellotte Memorial high school in North Grosvenordale will have a new principal at the opening of the fall term next week. The new principal is Clarence Michaels, former head of the high school of Strong and Phillips, Maine. Mr. Michaels during the number of years that he has been en educator has achieved a record that made him outstanding among the long list of applicants for the position. The Thompson town school committee in the choice of Mr. Michaels feel that they have picked wisely. The remainder of the faculty of the high school will consist of Mr. Colby, assistant principal; Louis H. Drude and Sybella Gilman, commercial department; Elizabeth Foote, junior high school; Helen R. Mack, domestic science and physical education; Helen MacAuliffe, English, drawing and dramatics, Gladys M. Mowry, French and Latin, Eleanor Quigley, science and mathematics; Marxaret U. Reardon, History and Algebra; Martha Siro, English, ancient history and civics, Dorothy B. Roy will direct the music department of the schools.

Due to the elimination of a secretary to the principal, increases in salary have been brought about. Senior commercial students will direct the secretarial duties in the principal's office this year.

Henry Dunleavy, for the past three years director of agriculture will leave the school this year, to take up research work with the federal government. Mr. Dunleavy took an active part in the school's athletics and proved to be a favorite among the boys, who will greatly miss his work.

The graded school faculties of the town will remain the same as last year. School will not reopen until September 10.

Captain Jarvis of the Putnam police was in receipt of a complaint today which stated that boisterous youths are infesting the streets of the city at a late hour and are causing disturbances. In one instance it is claimed that the boys have been the cause of one family removing from Main street. The captain said this afternoon that he has not received any complaints of such conditions existing on the streets after closing hours of the business houses and none of the night patrolmen have reported seeing any such hoodlums at night.

In many instances the night police have reported noisemakers returning at a late hour from dance halls, who travel through the streets singing. The night officers reported that they took steps to warn the merry youths and threatened them with arrest in the event that the noisemaking did not cease at once. It is believed that heed was give nthe warning. The captain stated this afternon that if in the future such conditions are noticed, complainants should direct their reports to the police station so that the matter may be investigated.

State Sanitary Engineer of the state water commission, William R. Copeland was in Putnam this afternoon with his assistants, checking up on the gauge readings of the sewage sub now in operation at the sewer outlet at the Quinebaug river. Mr. Copeland was in conference with City Engineer Perry and both examined the readines of the vast amount of sewage being deposited into the river daily.

Mr. Copeland gave a forecast that considerable trouble is to be encountered by individuals, if the dumping of privtae wastes in such large quantities into the river continues to exist. All along the banks of the river in Putnam dumping grounds may be seen. Mr. Copeland says that this is contrary to state law.

A suit for $10,000 damages has been filed against the Putnam Theatres corporation of Boston, which operates a chain of theatres in Connecticut and Massachusetts, among them being the Bradley and Victory theatres in Putnam, by Charles Briere of Killingly. Briere alleges that he sustained serious injuries when he was dismissed forcibly by a Danielson police officer from the Orpheum theatre in Danielson. Briere has retained Attorney Harry E. Back of Danielson as his counsel. Property in Danielson amounting to $12,000 has been attached. The case asks for a hearing in the September term of Windham county superior court, civil session.

Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Pease of Fremont street, returned Wednesday evening from an extended vacation trip. Dr. Pease devoted the greatest part of his vacation to taking a post graduate course in osteopathy at Kirkville, Mo. Mrs. Pease has been the guest of relatives in Syracuse and Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester G. Herlihy and two children of North Chelmsford, Mass., are visiting in Putnam with relatives.

Lieutenant Allen Thayer, graduated last June from the United States Academy at West Point, will be stationed in Boston. Lieut. Thayer will enter the army service, and will be assigned to an island fort in Boston Harbor.

Since his graduation from the academy he has been at the home of his parents in Putnam. He will leave for his post of duty on September 2.

A terrific thunder storm here late this afternoon brought relief to hundreds who have been suffering from the sweltering heat wave of the past two days. This afternoon the mercury mounted and it appeared as though Putnam was in for another sultry session. The thunder bolts received here were the worst of the summer storms experienced in Putnam this season. Scores of minor damages were incurred against electric light lines and over 100 telephone stations were thrown out of order. Putnam's wire chief said, late this afternoon, Trees were damaged, but no reports were obtained of any property damage, by lightning.

The storm passed within a few minutes but sheets of rain continued to drench the city. In strange contrast to the heat of Tuesday and Wednesday, this afternoon's temperature was so low as to find many of the people wearing wraps for comfort.

None of the members of the Northeastern Fish and Game club of this city will go to Bristol Saturday to participate in the annual outing arranged by the combined efforts of all game clubs in the state. President Marvott o fthe local club said this afternoon that Putnam would not be represented because of the distance to Bristol from this city.

TELEPHONE GIRLS TRIED BY DOG DAY MUGGINESS

The telephone operators are not particularly well pleased with this spell of damp, sticky weather. Wednesday, it became necessary, on account of the condition of the apparatus in the office to close all the windows and light an oil stove. This applied to other exchanges and in some of them steam was turned on to dry out the place. With all this discomfort added to the already trying weather, the girls kept their usual sweet tones, when doubtless they would have liked to throw things.

Local readers of the Putnam column Thursday were much interested in the item telling of the two great birds noted by early risers flying along the upper Quinebaug. Some classed them as either storks or cranes. Great blue herons were the long legged birds seen near Bridge street. Every year in the early fall, a trip of a mile, or even less, along the Quinebaug will be rewarded with a sight of one or more of these wary northern visitors. When in flight their long slim shanks trail out an astonishing distance behind.

ENGINE DEMONSTRATION FOR DEEP RIVER VISITORS

A large and interested gallery was at the Ninigret dam on Water street Wednesday evening, to see the demonstration of the fire department's new LaFrance engine for the benefit of a purchasing committee from Deep River, Conn. Chief L. E. Boucher and Ex-Chief Bert Field assisted by a LaFrance representative put the big engine through her paces, without the skipping of a cylinder or an ounce of pressure off. The two-inch with four streams showed a delivery of 560 gallons per minute. The Siamese test was of special satisfaction; with 110 pounds at the engine and 86 at the nozzle, a one and one-eighth inch stream was sent clean across the Ninigret reservoir at its widest part. A flock of chickens, preparing to go to roost for the night on the farther shore, went scattering in much alarm as the deluge wet their backs. They were 200 feet from the nozzle.

Heat wave No. 11 was right on the job here Thursday. The mercury ran up to 95, but with the humidity several degrees off from Wednesday, and with a light breeze from the south, the day proved less oppressive than the first; of summer's parting heat waves.

This season's heat here has been five times that of last, when there were only seven days in which the mercury stood at 90. The last three months there have been a dozen days here when 90 seemed quite comfortable.

A bean and salad supper at Newent community hall Wednesday proved an unqualified success. The advertisements said there would be pie, and there was pie, of the home baked August sweeting variety. Many attending the supper availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the Pilgrim flower gardens. Here was to be seen the wonderful display of close to 35,000 gladioli in the height of bloom. There are also 1,000 high class named dahlias, with four long rows of seedlings which, if Mr. Reynolds sees fit, he may name and register in his title as the grower. Many other flowers growing in attractive garden settings, with a plan of color effect carried out as to foliage plant leaves, and tints of bloom, are a combination of floral harmony most pleasing to the eye.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The month of August has held up fairly well to the normal average as far as building permits granted are concerned. During the month there have been 19 permits granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for construction work that involves an outlay of approximately $22,000. Included in the permits are four for new dwelling houses while the remainder are for garages, sheds and alterations to present buildings.

The construction work on local buildings is progressing rapidly under favorable weather conditions. At the Masonic home work is being rushed along at a good sped, the walls of the structure being nearly up. In the outlying districts and in the surrounding towns of Yantic, Baltic, Jewett City and Plainfield considerable work is being done both in the erection of new dwelling houses and in alterations and additions to mill property.

The following permits were granted by Fire Marshal Stanton during the month of August:

To Charles D. Noyes to alter the front of the building on Durkee lane, the building to be used as a garage. The work, which is estimated at $200, has been completed.

To Homer Monty to erect two frame houses on Asylum street near Newton street. The houses, which are nearly completed, are 24x26 feet with stone and concrete foundations. They have six rooms and bath each. The exterior finishes of the buildings are in clapboards and shingles with composition shingle roof. The interiors are finished in hard plaster walls with oak floors and hard pine trim. Each house is estimated at $3,800.

To A. D. LeBlanc to erect a frame garage on Geer avenue for Philip Sherman. The garage, which is to cost about $400, is to be 20x20 feet.

To Cesidio Leone and A. Coletti to make alterations to the present house at 230 Franklin street. The present ell on the house is to be raised and moved to the southerly side of the present house and placed on a concrete foundation, bringing to the level of the house. The exterior finish will be the same as before. The estimated cost is $1,200.

To Angelo Feraco to erect a frame shed at 18 Carter avenue, 16x18 feet, for himself. The shed will be of frame construction and the estimated cost is $25.

To Ivan Johnson, contractor, to add to the present frame building at 160 Spruce street, owned by H. Siebenborn. The addition will be two stories high and will contain two rooms. The estimated cost is $600.

To Joshua A. Stott to build an addition, 6x8 feet, to his present house at 320 Laurel Hill avenue. The cost is estimated at $50.

To Edwin A. Wigley to erect a three-car garage in addition to his present garages at 2 Stanton avenue. The addition is to be 15x27 feet and the owner estimates his cost at $150.

To Jerome P. Theve to erect a frame garage, 18x20 feet, at 835 Boswell avenue, for himself. The estimated cost is $500.

To Louis Sadinsky to erect a frame shed at 40 Maple street for himself. The shed, which will be 14x25 feet, is estimated to cost about $150.

To Amede J. Lusignan to extend the present frame garage at 206 Broadway owned by William H. Murphy. New doors are being put on and the estimated cost is $350.

To John Senetzke to erect a frame house at 33 Geer avenue for himself. The house, which is to be 26x26 feet, will be of frame construction with stone and cement foundation. There will be six rooms and bath. The exterior finish will be in clapboards while the interior is to be in hard wood and plaster. The estimated cost is $3,000.

To George W. Allen, Versailles contractor, to build for Edith G. Talbot a frame bungalow on Francis place. The bungalow will have six rooms, bath and sunporch. The house will be 24x46 feet with stone foundation. The exterior will be finished in wide clapboards with an asphalt shingle roof. The floors will be of oak and the walls in hard-finish plaster. The estimated cost is $4,000.

To Banas S. Jaskelwicz to add a sunporch to the present frame house on Convent avenue owned by Catherine White. The sunporch will be 8x12 feet and will cost about $175.

To Tony Fatone to raise the roof of the present building at 323 Franklin street to make several additional rooms on the top floor. The estimated cost is $150.

To Lucille C. Haggerty to alter a frame shed into a garage at the rear of her home at 48 Lafayette street. The size of the garage when completed will be 8x14 feet and the cost is estimated at $35.

To Mr. and Mrs. F. Gadue to erect a frame garage at 22 Shipping street. The garage to be 18x18 feet. The estimated cost is $100.

To E. W. Canning Co. to alter the Thayer building at the corner of Franklin and Bath streets. The building will be re-roofed with pitch, felt and slag. The chimney will be repaired as necessary and the parapet wall on the roof will be removed. The estimated cost of the work is $2,000.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

There were 18 sales of real estate in Norwich during the past week, an increase of 15 sales over the number for the same week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $79,100 and $21,250.

In New London during the past week there were 12 sales of real estate as compared to eight sales for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $89,278 and $9,300.

New London.

Eight new applications for building permits have been received at the office of Building Inspector William Gunn, Jr., during the past few days and in all probability they will be presented to council for approval at its regular meeting Monday night. Dominica Garofoli, acting as agent for the owner, Gildo Manucci, seeks permission to build a one-story bungalow at 292 Colman street. This bungalow, estimated to cost about $4,000, will have a stone foundation, shingled exterior, with iron and concrete filled columns, gable roof projected by shingles.

William L. Connor applies for permission to erect at 599 Broad street a concrete and cement garage, estimated to cost $2,000. It will be of fire-proof construction.

Miss Mary Gateano, acting for Mrs. Anthony Gateano, owner, applies for permission to enclose a porch at 111 Pequot avenue, the job estimated to cost $150.

Mrs. Frank De Gaetano asks permission to erect a gable for the bathroom at 55 Channing street.

Morris Mazur seeks permission to erect a chicken coop at 104 Shaw street. He estimates that it will cost $50.

Morris Feldman has applied for permission to erect a two-car garage at 198 Ocean avenue, to be made of cement blocks at a cost of about $600.

The Margaret Shea estate has applied for permission to erect a wooden garage with dirt floor at 21-23 Squire street. It is estimated that the job will cost about $60.

Mrs. Annabel Douglass of 75 Colt street seeks permission to erect a wooden shed to be attached to the wall of the old Huguenot House as a shelter for fuel. It is estimated that the job will cost $50.

Work will be begun in a very short while on the construction of the new Standard Oil Co. service station at the southerly corner of Blackhall and Truman streets, on the land recently purchased from the B. B. Gardner Storage Co.

The company will remove the present old dwelling there and will begin the construction of a brick one-story old English style house in which there will be an office and rest rooms. The house will have two large windows in front and an old English designed door with glass panels.

The land will be graded with a wide circular driveway so that the gasoline tank pumps will be approachable from both Truman and Blackhall streets. Three pumps will be placed on cement bases and the place will be lighted at night by five lights upon standards. The curbs in both Truman and Blackhall streets will be cut away to make place for ramps running into the station. There will be hydrant and an air tower on the premises.

PRINCE LIKES INTIMATE FRIENDLY DINNERS BEST

LONDON, (AP)—Small dinner parties to which only a few friends are invited are being revived this year by the Prince of Wales, who has been host at a series of little dinners at York house during the season.

This lead by the prince will probably be followed by society leaders during the winter "little season," and may supplant the elaborate parties which have been the vogue but upon which the "great-crasher" has had a depressing effect.

The method of showing hospitality inaugurated by the Prince of Wales was favored by his grandfather, King Edward VII, many of whose tastes appear born again in his grandson.

If it is love that makes the world go around it's no wonder that lovers act dizzy.

CORN AND THE DEMAND FOR IT.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

"They're feeling a little better out in Iowa—"where the tall corn grows" you know.

In the first place, Hoover has given 'em a call and bucked 'em up a bit. "Big-Chief-who-does-things," as his Indian hosts have named him, is so full of optimism and of pep that those who only just meet him catch some of the contagion. Instead of expending most of their energy in weeps and wails, the Iowa farmers have changed to whoops and hurrahs. Instead of looking backward, after the manner of Lot's wife, and with similarly saline results, they've about-faced and are looking forward, with correspondingly better prospects of getting out of the Dead Sea valley.

In the second place, the "tall corn" seems to be growing jest a leetle taller than usual this year and setting rather bigger ears. When West Branch was preparing to welcome Hoover on his visit to his birthplace, a farmer from some miles out brought in a few stooks of what he called "middlin' good corn" to help decorate Main street. A reporter from Missouri—the state where folk have to be shown, you know—measured some of them, and found that they ran between 16 and 17 feet tall. "Might 'a got a few longer ones," said the farmer, meditatively, "but the patch won't average much better'n these here." Questioned as to the acreage of the "patch," he allowed it was somers between 800 and 900 acres.

In the third place a quite unexpected call for American corn for export gives promise that the price will keep within sighting distance of decency. Three years ago the whole United States exported only 18,000,000 bushels; two years ago only 13,000,000 bushels; last year only 23,000,000 bushels. This year dealers in Kansas City alone have already contracted for the sale abroad of nearly 20,000,000 bushels to be shipped from gulf ports in December and January. And orders are steadily coming in. This means that a single mid-west grain center is apparently going to export more corn this season than the whole country has averaged of recent years.

A big export demand means at least a steadying if not a stiffening of local and farm prices. Especially is this likely when old stocks on hand are depleted almost to zero, as at present. One big market which usually has several million bushels in reserve is being combed with inquiries for corn for immediate shipment, with the resultant discovery that it hasn't 50,000 bushels left over.

It seems there has been a serious shortage of all cereals in the United Kingdom and Holland and a scarcity of potatoes in Germany. To provide for these lacks the countries involved are not only taking more wheat than usual, but are also turning to corn.

Repeated attempts in the past to popuarize corn in Europe, both as a humanfood and a cattle forage, have proven ineffective. With the exception of Italy, where "jolenta"—a foreign version of corn mush—is eaten to some extent, Europeans have turned up their noses at maize-made products. In vain have American-exported cooks offered them Johnny-cakes and hoe-cakes and "Injun puddin'," and Boston brown bread. The Germans tasted and went back to rye bread; the Frenchmen sniffed and called for rolls; the Hollanders grunted and munched swieback; the Irishmen preferred potatoes; the Scotchmen stuck to oatmeal; the Englishmen refused to consider anything but roast beef and quartern loaves.

But now that potatoes and wheat and oats are failing them they all seem to be coming round to corn meal as a life-saver. Let us hope their enforced reform may improve their tastes permanently. Not only for the sake of our corn-growers in Iowa and elsewhere, but on their own account.

Maize, Indian corn, or just corn, as we all call it for short, is not only a distinctively American product, but it may fairly be said to have saved the nation in its infancy and to have nurtured it through the most trying periods of its development.

It was the discovery near by of Indian corn fields which helped decide the Pilgrim Fathers to settle at Plymouth. It was the small supply they were able to raise which supplemented occasional deers and wild turkeys in carrying them through the first hard winters when expected English supplies failed to arrive. They learned its value as a food from friendly Indians who needed only a small pouch of parched grains to ration them for a two or three hundred mile run across a foodless wilderness. It was the same Indians who taught them how to plant it "when the oak leaf is as big as a mouse's ear," and how to put an alewife under each hill as fertilizer.

All through the colonial period it was the true staff of life on which the sturdy pioners and settlers depended. During the Revolution it several times saved the ragged Continentals from actual starvation.

As a fattening ration for animals its equal has not yet been found. As a heat producing food for human beings it stands alone.

Moreover—and this is not a point to be sneezed at—when properly treated and expertly cooked it is good to eat, so good that some of us can only wonder at the lack of good taste which leads some to decry it.

The writer of this can remember, as if it were but yesterday, how at least once a week the frugal table of his farmer parents was graced with a huge baked "Injun puddin'," set on in the great bowl in which it came from the oven. Of the mysteries of its composition the small boy knew nothing, and cared less. All that worried him was the fear that his pewter plate—with the alphabet lettered around the edge—might not hold as much as he wanted. There were raisins in it. And it was sweetened with old fashioned "live" brown sugar. And there were blow-holes where a sort of sublimated and spiritualized "whey" gathered, which had to be attended to promptly lest it ooze over the plate rim and stain the tablecloth. And when it came out of the big oven it came surrounded by and pouring forth a steamy fragrance which not only filled the whole house but made passing neighbors sniff with exultant nostrils.

Great was the Wednesday's "Injun puddin'." But, after all, I am not so sure that it quite reached the pinnacle of perfection set by the Sunday morning loaf of "rye 'n Injun" bread. That was the culmination of the week, and made even the stern Puritanic Sabbath a day of days.

No scrimped loaf baked in a quart or two-quart tin, but a great-grandmotherly six or eight pounder, filling a specially made iron pan bigger than the biggest milk pan on the dairy shelves, it had been made Saturday afternoon, baked slowly during the afternoon and evening, and left in the oven over night and then warmed up to a steaming heat by the Sunday morning fire. There was no platter big enough to hold it, so it was wheeled over, bottom side up, on a huge wooden trencher hollowed from a basswood plank. I've known Mother to call for help to transport it to the table, so big and hot was it.

But it couldn't have been much bigger than little Johnny's eyes as he watched Father deliberately—it sometimes seemed to him too deliberately—slice off, first the outer crust of one side, then slab after slab, each one growing a bit bigger as the slicing neared the bulging middle of the loaf. But despite his glowing eyes and his watering mouth, little Johnny possessed a certain canny self-restraint. He waited till the slicing had reached the very middle, where the next cut would be the biggest, before he thrust out his plate for his helping. And the usually stern Father, who had come to appreciate both the appetite and the capacity of his youngest, often edged the big knife over a little so as to make that slice not only the widest and longest but also the thickest.

It lay on Johnny's plate like the ration of a regiment, hot, steaming, tender, fragrant. But Johnny had none to spare. "You can have more when that's gone," said Mother, looking on twinklingly.

Liberally buttering one end with fresh, home-made butter, churned from sweet cream kept cool in the depths of the old well, little Johnny—now grizzly-haired and half crippled Old John—made knife and fork do yeoman's work till the plate was cleaned to the last crumb. Where he stowed it all away I cant explain. Nor can I do more than wonder at the fact that not once only but again and again he availed himself of Mother's permission to call for more.

"Boy's appetite; growing hunger," you may say. Well, have it that way, if you choose.

But only recently, in one of the few old farmhouses left, I was treated to a slab of very much the same sort of bread. And believe me or not, it tasted just as good as it used to, 70 years ago. The chief difference I was compelled to deplore was my lack of stowage capacity. I wanted more than I could hold.

Now I don't want Germany to go short of potatoes, nor France and England of wheat. But if such a shortage of their favorite foods drives them to a larger use of American corn for bread and pones and gems and Johnny-cake, etc., I can't help but feel that they'll eventually come to consider the shortage a blessing in disguise. It will introduce them to an invaluable food they've hitherto let their whims deprive them of.

When they have once wonted themselves to corn meal in all its innumerable possibilities, they'll wonder how they lived so long without it.

And the farmers of Iowa, "where the tall corn grows," will once more have to hustle to supply the world's insistent demand.

Let's hope so, anyway.

THE FARMER.

COMMUNISTS STILL HOLD REMOTE CHINESE REGION

HANKOW, (AP)—Paper money bearing the legend "Soveit Republic of China," and adorned with pictures of Lenin and Karl Marx, is being circulated in southern Hunan, where Chinese communists have established an independent regime.

A missionary in the Hengchowfu district writes that the peasants are compelled by the communist "government" to accept these notes of several denominations, at par under threat of death, while if the notes are found by the soldiers occasionally sent by the provincial authorities against the communists, the holders are usually executed on charges of being themselves communists.

TIGER MARKET BUOYANT WITH PRICE AT $1,000

HARBIN, Manchuria, (AP)—There has been a boom in the Manchurian tiger market. A few years ago a live tiger sold in Harbin for about $50, but recently a cub, caught in the wilds north of Harbin, was sold to a Hamburg zoological garden for more than $1,000. A full grown tiger, weighing over 600 pounds, is quoted here at about $1,500.

The fire of genius is often unable to make the pot boil.

WORLD'S BIGGEST WHARF BEGUN IN SOUTHAMPTON

SOUTHAMPTON, England, (AP)—Twenty ocean liners the size of the Leviathan will be able to dock at the new quay just ordered built here. But it will take twenty years to complete the job. Berths for two such liners, however, will be ready in two years.

A dock wall to be constructed will be the deepest in the world. It will be 3,800 feet long and will necessitate 78 concrete monoliths, each weighing 7,000 tons, being sunk in the river-bed.

The erection of this wall is part of a scheme begun two years ago which it is calculated will cost £65,000,000.

JAPANESE PLAY STIRS INTEREST IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW—(AP)—The entire company of Japan's most famous classical theatre, "Kabuki," has arrived here for a series of performances.

There are 46 performers including the most widely known Japanese actor, Hikawa Salandzi. The latter is the fifth generation of a family with 100 years of an unbroken theatrical tradition in Japan.

This is the first time in 200 years that the company has gone abroad. There are no women players. Female parts are played by men.

CHINA ASKS FOREIGNERS TO GIVE MONEY FOR RAILROADS

By MORRIS HARRIS
(Associated Press Correspondent)

SHANGHAI, (AP)—Plans disclosed by the nationalist government for the expenditure of millions of dollars which they do not have, on the reconstruction of China's railways have centered attention on the fact that China is virtually without an organized rail system of any kind.

More than $250,000,000 gold, of foreign money, which went into the construction of China's principal railways, has been sunk almost without a trace. Except for one or two short lines, train schedules have become almost a memory and there is virtually no accommodation for passenger travel.

All of the big foreign owned lines and several smaller ones financed by Chinese capital have been stripped of their equipment. Most of the rolling stock north and south of the Yangtze river has been so badly treated in the various military campaigns that it is practically useless.

Locomotives, for the most part, have not been in a repair shop since they fell into Chinese hands. The usual practice was for military leaders to run them until they fell apart or the wheels refused to turn, then abandon them.

Nationalist agents are now abroad seeking new funds from foreign bankers for repairs and new equipment in the face of gigantic difficulties and lack of certainty in the stability of the nationalist regime, the Nanking government has announced its "railway reconstruction program."

Their first hope is to revive the service between Peking and Shanghai, which has not been open to the public in five years. An attempt will also be made to resume the operation of trains between Peking and Hankow where the roadbed is said to be in better condition than any other in China.

The flea was probably the original backbiter.

LONG LIST OF HIGH RECORD PRICES QUOTED IN STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—The stock market chalked up another long list of new high records today. Speculation for the advance slowed up somewhat towards the close as traders lightened their commitments pending the publication of the weekly report on brokers' loans. The figures, made public after the close, showed an increase of $14,017,030, bringing the total to $4,235,145,000. The day's stock sales totaled 3,321,200 shares.

Call money renewed at 7 1-2 per cent. but the supply of funds became so large that the rate was dropped to 7 in mid-afternoon. There were unconfirmed reports of "outside loans" as low as 6 1-2 per cent. with a 6 per cent. rate predicted in some quarters tomorrow. The ease of money in the face of unusually heavy month-end and Labor day demands was attributed to the large inflow of Canadian funds following the drop in the Canadian rediscount rate from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent. Great Britain also was believed to be placing funds here through the intermediary of Canadian banks. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

While the demand for stocks embraced a wide list of issues, the buying was nevertheless selective in character. Copper shares gave on of the best demonstrations of group strength on reports of unusually low reserve stocks of the red metal and a rapidly expanding foreign and domestic demand American Smelting touched a new high record for all time at 252 1-4 and then slipped back to 248 3-4, up 3-4 net. Anaconda crossed 75 for the first time in ten years. Kennecott, Calumet & Hecla, International Nickel and Cerro de Pasco also moved into new high ground.

Amusement shares ran into some profit-taking after an early upswing. Warner Bros. issues closed fractionally higher despite official denials that the company was negotiating for First National Pictures. Except for the establishment of a new high record by Rupp, there was little interest in the motor group.

Savage Arms ran up 6 1-2 points to a new high at 47 1-2 on reports that a big Chicago and Detroit group had acquired a large block of the stock. Loose Wiles, which is sponsored by the same interests, soared more than 9 points to 78 1-2 also a new peak. Radio soared 8 1-2 points to 206 and closed within a fraction of the top on buying influenced by the return of the chief specialist in that issue. Adams Express, American Radiator, Case Threshing, Coty, Drug Inc., Fisk Rubber preferred issues, International Business Machines, Johns Manville, Kolster Radio, National Biscuit and Vick Chemical all closed 4 to 8 points higher.

Merger talk stimulated the buying of the tobacco shares with United Cigar stores the most active feature. U. S. Steel common closed fractionally lower at 152 1-2 while American Railway Express, Booth Fisheries first preferred, Commercial Solvents, Purity Baking and Sanley Co. of America lost 2 to 8 points.

A rally of more than 5 points in St Louis Southwestern, which crossed 105 to a new top, and the steady accumulation of the Missouri Pacific issues featured the railroad group.

Commodity markets were again reactionary. Wheat dropped nearly a cent a bushel in reflection of an earlier decline in Liverpool. Cotton dropped about 50 cents a bale. Coffee quotations reacted 5 to 13 points. Sugar prices showed little change.

A rally of 20 points in Japanese yen to 45.20 cents was the only change of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Sterling cables ruled firm around $4.85 1-4

CARS BUMP AT BEACH—MYSTIC WOMAN'S RIB BROKEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 30—A collision occurred this evening about 6:30 near Lamb's store, Pleasant View Beach, between a Ford car of Phyllis C. Hanks, R. F. D. No. 1, Mystic, driven by her daughter, Irene S. Hanks, and a Packard touring car of Katherine V. Griffin, operated by Mary C. Griffin of West Springfield, Mass. Romana Hanks, the occupant of the Ford which was tipped over, sustained a broken rib and was attended by Dr. J. Gordon Anderson. Motorcycle Officer Kessel investigated and the overturned car was righted by Constables Farnham, Lamb and Reynolds.

LIGHTNING'S STRANGE PRANK AT THE STATE ARMORY

Workmen Thursday completed the erection of a scaffolding about the chimney on the main building of the State Armory on Dixon street. This was necessitated to make repairs on the chimney which was struck by lightning in a Friday night electrical storm of unusual severity about a month ago. The bolt entered the side of the chimney next to the armory tower and cut a long, clean hole through brick and cement as if a giant cheese knife was used in the operation. The broken brick will be taken out along the seam opened and replaced by new brick.

A first class in swimming instruction with an attendance of 33 caddies of the Misquamicut Golf club was held Thursday morning in the patrolmen's room of the Westerly police station when Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown appeared in the role of "instructor." The "class" had assembled on direction of Motorcycle Officer George L. Madison who, in company with a state trooper, had visited the Watch Hill Golf club grounds and surprised at least three boys in the adjoining pond, minus clothing of any sort. The boys, who were accustomed to go into the pond more or less attired, were all given an invitation to visit the Westerly police station. The first point stressed by Chief Brown in his lecture was that in the future bathing garments should be worn and the second that if they were not, after all names had been taken, a fine would be imposed in the district court. The boys averaged 12 years and represented nearly as many nationalities, or as the Boy Scouts might term it, "tribes."

Today (Friday) is the date of the Watch Hill Horse show conducted by the new Watch Hill Riding and Polo club at its grounds on the Shore road. The exhibition will be under the general supervision of Robert Bonner, the club's riding master, who has engaged Benjamin Ladd Cook, master of hounds of the Jacobs Hill Hunt, and Capt. Frank A. Allen, Jr., of the United States cavalry, as judges. A majority of the contestants are juvenile members of the Watch Hill summer colony. The entry list includes Hubbard Phelps, Philip Harder Pat Caswell, Peter Knowlton, Gertrude Harder, Thomas Thacher, Hunter Marston, Samuel Rea, Mary Louise Flynn, Isabelle Patterson, Denise O'Brien, Marie Swift, Geraldine Swift, Rhoda Newberry, Helen T. Hope, Elizabeth Marston, Gustavus Swift, Mary Rea, Sally Atwood, Louise Atwood, Nancy Patterson, Louise Jacobs, Deborah Root, Mrs. S. S. Anthony, Mary Jane Wiman, Margaret Stafford, Robert Stafford, Cully Darlington, Robert O'Brien, Louisa Russell, Janet Russell, John Jacobs, Calvert B. Cottrell, 3rd, and S. S. Anthony.

The Westerly Fire department was called out Thursday morning about 8 o'clock by an alarm from Box No. 52, Main and Union streets, for a fire in one of the coal pockets of Andrews & Co., at the rear of 107 Main street. The motor pumper had to roll but a short distance from the Morrone garage where the fire apparatus is now stored. A single stream was turned upon the fire, which started from spontaneous combustion in soft coal, which has to be shoveled and watched closely at this time of the year. There was no loss.

When Granite City camp, No. 9159, Modern Woodmen of America, of Westerly, held its meeting Tuesday evening in Stillman hall, an invitation was received from Ionic camp of Norwich to a joint outing with Cochegan camp of Montville at Oxoboxo Lake, Sept. 9. Chowder will be served. Ball games and other sports are planned. Members wishing to attend must notify the local clerk not later than Sept. 2.

The collision of a truck with a "dead man" pole Thursday morning caused electric service to be interrupted at Weekapaug beach. The truck was owned by the B. O. Boras Express company of Providence colliding with a guy stub of a pole carrying electric wires. The collision, which occurred near the bridge over the Weekapaug Breach, caused three wires to break and fall into the street. The accident happened at 6:10 o'clock. The trouble was not reported to the South County Public Service company until 7 o'clock, and within an hour and a half a crew of linemen had repaired the damage. Service was resumed at 8:30.

TWO EXTRA CONCERTS PROMISED BY BAND LEADER

The tenth band concert in the summer series in Wilcox Park was largely attended Thursday night, to enjoy the program by the Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt, director. This ordinarily would complete the summer program. The weather has been so favorable that there have been no postponements which in previous seasons have sometimes carried the concerts into October. While ten concerts are all the band usually plays during the season, as they have finished so early this year Charles O. Gavitt, leader announced Thursday that two extra concerts are to be given as good measure.

Chief Brown recently received a communication from Cape May Court House asking that the Westerly police be on the watch for the girl. She was found in Westerly. RECIPROCITY WITH U. S. ENTER CUBAN POLITICS

HAVANA, Aug. 30—(AP)— President Machado has based his campaign for re-election on the prospect of reciprocity in trade relations between Cuba and the United States.

He promises voters that he will press his plea for a lower tariff in Washington and after his return a more favorable arrangement for the admission of manufactured goods from the United States.

Public sentiment is agreed that the curtailment of the island's sugar failed to regulate the price in markets abroad. The result is a widespread conviction that the salvation of Cuba economically depends on a lower American sugar tariff.

RIVER TAXIS IN PARIS MAY RELIEVE TRAFFIC

PARIS, Aug. 30 — (AP) — Water-taxis may ply the Seine before tourists return to Paris next year. The idea, as proposed by a private company, is perfectly practicable since the Seine is the broadest and finest of the Paris boulevards.

The company counts on tourists to help make the venture pay. The views of Paris from the river, especially of old Paris, are superb. Tourists companies could vary the auto-car rides with an excursion on the water. There are only two locks to pass to get out into the quiet waters of the Marne, with a whole stretch of beautiful countryside beyond.

WHITE SHAFT MAY HONOR IBANEZ ON THE RIVIERA

Roman Utensils

While the housewife of today may reasonably pride herself on the conveniences which her kitchen affords, she need not smile too superciliously at the thought of the rude makeshifts of days long gone by. She would certainly not do so were she to spend a little time inspecting the kitchen and other household utensils that were in use 2000 years ago, as exhibited in the National Museum at Naples. Saucepans lined with silver, pails richly inlaid with arabesques in silver and shovels handsomely carved figure among the household goods of those times.

An egg frame that would cook 20 eggs at once and pastry moulds shaped like shells suggest luxuries of the kitchen of 2,000 years ago. Gridirons and frying pans, tart dishes and cheese graters were in use then as now.

The Roman lady's toilet table was well supplied. Ivory combs, bottles of perfumes, pots of cosmetics, buttons, hairpins and even a hair net of gold wire figure in the museum.

Bronze thimbles and spindles are to be seen among the relics. The Roman lady even had her safety pin, for there is a specimen of this little convenience which, before the one in the Naples museum was found, was believed to be a strictly modern invention.

The Roman lady, however, lacked one essential. She had no hair brush. Neither had she a glass mirror. All the mirrors in the museum, with one exception, are of silver or some other metal of white color. The exception is a dark purple piece of glass let into the wall of a bedroom in the house Specchio in Pompeii.

The surgical instruments of the ancient world were really wonderful. Those found at Pompeii deprive modern science of the credit of more than one invention. Needles, probes and forceps resemble closely those in use at the present day.

NORWICH TOWN

S. Ernest Preston, one of the Hartford agents of the Connecticut Humane society, has been in the Norwich-New London district for several days this week, working in conjunction with District Agent E. W. Wyatt of Norwich Town, in reducing some of the overflow of humane work in this territory at this season of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Zabriskie, Mrs. Arthur Fulton, Mrs. Richard Carter and William Burdick motored Tuesday afternoon to Niantic to attend the wedding at the Methodist church of Rev. George Warren Potter and Miss Helen Haviland. After leaving the church the party visited several beaches, Pleasant View, Crescent and Ocean beach. They dined at Ocean beach.

Seventeen parishioners from the Norwich Town Methodist church were present at the wedding of Rev. Mr. Potter and Miss Haviland Tuesday afternoon. Others besides those mentioned included Mr. and Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Brown, Miss Theodora Brown, Miss Cornelia, Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford Snow and Richard Snow, Mr. and Mrs. La Roy Miner and Mrs. Irving Crutkins, all of Norwich Town.

Little Katherine McLaughlin, who has been the guest for two weeks of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carter of Norwich Town, returned to New York Wednesday afternoon with the group of Fresh Air children that have been entertained in Norwich homes. While here she attended camp meeting, a big picnic of the Social Corner and was provided other amusements. The child was rather reluctant to return to her home, because of the good time she was having.

Monday night Mrs. Carter entertained at supper the child's two small sisters, Rosie and Helen McLaughlin, who have been passing the two weeks with Mrs. Green of Tanner avenue. Katherine is seven and her two sisters are younger.

About 30 automobiles bearing Pennsylvania registrations, in procession passed through Norwich Town twice Tuesday, Pennsylvania State Poultry Association members on a tour of inspection.

After passing several days at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver of Huntington Green, Mrs. Henry Nye, returned Wednesday evening to her home in Mansfield Center. When coming to Norwich Town Saturday last, Mrs. Nye was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Ruth Nye, also her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Perkins and children, Francis, Jr., and Herbert Perkins, also of Mansfield Center, who were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver. Miss Ruth Nye holds a position at Storrs.

Supervisor Edwin B. Floyd and Mrs. Floyd and children, Culver, Marjory and Albert Floyd, for the past year esteemed residents of Sentry Hill, moved their household effects Thursday to their recently built home on Harland road.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Watrous with their children Darolyn, Irving and Verna Watrous, were in Ledyard on Wednesday afternoon to attend the funeral of Earl M. Crandall, who met his death when thrown violently from his bicycle the early part of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Watrous sang a duet at the funeral "In the City Where the Lamb is the Light." They were accompanied to Ledyard by Mrs. M. C. Farr, who is visiting at their home. Mr. Watrous and Earl Crandall were cousins.

After passing a few days in Niantic, Miss Alice Brown returned Tuesday evening to the Norwich Town Methodist parsonage where she resides following the wedding and reception of her cousin, Rev. George Warren Potter and Mrs. Potter (Helen Haviland). Miss Brown who was accompanied to Norwich Town by her cousin, is to be the guest for a week of Miss Theodora Brown at the farm on Woodworth Hill. Later she will visit for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Aldrich at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton W. Brown of Wightman avenue.

Norwich Town friends and former neighbors learned with regret of the death of Mrs. William Shea of Sherman street. Prior to the death of her husband a few years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Shea were highly respected neighbors on Town street. Mrs. Shea was very lovable, always maintaining her belief as to the highest Christian ideals and her friends were many. This was evidenced by the sympathy extended her family in her bereavement, by the attendance at the funeral, by the floral tributes at the house and at the grave at the burial in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery. Mrs. Shea was a sister of former postmaster and Mrs. Michael Donahue of Norwich Town. Among those who came from out of town to attend the funeral of Mrs. Shea were her brother, Michael Donahue of Springfield, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Michael Donahue, Jr., and children, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donahue and children, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donahue, Jr., and children, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donahue, Sr.,
